ECONOMY PROBERS DECLARE GOVERNOR NEEDS NO NEW TAXES FOR HIS PROGRAM

Soap Box Derby To Be Held in Atlanta July 22

MANY FINE PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED WINNERS OF EVENT

Boys' Affair, Sponsored by Constitution, Chevrolet Dealers, Expected To Draw Large Entry List.

By WALLACE J. MINSHULL.

Embryo Wilbur Shaws and Lou Meyers take notice!

Atlanta's sixth annual All-American Soap Box Derby—strictly a boys' event designed to promote craftsmanship and sportsmanship through competition in building and driving racers—will be held July 22 at Soap Box Derby Downs on Northside Drive.

The Derby is sponsored by The Constitution and Chevrolet dealers in Atlanta, Decatur and East Point and vicinity and entrants will include boys from all sections of the state who have qualified in zone races.

Trial Events Slated.

Trial events will be held during the two days preceding the finals when winners of zone races in Conyers, Monroe, West Point, Newnan, Carrollton, Marietta, Madison and Gainesville will vie with Atlanta youngsters for the north Georgia championship and a chance to compete in the national finals at Akron, Ohio, August 13.

The time of zone races will be announced later and prospective entrants have been requested to apply at the Chevrolet dealer in their community for entry blanks and rule books.

The race is open to every boy between the ages of 10 and 15 years, and already hundreds of young racing enthusiasts are busily engaged in making arrangements to compete in the sixth annual classic. Local entrants have been urged to secure entry blanks and rule books from the John Smith Company, Downtown Chevrolet Company, the Decatur Chevrolet Company and the East Point Chevrolet Dealer, Inc.

Changes in Rules.

Boys interested have been urged to read the new rules thoroughly. Several changes have been made this year, one in particular concerning bearings to be used, and no car failing to meet specific requirements will be permitted to enter the race.

That the Soap Box Derby ranks first in the mind of the average American boy is evidenced by the fact that in six years it has grown from a scant half-dozen participants in one city to nearly a quarter of a million in 120 cities and six foreign countries.

It is far more than a racing event, for, besides the many awards to be received, the race promulgates influences which continue through the lifetime of the boy. In addition to the competitive instinct to win, a high regard for sportsmanship, for fair play and for the rights of others are engendered. Entrants will learn not only how to win gloriously but how to accept defeat graciously.

As to awards, which range from wearing apparel to four-year college scholarships, there are many to make it worth the while for all who enter. To the winner of the Bond Salesman Held In Slaying of His Wife

Edwin C. Liddell Arrested on Suspicion of Murder; Mate's Body Shows Bruises and Gash on Forehead; Bloody Shoe Is Found.

Edwin C. Liddell, 42, associated with the brokerage firm of Beer & Company, was arrested on a charge of suspicion of murder early this morning in connection with the death of his wife, Rose, 35, an attractive brunet.

Liddell, a customer's man for the brokerage house, was arrested by Detectives L. F. Puckett and L. A. Preston on orders from Coroner Paul Donehoo, at the funeral establishment of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mother of Three.

Mrs. Liddell, the mother of three children, ranging in ages from 9 to 12 years, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Crawford W. Long Memorial hospital, where she was taken in an ambulance shortly before midnight.

Coroner Donehoo said several severe bruises were found on her head and body.

He also reported there was a deep gash on the left side of the forehead.

Coroner Donehoo also reported a woman's shoe, of unusually heavy weight, with blood on the heel and the heel partly torn off, was found in a bedroom of the Liddell home at 57 Thirteenth street, N. E., a bungalow, which the Liddells have occupied for the past two years.

Coroner Donehoo also reported that a sheet, torn to shreds, was found in a clothes hamper in the Liddell home; another sheet, with a blood spot about a foot in diameter, in the room, and that the mattress cover and bedspread also were bloodstained.

The coroner quoted Liddell as saying:

"I came home and my wife was in bed. Last Thursday, she had a stomach attack and the doctor told her to remain in bed. When I came home, she insisted on getting up. An argument followed, and she went to bed again. I told her I was going to call the doctor, and I did."

Coroner Donehoo said that Dr. Frank K. Boland Sr. was summoned to the Liddell home. He ordered Mrs. Liddell sent to the hospital, Coroner Donehoo said.

The coroner also stated that Dr. Boland quoted Liddell as saying:

"She wanted to get up out of bed. I slapped her back in bed, and then called you."

The coroner said Dr. Boland expressed the belief the woman had died of a fractured skull.

Held Incommunicado.

Liddell was ordered held incommunicado at police headquarters.

The children were asleep during the alleged argument, Coroner Donehoo said he was told. The Liddells have two daughters and a son, all students at Sacred Heart school.

The couple was married 13 years.

An inquest will be held either today or Monday, Donehoo said.

GARNER WILL SEEK NOMINATION EVEN IF F. D. R. OFFERS

Vice President Convinced That His Name Should Go Before Convention; Supporters Are Active.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Close friends of Vice President Garner disclosed today that he has decided to seek the presidential nomination at the 1940 Democratic convention even if President Roosevelt should be a candidate.

Garner was said to be convinced that his name should go before the convention, regardless of the strength of any opposing aspirants for the nomination, and that consequently he had approved efforts of supporters to line up convention delegates in his behalf.

Headed by E. B. Germany, Texas Democratic state chairman, a Garner-for-President organization already has been formed and has mailed about 30,000 letters to Democratic voters urging support of Garner for the presidential nomination. Recently, Garner himself has had several off-the-record talks with state political leaders.

Activity Urged.

Some of the Vice President's political advisers were said to be urging him to participate actively in state primaries and conventions which will choose convention delegates next year.

His friends feel, congressional insiders said, that he would have an excellent chance for the presidential nomination if he exerted his influence to win delegates.

Even if it appeared he could not be nominated, they said, Garner-pledged state delegations would give him a strong voice in the convention.

Informed persons told reporters that some of Garner's supporters believe he could make political capital by breaking his self-imposed rule of silence and speaking out on national issues during the next few months.

Reports were that Garner has listened attentively to that suggestion, but has given no sign as to what course he will take.

Figuring also in current political talk on Capitol Hill are reports that some senators, looking forward to 1940, now are seeking ac-

MOSELEY TRIAL DEMANDS PILE UP

F. D. R. Military Advisors, However, Caution Against 'Martyrdom.'

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Demands are piling up at the War Department that outspoken Major General George Van Horn Moseley face an army court-martial on charges growing out of his campaign against "enemies from within."

Authoritative sources disclosed this today at the same time that the White House acknowledged a letter from Representative Coffee, Democrat, Washington, suggesting that the retired officer was guilty of "subversive statements" in his testimony before the house committee on un-American activities.

At the White House it was said the matter was in the hands of the War Department.

The attitude of some of Mr. Roosevelt's principal military advisers was said to be that filing charges would only "make a martyr" of General Moseley, publicize his campaign against "international Jewry" and Communism, and tend to involve the army with controversial political issues.

As a retired officer drawing pay of $6,000 a year, General Moseley is subject to discipline. The articles of war permit many broad charges. They provide for trial of an officer for "disrespect" toward the President, Vice President, secretary of war or congress, "conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline" among other general charges.

Numerous officers have been tried or reprimanded for public statements, including Major General Smedley Butler of the marine corps, Brigadier General William Mitchell of the army air corps, and the navy's Admiral William S. Sims.

President Roosevelt was quick to suspend Major General Johnsoon Hagood in 1936 when the eighth corps area commander referred to WPA funds as "stage money" in testimony before a congressional committee.

Manton Is Convicted; Faces 2-Year Term

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Martin T. Manton, resigned senior judge of the federal circuit court, who admitted that his numerous corporations received thousands of dollars in "loans" from litigants before his bench, tonight was convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice. He faces a maximum penalty of two years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Manton resigned last January after he was accused of accepting $400,000 in loans from litigants. At the trial it was brought out that in one year he bettered his financial status $1,500,000.

Counsel immediately made motion for a new trial and bail was continued pending a hearing June 20.

Chief Justice Hughes Found To Be Suffering From Ulcer

Jurist Will Miss Visit of British King and Queen to U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, ill for six weeks recently with the grippe, now has a duodenal ulcer—one affecting the first portion of the small intestine.

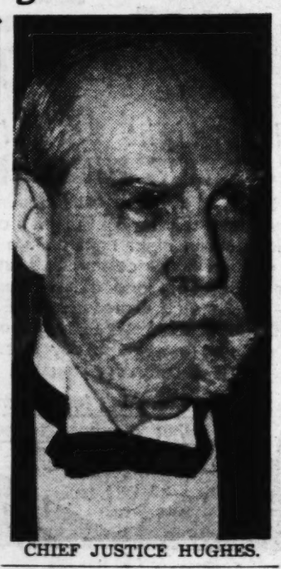

This was made known today in an official statement which said "there is no reason to doubt his full recovery." The chief justice is 77.

The statement, issued by Nelson A. Potter, assistant clerk of the supreme court, said:

"The chief justice will be unable to attend court on Monday as he is suffering from a duodenal ulcer and it is necessary for him to have the immediate and usual treatment of complete rest and specific diet."

It added that the jurist will "be confined to his bed for a while" and "must have complete rest for the time being."

In addition to missing the final session Monday of this term of court, Chief Justice Hughes will be unable to participate in festivities in connection with the visit of the King and Queen of England to Washington next week.

The illness also will postpone his departure on a customary summer motor trip into Canada.

2 HUGE UPTOWN LEASES SIGNED

Rentals by Belle Isle Will Total $1,512,500; Deals Biggest in Long Period.

By PRESS HUDDLESTON.

Two commercial uptown leases, combining adjoining properties—one for a period of 16 years and one for 31 years—the total rentals of which will be $1,512,500, and both leased to the same parties, were announced Saturday by the Burdett Realty Company, realtors.

This realty transaction tops any similar lease deal made in the city for a long time, and indicates the increased activity in the real estate field.

Cab Firm Leases Garage.

One of the leases involves the Belle Isle garage, owned by Walter T. Candler, and leased by A. L. Belle Isle in the name of Black and White Cab Company and affiliated companies, including Atlana Baggage and Cab Company, Belle Isle Garage, and Belle Isle U-Drive-It. This lease is for a term of 15 years and nine months, effective April 1, 1939, with option to purchase.

The second lease involves the adjoining property along North Pryor and Peachtree streets—the front entrance to the Belle Isle garage—leased by the same tenants for a period of 31 years, effective January 1, 1940.

Covers Five Floors.

In the larger structure, running back to Ivy street, corner Houston street, the lease covers the first to the fifth floors inclusive, containing 200,000 square feet of space. It is a fireproof, concrete building, with 40,000 square feet per floor.

The property leased fronting North Pryor and Peachtree, takes in the entrance to the garage and all the stores adjoining south to

Deaf Cobbler Struck By Train—Apologizes

TAHLEQUAH, Okla., June 3.—(AP)—Harmon Reeder, deaf cobbler, was struck by a train. But he didn't sue—he apologized.

Hope Abandoned for Saving 98 Entombed in British Sub

Man in Street and Press Are Critical of Futile Rescue Efforts.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., June 3.—(AP) Britain's man-in-the-street, stunned by the Thetis disaster, was sharply critical today, along with some newspapers, of the futile rescue efforts.

It was predicted freely there would be repercussions in parliament and the possibility was mentioned of a civil as well as an admiralty inquiry.

Marine circles, however, generally withheld judgment until all facts were known. They pointed out that the layman has little knowledge of the extent of technical problems involved in submarine operation.

Typical of the immediate reaction by the man-in-the-street was the comment of one man:

"Look what the Yanks did when the Squalus sank. Why should they be any more efficient than we are? Their boat was deeper down than ours."

Thirty-three of 59 trapped in the Squalus were saved and only four of 102 were rescued from the Thetis; the Squalus was in 240 feet of water, the Thetis in only 130, with 18 feet of her stern above the surface for a time.

The wife of one victim said: "It certainly looks to me as if they could have done something with all the time they had." The Thetis was first located Friday morning at which time those aboard were estimated to have had about 18 hours' supply of oxygen left.

But soberly balanced against perplexity and questioning were these assertions:

Admiralty Gives Men Up for Dead; Salvage Work To Continue.

By The Associated Press.

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 3.—Hope vanished tonight for 98 men at the bottom of the Irish sea in the sunken British submarine Thetis—the greatest number ever to perish in an underseas disaster.

The admiralty gave the men up for dead nearly 15 hours after the air supply was calculated to have been exhausted behind the Thetis' silent, thick steel walls. Admiralty officials acknowledged that slow seepage of water into the submarine's batteries probably had formed chlorine gas and that the fumes had suffocated the men.

At 1:40 a. m. (7:40 p. m., Atlanta time, Friday night) 36 hours—the deadline for the Thetis' sealed-up air—had passed since the new $1,500,000 submarine dived into Liverpool bay in a test on a trial run for acceptance by the British navy.

For six hours after that divers tapped urgently at her sides for a signal that life still flickered within. They got what they believed might have been their final faint answer at 2 a. m. today (8 p. m., Atlanta time, Friday night) although some thought they might have heard only loose gear rattling against the swaying sides of the hulk.

Then, at 4:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m., Atlanta time), after incessant res-

Keep Itty Bitty Fitty But Throw Big Ones Back

MONROE, N. C., June 3.—(AP)—Game Warden Harry Jones came upon two negroes pulling in finny beauties—6 to 10 inches long—and throwing them back into the creek. Every now and then, however, they caught a small fish and kept it.

"Look here, Auntie," said Jones to one of the women, "Don't you know it's against the law to catch such small fish?"

"You can't fool me," she said. "My husband told me the government is saving all the big fishes to raise little ones. So I've been throwing all fishes over six inches back."

FORESEE BALANCE UNDER 21 MILLION FISCAL MEASURE

Estimate General Fund Income for 1939-40 at $17,000,000; Economies of $1,575,000 Are Urged.

By The Associated Press.

Financing of Governor Rivers' "Little New Deal" on a $21,000,000 appropriation basis without increasing existing tax rates or imposing new levies was proposed yesterday by the House Economy Investigating Committee.

Climaxing an exhaustive, four-months' inquiry into economy and efficiency in Georgia's state government, the committee submitted a 500-page final report which sketched in bold strokes the following fiscal picture:

Estimated general fund income from 1939-40, $17,000,000.

Revenue increase possible by tighter collection, $4,350,000.

Says Balance Possible.

On Georgia's existing $21,000,000 appropriation act, with deductions for proposed economies, the committee found the state could wind up its 1939-40 fiscal year with a $1,339,090 balance after meeting all the year's obligations, including teachers' salaries and public welfare benefits.

Even with anticipated statutory salary increases for teachers next year, which school authorities estimate would boost the teacher pay roll from $8,596,060 to $10,110,000 annually, committee spokesmen predicted revenues would be only about $200,000 short of paying the entire bill in full.

Unanimous Report.

Filed as a unanimous report of the five-man committee, the findings made no mention of need for new or additional taxes. Absence of dissenting opinion among committee members was seen as significant by observers, who speculated upon effect of the report on the legislative picture.

Capitol discussion centered on probable reaction of the general assembly, which is meeting informally with the Governor and state officials at Brunswisk. Some sources predicted the survey would preclude further agitation for a sales tax, which has been under discussion at the coast gathering.

The recommendations dealt exclusively with financing the program of state services in the forthcoming biennium. Sources

BISHOP WATKINS SPEAKS TODAY AT EMORY EXERCISES

500 Alumni Hear Dobbs, School Benefactor, at Home-Coming; Dr. Fort To Head Group in 1940.

Bishop William T. Watkins will give the commencement sermon of Emory University's 99th annual commencement week end at 11 o'clock this morning in Glenn Memorial auditorium. The bishop, a former pastor of the Glenn Memorial church, was a member of the class of 1916 at old Emory College at Oxford.

Dobbs Speaks.

Yesterday, approximately 500 Emory alumni heard Samuel Candler Dobbs, Atlanta businessman and benefactor of the school, declare that "America's future depends upon the maintenance of its system of free and unfettered education which teaches youth to think as well as obey."

Mr. Dobbs was the main speaker at the university's annual Alumni Day home-coming. "Free education," he said, "is the safeguard of our freedom of thought and the bulwark of our faith in the nation's future."

Fort Heads Alumni.

Election of Dr. Arthur G. Fort, Atlanta physician, as president of the alumni association for next year was announced at the meeting. He succeeds Hal F. Hentz, also of Atlanta. Dr. Fort is a member of the college class of 1899 and the medical class of 1904. Dr. Howard Hailey, another Atlantan, was elected president of the medical school alumni Friday night.

Other alumni association officers elected were: First vice president, Granger Hansell, Atlanta attorney; second vice president, Judge Walter H. Beckham, Miami; third vice president, Crawford V. Rainwater, Pensacola, and treasurer, George S. Cobb, LaGrange. Robert F. Whitaker was re-elected executive secretary of the association.

500 Attend.

More than 500 graduates from many states met on the campus for the home-coming. Thirteen classes in all schools of the university held class reunions. Most of these also staged private gatherings last night. Classes holding reunions were 1889, '96, '97, '14, '15, '17, '33, '34, '35 and '36.

Topic of Meeting.

Main topic of discussion at the annual meeting of the association was an alumni campaign to provide the remaining funds necessary for construction of a student activities-gymnasium building on the campus.

At 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, exercises will be brought to a close when 338 graduates receive their degrees in Glenn Memorial auditorium. Robert Strickland, Atlanta banker, will deliver the baccalaureate address. President Harvey W. Cox will present the diplomas.

German-American Club Opens Celebration of 'Deutsches Haus'

W. J. Seibert, Vice President of Organization, Signals Start of Gala Festival With Assertion That 'The Only Ism in This Club Is Americanism.'

With these words, W. J. Seibert, vice president of the German-American Club, signalled the start of a gay and gala affair last night in the club's headquarters at 80 Fourteenth street, N. E.

The event marked the spring opening of the "Deutsches Haus," a festive occasion featured by good music, good food and good fellowship in the old-time German manner.

There were few speeches, but those were brief and to the point. H. F. Linder, Atlanta business man and president of the club, stressed the fact the organization is strictly non-political and devoted solely to singing, comradeship and hospitality.

Music by the Pathe orchestra, and group singing of popular and classical songs were features. A buffet supper was served before the singing and music began. More than 300 persons attended.

MAYOR ASKS VOTE FOR AMENDMENT

Says It Will Provide Needed Public Works.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday urged passage of constitutional amendment No. 1, which authorizes issuance of certificates to raise funds for improving Atlanta's waterworks system and construction of a new incinerator.

The amendment is among those to be voted upon in the election Tuesday.

"Passage of this amendment will enable the city to carry out many much-needed improvements," said the mayor. "Erection of a new incinerator is essential, as the present plant has been in use about 30 years."

COLLINS AGAIN HEADS PUBLISHERS' SYNDICATE

Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of education, was re-elected president of the board of directors of Publishers Syndicate, Inc., at the annual meeting yesterday. Other officers named were George W. Howard, vice president; Mildred Abercrombie, secretary, and J. F. Goodwin, treasurer.

NEGOTIATIONS FUTILE IN AUTOMOBILE STRIKE

DETROIT, June 3.—(AP)—Union and management, each charging the other with injecting "new issues" into the dispute, failed today to break a strike deadlock that has kept more than 70,000 automobile workers idle for two weeks.

Settlement negotiations arranged by Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey were adjourned until Monday.

Seven plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Company, body makers, were closed by the strike, throwing 15,000 men out of work. Lack of bodies caused shutdowns of Chrysler Corporation and Lincoln units employing more than 55,000 men.

SOAP BOX DERBY SET FOR JULY 22

grand prize at the national at Akron will go a four-year college course to any state college the winner desires to enter. The second prize will be a Chevrolet master de luxe sedan, and to the third-place winner will be awarded a Chevrolet master sedan.

In the Atlanta finals, the winner of the North Georgia championship will be awarded a motor-driven miniature automobile, the gift of Davison-Paxon Company. To the boy building the best racer entered in the Atlanta Derby will also be given a miniature motor-driven automobile, the gift of the Royal Crown Bottling Company, distributors of RC Cola.

In addition, the Atlanta champion will receive a complete power-tool wood-working shop, the joint award of the John Smith Company, the Downtown Chevrolet Company, the Decatur Chevrolet Company and the East Point Chevrolet Dealers. Numerous other awards, including gold and silver and bronze trophies, shoes, hats and suits, bicycles and sporting goods, groceries and ice cream and numerous other varieties also will be awarded, the listings to be made from week to week.

Much Interest Shown.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the Soap Box Derby this year. The achievement of Lamar McDaniel, Atlanta model racer who won the 1938 North Georgia Derby last year, in losing first place in the national finals last year by only 15-100 seconds has served as an incentive, and entrants this year are expected to be doubled. Prior to that, Atlanta entrants have placed fifth for three years, and this year the amateur enthusiasts are determined to make a better showing.

To enable every boy, regardless of circumstances, to have a representative racer this year, The Constitution has devised a plan whereby boys may secure, without cost, a complete set of the necessary regulation metal parts for a racer. The set consists of four disc wheels, 62 bolts, nuts and lock washers, four hub caps and 12 screws; eight ball-bearings, four racing tires, four axles and mountings; four body plates; four carriage bolts and nuts; 20 extra bolts and nuts, and 10 feet of steering cable.

Call at Constitution.

Details of how to secure this complete set can be had by calling the office of The Constitution.

Arrangements have been completed. The dates have been set, so that all that is necessary on the part of prospective entrants is to get the necessary tools, the required equipment and get busy and build a racer.

Don't forget the entry blanks which can be had from any Chevrolet dealer in Atlanta and Decatur. Don't forget to read the rule book for changes which have been made in the rules. And don't forget to have your entry in for the qualifying trials which begin on July 20.

JEROME C. BEAM DIES AT AGE OF 72

Was Former General Passenger Agent of the Southern Railroad.

Jerome C. (Jerry) Beam, 72, former general passenger agent of the Southern Railroad and well known in railroad circles in the southeast, died at 7:10 o'clock last night at his apartment in the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Mr. Beam, who with his wife, the former Mrs. Lilith Gardner, of Waco, Texas, had returned to Atlanta about two weeks ago from Los Angeles, complained of feeling ill yesterday morning.

Born in Canton, Ill., in 1867, Mr. Beam had been in the railroad business for 46 years, 23 of which were spent in Atlanta. He retired at his own request on April 15, 1931, because of failing health, and spent his time between Atlanta and Los Angeles, where he also maintained a residence and was prominent in social circles.

He was a past member of the Atlanta Rotary Club, and a member of the Shrine.

Funeral arrangement will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

WARNING IS ISSUED IN SMALLPOX SCARE

196 Released From N. Y. Prison Were Exposed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 3.—(AP) New York's health department warned 22 other states tonight to be on guard against the spread of smallpox in the wake of an outbreak of the disease in the Onondaga county penitentiary at nearby Jamesville.

Department officials, urging state-wide smallpox vaccination in New York, said 196 persons released from the penitentiary since May 14 had been exposed to infection and not only have scattered throughout New York but may have returned to their home states.

They notified health departments of the following 22 states the names and addresses of persons who may be exposed:

AUTHOR ADDRESSES AGNES SCOTT BOARD

Miss Knight Speaks at Trustees' Luncheon in Opening of Commencement Rites.

Mary Lamar Knight, well-known journalist and author of "On My Own," was the principal speaker at the trustees' luncheon at Agnes Scott yesterday which opened the college's 50th anniversary commencement program.

Miss Knight, a member of the Agnes Scott graduating class of 1922, has had a colorful career as a newspaper correspondent for the United Press. She was the only woman contributor to "We Cover the News."

May Queen in Senior Year.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of the college, introduced Miss Knight and recalled that she had been May Queen in her senior year and prominent in many campus activities.

George Winship, chairman of the board of trustees, presided at the luncheon and speakers included Cary Wheeler, president of the senior class, and Mrs. Murdock Equen, president of the Alumnae Association. Representatives of each of the reunion classes were recognized.

Program Listed.

Today's program includes the baccalaureate sermon at 11 o'clock this morning by Dr. E. C. Colwell, dean of the divinity school of the University of Chicago, and a graduate of Emory University, and a special chapel service at 5 o'clock this afternoon for the unveiling of a bust of Miss Nannette Hopkins, former dean.

Class Day exercises will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night an all-alumnae play, "Bridal Chorus," will be presented. Miss Mary E. Wooley, who served 37 years as president of Mt. Holyoke College, will be the principal speaker at graduation exercises Tuesday.

Navy Lets Contracts For 'Mosquito Fleet'

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—The navy ordered work started today on its new "mosquito fleet" by awarding contracts aggregating $645,000 for 7 small craft.

Congress authorized a $15,000,000 fleet of motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers in last year's billion dollar naval expansion act.

Agnes Scott Graduate Returns To Atlanta To Brush Up on South

Mrs. John Pfeiffer, Short Story Writer and Lecturer, Remembered in School as Sarah Shields, Has Two-Fold Purpose for Visit Here.

At least one Agnes Scott graduate came back to Atlanta for commencement for two reasons and only one of them is school spirit. She is Mrs. John Pfeiffer, of Boston, who will be remembered by Agnes Scott girls as Sarah Shields, of Dawson, Ga.

Mrs. Pfeiffer, reporter and newspaper columnist who turned into a short story writer and lecturer, is a director of the New England Woman's Press Association. The part of her short visit to Atlanta not taken up with school activities will be spent brushing up all over again on southern atmosphere and personalities for one of her lectures most popular with New England audiences, "I Give You—Georgia."

After this lecture two questions about the south are invariably asked her, she says. They are, "What are collards?" and "is 'Tobacco Road' a true picture of the south?"

Mrs. Pfeiffer explains that the first question calls for a slightly technical answer, but that to the query about "Tobacco Road," she just answers by asking them another: "Is 'Dead End' a true picture of New York."

For five years Mrs. Pfeiffer was on the staff of the Asheville Citizen-Times as feature writer and columnist. Then her husband's buisness took him to Boston. Two years ago she turned professional lecturer after having given many informal talks on the south and on women in the newspaper business. One of these talks she called "Life on the Run," and it told about different news jjobs open for women.

SASKATOON FOLK WELCOME ROYALTY

George and Queen Met by Throng of Hardy Rural Families.

SASKATOON, June 3.—(AP)—Hardy farm families from Saskatchewan's rolling wheatlands joined their city cousins today in welcoming King George VI and Queen Elizabeth with the greatest demonstration ever witnessed in this agricultural center.

When the royal train arrived at 2:19 p. m. (4:19 p. m., Atlanta time) a crowd of 100,000—more than twice Saskatoon's population—thronged the city and sent up wave upon wave of cheers as the King and Queen rode slowly over an 11-mile route.

The two-hour visit to Saskatoon was limited to the motor ride, the reading of an address by Mayor C. Niderost and the usual inspection of a guard of honor by the King.

In his speech, Saskatoon's Mayor Niderost recalled that many men of the province "heeded the call of their country 20 years ago, and for which they would again should it be necessary."

HOUSE NLRB PROBE IS TALKED TO SPUR WAGNER ACT VOTE

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has been told by some of his closest congressional friends that unless congress gets a chance to vote on Wagner labor act amendments this session, a house investigation of the National Labor Relations Board is inevitable.

This became known today as influential house members started a quiet campaign to obtain support for an investigation resolution which Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, has introduced.

Cox said he would ask the rules committee to approve his resolution unless the labor committee reports amendments "in time for action this session."

Some Democrats expressed the opinion privately that the house would certainly adopt, if brought to the floor, a resolution to create a special committee to inquire into the board's activities during the summer and fall and report back January 1.

Inquiry Aims.

The inquiry would look into qualifications of the three board members and all regional directors and trial examiners and the arguments that the law should be amended.

Representative Anderson, Democrat, Missouri, already has introduced legislation for such an investigation and informed persons said a similar one was being drafted by other legislators.

Cox said either would be approved by the rules committee, of which he is a member, and he predicted the only floor opposition would come from staunch New Dealers.

Representative Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, the minority leader, agreed with Cox. He expressed the opinion that "about 95 per cent" of the 168 Republican members would give their approval. That would mean the resolution would have to receive the support of only about 60 of the 260-odd Democrats.

Delay Claimed.

Advocates of changes in the law have complained that it appeared neither the senate nor the house labor committee intended to report amendments at this session.

The house labor committee began hearings four weeks ago but has heard only five authors of amendments, Chairman J. Warren Madden, of the NLRB, and Charles Fahy, board counsel. Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, said the committee might hear other board representatives and CIO and AFL representatives before closing the hearings and starting a study of the amendments behind closed doors.

The determination of some house members to press for amendments at this session was strengthened by reports that businessmen had strongly urged President Roosevelt to use his influence to obtain changes in the law.

Business leaders who dined at the White House Thursday and discussed current economic problems with Mr. Roosevelt were said to have told him that amendment of the law was one of the foremost needs for recovery.

TOLD CRAFT UNION HOLDS MINOR PLACE

Experts Report to NLRB in Midst of AFL Drive To Revise Labor Act.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Economists of the National Labor Relations Board, in a report made in the midst of the AFL effort to revise the Wagner act to give more protection to non-industrial unions, have advised the board that "craft" unions no longer are important in modern industry.

The report was put on the desks of board members several weeks ago by David J. Saposs, chief economist of the NLRB and his aide, Sol Davison, but was not given general circulation.

After a study of the structure of the American Federation of Labor, the economists concluded that:

Less than 10 per cent of the federation's present membership belong to purely craft unions; industrial and semi-industrial unions are preponderant; only 12 unions with 25,800 members could be regarded as "pure craft unions" out of 85 member unions with an aggregate membership at the last annual AFL meeting of 3,030,100.

Famed Speakers To Address Farm Teachers Sessions

M. D. Mobley, of Atlanta, To Make Welcoming Address.

Speakers of national prominence are to address the 22d annual conference of Georgia agricultural vocational teachers at F. F. A. camp on Jackson Lake Tuesday through Friday. Among speakers are Thomas L. Ayers, chief of the southern division of AAA; O. E. Baker, of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture; R. H. Montgomery, professor of economics, University of Texas; Harold E. B. Speight, dean, Swarthmore College; Morris B. Storer, United States Department of Agriculture; John J. Tigert, president, University of Florida; L. A. Wheeler, Foreign Agricultural Service, United States Department of Agriculture, and Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools of Georgia.

About 300 vocational agricultural teachers and supervisors will attend and be quartered in the new Future Farmers of America camp, constructed on the headwaters of Jackson Lake a few miles south of Covington.

Welcome Address.

M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education, of Atlanta, who will deliver the welcoming address, says that the forenoons will be devoted to addresses and the afternoons devoted to general discussions. The panel, he states, will be made up of leaders in the field of agriculture, in education, economics, business, etc., who will undertake to answer questions fired at them by vocational teachers. By this method, Mr. Mobley says, it is hoped that pertinent information will be developed regarding Georgia's agricultural problems looking to developing a unified program of teaching and community guidance in dealing with agriculture in Georgia.

O. C. Aderholt, professor of vocational education at the University of Georgia, will lead the discussion.

Those Who Preside.

L. M. Sheffer, state supervisor of agricultural education, Athens, will preside Tuesday; J. H. Mitchell, assistant supervisor, Athens, Wednesday; J. N. Baker, assistant supervisor, Swainsboro, Thursday; T. G. Walters, assistant supervisor, Atlanta, Friday morning, and G. I. Martin, assistant supervisor, Tifton, Friday afternoon.

In addition to the speakers mentioned, the panels include John T. Wheeler, University of Georgia; V. G. Martin, Mississippi A. & M. College; J. W. Fannin, College of Agriculture, Athens; Arthur Fink and Wape P. Young, of the University of Georgia; H. R. Bailey, regional farm management specialist, Spartanburg, S. C.; John R. Morgan, Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville; Miss Emily Woodward, director of public forums, Vienna; G. Stanley Wicker, Emory University, and R. H. Tolbert, Tignall; H. L. Fry, Rabun Gap, and T. G. Scott, Griffin, vocational agricultural teachers.

Atlantans Included.

Dr. Paul W. Chapman, dean, College of Agriculture, Athens; M. E. Thompson, assistant state school superintendent, Atlanta, and J. W. Comer, Buena Vista; O. O. McIntosh, Blackwells, and J. J. Segars, vocational agricultural teachers.

Negro Teacher Blazes Trail as Farmer

Educator Leaves Class-Room To Show What Race Can Do; Doubles Investment in 18 Months

By The Associated Press.

Dr. Winfred B. Nathan, 39-year-old negro educator, holds four academic degrees, earned by study at eight colleges and universities in this country and Europe.

None of his study at the higher institutions, however, was in agriculture. Neither had this native of Jamaica, British West Indies, any practical experience in farming of any kind.

Stars From Scratch.

Yet 18 months ago, he quit his position as acting chairman of the department of education at the Atlanta University and took up dairy farming from scratch to prove something he had taught in the classroom for 11 years—in his own words, that:

"A negro does not have to go back to Africa to be self-sufficient economically. He does not have to go to the north, east or west. He can do it right here in the south—where freedom from slavery left him to find his fortune."

Doubles Value.

Nathan has proved this contention, he says, to his satisfaction. To convince others who may have doubts, he offers the following statements:

From an investment of approximately $33,000—roughly $25,000 in cash and the rest in mortgage loans or other credit—he has in a year and a half been able to develop a modern, 100-acre, 90-cow dairy valued at $60,000.

At the same time, he has met all his obligations and earned a satisfastory salary.

He is furnishing profitable employment to 17 workmen, good living quarters and good living conditions to five families.

Only an Example.

As creditable as this achievement may be, Dr. Nathan regards it only as a demonstration of what can be done. It must be repeated with variations a thousand times over, he asesrts, if the negro's contribution to American civilization is to survive.

"There was a time," he says, "when we were bequeathed large sums by generous persons and philanthropic agencies to foster the social and intellectual development of the negro. But these donations will become less and less until they are no more. Many negro institutions are then likely to find themselves with a tremendous overhead but with no funds to carry on. If we are not to lose the services which these institutions can give our young people we must create wealth in order to support them.

Strength and Ability.

"It is quite possible for us to become a productive race, because we have the strength and ability to work. What is needed is an exodus of trained youth from our economic and industrial institutions that will take the initiative in creating small economic units that will provide work for skilled and unskilled people."

With that, Dr. Nathan outlined the following suggestions, drawn, he said, from his years of study and his recent practical experience:

"1. With the proper training, the negro is able to do anything that anybody else can.

"2. 'Proper training' does not mean he must go to Cornell University, for instance, to get a Ph. D. in agriculture. It means learning by doing—in other words, free exercise of his intelligence and common sense in a life situation. Therefore, there should be many more business enterprises for negroes than there are.

There's a Market.

"3. Racial lines should be forgotten in these industries. The negro should learn to compete in industry and business. If he makes better brick than anyone else, he will find a market for his brick. White men will buy his product but, mind you, only if it offers a competitive value. I know because I am selling 20 gallons of milk a day to white users.

"4. The semi-literate negro is anxious for leadership and is ready to give his full co-operation to efforts for his advancement. Therefore, it behooves our institutions and those who have benefited by the training they give to provide the leadership. Especially do we need advancement in such technical fields as baking, weaving, the raising, slaughtering and marketing of livestock, in industrial farming and food manufacture.

"Can Raise Money."

"5. And, finally, these industries can be financed. Some negroes have considerable money, others less. They can pool their resources and get backing from government agencies or local banks. There must be strict attention to developing integrity and honesty. Members of our race will attract capital and backing in proportion as they establish confidence in the investing as well as the buying public.

"For example, I can go to any local bank and borrow $1,000 to buy cattle. The reason is that they know I mean business, that I am attending to my business and I mean to repay the loan."

Nathan did not know anything about dairying when he took it up. Since then he has learned many things—that it requires system, close supervision, rigid sanitation, a knowledge of animal husbandry, feed crop production and land improvement. Other negroes, he emphasized, must learn similar lessons in this or any other field if they are to succeed.

Elaborate System.

His plant is located within five miles of Atlanta. It has a $3,500 deep well water system, sterilization apparatus, a $3,000 refrigeration system, filter room, laboratory for butterfat testing and bacteria counts and other modern aids. Up to date equipment, he finds, is a requisite in any business.

Dr. Nathan provides a garden tract for winter and summer vegetables for each of the families he employes. He furnishes mule-power to till the garden. Each family has a cow of its own and some also have hogs and goats. Schooling is encouraged—almost made compulsory—not only for children, but also for adults unable to read and write.

"Why Shouldn't We?"

The educator says that although he has found success and profit in dairying and regards it as an activity that could be copied by members of his race in many communities, there are other fields of equal or perhaps greater promise.

"For instance," he says, "I already have had plans drawn for a sausage factory. Then there should be large profits in a milk candy business.

"Other sections have made such enterprises pay rich profits. They have less God-given sunshine and other advantages than we. So why shouldn't we do as well or better?"

Judge Praises Step Of Morgan Ordinary

Former Judge G. H. Howard in a formal statement yesterday praised Ordinary Grady Atkinson, of Morgan county, for his refusal to hold a general election that was scheduled to be held in that county Tuesday.

"I rather think if General Bob Toombs was still living he would drop in on Neighbor Atkinson and congratulate him on his action," he said.

"A sham 'general' election with no one to elect, used for the purpose of getting by amendments to our organic law would probably have caused General Toombs to use some very emphatic language, for which he was famous," Mr. Howard declared.

Women Voters Outline Picture of Relief

A clear picture of the relief situation in Fulton county, representing a concise study of the many issues involved, is contained in the May issue of Facts, official organ of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, just published.

Recognizing that the problem of relief in the county is the problem of every citizen, the League of Women Voters, which has taken as part of its program for 1939 a plan for permanent, sound and adequate support of public welfare, has made an intensive study of the federal relief agencies operating here, and its findings are contained in Facts.

Stressing the fact that the Works Progress Administration was organized to give employment on useful projects to a limited number of able-bodied people in need of relief, the league publication declares:

"The number of workers on its (WPA) rolls is determined by quotas based on population and the degree of unemployment, fixed for Georgia in Washington and fixed for each area in the state by the state administrator."

In this connection it is pointed out that the WPA quota for Fulton and DeKalb counties, as of May 8, is 15,970, or 30.35 per cent of the total quota for Georgia.

Explaining the method of procedure in selecting cases for WPA relief, the article continues:

"A case is accepted by the WPA only after investigation and certification by the county welfare department. The resources of the family, or individual, certified must be 'insufficient to provide a reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health', and employable members must be registered with the Georgia employment service and able and willing to work but unable to secure employment.

"Even after certification no worker can be assigned until there is a vacancy in the kind of work he is capable of doing near enough to his home to make it feasible. After certification, reviewing cases of WPA workers and determining their continued eligibility is the sole responsibility of the WPA, although the county welfare department notifies WPA of all changes of status which comes to its attention in these cases.

"Except for sponsor's contributions (of material, etc., by city and county governments) to WPA projects and the cost of the original investigation of applicants as explained above, the cost of the assistance given by all Works Program agencies (WPA, NYA, CCC) is borne entirely by the federal government.

"The number of cases certified to WPA but not assigned to work, as of March 25, was 1,005; as of the same date there were also 139 WPA applications pending in the county welfare department, not yet fully investigated. Even though not yet assigned to work, these cases received no general relief except in extreme emergency, although many receive some surplus commodities."

Regarding the NYA program, the publication draws attention to the fact that the Georgia allotment for April of the current year was $104,100. Commenting on the NYA project, the league said:

"The Fulton County Welfare Department is responsible for originally certifying eligibles for the NYA. This project is designed to give approximately one-third time employment to youths from 18 to 24 from the low income families. This aid is open to high school and college students in good standing who, without aid, would not be able to continue their education.

"Participants are selected by school authorities and are required to perform practical work in return."

A brief explanation also is given of the CCC program, in which the county welfare department is responsible for the original certification.

Supplementing its explanation of relief activities, the league explains concisely the work being done for aged persons, dependent children and the blind. Among supplementary relief activities, attention is paid to the distribution of surplus commodities. Commenting the league declares:

"This activity is administered by the county welfare department under state and federal supervision. The federal government buys up food surpluses wherever they appear and ships them to local warehouses such as the one in Fulton county, where they are distributed to needy families who present orders granted by the county welfare department. Orders are granted as a rule after an office interview with the recipient, supplemented by a telephone check on his references, and are valid for six months unless sooner cancelled by the county welfare department.

'Commodities are distributed on the basis of size of families. There is naturally a great variety because of the varying kinds and amounts available. During the month ending March 25, commodities valued at $87,793.30 (wholesale value) were given to 12,765 families. All county commodity personnel must be certified WPA security wage earners; the cost to the county is five cents per month per family."

The work of the League of Women Voters in attempting to clarify the issues involved in the relief program in the county was commended by William E. Mitchell, chairman of the Fulton County Department of Public Welfare. Mr. Mitchell declared:

"The problems involved in the relief of those who, because of age, disability, unemployability, or inability to get work, are so many, and so important to the permanent wellbeing of our city and county that all possible publicity should be given to the facts. This presentation of 'Facts' by the League of Women Voters is therefore most timely.

"There is so much prejudice on the part of some against doing anything for the underprivileged, the burden of taxes is weighing so heavily on those who pay, there are so many other places to spend the tax dollar, the underprivileged have so few champions, that it is indeed heartening to have this fine, strong organization thoroughly investigate the situation.

"The facts speak for themselves. Make all the allowance you will for inefficiency in handling the work, for errors or failures to eliminate the undeserving, and the answer still is that anything less than the amount of money a county 3-mill tax levy will produce is utterly inadequate to take care of all the forms of relief administered by the county on the irreducible minimum basis of decency. It will leave nothing for the more constructive, long-range work that should be receiving consideration."

$5,000 CHECK GIVEN TO GEORGIA TECH

Donor Asks That Interest Aid Worthy Student.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, yesterday received a $5,000 check from Eugene O. Batson Sr., of Millard, Miss. Attached to the check was a letter requesting Dr. Brittain to aid a worthy student of the school with the interest which amounts to $250 annually.

The gift is in memory of Mr. Batson's son, Eugene Jr., who was killed April 24, 1936, while in training as a student of aviation.

ROW OVER JOBLESS RELIEF MARKS TIME

Several Developments in Controversy Expected This Week.

Controversy over unemployable relief administration in Fulton county yesterday marked time with the following developments expected this week:

1. Investigation of the entire relief setup by a special subcommittee of the Fulton county grand jury, headed by Fred J. Cooledge. (As a result of physical examinations of 521 relief clients, Gloer Hailey, chairman of the alms and juveniles committee of the Fulton county commission, charged laxity in relief administration, while William E. Mitchell, chairman of the Fulton county board of public welfare, which administers relief, defended the system and released figures to justify his contention.)

Conference Urged.

2. Possibility of amicable adjustment of the differences between the board and commissioners through a conference, which Hailey suggested in his latest communication to Mitchell. No date has yet been set for the conference because of the absence of Mitchell from the city.

3. Delay in the physical examination of about 3,000 other cases on relief rolls because of inaccessibility of the relief list to Fulton county doctors. After the 521 were examined, the relief board borrowed the list to make a check of county findings, and it has not yet been returned to the county medical department. It was reported yesterday that examination of those already summoned will be completed tomorrow and that others cannot be ordered before physicians until the list is available.

Complaints Cited.

4. Complaint by several relief clients to Hailey about officers summoning them to the courthouse for examinations. Lieutenant W. A. Wells and Burton Carroll, of the Fulton county police department, were assigned to summon clients to the county health department for the examinations.

Although Cooledge has not yet called his probing group together, it has been empowered to summon records and witnesses and Assistant Solicitor General Walter LeCraw has been assigned to assist in its deliberations.

tively to heal differences between Democratic factions.

Well-advised legislators said one harmony effort was a senate luncheon this week for Thomas G. Corcoran, New Deal adviser, given by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona. The luncheon was attended by such administration followers as Senators Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, and Schwellenbach, Democrat, Washington, and such non-New Deal senators as Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, and Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina.

The luncheon was similar to earlier ones given for Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board, and Chairman Jesse H. Jones, of the Reconstruction Corporation. Senator Brown, Democrat, Michigan, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, also has been planning a series of informal get-togethers among representatives of divergent party factions.

Sharing attention with Democratic political developments, there was capitol talk about Senator Vandenberg's (Republican, Michigan) recent statement indicating his availability for the G. O. P. presidential nomination.

Vandenberg said today he had received numerous letters from all sections of the country saying his was a "good statement." Asserting he would have nothing more to say about the G. O. P. nomination at present, he reiterated that he was primarily concerned with his duties as a senator and his projected race for re-election.

ing an address before a joint session of the senate and house at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the first meeting of congress. He returned to the bench on April 17.

This was the first time he had been absent from his duties since appointed chief justice by President Hoover in 1930.

On his 77th birthday anniversary last April 11 he said through his secretary that "I expect to go on with my work" and was "happy" to be able to resume activities.

After his return to the bench he continued his early morning walk near his home and appeared to be in good health. He presided over the court with his customary vigor.

Justice Pierce Butler officiated at today's conference of the court members and will preside at Monday's session, when the tribunal adjourns until next October.

Any opinions the chief justice has written will be read by Butler or another justice.

Justice James C. Reynolds, who as senior member ordinarily would preside, already has left Washington to visit relatives in Kentucky.

33 AMENDMENTS UP FOR BALLOTING IN STATE TUESDAY

All Counties But Morgan To Vote; Solicitor General in Brunswick Circuit Also To Be Elected.

Amid much controversy, Georgians in all counties — with the possible exception of Morgan—will vote Tuesday on 33 constitutional amendments and candidates for the office of solicitor general in the Brunswick circuit.

Ordinary Grady Atkinson yesterday stood firmly by a decision to pass up the election in Morgan county "unless they put a mandamus on me and force me to hold it."

Elsewhere, several candidates for chief justice of the supreme court, attorney general and judge of superior courts in the Griffin and Atlanta circuits asked county ordinaries to write their names in on ballots.

Names Omitted by Rivers.

Their names were omitted by Governor Rivers in making up official ballot forms. He followed a ruling by the late Attorney General M. J. Yeomans that candidates for attorney general and supreme court justice could not legally be put on the ballot until the 1940 election.

John S. Wood, of Canton, who qualified with the secretary of state for the attorney generalship held by Elliis Arnall, charged the Governor acted in a manner "dictatorial and unwarranted" in withholding his name from the ballot.

3 Amendments Listed.

Only three of the constitutional amendments up for balloting were general in scope. They provide:

1. A proposal which in effect would give the State Highway Department an additional income of $2,650,000 for each of the years 1939, 1940 and 1941.

2. A proposal for the Atlantic Coastal Highway district to issue bonds, not exceeding $4,500,000, to match federal money for proposed double tracking of the Coastal highway.

3. That judges of the various circuits may, upon reasonable notice to parties involved, at any time during vacation hear and determine by interlocutory or final judgment any matter or issue not requiring a jury verdict.

Authorizes Highway Bonds.

The first highway proposal would authorize the Governor to pay off highway refunding certificates to counties for 1939, 1940 and 1941 by issuing and selling highway refunding bonds at not more than 2 per cent. Thus, the State Highway Department would be freed of its obligation of paying county certificates each March for three years, enabling it to match a federal appropriation of $8,976,892.70 to Georgia for these three years.

A majority of the local amendments would authorize various towns, cities and local school districts to take on additional bonded indebtedness.

Candidates for solicitor general in the Brunswick circuit—to be voted on in all counties—are W. Glenn Thomas, incumbent, of Jesup; W. D. Turner, of Jesup; H. L. Williams, of Baxley, and M. E. Wood, of Baxley.

ECONOMY PROBERS REPORT ON FINDINGS

close to the committee explained it was impossible to offer remedial suggestions for the present fiscal crisis in which the state owes approximately $5,000,000 to its common schools and an additional $380,000 to its university system.

Vice Chairman James V. Carmichael, however, said the committee had learned from Dr. John W. Oden, superintendent of the Milledgeville Hospital for Insane, that the institution now was meeting its current expenses, and would "close the fiscal year in the black." He said Dr. Oden reported 400 harmless incurable inmates had been returned to their families or guardians.

At the same time, Carmichael drew attention that the Department of Agriculture had improved its financial position by completing retirement of debts "inherited" from the previous administration.

The committee's prediction of $17,000,000 revenue for the general fund next year, based on estimates by Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head, contrasted with forecasts of $12,500,000 by Governor Rivers and State Auditor Zach Arnold.

Cause of Discrepancy.

Members of the committee explained the apparent discrepancy was caused principally by failure of the administration to show in the general fund account approximately $3,600,000 in stabilization fund "tithes" which are earmarked in a special account for disbursement at the discretion of the Governor.

The committee said actual income for 1938-39, as estimated by the revenue department, would total $16,939,890.21 before deductions for collection fees and the stabilization fund. The fees go in part to support the revenue department.

The report, which was being prepared for distribution to the Governor and members of the general assembly, included a breakdown showing appropriations and actual income for each department since 1935. The committee offered proposed appropirations for each agency for the 1939-41 biennium, but insisted it should not be construed as a committee-sponsored appropriation bill.

Sets Minimum Funds.

Administrative appropriations were set up for the departments of education and public welfare, but the committee left blank the spaces for teachers' salaries and welfare benefits for old age pensioners, dependent children and needy blind.

The committee explained it was impossible to determine accurately until after June 30 the exact amount needed for teachers' pay, since the number of teachers and their salary brackets was subject to change. Of welfare benefits, the committee suggested this would be a matter of policy for the general assembly as to the size of payments and number of cases to be cared for.

In its economy suggestions, the committee set minimum appropriations for each department supported by the general fund, and advocated that these be paid in full.

Would Push Collections.

Amendment of existing laws to provide tighter enforcement of tax statutes were offered as follows:

1. Additional income tax, available if the legislature repeals the exemption now granted on state returns for payment of federal taxes—$1,500,000.

2. Increase in ad valorem taxes by provision of a uniform system of tax receipts, issued by the State Revenue Department and serially. These would have to be accounted for to the county tax collector, and would include three parts: poll tax, state, county and school taxes due on autos and trucks; and all other state, county and school taxes—$500,000.

3. Strengthening and tightening the gasoline tax law so as to control bootlegging, speed audits of large distributors, and cut the collection fee allowed distributors—$500,000.

4. Plugging loop-holes now existing in the cigar and cigaret tax law—$250,000.

Gasoline Tax.

5. Requiring payment of state taxes on lands sold for county taxes, after expiration of 15 months—$50,000.

6. Pegging gasoline tax allocations at revenues received for fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, which amounted to $19,574,325.93. Future collections in excess of this figure would revert to the general fund—$1,000,000.

6. Pegging motor vehicle license tag revenues at amount received in 1937, which was a gross amount of $1,629,479.11. Probable increase from this source over pegged figure—$500,000.

The committee suggested allocated funds from other sources might similarly be pegged at present figures to overcome criticism by the state auditor that: "Gains (in revenue) have always been in the special allocated funds. Gain for the general fund has failed to materialize on a permanent basis in any substantial amount."

Miscellaneous Savings.

Committee members said privately the estimates quoted in the report for possible revenue increases were "extremely conservative," and probably would total considerably more than was predicted.

Miscellaneous budget savings in excess of $75,000, which were not reflected in appropriation reductions, also were mentioned as accruing to the general fund.

In a letter accompanying the report, the committee paid tribute to Speaker Roy V. Harris "who, after appointing us, has let us completely alone. This is not, as a rule, the attitude of those who exercise appointive power."

PERMANENT 5-MAN PROBE BODY URGED

House Economy Committee Makes Recommendation in Final Report.

Recommendation for a permanent five-man economy committee, to study proposed legislation and inquiry into economy and efficiency of state government, was contained in the final report of the house investigating committee.

The committee, composed of three members of the house and two members of the senate, would be charged with:

1. Study of proposed legislation, with recommendations to the general assembly and Governor.

2. Study of departmental activities "with a view to effecting economies and increased efficiency in the various departments of state government, and to make recommendations relevant thereto to the general assembly and to the Governor."

The group would be empowered to subpoena witnesses, compel production of records and other data pertaining to state business, receive sworn testimony, and convene at any time upon majority vote of the committee.

Whew! Economy Probers Certainly Had Busy Time

The five-man house economy investigating committee, which rendered its final report yesterday, spent 70 days in actual hearings, interrogated more than 250 sworn witnesses, and studied in excess of 1,700,000 words of testimony.

The investigation cost an estimated $10,000, exclusive of the committee members' per diem pay during the regular session. The final report showed net possible savings in appropriations of $1,575,925; total possible increase in state revenue of $4,300,000, and predicted 1939-40 revenue $4,500,000 in excess of previous estimates.

Witnesses who testified before the committee included Governor Rivers, L. W. (Chip) Robert, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, and Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

The committee, headed by Chairman Wilmer Lanier, of Richmond, included Vice Chairman James V. Carmichael, of Cobb; Cleveland Rees, of Webster; Joseph H. Blackshear, of Hall, and T. Guy Connell, of Lowndes.

The investigation was begun January 27, suspended March 18, resumed April 3, and concluded officially May 31. Committee members subsequently worked three extra days without pay to complete the report.

When Sergeant Tom Carney was awarded a big silver cup for being British army master cook he took it to his wife, who cooks all the food he eats.

MOTHER ACCUSED IN DEATH OF SON

Destitute Woman Charged With Poisoning Boy.

CLINTON, Okla., June 3.—(AP) A destitute mother, Mrs. Ida Watson, 34, who is under guard day and night at a hospital, was charged today with fatally poisoning her 6-year-old son, Jerry.

All five of the Watson children fell ill Tuesday, but Marie Watson, 15, saved herself and three of her brothers by hurrying to a hospital and expressing suspicion about the "pills" she said her mother gave them.

Mrs. Watson is recovering from a gash in her throat which officers said she inflicted on herself. County Attorney Milton Keen filed the murder charge.

Economy Recommendations Filed by Georgia House's Investigating Committee

FINDINGS INCLUDE CALL FOR SLASHES IN APPROPRIATIONS

Tighter Enforcement of Tax Statutes by Amendment of Existing Laws Advocated by Probers.

Departmental recommendations submitted by the house economy investigating committee in its final report included:

Auditing Department—(1) That appropriation of auditing department be cut from $85,000 to $62,000 annually, and paid in full; (2) that an act be passed making any department head personally liable for expenditures in excess of the approved budget when examination of accounts by the state auditor discloses such action. Prosecution by the attorney general would be mandatory upon receipt of such notice by the auditor. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$23,000 annually.

Banking Department—(1) That banking department be required to pay the annual $5,000 salary of an assistant attorney general assigned to it; (2) that fees of the department be fixed at a sum sufficient to pay this salary, in addition to other expenses. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$5,000.

Would Confine Expenses.

Education Department—(1) That administrative expenses of the department be confined to specific appropriations as follows:

(a) General operation and supervision, $134,920; (b) per diem and traveling expenses of state Board of Education, $5,000; (c) salaries of 159 county superintendents at $600 yearly, $95,400; (d) matching federal vocational rehabilitation funds, $44,967.45; (e) matching federal vocational education funds (salaries and administrative expense) $606,148.41; (f) administering free text book law, $25,000; (g) providing free text books, 97 per cent of beer and wine tax income, with three per cent going to general fund.

No figure is set for payment of salaries of teachers in common schools, the committee contending this cannot be determined accurately until attendance figures and other data are obtained after July 1. The current appropriation act sets up $8,596,060 for this purpose; school officials estimate statutory salary increases would necessitate appropriation of $10,110,000 annually for 1939-41.

(2) That the Department of Education be required by law to operate within the appropriation fixed by the legislature, and that prior to September 1 each year the department notify county school authorities of estimated available revenue for payment of county allotments. No contract could be made by the state for payments in excess of this estimated income.

Transfer of Schools.

(3) That the legislature transfer from the Department of Welfare to the Education Department supervision of the Academy for the Blind, Macon; the School for Deaf, Cave Spring; the State Training School for Boys, Milledgeville, and State Training School for Girls, Atlanta. This action, the committee said, would permit the state to obtain a minimum of $16,500 annually in federal vocational funds to apply toward an estimated $185,929 yearly cost of operating the institutions.

Net appropriation reductions include (a) salary and personnel adjustments, $33,091.35; saving in textbooks fund, $237.380; savings under seven-month school law by recommended economies, $310,290; reduction in amounts previously paid to Bibb, Chatham and Richmond counties under previous law, $259,293; saving in administration of textbook fund, $3,479. (b) Total general fund appropriation reduction—$606,674.35; total allocated funds saved—$240,859; aggregating $843,533.35.

Executive Department—(1) That the operation appropriation for Governor's office be cut from $100,000 to $55,000 annual by lopping off $25,000 previously needed for purchasing department (now a separate unit) and cost of maintaining capitol building and grounds (proposed for transfer to parks department); (b) That the emergency fund be cut from $100,000 to $75,000 a year; (c) That appropriation for repairs to capitol and mansion be discontinued since this work is now complete. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$11,033.77.

Resources Unit.

Natural Resources Department—(1) That appropriation for forestry division be cut from $95,300 to $60,000 annually, of which $10,000 a year would be available for developing paper pulp industry in Georgia; (2) That appropriation for geology division be cut from $60,000 to $50,000; (3) That regular appropriation for parks division be reduced from $50,000 to $36,350, with a supplementary appropriation of $40,232 per year for maintenance of the capitol building and grounds; (4) That the office of commissioner of natural resources be abolished, and a five-man commission, appointed by the Governor, created instead; (5) That this commission be authorized to set up a merit system of employment for division of wild life; (6) That all activities relating to coastal fisheries and "fish and seafood control" be placed under jurisdiction of wild life division. Net general fund appropriation reduction—$68,950 annually.

Fund Cut Favored.

Prison and Parole Commission—(1) That appropriation for department be cut from $100,000 to $50,000 annually; (2) that assembly establish a "minimum service requirement" before a prisoner may become eligible to make application for parole; (3) that the parole board shall notify in writing the judge, solicitor general and sheriff in county of conviction when any prisoner is granted clemency; (4) that similar notification be given officials in county where prisoner is to be paroled; (5) that any clemency application must be acted upon within six months of being filed, and no new application may be made within six months of decision; (6) that Georgia's constitution be amended to restrict Governor's clemency power to capital cases wherein life imprisonment or death sentence is imposed, and cases involving treason or impeachment. Net reduction general fund appropriation—$50,000 annually.

Revenue Department—(1) That appropriation of $410,000 from general funds and $400,000 from allocated funds for operation of department be repealed, and the agency be granted instead one per cent of all revenue collected before the taxes become delinquent. Ad valorem taxes would become delinquent 12 months after due, occupational taxes 60 days after due; (2) that the assembly provide a 10 per cent penalty on delinquent taxes, which would be allowed the revenue department for its cost of collections; (3) that all allocations be pegged at 1938 total receipts, with all excess amounts earmarked for the general fund; (4) that the legislature cut the allowance to motor fuel companies for collecting the gasoline and kerosene tax from one per cent to one-tenth of one per cent, a saving of about $171,000 annually; (5) that classification of automobiles and trucks for license tags be simplified to a few broad groups instead of the present 96 divisions to eliminate possible tax evasion and effect an estimated $500,000 annual revenue increase; (6) amend the state income tax law to abolish exemptions on federal tax payments, an estimated present loss to the state of $1,500,000 annually; (7) amendment of tax law to require presentation of ad valorem tax receipt on autos and trucks before issuance of license, estimated to yield an extra $500,000 a year; (8) that revenue commissioner be authorized to review all ad valorem tax returns where amount of property returned exceeds $50,000 a year. The committee predicted this would "result in tremendous increases in revenue from the ad valorem tax laws," and at the same time "preserve the control which local tax assessors have over the tax returns of individual taxpayers of the state." (9) that the assembly allow the stabilization fund law to expire December 31, 1939, without re-enactment; (10) that amendments to existing laws proposed by the revenue commissioner be enacted; (11) that the revenue commissioner immediately employ personnel needed "to adequately enforce present revenue laws and to collect delinquent taxes now due the state." Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$410,000 annually.

Riot Duty Slash.

Military Department—(1) That annual appropriation of department be cut from $70,000 to $40,000 annually; (2) that the appropriation for riot duty be cut from $15,000 to $10,000 a year. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$35,000.

Secretary of State—(1) That appropriation remain at $35,000 annually, with provision that $10,000 be earmared next year for photographing and binding records of the secretary of state, and for installing fire preventing equipment in department of archives; (2) that the barbers and beauticians board be placed under straight salary and restricted traveling expense, with an estimated saving of "at least $4,380 a year." Net ultimate reduction in general fund appropriation—$14,380 annually.

State Licensing Board for Contractors—Committee reaffirmed a previous recommendation that this agency be abolished and its duties divided between the revenue department and state highway board.

State Division of Confederate Pensions—Created by legislature March 24, 1939. No recommendation.

State Planning Board—(1) That $15,000 be appropriated for operating this agency, which "is approximately the amount of actual revenue received by this department during the present fiscal year, and $5,150 less than the amount (allotted) under the appropriation bill." Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$5,150 annually.

Further Reductions.

State Library—(1) That appropriation for operating library be cut from $10,000 to $9,000 per year; (2) that appropriation for purchase of new books be made $4,500 instead of $7,500 annually; (3) that appropriation for printing reports of supreme and appeals courts be cut from $12,500 to $10,000 annually; (4) that salary of state librarian be raised from $1,800 to $3,000 per year and her notary public fees (last year totalling $4,248) be paid into general fund. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$9,548 annuaully.

State Treasury Department—(1) That appropriation for state treasury operation be cut from $30,000 to $25,000 annually; (2) any traveling expense of treasurer in performance of duties as member of state housing authority be paid under special appropriation for that purpose or from Governor's emergency fund. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$5,000 annually.

Library Commission—(1) That operating appropriation be cut from $10,000 to $8,500 annually; (2) that appropriation for purchase of new publications be reduced from $7,500 to $4,500 annually. The committee said testimony indicated the commission "could maintain an effective program if the above suggested figures were paid in full." Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$4,500 annually.

Fee Assessment.

Department of Entomology—(1) that operating appropriation be reduced from $76,000 to $50,000 annually, with $10,000 a year for the next biennium earmarked for eradiction of bee diseases; (2) that the present appropriation of $7,500 annually for reviving the sea island cotton industry be contniued; (3) that the present emergency fund for combating the white-fringed beetle be reduced from $40,000 to $10,000 per year; (4) that all increase in entomology fees collected in the next two years be allocated to the department; (5) that the department assess fees for certification of all plants, plant products and bees; (6) that the bee disease law of 1920 be amended to authorize charging of fees for bee certification. The committee estimated collection of fees for all certification (now confined to nursery stock and tomato plants) would yield an additional $25,000 annually. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$56,000 annually.

Comptroller General—(1) that operating appropriation be reduced from $90,000 to $45,000 annually. Net reduction in general fund appropriation — $45,000 a year.

Highway Department—The committee did not make a complete report on this department, which operates on allocated funds, but referred the assembly to its previous recommendation for a centralized purchasing bureau (since enacted) which it commended as "designed to prevent certain fraudulent practices in sales made to the state." The committee also mentioned its recommendation for consolidation of the post roads division with the Highway Department proper. A bill to require this was passed by the assembly but vetoed by the Governor. The committee found, however, "The recommendation has been carried into effect by executive order."

"The committee," the report said, "has been impressed with the fact that at no time during its investigation has it received any letter of criticism nor has there appeared any citizen of Georgia to criticize or to suggest the study of the operation of the State Highway Department, except as to the above specific matters we have called attention to.

"The committee does not wish to be understood as intimating that no study of the activities of the Highway Department should be made; undoubtedly a proper study . . . might reveal possibilities of great savings and further efficiency in the operations of the department. A proper study cannot be made except through the assistance of technially-trained men who are equipped to study and analyze materials used, machinery used, grading and construction done, and other details relating to the work of the Highway Department. . . .

"This committee recommends a thorough study of the complete operations of the Highway Department in order to ascertain whether or not economies or increased efficiency in the department can be had."

Law Unit Praised.

Law Department—Appropriation to be cut from $50,000 to $40,000 annually, with Banking Department being required to pay salary of one assistant attorney general. The committee found the department operating "efficiently and economically;" recommended expansion of cramped office space. Net reduction in general fund appropriation—$10,000.

Veterans' Service Office—Skeleton administrative setup suggested and $30,000 annual appropriation recommended.

Department of Public Health—Drawing attention to "perplexing" technical features of the state health program which the committee said laymen could not "properly study and evaluate" the investigators proposed appointment of a special committee to make a complete study of the department.

"We are fully cognizant," the report said, "of the vast amount of good that is resulting from work of this department; however, it is a program which can be expanded without limit and which could expend unlimited amounts of money. It is necessary that the expenditures be placed in proper ratio to the other expenditures of state government."

The committee suggested reducing the department's appropriation from $600,000 to $375,000 annually, or approximately equal to the amount actually paid this year.

"While it might not allow for as much expansion as is desired by officials in the Department of Public Health," the report said, such appropriation would permit the department to maintain "its present activities" under which it is "doing a rather thorough job in the state."

The committee suggested the tubercular sanitarium at Alto be taken from the Health Department and placed under a new board with a special appropriation of $90,000 a year. Net reduction in general fund appropriations, $135,000 annually.

Department of Public Welfare—Observing with "regret" that "few, if any, of the economies recommended" earlier this year for welfare administration have been adopted, the report said:

Personnel Costs Hit.

"The members of this committee are of the opinion that the administrative costs in the Department of Public Welfare have been and now are grossly excessive."

Final recommendations included: (1) Appropriation of $315,000 annually for administrative costs of county welfare departments which are "now being paid from benefit funds." (2) The state department in Atlanta would be required to operate on income from its federal administrative allowance of 5 cents on each dollar of benefits, or $150,000 annually on basis of present payments. This amount, the report pointed out, would increase as the load increased.

Citing that state money spent last year for administration was equal to 36 per cent of the state's total benefit payments, and that state and federal money spent for administration was 17.6 per cent of the total benefits paid, the committee observed:

"If this program cannot be operated with an administration cost of 10 per cent state money, plus 5 per cent federal money for administration costs, the complete program ought to be revamped in order to bring administrative costs thereof within reason."

The committee made no recommendation for appropriation of funds for old age pensions, and aid to dependent children and needy blind, contending it was a question of policy to be determined by the assembly.

Kennedy Estimates.

Estimates by George Kennedy, assistant welfare director, placed the amount needed to pay all eligible beneficiaries at $5,500,000 annually. Previous annual requirements, based on a load of about 50,000 approved cases, were $2,860,240. Recently, Kennedy said, lack of funds caused the department to cut 15,800 beneficiaries from its rolls.

Board of Penal Correction—The committee confined its report to commendation of a survey by the newly created board of correction, and suggestion that attention be given to using prison labor to manufacture ink, soap, paste and other items needed by the state agencies. The board contends its present appropriation of $267,000 annually is inadequate, and asks an increase of $22,135 a year.

University System—(1) That appropriation for the system be fixed at $1,850,000 annually, or an increase of $100,000 a year over the present figure. Increase would cover $50,000 yearly additional needed by the state medical school at Augusta; $25,000 to match federal funds for providing county agents and home demonstration agents in 21 counties now demanding them, and $25,000 additional for the agricultural experiment stations. (2) That appropriation of $20,000 a year for shade tobacco experiments be eliminated, since work is carried on by extension service without extra funds. Net increase in general fund appropriation—$80,000.

Jefferson Davis' Birthday Observed

The birthday of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was observed here yesterday with appropriate ceremonies.

The Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, held a special program in the afternoon in the senate chamber of the state capitol. Colonel Robert Lee Avary addressed the meeting.

State offices, as well as all Atlanta Clearing House bank members, were closed for the day.

In Macon, the Sidney Lanier chapter, U. D. C., unveiled a marker at the Marshall Johnston home, commemorating a visit of Davis' to the city several years after the war.

PUZZLE-WORKERS

Here's a dictionary of mythology and religion convenient for crossword puzzles and figures of speech.

In literary contests and crossword puzzles many of the definitions to be answered call for the names of characters in mythology. In such cases the ordinary dictionary is of little value. But in this booklet if you wish to find the "Greek Goddess of Dawn," you look under "dawn" and find "Eos, Greek," which is the correct answer. And if its the Roman, Egyptian, or Mexican goddess you are after, you'll find it under "dawn."

U. S. NAVY HELPS NEWSMEN MEET THEIR 'DEADLINES'

Officers Gave Reporters All Needed Co-operation During Rescue Work on Submarine Squalus.

(The author of the following is the Associated Press reporter who scored a news "beat" of several hours on the fact there were 26 dead aboard the sunken submarine Squalus off the New England coast recently. He and several associates had risked their lives in a small boat to get the news.)

By E. HARRY CROCKETT.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 3.—(AP)—The United States Navy knows how to meet newspaper "deadlines."

While the effort to raise the sunken submarine Squalus went forward off this port today, newspapermen who have covered the tragedy were almost unanimous in feeling that the navy had advanced in its handling of both submarine safety devices and press relations since the days of the S-4 and S-51.

When those two submarines went down, the S-51 off Block Island in 1925 and the S-4 off Provincetown in 1927, both after surface collisions and with only three of seventy-odd men saved, newsmen were left to pry out as best they could the facts of the accidents and the progress of the rescue efforts. Actually, barriers against the transmission of news were raised.

From the moment the Squalus disaster first was reported, however, naval officers here willingly described the unprecedented efforts that resulted in saving 33 of the 59 who were trapped under 240 feet of cold ocean water.

On more than one occasion, a naval officer would step into the tumult of the temporary pressroom at the navy yard and call:

"How long before your next dead line, boys? Will an interview by 10:30 satisfy most of you?"

Movie 'Luck of the Navy' Withdrawn in British City

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 3.—(AP)—The motion picture, "Luck of the Navy," scheduled for showing in Birkenhead next week was withdrawn today at admiralty orders as hope was abandoned for 98 men aboard the submarine Thetis. Advertising posters were blacked out.

"Luck of the Navy" is a British naval spy drama filmed by Associated British Pictures with the cooperation and assistance of British navy authorities.

Although submarines do not figure in the plot and the main action takes place aboard battleships, the admiralty considered the showing of the picture inappropriate at the present.

In London, news reels showing the rescue of some members of the crew of the sunken United States submarine Squalus brought groans and stifled sobs last night from audiences.

'MISS AVIATION' TITLE WON BY PACIFIC GIRL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 3.—(AP)—An Alabama girl representing Transcontinental-Western Airlines tonight was named "Miss American Aviation" in the annual beauty contest of the national air carnival.

Katherine Wilson, a statuesque blonde from San Francisco and formerly of Demopolis, Ala., won the title over a nation-wide field of contestants, including "Miss America" of 1937, Bette Cooper, of Bertrand Island, N. J.

OBERON MARRIES KORDA; CARROLL TO SEEK DIVORCE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—One Hollywood movie actress was married while another made plans for seeking a divorce today. Both are British motion picture stars.

In Antibes, France, Merle Oberon and Alexander Korda, noted British film producer, were married in the Antibes town hall. A civil ceremony was performed by Jules Grec, mayor of Antibes. Witnesses were Henri Guenot, of Juan Les Pins, and Mme. Suzanne Blum, a Paris lawyer.

Miss Oberon first met her husband when she was starred in one of his pictures. When she was called to Hollywood, Korda visited her here frequently.

It was Miss Oberon's first marriage. Korda's first wife, Mrs. Maria Korda, from whom he was divorced in 1930, is now in Hollywood. Miss Oberon is scheduled to return here January 1 to make two more pictures for Sam Goldwyn.

Meanwhile, blond Madeline Carroll, at work on the picture, "Are Husbands Necessary?" said she would seek a divorce from Captain Philip Astley, wealthy London real estate broker, whom she married in 1931.

Regrets Action.

"I regret deeply it is necessary for me to take this action," the actress asserted. "Our marriage has not been one in fact since I came to the United States three years ago."

Generally regarded as one of the most beautiful women in motion pictures, Miss Carroll also is one of the colony's most astute businesswomen. She owns many real estate properties in London, homes on the Riviera and in Spain and an apartment building in New York.

Houston street, consisting of one-story building on lot 100x153 feet. It is the purpose of the lessee to consolidate the two properties into one unit, already occupied by a number of tenants, thereby giving the entire area Peachtree frontage. The property is conrolled by the Evans Theater Corporation, of New York, and was leased for a period of 31 years.

Improvements Expected.

It is contemplated that additional improvements will be made on a portion of this property, but no definite announcement was made at this time.

The lessee, A. L. Belle Isle, is president of each of the companies affiliated in the lease; George West is vice president and secretary of the Atlanta Babbage and Cab Company, and A. G. Hendley is vice president and secretary of Black and White Cab Company.

HOPE OF SAVING 98 IN SUB ABANDONED

It issued a statement saying "there is now no longer justification for hope that any further lives can be saved from the Thetis."

But it said salvage work was continuing.

Posted for grieving relatives of the entombed men to see, a telegram from the admiralty was placed in the window of Cammell Laird, Ltd., builders of the Thetis. It read:

"Regret that hope of saving victims in Thetis must now be abandoned."

The Thetis, her nose buried in 65 feet of mud in wreck-littered Liverpool bay, carried 102 men below with her in her dive. Four men escaped with Davis breathing "lungs." Three others were said to have died in vain attempts.

The catastrophe had all the elements of a major mystery.

The Thetis had had several minor accidents in previous trials but there was still no official explanation of why she suddenly plunged into the mud.

Neither was there any explanation of why four men managed to get through the aft escape hatch within an hour Friday morning and then no more escaped.

Those four were Captain H. P. K. Oram, Lieutenant G. F. Woods, Chief Stoker W. C. Arnold and Frank Shaw but none of them was allowed for the present to make any official statement of what happened at the time of the accident or what plight the others were in when they left the submarine.

BRITONS CRITICIZE SUB RESCUE WORK

rector of Cammell Laird, Ltd., the submarine's builders, said that "whatever has been done in the rescue work, we were thinking only of the people in the ship and not of the ship itself."

2. A semi-official explanation issued early this afternoon stating that the possibility of cutting a hole in the stern during the hours it was exposed yesterday was considered "but not found practicable."

Among the demands voiced in the British press were one for a "stern inquiry and rigorous judgment" by the Daily Mail.

The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post raised the question of a rescue by diving bell, after reviewing the rescue work on the United States submarine Squalus but concluded "its efficacy depends on conditions which are not present in Liverpool bay."

TAX REVISION URGED BY INDUSTRIALISTS

Manufacturers Offer Program 'To Put Idle Men' Back to Work.

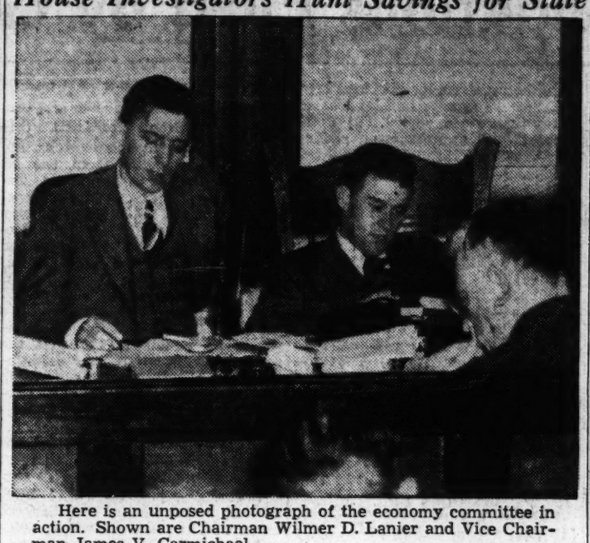

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—An eight-point program of tax revision, designed to "put idle men, idle machinery and idle funds to work" was recommended to the house ways and means committee today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Noel Sargent, secretary of the association, presented the program with a declaration that it would go far to promote the objectives outlined last week by Secretary Morgenthau, that is, increased flow of capital into private industry and the promotion of tax equity.

The recommendations, paralleling many of those made by Morgenthau, follow:

"Reduction of federal surtax rates which discourage investment of savings in private industry; abolition of the present capital gains and losses tax provisions; exemption of corporate dividends to individuals from normal income tax since this involves double taxation; elimination of the taxation of intercorporate dividends which result in double taxation; abolition of the undistributed earnings tax and the combined excess profits and capital stock taxes; elimination of the ban on consolidated returns and of the ban on offsetting previous capital losses against current profits."

Economy Committee Report Tops Sales Tax Talk of Legislators

Governor Rivers Declines to Comment on Matter at Brunswick Meeting, Saying "I'm Just Down Here on a Lark."

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—Sales tax talk was subordinated tonight by Georgia's frolicking legislators to a discussion of preliminary reports of the house economy investigating committee, with applause and criticism sharply divided.

Governor E. D. Rivers declined to discuss the committee's report, asserting "I'm just down here on a lark; not talking special session, sales tax or any other business."

Speaker Roy V. Harris, of Augusta, pointing out he had not studied details of the committee's proposals to operate the state program without additional taxation, commented:

"If it'll work, it'll take care of everything except county losses from homestead and personal property exemptions. It would require a special session of the general assembly to put the suggestions into effect, if they'll work, and it will take a basketful of legislation at that."

Somewhat skeptical, Senator J. Roy McGinty, of Calhoun, said he would not want to commit himself to any particular reductions in the state program "because some I might not regard as economies."

"Frankly, I hope the committee's right, but just as frankly, I don't believe it can be done."

Sales tax foe H. B. (Hell Bent) Edwards, of Lowndes, greeted the preliminary reports received here tonight with cheers and a gleeful "I told you so."

"It was my contention during the session and now that economies practiced in the departments, cutting out waste, extravagance and high salaries, would take care of state functions without any additional taxes," Edwards declared.

Speaker Pro Tem. John C. Parker, of Colquitt, had only this to say: "I'm not surprised."

But Frank Gross, of Stephens, youthful floor leader in the house, observed:

"It is mighty easy to overestimate the revenue that would be derived by the collection methods. Not only do we need increased revenue, but also revision of taxes so that certain classes of taxpayers will not be penalized."

MINERS' SUIT TRANSFERRED.

PINEVILLE, Ky., June 3.—(AP) Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert today ordered transfer to federal court a suit of four miners seeking to enjoin a group of Harlan county soft coal companies from signing "union shop" contracts with the United Mine Workers of America.

RITES WILL HONOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER OF CONFEDERACY

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 3. (AP)—With the solemn pomp of military honors, the remains of an unknown Confederate infantry officer will be buried in Washington Confederate cemetery tomorrow as part of annual Confederate memorial exercises.

Found by accident and identified by a blouse button, the soldier's remains were discovered in a shallow grave on Gettysburg battlefield, 75 years after he went to his death.

Historians said he may have been a member of Heth's division which supported the left of Pickett's division on the hot afternoon of July 3, 1863.

His grave was overlooked, they believed, when Confederate bodies were exhumed and removed to southern cemeteries. The remains of this unknown soldier were discovered June 17 by workmen digging trenches for water lines.

Two small white buttons were found with the bones and skull. One appeared to be from an undergarment, the other from a Confederate infantry officer's blouse.

The Morris Frock Post, American Legion, and various Confederate organizations will participate in the services.

FARLEY DISCUSSES PARTY CAMPAIGN ON SOUTHERN TRIP

Postmaster General in Hot Springs Is Silent on Personalities in 1940 Democratic Race.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 3.—(AP)—Filling a rapid-fire round of engagements here today, Postmaster General James A. Farley talked plenty of politics but no personalities.

He told newspapermen at a press conference and Arkansas postmasters assembled in annual convention that the 1940 Democratic platform would be "written around the accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration." He assured members of the Future Farmers of America that the administration's agricultural program had made the future more promising for farmers.

His Stock Reply.

But to questions about who might be chosen to lead the party next year, the Democratic national committee chairman returned what is now his stock reply:

"It is futile to talk about 1940 possibilities until the President expresses himself."

Traced Developments.

Addressing the Arkansas state branch of the National League of District Postmasters, he traced developments since 1932 and said:

"The truth is that if President Roosevelt had lacked the courage to do what had to be done, the task would have been turned over to someone else in 1936, because the job simply had to be done."

FARLEY TO STOP OVER IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 3.—(AP) Democratic National Committeeman Edward H. Crump, the political leader of Memphis, will greet Postmaster General James A. Farley here tomorrow night when the latter stops to change trains.

Farley's train from Arkansas will arrive here at 9 p. m. Twenty-five minutes later he will depart for Chattanooga, Tenn.

COUNCIL TO DISCUSS TAXICAB QUESTION

Proposed Amendment Expected To Go to Committee for Public Hearing.

The question of amending Atlanta's taxicab ordinance which last week brought out conflicting statements from representatives of the Black & White Cab Company and the Georgia Power Company will be taken up at the meeting of city council tomorrow.

It was anticipated yesterday that council will send the proposed amendment to a council committee—probably the police or ordinance committees—for a public hearing, and that there will be little debate on it tomorrow.

Would Time Lights.

Among other major items slated for council action are:

1. Resolution by Councilman John A. White directing the Atlanta traffic bureau to take steps to time the synchronized traffic lights controlling traffic so that the "people of Atlanta can get where they are going without parking on the streets cluttering up traffic while trying to get somewhere."

2. A White ordinance to change the name of the auditorium armory to the municipal auditorium, and a resolution from council's finance committee to make $15,000 available for beautifying the recently acquired triangle in front of the auditorium.

3. Designation of Paul Chipman, of the legal department, as agent for the city to acquire the right of way for widening Peachtree street from Peachtree place to Fifteenth street.

Slum Clearance.

4. A White communication from the Georgia Power Company showing that less than a four-minute schedule has been made effective during rush hours on the Piedmont-Ansley Park bus line.

5. Resolution by White urging the Atlanta Housing Authority to consider slum clearance for what is known as "Buttermilk Bottoms," in the Butler street area and extending northward to North avenue.

6. Petition of property owners on Kontz avenue requesting that the name of the street be changed to Atlanta drive, N. W.

7. Adoption of the 1939-40 tax ordinance as recommended by the tax committee of city council.

8. An ordinance to bar the parking of trucks on Atlanta streets, restricting parking at night for two hours between the hours of 7 p. m. and 5 a. m.

9. Change of the zoning laws so that if a petition is rejected, it cannot be brought back for consideration of the planning commission within a period of one year from the time of the adverse action. At the present time, it may be presented again within six months.

10. A police committee recommendation that liquor stores be permitted to remain open until 11:45 p. m. instead of closing at 11 p. m. as at present.

All politicians are in favor of at least one type of reforestation. That's the planting of many more political plum trees.

What Shall June Bridegroom Wear?

Cross-Examination of Stylists Seems To Indicate Anything This Side of a Barrel Is Okay.

By GLADWIN HILL.
(Who Drops Prospective Husband Role.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Because of a slight case of war among fashion experts, the 100,000-odd June bridegrooms of 1939 probably can wear anything this side of a barrel and still be in style.

Posing as a prospective husband seeking clothing counsel for the Big Day, your correspondent cross-examined five of Fifth Avenue's leading sartorial soothsayers, and got about 555 conflicting answers on the correct garb for tripping down Agony Aisle.

The board of experts was: Three prominent custom clothiers—Ray Twyeffort, Tony Williams and Bernard Weatherill; Boulevardier Lucius Beebe, perennial of the 10 best-dressed lists; and Elizabeth Hawes, the female insurgent in the men's clothing field.

Preliminary scouting disclosed there are two general lines of wedding clothes attack, formal and informal; so, on the follow-the-crowd system, the first logical question seemed to be what do most men wear?

All Very Simple.

The experts promptly threw the matter into chaos by answering thusly:

Twyeffort and Williams: "Most June weddings are formal."

Weatherill: "Most June weddings are informal."

Beebe: "Among the people you and I know (!) weddings can only be formal."

Hawes: "If the bride and groom have fun, that's all I care about. Otherwise they should elope."

The question having been settled to nobody's satisfaction, things got even worse when the reporter went into the matter of just what constitutes "formal" attire.

There was general agreement on a cutaway coat of cashmere or cheviot and striped worsted trousers, but—

Twyeffort said a white vest is de rigeur; Weatherill said the vest could be gray; Williams went as far as "powder blue;" Hawes, still rebellious, checked with: "I think formal wedding clothes are too hot to be considered."

Realm of Black Magic.

Formal clothes were sanctioned (except by Miss Hawes) for any occasion, but the question of when you can say "I do" in informal clothes turned out to be in the realm of black magic.

Twyeffort: "In a country home."

Williams: "Country weddings or small city weddings at private homes."

Weatherill: "When there has been a death in the family—or in any case where the interested parties decide so."

Beebe: "Only in the case of a wedding by a magistrate, when a family of one participant is in full mourning, or when the wedding is in unexpected haste." (???)

By this time your reporter's imaginary fiancee was glancing at her watch, remarking that the wedding was only 48 hours off, and wanting to know what the blazes your correspondent was going to wear. So did he.

Something's Clear.

But the definitions of informal male attire cleared that right up. Among the informal recommendations of the five experts, you're bound to find something you have kicking around the closet.

Twyeffort and Beebe: A dark worsted sack coat, double-breasted vest and striped trousers, or a double-breasted blue or gray suit.

Williams: Dark coat and striped pants; or, for a garden wedding, a blue worsted jacket and white flannels; or a white suit.

What It Is.

The import of Miss Hawes' last phrase may not be immediately apparent. A "slack suit" is one of those loose lounging shirt-and-pants combination ($5, up or down) ordinarily associated with the beach. (Those things you see going up are the preacher's eyebrows.)

By this time the imaginary fiancee had vanished, with another man. But the imaginary exbridegroom was just as happy.

He wouldn't have known what to wear to the wedding, anyway.

Cheer Up, Girls; Here's Run-Proof Hose

Acme Photo.

Shapely underpins these, but Miss Naomi Anderson is more intent here in displaying synthetic silk hosiery, shown for the first time before the American Retail Coal Association convention in Chicago. The stockings, made of nylon, a product of coal, air and water, are run-proof and long wearing. A million dollars was spent to produce the new material just to make the first four pairs of the stockings. Although none are for sale yet, at year's end they may be put on the market at from $1.10 to $1.50 a pair, depending on their sheerness. They look like a sure thing to supplant silk hosiery and the longer they wear, the greater is the worry of bankers and merchants dealing in Japanese silk.

NAZI-POLISH FRICTION CARRIED INTO CHURCH

WARSAW, June 3.—(AP)—Polish newspapers today reported friction between Poles and Germans in Polish Silesia had been carried even into church services.

Press reports asserted a German Roman Catholic priest had slapped two Poles at Lipiny when members of a Polish patriotic organization began singing a religious-patriotic hymn at the conclusion of a German church service.

SALVATION ARMY TO COMMISSION 50

Cadets of Training College To Be Dedicated Tomorrow.

Fifty cadets of the Evangeline Booth Training College of the Salvation Army, southern territory, will be dedicated and commissioned in exercises at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow night at the Wesley Memorial Methodist church, the ceremony to be conducted by Lieutenant Commissioner William C. Arnold, territorial commander.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Lieutenant Commissioner Arnold, who will commission the class as the "Dauntless Evangelists." They will serve one year as probationists before being assigned to permanent posts.

Cadets to Be Presented.

The cadets will be presented to the Commissioner by Major Sidney Cox, principal of the training college, who also will read a report of the session's activities.

Music will include selections by a women's octette, solo selections and the singing of the class song, "Dauntless Evangelists," the music of which was written by Cadet Mary Turkington and the words by Mrs. Arnold.

Other Events Slated.

Other events will include the prayer of dedication by Colonel R. F. Stretton; the congregational song by Lieutenant Colonel R. Young; a short talk, "My Consecration to Life's Service as an Officer," by Cadet Edward Harold Frerking; an adrdess by Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Atlanta advisory board, and the presentation of a silver star to mothers by Mrs. Arnold.

Members of the class are Mary Louise Biggers, New Orleans; Juanita Francis Brown, Salisbury, N. C.; Alice Luraine Cherb, Tyler, Texas; Mildred Irene Edwards, Weirton, W. NEW NEWSPRINT MILL IS PROPOSED IN SOUTH

IUKA, Miss., June 3.—(AP)—A committee of local businessmen was reported today to be securing options on timber resources for a proposed $5,000,000 newsprint mill in northeast Mississippi.

W. L. Goodman, of Iuka, leader in the movement, made the announcement and said the pine supply would remain perpetual by rotating from section to section.

JAPANESE ARE SILENT ON U.S. NAVAL PROGRAM

TOKYO, June 3.—(AP)—The Japanese admiralty declined to comment today on the United States naval building program pending receipt of official information concerning the 24 ships, to cost $350,000,000, which the United States navy has ordered.

Naval sources were expected to reiterate, however, Japan's determination "to take all necessary steps" for control of the western Pacific.

JAPANESE PEN UP HANKOW NEUTRALS

Force British To Remove Baggage From Ships in Retaliatory Step.

HANKOW, China, June 3.—(AP). The Japanese army tonight blocked efforts of neutrals to leave this Japanese-occupied city for Shanghai aboard two British Yangtze river steamers.

The army was adamant, despite special permission granted by Japanese naval officials to the neutrals to leave aboard the steamers which brought supplies here for units of the British Yangtze patrol.

The army's stand was alleged to have been in retaliation for the recent action of two American gunboats in taking a group of neutrals, including Soviet Russian embassy officals, to Shanghai.

A large number of neutrals have been endeavoring in vain to leave Hankow but the Japanese have objected although Japanese cargo ships have been running regularly between here and Shanghai carrying Japanese.

Those seeking to leave include the American vice-consul and nationals of France, Germany, Russia and Italy.

The army's action further embittered already strained relations between the military and the neutrals. The order to halt the departures came as the British steamers were taking on baggage which the Japanese forced them to return to the shore.

20,000 CASUALTIES BY PLANES CLAIMED

SHANGHAI, June 3.—(AP)—Japanese reported today their warplanes had inflicted 20,000 casualties within the past 15 days in western Hupeh province.

However, Chinese reports of ground victories in that area apparently were supported by Japanese admissions that their offensive had failed to cross the Han river.

RUSSIANS REPORTED ACTIVE ON BORDER

SHANGHAI, June 3.—(AP)—Japanese dispatches from Northwestern Manchoukuo today indicated that resumption of hostilities was imminent on the border between that Japanese-dominated state and Soviet Rusisan-dominated Outer Mongolia.

The advices said Russian and Outer Mongolian forces "which were driven from Manchoukuo the past 10 days" were re-forming along the border with reinforcements preparatory to "renewed attacks on Manchoukuo."

FRIGHTENED NATIVES FLEE ALASKAN VILLAGE

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Johnson, only white residents of the isolated community, wirelessed that a cannery tender had taken the last of the Perryville natives to fishing camps.

The mountain spouted fire and smoke again today, after a temporary lull. It became active May 23.

Bloody Air Raids Designed To Cheer Japanese Populace

By the North American Newspaper Alliance.

TOKYO, June 2.—Renewed Japanese offensives in China, particularly spectacular air raids, like those over Chungking recently are due not only to military strategy to bring the hostilities with China to a close, but are being undertaken for the psychological effect they have on the Japanese populace at home as well.

Military considerations come first, naturally, but the stimulus they give to Japanese enthusiasm and patriotic fervor in general are also taken into account.

Need "Deeds of Glory."

During the first 18 months of the war, victory after victory and rapid advance after advance into the territory held by the Chinese were reported from the front to an eager public in Japan. Since the fall of Nanking, there have been comparatively few engagements of a nature to make the Japanese civilian pulse beat faster. The capture of Canton and the quick occupation of Hankow after that were two such, but that occupation and subsequent annexation of the Spratly islands were received in a somewhat apathetic manner.

It would be utterly wrong to say that the Japenese public is "disappointed," and even more so to use the word "disheartened," as such is far from the case. Nevertheless when war is being waged, the "men behind the guns" do need deeds of glory and reports of victory to feed upon, and this the Japanese armies in China are seeking to give them, along with the military advantages gained thereby.

It was thought by the vast majority of Japanese, military and civilian alike, when the fighting entered upon a major scale at Shanghai on Friday, August 13, 1937, that the superior might and military equipment of the Japanese army, plus Nippon Seki, or the spirit of Japan, actuating each soldier, would make short work of Chinese armed resistance, and that "the boys would be out of the trenches" within a few months.

China Stronger.

During the last half-dozen years, China had been not only able to increase her armaments and defense greatly but a new spirit of loyalty and patriotism has been born in the Chinese people. If the present war had been launched 10 years ago, even five years ago, it would have ended ere now, with China prostrate.

One fact which Japan prefers to overlook and to soft-pedal, is that, during the first year of hostilities, Japan's semi-ally, the German Reich, was the worst offender of all foreign powers in the supplying of munitions of war to Chiang Kai-shek, while his chief military advisers and stratgeists were Germans and Italians.

RUSSIANS AWAITING NEXT BRITISH MOVE

Meanwhile, Nazis Are Alarmed by Czech Rumblings of Discontent.

By The Associated Press.

Europe's opposing camps came to the end of another week of intensive diplomatic maneuvering yesterday but with little to show for their efforts.

Soviet Russia wrote "inadequate" across Britain's latest proposals to bring her into the British-French front and sat back awaiting the next move from the western powers.

Britons, diverted from the Soviet negotiations late in the week by the submarine Thetis disaster, still held hope, however, that an understanding eventually would be reached with Moscow.

On the other side of the fence, Adolf Hitler lavished considerable attention upon Yugo-Slavia whose regent Prince Paul was wined and dined in Berlin on a five-day state visit.

Rumblings of discontent came from Bohemia and Moravia, which Germany took over in dismembering Czecho-Slovakia. Nazi officials were disturbed by sabotage and reluctance of Czechs to work with German authorities.

So annoying was the situation that Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich protector for the former Czecho-Slovak territory, went to Berlin to talk with Hitler on what to do.

BUSINESS MEETING IS SET FOR BUFFALO

Roosevelt Hopeful of Good Results From Industry-Consumer Sessions.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 3.—(AP) President Roosevelt expressed the hope today that a two-day national conference on business-consumer relations opening here Monday would "be fruitful of wise counsels in cementing the mutual interests of business and those whom it serves—the ultimate consumer."

In a letter made public by John N. Garver, Buffalo, chairman of the board of the National Association of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., sponsoring the conferenee, the President asserted:

"I trust your sessions will emphasize that only those business practices which benefit both parties to a transaction—the seller and the buyer—can be of permanent value."

Letters from Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, and Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, of Ontario, also bespoke success for the conference, in which 60 organizations will participate.

Wessell, 2508 Bankhead highway, is a Fulton high senior. Each had the highest averages in his class.

NEW POWER LINES SERVE 4 COUNTIES

CLARKESVILLE, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—It was Habersham county's turn to celebrate today.

Clarkesville officials and members of the Lions Club joined Thursday in a banquet at Habersham College to mark completion of $25,000 improvements to the waterworks system providing a filter plant of 144,000-gallon daily capacity and a 75,000-gallon storage tank. A city bond issue of $13,350 and a PWA grant of $11,454 provided the funds for this improvement.

Residents of the county seat expressed pride in the new plant, but no more than citizens of the county felt in a new rural electrification system into which E. A. Lunceford, superintendent, announced the current would be turned today for the first time.

The project calls for 185 miles of rural lines in Habersham, Hall, White and Rabun counties to serve 574 customers, financed by an allotment of $183,000 from the Rural Electrification Administration. The sponsoring organization is the Habersham Electric Membership Corporation of which J. P. Fitts is president.

Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the State College of Agriculture, was asked to speak on the contribution of electricity to rural life at exercises marking the beginning of service on the rural lines. John W. Carmody, REA administrator, was invited to attend.

PONCE DE LEON AVE. AT ARGONNE

Georgia Bankers Will Open 48th Annual Convention in Savannah Tuesday

H. V. KALTENBORN TO ADDRESS GROUP WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Business and Entertainment To Be Combined During 3-Day Assembly of Organization on Coast

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 3.—Bankers from every section of the state will assemble here Tuesday night for the opening of the forty-eighth annual three-day convention of the Georgia Bankers' Association, to discuss problems in the field of finance, and to take "A Look at the World" through the eyes of Hans V. Kaltenborn, radio commentator.

A full program of entertainment will go hand in hand with the five scheduled sessions, Secretary Haynes McFadden, of Atlanta, has announced.

First gathering of the convention period will be an informal reception and buffet supper Tuesday night in the Hotel DeSoto, convention headquarters.

Opening Session.

The bankers will be called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday by President Joel T. Haley, of Albany, and the Rt. Rev. Middleton S. Barnwell, bishop of Georgia, will pronounce the invocation. Mayor Thomas Gamble, of Savannah, will deliver the address of welcome, to which President Haley will respond in preface to his annual address.

Wednesday morning speakers will include Robert S. Parker, president of the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta, on "Present-Day Aspects of the Federal Reserve System;" H. Lane Young, vice president and executive manager, Citizens and Southern National bank, Atlanta, on "Presentation of Plans for Bankers' Educational Conference," and J. Raymond Dunkerley, secretary of the American Bankers' Association public relations council, New York city, on "Public Relations as Sponsored by the American Bankers' Association."

Wednesday Afternoon.

Addresses at the Wednesday afternoon session will be by Robert M. Hanes, first vice president, American Bankers' Association and president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Winston-Salem, N. C., discussing "The Results of Organized Banking," and by Alexander Wall, secretary, Robert Morris Associates, Philadelphia, on "Banks and Business."

Election of officers of the Georgia members of the A. B. A. will follow the Wednesday afternoon session.

Mr. Kaltenborn, whose address on "We Look at the World" will feature the Wednesday night annual dinner program, will be introduced by Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah.

Final Session.

Discussion and adoption of reports will open the concluding session Thursday morning. Featured speakers will be Donald Comer, president of the Avondale Mills, Birmingham, Ala., who will discuss "The Economic South," and B. P. Allen, vice president of the First National bank, Wabash, Ind., who will talk on "Do Bankers Use a Rubber Yardstick?"

Election of officers will conclude the convention.

Entertainment features will include a golf tournament, a Wednesday luncheon for the bankers' wives at the Lebanon plantation of Mr. and Mrs. Mills B. Lane, tours of the city and environs, and an afternoon and night at Savannah Beach.

S. A. E. Again Captures Intramural Trophy

Georgia Beta chapter of S. A. E. again this year won the Governor's Intramural Trophy—its third successive victory and the fifth time it has captured the award in the six years since its introduction. President Harmon W. Caldwell, left, president of the University of Georgia in Athens, is shown as he presented the trophy to A. L. Zachry Jr., of Atlanta, president of the S. A. E. chapter.

TAYLOR IS ELECTED D.A.V. COMMANDER

Next Two Top Ranking Officers for State Are Atlantans.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

CORDELE, Ga., June 3.—W. L. Taylor, of Cordele, was elected state commander of the Georgia D. A. V. here late today.

Other officers elected were C. L. Taylor, Atlanta, senior vice commander; Alex Rozetta, Atlanta, first district commander; E. G. Fulmer, Augusta, second district commander, and Dewey H. Ulmer, Savannah, third district commander. The Rev. R. P. Lovell, of Savannah, was re-elected chaplain.

Charles R. Cochran, Savannah, retiring state commander, was indorsed for national committeeman from the fifth district, comprising Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee. This officer will be elected at the national convention in Boston July 29 to August 5.

A co-operative spirit between government, capital and labor is one of the present needs, General Asa L. Singleton, commandant of the infantry school at Fort Benning, said in a speech prepared for delivery before the veterans in convention here today.

"If we are to achieve our destiny in this great country of ours, we should guard against all words or acts which will array class against class," he said.

General Singleton also emphasized the need for a "renewal of fealty" to the constitutional form of government as represented by the United States.

LIONS TO ASSEMBLE IN CLAYTON JUNE 11

Days of Entertainment and Business Scheduled for Gathering.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

CLAYTON, Ga., June 3.—Clayton and all Rabun county "turned to" today in preparation for a mountain-style welcome to Georgia Lions Club members, who will assemble here next Sunday, June 11, for the opening of their annual three-day convention.

Entertainment, rather than convention business, is expected to be the order of the day Monday and Tuesday, June 12 and 13, with fried chicken and country ham luncheons, a barbecue, and an old-fashioned dance scheduled.

The convention will be unofficially opened Sunday with a special service in Clayton Methodist church, at which Dr. R. L. Russell pastor of Gainesville's First Methodist church, will be the featured speaker.

The assembly will open Monday with an address of welcome by Colonel C. W. Holden, past president of the Clayton Lions Club; Mayor L. M. Bleckley, on behalf of the city of Clayton, and Judge Frank A. Smith, Rabun county ordinary, on behalf of the county. The response will be by Georgia Lions District Governor Turner L. Smith, of Albany.

The featured speaker at Tuesday's session will be Lions Secretary General Melvin Jones, of Chicago.

Entertainment features will include a buffet luncheon Monday in Clayton's gymnasium; an afternoon tour to Lake Rabun and Tallulah gorge; the Governor's ball, with both modern and old-fashioned dancing; and a fried chicken and country ham luncheon Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Lee M. Happ, of Macon, will entertain the visiting women Tuesday morning at their estate near Mountain City.

MISS NORA MANRY DIES AT GOGGINS

Was Named for Early Poem by 'Uncle Remus.'

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

GOGGINS, Ga., June 3.—Miss Nora Belle Manry, lifelong resident of this community, died last night after an illness of several months. She was a daughter of Sheriff Richard Manry, who served Monroe county from 1865 to 1870, and was descended from the Waller and Hill families through her mother.

While Joel Chandler Harris was a printer on the Monroe Advertiser in Forsyth, he composed and set into type a poem dedicated "To Nora Belle" Starke, which caused her parents to name her Nora Belle, thus being among the first to give recognition to the printer who later earned world recognition for his stories of "Uncle Remus."

Miss Manry is survived by a brother, Colonel Ben H. Manry, and a sister, Miss Obie Manry, of Goggins; two step-brothers, J. T. Manry, of Plain Dealing, La., and John T. Manry, of Goggins, and a number of nieces and nephews, including W. P., DuPont and Miss Bessie Wright, of New York city.

U. S. WILL PURCHASE CHATTANOOGA LAND

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—The National Forest Preservation Commission announced today it had approved plans for purchase of 243,926 acres of land in 24 states and Puerto Rico for incorporation within 48 national forest units.

Representing a total area roughly one-third the size of Rhode Island, the land will cost $855,693. The commission said most of the land would be valuable for forest crops.

The tracts to be purchased, in Georgia and Alabama's Chattahoochee National Forest area, included 2,463 acres, $10,512.

ALBANY TO GREET B. AND L. LEAGUE

Two-Day Annual Convention To Open at Radium Springs June 12.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ALBANY, Ga., June 3.—The fourteenth annual convention of the Georgia Building and Loan League will be held at Radium Springs Club, near here, Monday and Tuesday, June 12 and 13.

Norman A. Way, president of the league, of Brunswick, will preside at all sessions.

A highlight of the program will be an address by James C. Shelor, of Atlanta, on "Investment of Trust Funds." "The Trend of Dividends" will be discussed by George W. West, of Atlanta, and Asa B. Groves, chief of the appraisal section of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Washington, D. C., will speak on "Appraisals." O. K. LaRoque, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank, Winston-Salem, N. C., will address the session Monday morning.

Horace Russell, general counsel of the United States League, will be the luncheon speaker Monday and will discuss the status of federal legislation and present a message from the national league.

DeLacy Allen, of Albany, will welcome the delegates and the response will be by John B. Wilson, secretary of state.

"The Economic Outlook" will be discussed by Arthur E. Runnels, secretary of the Albany Chamber of Commerce. C. P. McMurry, president of Atlanta chapter 99 of the American Savings and Loan Institute, will talk on training of personnel.

Entertainment will include golf, swimming and a banquet and dance Monday night. Mack Barnes, of Waycross, will be toastmaster and Edmund H. Harding, of Washington, N. C., will be the only speaker.

About 200 delegates are expected.

EDUCATORS' COURSE PLANNED IN ATHENS

Demonstration School Summer Session To Open June 14.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ATHENS, Ga., June 3.—The University of Georgia college of education will open its new demonstration school June 14 for a summer session, to be featured by an expanded graduate program and conferences on reading and rural life.

In addition to the regular college of education staff, a number of visiting educators will conduct classes. Among them will be Raleigh M. Drake, professor of educational psychology at Wesleyan College; A. C. Flora, superintendent of schools at Columbia, S. C.; L. D. Haskew, superintendent of schools at Monroe; H. M. Ivey, superintendent of schools in Meridian, Miss.; M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education; Emma Pope, instructor in nursing education, from Dallas, Texas, and Fannie B. Shaw, of the State Department of Health.

Curriculum Revision.

Special work in curriculum revision, in line with the Georgia program for the improvement of instruction, will be offered, and the largest curriculum laboratory in the state will be available to teachers and superintendents working in this field.

The reading institute, scheduled for June 20-23, will bring teachers and superintendents to the campus to hear discussion of reading habits and problems by biologists, educators, English professors, psychologists and physicians.

Rural Life Conference.

The rural life conference, bringing together a picked group of rural housewives, teachers, ministers and farmers, is scheduled to be held in August during the second term of the summer session.

All schools and colleges of the University will be open during the summer this year. Six conferences of statewide interest will be held on the campus during the two sessions. The Institute of Gardeners and Garden Clubs will be held June 15-16; the institute of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, June 28-30; the institute of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, July 6-7; the Institute of Public Affairs and conference on educational problems, July 12-14; the institute for school board members, July 13, and Farm and Home Week, August 7-12.

RUM TRUCK DRIVER IS SOUGHT IN COBB

Cargo of 1,220 Gallons of Liquor Poured Out.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SMYRNA, Ga., June 3.—Cobb county officers tonight were still seeking the driver of a moonshine liquor-laden truck which overturned in a ditch at Stonewall Cottage, on the Marietta-Atlanta highway, last night after colliding with a southbound motor express transport.

Officers investigating the crash discovered 1,220 gallons of illicit liquor aboard the truck, camouflaged with fodder. It was destroyed by Sheriff George McMillan and Deputy Lee Strickland.

The liquor truck driver fled after the accident, and was sought later in the day near Vinings.

The transport driver, John M. Keaton, 43, of Fountain City, Tenn., was cut and bruised in the crash.

COLUMBUS ROBERTS UNDERGOES OPERATION

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 3.—(AP) Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts was reported "doing fine" tonight after undergoing a serious abdominal operation at City hospital earlier today. Mr. Roberts withstood the operation well and was progressing satisfactorily.

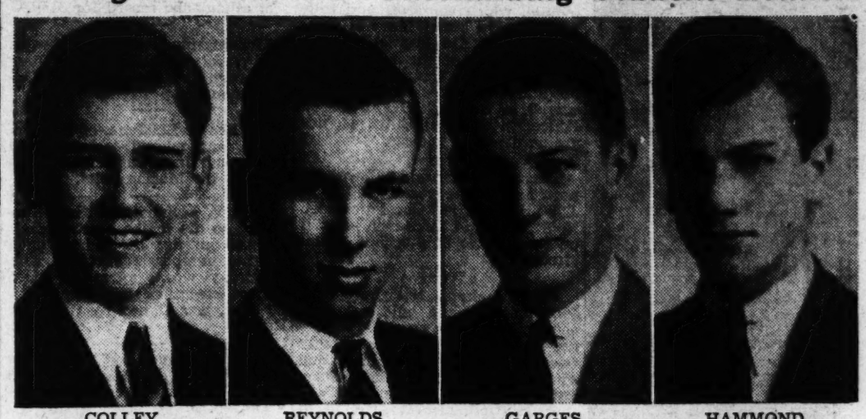

The agricultural commissioner entered the hospital Thursday for treatment preliminary to the operation. He is on a six-week leave of absence from his duties with the state.

To Get Medical Degree

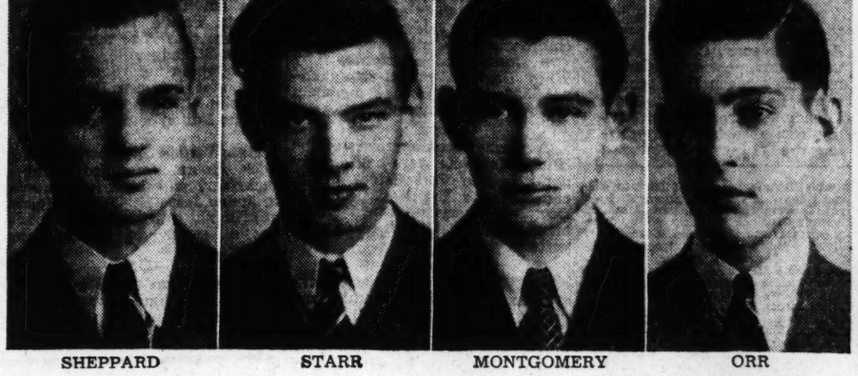

Miss Lucille Caldwell, above, first LaGrange woman ever to hold the degree of doctor of medicine, will be graduated Tuesday from Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Caldwell, of LaGrange, she received her A. B. degree from Agnes Scott College in 1925, and later served as a biology instructor there. She also holds a master of science degree from Emory Uniiversity. She will serve a year's internship at the Jersey City Medical Center.

The Rev. Paul Grubb will direct the chorus, the Rev. Newt Wise will be general director, and Miss Lynda Breedlove will be the pianist.

NEWNANITE OWNS DOVAI TESTAMENT PRINTED IN 1600

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 3.—A well-preserved New Testament, printed before the Mayflower reached Plymouth Rock, is in the possession of Wyllys H. Taylor, Newnan textile executive.

The ancient book, now in a new binding but in an excellent state of preservation, was printed by Daniel Veruliet at Antwerp, the Netherlands, in 1600. It was inherited by Mr. Taylor from his grandfather, James H. Taylor, Charleston cotton merchant.

Before St. James.

Antedating even the accepted St. James translation, the book was the second printing of the Douai—or Doway—translation. It was printed "with privilege" from the English Catholic University at Douai, France, and was annotated by "Guilielmus Estius," "Bartholomaeus Petrus," and "Indocus Heylus," evidently Latin names of scholars at the Douai University.

On a title page unusually well-kept, the title reads: "The NeVV Testament of Iesus Chrift, Faithfully Tranflated into Englifh, out of the authentical Latin, diligently conferred with the Greeke, and other Editionf in diuers languagef: With argumentf of bookef and chapterf: Annotationf and other helpef, for the better underftanding of the text, and fpecially for the difcouery of corruptionf in diuerf late tranflationf and for cleering Controverfief in Religion of thefe dayf. By the Englifh College then Refident at Rhemef."

After Gutenberg.

The Douai followed the Gutenberg—first book printed with movable type—by about 125 years. The Gutenberg was printed in 1450-55 (occupying five years) and the first Douai printing followed in 1582. The translation is still in use by the Catholic church.

Differing only slightly in context from the modern Bible, the Douai translation carries the Books of the Apocalypse, missing from modern editions of the St. James translation.

NEW CURB MARKET OPENED IN NEWNAN

Outlet for Farm Products Designed To Stimulate Local Trade.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 3.—A new, steady cash market for produce raised by Coweta county farmers and a consequent stimulant to local trade were among results expected by Coweta rural leaders as the new Coweta County Curb Market opened today with a large supply of produce on hand.

Housed in a specially-built structure and supervised by Mrs. Taylor C. Bee, the market opened to brisk trade at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

The market will be open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and space will be available to farmers in this section at a small rental. Use of the space is not limited to county producers, but users must live in the trade area.

The project was sponsored by the Coweta Garden Club with a committee headed by Miss Mary Freeman in charge. N. V. Davis, county agent, and Miss Margaret Fargason, home demonstration agent, will serve as advisory aides. The building was constructed through the co-operation of city and county.

Designed as an aid to rural-urban co-operation and as a means of helping local farmers to increase their income, the market has already enlisted the interest of a large number of planters.

Among home-raised and home-made items on display are: Vegetables, fruits, berries, chickens, eggs, flowers, cakes, cookies, plants, pickles, preserves, canned vegetables and fruits, water-ground meal, fresh whole-wheat flour, butter, milk, cottage cheese, and home-made breads.

FRAUD INVESTIGATORS MAY DROP 14 CASES

MACON, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—With six men under sentences upon pleas of guilty, prosecuting officers indicated today the remaining cases of 14 arising from investigation of Sparta (Ga.) life insurance deals probably would be nol-prossed.

John M. Holmes, Sparta insurance agent, was exonerated by a federal court jury Thursday night on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the insurance of persons in poor health who subsequently died.

Federal prosecutors estimated more than $20,000 was involved.

TO UNVEIL MARKER.

SHADY DALE, Ga., June 3.—Elizabeth Marlow Chapter, D. A. R., of Monticello, will unveil a marker June 11 at the grave of John Spearman, Revolutionary soldier, in the cemetery two miles east of here on the Monticello-Madison highway. Mrs. Harrison Hightower, state D. A. R. regent, will be present.

AD CLUB PLANNING FOR DINNER-DANCE

Plans for a climax to the Atlanta Advertising Club's spring season were being pushed yesterday by committees for the annual dinner-dance at the Capital City Country Club Friday, it was announced by Fred Storey, president.

Claude Grizzard, general chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy, entertainment chairman; John K. Ottley Jr., golf chairman; Avary Austin, chairman of prizes and favors; Miss Gussie Jones, chairman of bridge and other feminine events; Marvin Cannon, ticket chairman, and John McDonald, orchestra and dance chairman.

The program will begin in the early afternoon with swimming, golf, tennis and bridge and continue through the evening with a dinner, floor show and dance.

Hollywood Wives Have Their Favorite Actors, Too ---And for the Most Part They're Not Their Husbands

ERROL FLYNN.
The Missus Picks Herbert.

Somewhat Like the Axiom 'No Man Is a Hero to His Valet.'

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.—(AP)—"No man is a hero to his valet," so the saying goes. Movie stars' wives feel the same way about their husbands' acting, at least around the Warner lot.

A few of their preferences:

Mrs. John Garfield: Charles Boyer.

Mrs. James Cagney: Ronald Colman.

Lili Damita Flynn: Herbert Marshall.

Mrs. Wayne Morris: Errol Flynn.

Mrs. Pat O'Brien: Spencer Tracy.

Mrs. Frank McHugh: Bing Crosby.

Mrs. Henry O'Neill: Gary Cooper.

Mrs. Humphrey Bogart: John Barrymore.

But there's an exception to prove the rule. It's:

Mrs. Paul Muni: Paul Muni.

SPENCER TRACY.

FULLER TO PREACH TO SENIORS TODAY

Evening College Graduates To Attend First Baptist Church Services.

The First Baptist church will be host at 11 o'clock this morning to 74 graduates of the Atlanta Junior College and the Georgia Evening College. They will attend in a body to hear the baccalaureate sermon preached by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller on "True Greatness."

Jere A. Wells, Fulton school superintendent, and an honor graduate from the accounting department of the Evening school class of 1924, will deliver the commencement address Wednesday evening in the Woman's Club auditorium.

Preceding his address, the singing will be led by the Evening College Glee Club, directed by John D. Hoffman. Degrees of bachelor of science in commerce will be given 56 Evening College graduates, and diplomas to 13 Junior College graduates and five Evening College students.

Mrs. Richard A. Trotter, dean of women, entertained the senior women at a tea yesterday afternoon.

CHILDREN'S DAY ART DISPLAY ARRANGED

Juvenile Talent To Be Shown at High Museum This Afternoon.

Once a year the little folk of Atlanta have a big day in art when children artists show other juniors through the art gallery hung with pictures done by children of six and over. Sunday will be children's day at the High Museum of Art this season, and the left-wing gallery will be the scene of juvenile talent.

From 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock all children will be especially welcomed. They will see how children picturize their pets, interpret fairy stories, draw animals at the zoo, paint posies from mother's garden and fashions they would like to wear when they are "grown-ups."

Here is art by young moderns done with surprising boldness of line and color which shows ability is in bloom. The eager artists who may be famous some day will give gallery tours—just like adults.

Because art has become increasingly popular with the youngest contingent who can enjoy pictures long before they can the printed word, by popular request the art classes for children will be held this summer. Starting June 13, little folk will gather Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 o'clock to 11 o'clock for instruction under the supervision of Miss Emerine Jackson and a staff of teachers.

CLIPPER SHIP FORCED BACK FOR REPAIRS

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—The Pan-American Airways' Yankee Clipper, which took off at 2:12 p. m. today on its second mail flight to Europe, returned to Port Washington two hours later, circled the base and then headed for its Baltimore port.

Officials said the flying boat had experienced a slight mechanical difficulty. The company announced later the automatic pilot had not operated as it should. It said the plane would leave for Europe from Baltimore at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 4, 1939.

Debts and Credit

In the Congressional Record for April 6, of this year, there is published a table showing the total of debt owed in the United States for each year since 1921 to 1938, inclusive. This table not only gives the total indebtedness of the federal government, but also that of federal agencies, of state and local government and of private long-term and bank loans. The comparative figures, year by year, are illuminating and provide material for serious thought upon the economic condition of the country as a whole.

Combining all these debtors, government of every type as well as private, it is shown the peak of indebtedness was reaching in 1930, with the staggering sum of $160,788,000,000. There was then a steady reduction in the total until 1934, when it had dropped to $147,769,000,000. By 1938 it had advanced again to $155,115,000,000.

Thus it is shown that the grand total of indebtedness in America was actually $5,673,000,000 less, in 1938, than it was in 1930.

However it is when these figures are analyzed, broken up into the different sources of debt, that the trend is most plainly indicated.

For the period from 1930 to 1938, for instance, federal indebtedness, exclusive of those agencies wholly or partially exempt from federal income taxes, had jumped from $16,520,000,000 to $36,576,000,000, more than doubling. During the same period the total of state and local government indebtedness had remained comparatively stable. In 1930 it was $19,060,000,000 and in 1938 it was $19,170,000,000.

On the other hand, the private long-term and bank loans decreased alarmingly. In 1930 these totaled $118,342,000,000 while by 1938 they had shrunk to $91,380,000,000. It was almost entirely in this type of loan that the reduction in total indebtedness occurred.

Thus it is revealed, in cold statistics, that the stagnation of private credit is no mere phrase of the economic spellbinder. Private credits are, evidently, not being used; they are dammed up in the banks, powerless to perform their proper function in developing and advancing private enterprise.

That this condition is unhealthy cannot be logically denied by any student of economics. Credit use is the root of business stagnation or business growth. Credit idleness is the primary causes of unemployment and the greatest handicap upon today's enterprise.

Failure to use private credit cannot be satisfactorily offset by the increasing expenditure of public funds. The one is essential to business growth, the other is, at best, but emergency treatment of the outer manifestations of the disease. Governmental outlay can never be more than a palliative, it cannot be a cure for the real trouble.

It is not difficult to see the cause for this stagnation in the private credit marts of the nation. Uncertainty in regard to governmental policies, fearfulness as to the future opportunities for success in enterprise, too heavy a tax load, all combine to keep timid capital out of the industrial field. Too much private credit feels safer unused, than exposed to the growing uncertainties, and the increasing demands of taxation, in the active market.

The growth of the government indebtedness is, in large part, the direct cause for the shrinkage in private investment. Until the day when the national debt shall be reasonably stabilized, with sufficient guarantee against further increase, private credit will be shy of emerging into open investment.

Until that day does come, there can be no permanent solution of the problem of unemployment, which is at the root of the nation's social and economic problems. For there can be no expansion of private employment opportunities until private credit is induced once more to function without fear and freely.

Should the present trend continue, the mathematical eventuality would be total elimination of private debt, with the field surrendered entirely to government. Which is but another way of expressing totalitarianism. For, if the government is the only debtor, the government must, logically, but the only operator of industry, the only employer of labor and the sole arbiter of all conditions of life. Which is fascism.

The Soviet Budget

News has trickled in from Russia, very limited to be sure, concerning the Soviet budget. It will create astonishment among the people of the United States for two reasons, if they care to consider the matter at all. First, the tremendous amount of money involved. Second, its approval by the lower house of the Russian parliament.

According to reports it calls for the unheard-of budgetary sums of $29,500,000,000 in revenue and $29,379,000,000 in expenditures. This is balancing the budget with a vengeance, despite the fact it calls for a surplus of $121,000,000—mere "chicken feed" when considered in relation to such vast amounts. Among the items is a paltry $7,727,000,000 for defense!

Probably nobody can say definitely just what kind of money they are spending in Russia. Raw materials are plentiful, wages are low, everybody is said to be working. If one dollar buys a full dollar's worth it may well be understood how Russia has so advanced in a material way on her own resources.

More surprising, perhaps, than the amounts involved, is that the budget was submitted to parliament for approval. That Russia even had a parliament will be news to most people. It generally has been understood that Stalin was the whole show, that all he had to do was announce his intentions to give them the full force of law.

The feeling that the budget must be balanced seems to be one of the most striking differences in governmental financing between Russia, Britain and France, on the one hand, and the United States on the other. In the three countries now allied against the Rome-Berlin axis, the people seem more willing to assume the burden of additional taxation, to pay as they go, than to pile up deficits, which would be extremely difficult to overcome later on, in the face of an uncertain future.

Common-Sense Rules

Timely and worth careful consideration are the "ten commandments of swimming" offered by the Red Cross. As hot weather gets into its stride and relief from the heat is sought at lakes, beaches and swimming pools, the "do's and don'ts" of water sports should be taken to heart by all who would prevent tragedy from entering the glorious summer picture. One of the most important things outlined by the Red Cross is the fact that the entire family should be "water-proofed" for the summer. That is, emergency treatments and the simple rules of safe swimming should be learned.

The "ten commandments" require no great strain on the intelligence. All they demand is what is known as plain, old-fashioned common sense.

For instance, the first "commandment": "Select a swimming pool or beach that is already protected by a qualified lifeguard or see that one is on duty while your party is in swimming. The other rules are equally easy of compliance. Like, "wait at least one hour after eating before you go for a swim." Or, "never swim alone." Or, "look before diving." Or, "avoid long swims after a period of inactivity."

In calling these rules to attention of the public, the Red Cross is carrying on in time-honored fashion to save lives. If persons heed the rules, the summer will pass as a pleasant period for all.

Wise Program.

The United States Forest Service has set a worthwhile goal for itself. It plans development of forest products industries to a point where nine million acres of government-owned reserves in the south will pay their own way and, in time, net Uncle Sam a neat amount on the profit side. The program calls principally for the sale of matured timber to privately-owned sawmills adjacent to national forests. This part of the program is already in operation in some states. Additional revenue is anticipated from naval stores, pulpwood, etc.

Supervisors of the service in 11 southern states, convening here in annual meeting, stated that this year the government is expected to gross more than $600,000 from sales of products in its southern forests and, within three or four years, it was predicted, the gross is expected to reach more than a million dollars. In 25 years, the gross will be much greater, how much greater the supervisors hesitated to state. But it is safe to assume it will be in the big money. And the beauty of it is the government will still have its forest reserves.

An interesting new development in the program is the mill at Clayton, situated in the Chattahoochee National Forest. The area adjacent to the mill yields about four or five million feet of timber a year without depleting reserves. The mill takes some three million feet a year and employs about 25 men. Operators feel sure the timber resources will be sustained over a long period of years.

All these efforts are extremely cheering. That there is wealth in the woods goes without saying. That the wealth in the woods should be intelligently conserved and handled is an important job in which progress is being made.

Boston reports dust in the air from the far-away Rockies. In the real drouth days, we had connoisseurs who could tell Dakotas apart by the taste.

We come to the season when the Duce must pull off the shirt and show the big muscles to the haymakers. If any puny democracy happens to be looking on, so much the better.

We worry about this reception to royalty at Washington. A government that can't balance a simple thing like a budget won't be so hot with a tea-cup on the knee.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

OUR MR. ROGERS THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 3.—Thomasville is one of the more pleasant cities at any and all times. To be in Thomasville is pleasant. To be here for a golf tournament or a hunt has added pleasure but somehow I believe that a wedding brings out all the best in Thomasville.

Our Mr. Lee Rogers is getting married in Thomasville tonight. Our Mr. Rogers is on The Constitution's city desk. He is a fine boy and has a very real newspaper talent. He probably inherited it from his father up at Elberton, Ga.

It seems that one night at a University of Georgia dance when Mr. Rogers was a student at that center of learning, he was introduced to a young lady named Margaret Flowers. Someone just said, "Lee, I want you to meet Miss Flowers." Out of that innocent little remark has come a marriage.

I suppose all brides look beautiful. The one I married did and does. Certainly Miss Flowers is a beautiful girl and one wonders how a tall, drawling country boy such as is our Mr. Rogers ever managed to convince her that marrying a newspaperman was a good idea, but he did and as a result many of his friends are having what is known as a perfectly swell time. I think perhaps there ought to be a law requiring that all marriages take place in Thomasville.

THE REHEARSAL Wedding rehearsals are exciting things. The young lady who takes the place of the bride seems to have such a good time. The gentlemen who have never before been in a wedding always look so self-conscious taking those slow steps down the aisles. The bridesmaids who aren't married look hopeful. There always are present some young men who are very much in love. They sigh and look foolish. You can just see the wheels turning over in their heads as they try to determine just when they can manage to have a wedding.

I think rehearsals probably are the most disorganized things imaginable. There is a lot of walking about and parading. Everyone has an idea. The first impression is that weddings ought to be rehearsed for weeks and weeks.

And yet, strangely enough, the weddings themselves always seem to come off. The principals actually get married. And everybody has a good time.

Now and then, of course, some one faints. There was a wedding in Atlanta not so many months ago which provided a news story worthy of the front page and perhaps a ribbon. The groom fainted three times and the best man once. They did not do this in the rehearsal and yet it went off all right. Despite all the fainting the preacher and the bride remained calm and the best legal talent in Atlanta rendered a unanimous opinion the wedding was as legal as any other. It really seems that once one starts on a wedding one cannot fail to get married. It is something like the production belt at a motor car company. One emerges with the blushing bride on the arm. Confused rehearsals, faintings and the like cannot stop progress. The wedding goes on.

THE WEDDING PARTIES It seems no wedding is legal without a round of parties. They grow in intensity as the date nears. The net result is that everyone is worn to a frazzle. The nerves are taut. People cry easily.

Yet if there were no parties the weddings would not be nearly so attractive. The young men who are in love sit next to the young ladies of their choice and manage to hold hands now and then and look, with calf's eyes, at the adored object.

Those who have been married for a number of years affect a slight cynicism. It is, at times, a bit embarrassing. Now and then one can see a bride of a dozen years ago measuring the gentleman to whom she plighted her troth. She seems to be saying, "Did I really believe all I seemed to a dozen years ago?" Then one may see the look in her eyes relent and she grows a bit gay, thinking that after all marriage is a good idea and that it is well to have it over and done with and a dozen years in the past.

There were a number of parties which the society editors would describe as lovely. When the last one on the social calendar was done, there was an impromptu one. Mr. Chris Apostolou Blane, of the Thomasville Blanes, entertained informally in the blue room of his Plaza cafe. It was a very select party and not all the wedding guests were invited.

Mr. Blane is by way of being an institution in Thomasville. He likes newspapermen and The Constitution's representatives, including the groom and Mr. Luke Green, whose by line you have seen, were the honorees.

The other invited guests included all those who were still awake at 2:30 in the morning. Mr. Blane is not a snob and I hasten to say that all wedding guests would have been invited had some not gone off to sleep.

This, of course, is written a few hours before the wedding. But I have seen the church. I have seen the principals and have walked through the rehearsal. It is going to be a beautiful wedding and Atlanta is going to gain a delightful young couple.

Atlanta Handicaps.

The place this city holds in general public esteem and the reputation it has acquired all over the nation as a modern, hustling, to-be-envied sort of civic community, is all the more remarkable when you consider the handicaps under which it has suffered for a long, long time.

There has been enough adverse publicity for Atlanta to have eternally damned a less resilient city. The name of Atlanta has, through no fault of the vast majority of her citizens, been associated with so many undesirable, crazy or vicious incidents it is almost a wonder we are not, civically, now thought synonymous with undesirability.

Think of a few:

Atlanta is headquarters for the Ku Klux Klan. When the KKK gets into the public prints it is, inevitably, associated with Atlanta. Which does the city no good at all. For the KKK, notwithstanding all claims and arguments to the contrary, is one of the worst demonstrations of un-Americanism this country has known. Its intolerance and its secrecy are twin evils that can do nothing but taint the atmosphere of a country dedicated to freedom for all men and justice for everyone.

There Have Been Trials—

There have been court cases here, through the past quarter century or more, that have centered much unfavorable publicity upon Atlanta and Fulton county. Irrespective of right or wrong, the mere fact that such trials have sent their stories out to the world under an Atlanta dateline is unfortunate.

There was that happening of about three months ago, when men were kidnaped on the streets of Atlanta, while crowds watched and even a uniformed policeman displayed utter unconcern. Doesn't matter what was behind it all. Initiation or joke or what. It may, even, have been "innocent" in intent. But it was not innocent in performance, because it sent, once more, the name of Atlanta all over the nation as a place where masked men operated in public without interference.

It was only a week or so ago that a gang of lawless hoodlums took a minister of a church into the woods and flogged him. That story, too, went out to the world under an Atlanta dateline.

And now, with all the crazy stuff that General Moseley has emitted before the Dies committee, is linked the fact that the general calls Atlanta his home. Not attaching any blame to the city for that fact. It just happened that the general's final army assignment on the active list was here and that he has stayed here since his days of active service were ended.

Those Who Smear City's Good Name.

Perpetrators of floggings, of masked parades or other vicious tricks may not realize they are blackening the name of their city. That makes the evil none the less, however. And it places a stain upon the name of a fine city that is altogether undeserved.

For Atlanta is a good city and a great place to live. Those of us who have been here long, love it, and even comparative newcomers discover that intangible something-or-other which makes them want to stay, for always.

Atlanta has done marvelous things in business and enterprise and growth. And she is destined for still greater things.

But she is, undeniably, handicapped by this little lunatic fringe, these irresponsible, lawless, emotionally unstable few who do the things which, either because they are criminal or because they are ridiculous, bring ill-repute upon the city's name in the outside world.

The escutcheon of Atlanta is glorious, but it is marred by a few blobs of mud and a fringe of motley that should be cleared away. For, inevitably, the casual observer notes, first, the mud and the motley and is too apt to forget the intrinsic worth beneath.

I hope the outside world will understand that we in Atlanta, as a whole, are as ashamed as decent folks anywhere would be of the masked parades, the night-riders, the floggings and all the abnormal eruptions of human foolishness.

We can't help such outbreaks of fantasy, now and then. We don't hug 'em to our bosom. We just put up with them and hope for better sense and better understanding in some happier future.

In the meantime, how are your own gangsters and racketeers and lunatic fringe, generally?

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, June 4, 1889:

"The Richmond and Danville evening train now leaves Atlanta at 6 p. m. instead of 6:15 p. m., as heretofore. This train now takes supper at Norcross."

Text and Pretext

By M. ASHBY JONES.

"SHADOW OF A GREAT ROCK."

At a critical hour in the history of his beloved country, Isaiah, the prophet-statesman, turned his face away from the intrigues of petty politicians, and as he looked toward the future, his face lighted with a triumphant vision, as he saw the nation's deliverer: "A man like the shadow of a great rock in the edge of the a weary land." It is a man who stands like a great sheltering rock on the edge of the desert. The wind piles its parching sands in pyramids upon its granite sides. The sun beats it in scorching fury. But it stays the progress of this dry death, while casting its protecting shadow upon the other side, where refreshing streams flow and fragrant flowers flourish. It gives birth to bloom and beauty.

Nowhere else in literature is there a more beautiful and accurate picture of a character beneath whose protecting shadow lives of beauty, truth and goodness may grow. It seems to me here is revealed the secret of human progress. While one may not accept as a complete definition the saying of Carlyle, "History is but the lengthened shadows of its great men," it is true that each chapter of that history begins with the life of some great character.

Truth Incarnate.

We may mark the progress of the race by the revelation of some new truth. In every case the revelation was made in the life of some man, and his name becames identified with the truth revealed. We may think of a truth in the abstract, but there is no such thing as a truth apart from a mind which thinks it, from a person who feels it. To be of any force in human life there must be a Bethlehem, when "the Word became flesh and dwelt among us." These have been the great leaders of others. Beneath their protecting shadows, the masses have been led to loftier levels of thought and feeling of aspiration and achievement.

The history of the world is italicized with its critical hours. Each epoch tells of some deadly tendency of human life. Some false trend of thought, some growing expression of human greed, some sickening disease of degeneration subtly creeping into the blood of the nation. These tendencies, like mighty winds driving the drifting sands before it, threaten to bury every plant of progress and choke every fountain of refreshing influence. But when all seems lost, some man stands up and bares his back to the rising tide of destruction, and all who come after him dwell within the shadow of his words and work.

The truth revealed is that God saves, not by forms and formulas, ordinances or institutions, but through the characters of men. We have learned to believe in honor because we have trusted in honorable men—to have faith in virtue because we have known virtuous men—to believe in heroism because we have been girded about by the sacrifices of heroes. Always our admiration and emulation of righteousness is associated with the personalities of righteous pepole.

So it was that when Isaiah saw his vision of the victory of righteousness, he saw a Man. We may find God's power and His wisdom in the physical universe, but we can only find God's character in the face of a person. So when He wanted to make His supreme revelation of Himself, it was in the form of a man. Until the coming of Jesus of Nazareth the world did not know the possibilities of human life. But since His coming, the world has had no higher ideal of character. He has satisfied our noblest conception, and fulfilled our most beautiful dreams of righteousness.

There had been many beautiful characters before Jesus, who had inspired men to better lives, but at some point each one had failed and fallen. But here was a man born amid the filth and foulness of the world and yet lived "unspotted by the world." Amid its ugliness and discord He expressed in His life "the beauty of holiness." He broke the record of human experience. Heretofore all men had sinned, but He stopped the long drift of centuries of human nature, and changed the habit of a race within His own short life. This was His equipment for His great mission of salvation—"without sin." Here indeed is a rock—"the Rock of Ages"—beneath whose sheltering shadow a race may find "eternal life."

To believe in Jesus, is to believe in a Jesus-kind-of-God. The "beauty of holiness" revealed in Him, is the "beauty of holiness" of the God who made the universe. That is not all. That divine "beauty of holiness" was revealed in human life. Then a man is capable of receiving and expressing in his own life this divine character. Each one of us may become a rock casting a shadow of safety for the lives of others. Because while it is true that virtue can only be expressed in persons, it is also true that sin can only be expressed in persons. Sin can only be propagated through characters.

So in the language of this significant figure of speech, each one of us may be like a protecting rock, casting a shadow of safety over the lives of others. All of us know of such characters in our own experience. We know men and women of such strength and beauty of character, that boys and girls who live within the encircling shadow of their influence are not only safe, but because of this environment, have a far better opportunity to grow into Christ-like characters. Could there be a more beautiful vision than that of Isaiah's! "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest, as streams of water in a dry place, as the shade of a great rock in a weary land."

SPRING FEVER

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY.

Ho, hum!

I listened to another speech by the President. It happened accidentally, I shall admit. Still, I learned that the President was a conservative. Who cares? A rose by any name grows ancient after a while.

I was terrifically intrigued by the President's economics. I am frightfully lazy this spring, and it does not seem worth the effort to do much checking. But it seems to me that I read much of it in an article that David Cushman Coyle wrote for "Harper's" a year or so ago. And I once argued before the Economics Club at the Hotel Astor in New York with the aforesaid Mr. Coyle and he said much the same thing. Maybe the President has spring fever too. It is easier to swallow David Cushman Coyle than to solve natienal problems the hard way.

I see in this speech that the President does not care for highbrow columnists. I wonder whether it is the columnists he dislikes or the highbrows. That was not made clear. Maybe he also prefers those who have no brows at all. It is hard to know. So far as I can recall, he once read a Christmas story or something, out loud over the microphone, by Heywood Broun, highbrow columnist of the C. I. O. I wonder if Broun is in the dog-house. He wrote a piece in the "New Republic" complaining about foul language. Maybe, he is being purged for moving slightly to the right. I don't know and what is more, I don't care. Do you?

PUZZLE AT FAIR

I went to the World's Fair and lost sight of the Periscope or whatever Grover Whalen calls it, from the strain of looking at the symbol of world revolution as projected there by Soviet Russia. It is a bit difficult to understand why the Russian building was erected thirty feet higher than any other building was permitted to be. Curious that. It had me so intrigued that I missed Billy Rose's show.

"The World of Tomorrow" dominated by Soviet Russia! Now that is something to stir the blood on a Spring day when one seeks salubrious pastures. Socialism is an established fact in Soviet Russia, they advertise in that building then you look at Independence Hall which looks like a toy house compared to the gigantic show that Soviet Russia provides.

Well, maybe Soviet Russia is conservative, too. After all, if Lammot Dupont and Tom Girdler are radicals, then Stalin must be a conservative. Why not? Did not the President say that those who want to go back to 1929 were radicals and that he stood for "the conservative attitude of this administration"?

ANTHING GOES. WHO CARES?

I look at that Soviet building at the World's Fair and that little Independence Hall and ask why Mr. Roosevelt should not be called a conservative and Herbert Hoover a radical? Also why not call mashed potatoes a chocolate sundae and a whisky and soda a fudge soda? Why not talk backwards altogether? Why not say that a submarine is an airship and that an airship is a horse and buggy? Anything goes. Who cares?

Did you know that the American Youth Congress will meet at the Fair on July 4? No more senators and congressmen to spread the old eagle all over the place. No more reading of the Declaration of Independence. No more school children singing "Hail Columbia, Happy Land!" That is old-time stuff. This year at the World's Fair, American youth will foregather to speak of a united front and maybe they will sing the "Internationale," with clenched fists upraised.

Or, maybe, the American Youth Congress will grow conservative, too, and grow whiskers like the sons of the House of David. Perhaps, they will invite the D. A. R. to send a delegation. And even more, I am wondering whether the American Youth Congress will meet in the Soviet building or in Independence Hall. Or perhaps it will be in the Japanese shrine.

MAYBE NOBODY KNOWS

What does it really matter where they meet? Sooner or later, Brother Dies will ask them startling questions and they will say, "Oh, yes, before 1935, we allowed the Communists to run us but since then we have grown conservative. Now, we are patriots and we eat Vermont maple syrup for breakfast." And Brother Dies will wonder what relationship Vermont has to Marxian dialectic. And maybe, he will never know. Maybe nobody knows why a Communist is now a patriotic conservative and a Republican is a radical.

I saw in the Daily Worker that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will address a convention of the Workers' Alliance. I recall that a congressional committee investigating the WPA established the Communistic domination of the Workers' Alliance. All this has me puzzled. Why must the Workers' Alliance be addressed by the First Lady of the land? Of course, I am not Emily Post and I could not possibly say whether all this is proper. I can only sit in amazement at a world which seems to me to be very curious. Perhaps, I am too radical to understand all these conservatives.

Once, I recall, when I was young and ardent, I hated conservatives. They seemed to be such stodgy people. They liked the world as it was. How could anyone like anything as it is, I used to ask of my girl friend as we walked along Riverside drive? Must not the world be made over? That was before the war, when life was joyous and taxes were low. My girl friend and I would read Shaw, Strindberg, Ellen Key, and we would make the world over. We were radicals, and I wore long hair to show my contempt for those who allowed the barber to fashion their personalities.

THE WORLD MADE OVER

So the world was made over. The most conservative, reactionary girl at Barnard College when I was at Columbia is today one of America's most noted radicals and I broadcast capitalistic interpretations. Maybe, she is still a conservative and I am still a radical. I don't know.

The other day, I went to the annual dinner of the American Iron and Steel Institute and there on the stage sat America's leading radicals: Charley Schwab, E. T. Weir, Tom Girdler, Senator Tydings and lots more.

They neither ate nor drank like radicals. Maybe, I'm wrong. I'm told that the labor union leaders have a swank Labor Club in the swell 40's of New York where the Harvard Club and the Century Club and other such radical organizations have their habitat. Maybe, this swank Labor Club has been established to provide a conservative tone to a neighborhood that too long has been held by radicals.

Spring has got me, boys and girls . . . spring and the President's speech and that Soviet building and the World's Fair and all the queer things I see in the newspapers about how conservative the radicals are and how radical the conservatives have become.

SO WENT TO MOVIES

So I went to the movies to see "Juarez." A red-baiter told me that it was designed to justify the Stalin purges and that that is why the "Daily Worker" and the Left Wing fellows boost it so. I found that far-fetched. If there was any such plan, it missed the point. For clearly the hero of that picutre is Maximillian of Hapsburg . . . a man of honor, integrity, fidelity, decency . . . in fact, he possesses every virtue. Juarez seemed to me to be a taciturn background to the charming Austrian. Surely, Paul Muni's slight speeches with their Leftist tinges do not divert an iota from the laudable sweetness and light speeches of the Hapsburg. If this is Left Wing propaganda, let us have more of it, because it is too Rightish to be missed.

But I see a cosmic ray of hope in this vast confusion of words. Why, I ask myself, did the President call his administration conservative? Before this, it was a New Deal, a liberal, a progressive administration. Why has he dropped these epithets and turned to the lovely adjective, conservative? Is it not possible that he who can hear the slightest whisper in the wind of public opinion, has discovered that the American people have decided that if they have any mandates to hand out, a conservative will get them?

I don't know. It's spring and anything is possible. The birds sing and the moon shines and everybody makes mistakes of a lifetime in June. Maybe that is why everybody is twisted.

DO NAMES COUNT?

But there is this to remember, who cares what a man calls himself? There was once an immigrant from Rumania whose name was John Kelly. He wore a large black beard and was an orthodox Jew by religion. Still, his name was John Kelly. It happened this way: When he was admitted to this country at Castle Garden, the Irish immigration inspector asked for his name.

"Yankele," said our Rumanian. Yankele is the dimnutive for Jacob.

"John Kelly," wrote the inspector and John Kelly it remained, although this man had never seen the sod of Erin. But to show how names affect personalities, our friend Yankele as soon as he became John Kelly opened a beer saloon and joined Tammany Hall.

So what's in a name? The President says that he is a conservative and that Bob Taft is a radical. All right! Let him have his way. But that does not change anything. Just as when Earl Browder discovers George Washington, that does not have any effect upon the father of the country, and maybe even less on Earl Browder. And when the Soviet building at the World's Fair overshadows Independence Hall, that does not make the world of tomorrow any better than the world of yesterday. As for the American Youth Congress and the Workers Alliance, let them meet where they want and listen to whomever they like. I will spend the Fourth of July shooting firecrackers and listening to somebody up in Massachusetts tell about the old-fashioned virtues when fish was fish and fowl was fowl and never the two got mixed.

Hope.

Without some hope for lovely things each day—
A bluebird's notes, unfolding buds in rain
That comes when sunbeams feel too tired to play,
Or purple dusk upon a quiet lane
Where honeysuckle fills the evening air
With sweet perfume—too well I know my heart
That lives for these could never, never bear
The thought that not one shining, little part
Of all the beautiful might make tomorrow
Worth vastly more than every yesterday;
And I who gave you up can stand that sorrow,
Remembering what hope taught me to say:
Some distant hour, afire with setting sun,
Will resurrect the dream but half begun!

—WALTER BLACKSTOCK JR.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

Before congress adjourns it should pass Secretary Hull's neutrality legislation as it stands. To leave the neutrality position as it now is, in a time of grave international danger, would be inaction of supreme frivolity. The existing legislation is unstatesmanlike, amateurish, and it does not have the support, either of the State Department, or of any serious and objective student of foreign affairs.

The proposals of the secretary deserve the most favorable consideration, first, because they come from him. Nobody in the cabinet enjoys a more universal trust and esteem than does the secretary of state. He is not impulsive; he is singularly free from prejudice; he is, in this administration, remarkably consistent; he is not susceptible to pressure groups; and he is a man of peace.

The proposals deserve favorable consideration, in the second place, because they have been worked out through months of thought and discussion, concentrated upon all phases and all possible results of a policy by those people whom we hire to execute our foreign policy, who know most about the international situation, and who are, for the most part, wholly unpartisan.

THEY MAKE SENSE

They ought to be adopted, in the third place, because they make sense. An embargo on arms to all belligerents, as provided for in the present neutrality act, puts us in the position of adopting a rigid policy regardless of what the national interests may or may not be. It cuts off the industrial resources of the United States from those countries which are weakest, which have no great arms industries of their own, which are most unlikely to attack any one, and most likely to be attacked.

It is inconsistent, even in this, for it does not make it mandatory to forbid the sale of all essential war materials, and thus is discriminatory against our own industries.

It would forbid the sale of airplanes, for instance, in time of war, but it would not automatically forbid the sale of iron, steel, copper and cotton.

And the result of it would simply be that if these were not embargoed too, foreign nations would take our materials and work them up in their own factories, at the cost of our manufacturers.

PRESENT ACT LAMENTABLE

Politically, the present act is lamentable. The implication that all essential raw materials necessary for war might be embargoed, simply means that in case of a war fought on two oceans, we agree to take our ships off the seas and our goods off the international market, and treat ourselves to a panic and a frightful depression.

Since nothing would more please the aggressive and revolutionary elements in the world, they are heartily pleased with the present act.

The German, Italian and Japanese press all think it is just dandy, and whenever it is suggested that it be amended, they cry "war-monger" at the suggestors.

The proposals of Mr. Hull, which have been thought through with great deliberation, are an attempt to achieve the purpose for which the neutrality legislation was originally framed: To keep this country out of war.

But they also provide that this country should keep a free hand, with regard to its own national interests; should not put itself in a position where it may be assisting our potential enemies and injuring our friends, and they permit us to maintain a maximum of world trade, in the event of foreign war, with a minimum of risk of being embroiled by attacks upon our nationals.

PROVISIONS OF PROGRAM

Under Mr. Hull's program, American vessels would be prohibited from entering combat areas. American citizens would not be allowed to travel in those areas. All exports, to any belligerent, would have the titles transferred to the foreign purchaser so that they would cease to be American before they left our shores.

Loans and credits to belligerents would be prohibited and the solicitation of funds for belligerents would be controlled.

I consider the latter one of the most necessary conditions for obtaining real freedom of action in this country and real national solidarity in case of an international war. Without it every belligerent will be trying to raise a war chest here from its sympathizers and the war will be transferred to our own soil in dangerous rifts in public opinion.

And finally the munition control board should be maintained for the regulation of the arms traffic.

WHICH WOULD YOU PREFER?

If any one thinks that these proposals give great power to our own government let him ask whether he would prefer greater powers to be given to other governments—which is what the present neutrality act, in effect does.

And let him consider that under the present act a general embargo over all essential war materials—and without that the act would be useless—would mean a complete and total control by the government over the whole foreign trade and a depression which might well mean complete control over all production.

Mr. Hull is to be congratulated on having cut the Gordian knot into which our foreign policy was tied by the present neutrality act.

He has offered a program which is not in the first place, an open invitation to Herr Hitler to take the bit in his teeth and break out in a new place next week; which is not a promise to cut our own throats for the sake of maintaining peace; which makes it clear that our policy is to keep our own nationals from being killed and our own ships from being torpedoed; which reduces risks to a minimum and keeps freedom and independence at a maximum.

There is no single measure which it is more important for this congress to pass before it adjourns. But there is a good chance that it will not be passed unless public opinion makes itself felt.

The Law And the People

By PEYRE GAILLARD.

Once upon a time two men were cast upon an island—one on one side and one on the other. The incidents leading up to this tragedy, however, have nothing to do with their predicament. Their real troubles began after they had been washed ashore.

Unlike the islands upon which most men have been cast in the story books it wasn't barren and uninhabited. There was no danger of starving or pining away for the want of human companionship. On the contrary there was an abundance of food and lots of people.

The island was divided into two parts, separated by an impassable swamp. No man—even if he desired—could pass through this great natural barrier. But no one wanted to pass through it. The people were perfectly satisfied to remain where they were. The reason was obvious.

On one side of the island where, of course, most of the inhabitants lived, not a note of music, not a sound, not so much as the toot of a flute—except jazz—was ever heard day or night. The people wanted nothing but jazz. They would have nothing else. It was against the law to play good music unless the players chose to swing it.

On the other side of the swamp, however, which fortunately was expansive enough to prevent the degrading noises of one side from floating over and annoying the inhabitants of the other, the law allowed no jazz, no swing, no blues singers, not even the honk of a bazooker—nothing, except symphonic music!

HEAVENLY STATE!

What a heavenly state! Lovers of jazz listening to jazz and lovers of symphonies listening to symphonies, and nothing else, to the heart's content. No danger of anyone horning in with a boresome Wagnerian prelude or the raucous agony from the latest smash hit.

But is so happened, as it often does in real life, the two castaways were utterly miserable. The poor chap who had been cast upon the beach among the jitterbugs loved symphonic music and detested jazz. And the unfortunate man who had been washed up among the oboes, French horns and bassoons loved to swing it, adored the saxophone, the tuba from Cuba and the plugged-up trombone and despised symphonic music.

As time went on this jazz-hound thought he'd go stark mad. He'd dash down to the water's edge at night, tear at his hair and look wildly out to sea. How could they stand it? Look at 'em—the poor saps—crowded into the concert halls morning, noon and night listening to Beethoven, Mozart and Brahms. And he would sink from sheer exhaustion upon the sand.

"If only I could get a boat," he groaned, " . . . I'd put to sea—I'd starve in preference to this!"

Then he'd begin thinking again about that big bushy-bearded bull fiddle player who sawed so agonizingly upon his instrument, instead of thumping it, properly, as anybody with any sense knew it should be played.

"Some day," he snarled, " . . . so help me!—I'm gonna smash that wop over the head with that fiddle!"

ON THE OTHER SIDE

On the other side of the island the sympho-maniac was no less distracted. Day and night—especially at night when he wanted so much to sleep after the usual tortuous day—the saxophones wailed, the bazookers honked and the blues singers moaned. If he rushed down to the beach determined to drown himself in a moment of desperation, he invariably came upon a batch of half-naked ukulele strummers, or a bunch of saxophonists, or somebody blowing in a jug—it was all the same to him.

But one night—at last—the long-hoped-for opportunity came. It was at the far end of the beach. He'd gone there to end it all. But suddenly, as he contemplated feeding himself to the sharks, he espied a cornet that somebody wasn't blowing. It lay harmlessly on a rock near the water's edge. His heart thumped wildly as his plan leaped into his mind. He could see him plainly now in the light of the moon—the owner of this instrument of torture—pulling briskly toward the beach in a skiff.

Clutching the cornet, he ducked out of sight behind the rock. Then, as the unsuspecting jazz-hound, humming the latest thing in swing, came up, the desperate man tapped him firmly on the noggin and down he went. In a moment of ecstacy he jammed the tin derby—every cornet had its derby—over the unconscious man's ears and dashed for the boat. Saved at last!

ANOTHER SKIFF

As he rounded the point on his way to the other side of the island—he deemed it prudent to stay within sight of land—he saw another skiff, 200 yards farther at sea, headed in the direction of the abominable spot from which he had just escaped. He thought he recognized the oarsman. He was positive that the thing he saw sticking out of the stern was a "bull fiddle."

"Hey!" he yelled, ". . . You poor fool—don't go—they've got a law against . . ." but the man seemed to row all the harder.

What a sap that bird is, he was thinking, when his thoughts were interrupted by the faint sound of music coming over the bow. Why it couldn't be! It would be impos—yet, there it was. There was no mistake about it. Who could ever forget those soft, beautiful strains from the second movement of Tschaikowski's fifth? So he bent his back to the oars. He must get there as quickly as possible.

"Thank goodness," he sighed, "there's some place around here where they don't have laws to keep a man from doing the things he wants to do."

New York Skylines

By MRS. CHARLES ESCOURT JR.

Guest Columnist, Batting for Friend Husband.

NEW YORK, June 3.—There's one thing about being a Broadway columnist's wife—I like it. There's another thing about being a Broadway columnist's wife — I don't like it. When I say I don't and I do like it in the same breath it is actually for one and the same reason. It's machine-age living, it's the speed-up; it's the loop-the-loop and the midway, every moment of each day; it's delovely, it's delimitless, it's delunacy.

It's being relentlessly in the know, at the table in front of the spotlight and in the dressing-room behind the footlights. It's a world full of facts and faces and, though it can be petty, narrow, mercenary and ostentatious, it is also a "great, wide, beautiful, wonderful world," a city of entertainment, and it is a privilege to have the key to the city.

It is, of course, a world in itself and has the habit of coming always as a shock because it is so much apart from the routine of living—home-making, reading the newspapers, sending the children to school, keeping the budget and bank account from punching each other in the nose. Everybody is for decent lengths of time at decent intervals a citizen of this special world. But on these occasions it is, as it was with me before my husband embarked on the trip around this world in perpetuity, a holiday, a parade. And being on a holiday watching a spectacle, one is spared a great deal.

SPARED SOME HORRORS

One is spared, for example, the great flops in the theater, the things that are so bad one wonders they didn't become allergic to themselves and die of the toxic effects instead of waiting around for the critics to become the mercy killers.

To take an instance of another order, one is spared such a tragedy as visited "The Daughters of Atreus" produced some time back. Here was a play written, acted, produced, staged and costumed to the point of excellence. But for one mistake this play could have been compared to some strong and resonant music harp-played carefully by a beautiful woman. But the actors engaged for the play happend to be equipped with a set of accents from the four corners of the globe. Without resorting to a pun about squaring the circle, it is readily apparent how difficult such a situation can be. The brogue and the twang and the whatnot played Katzenjammer with the ensemble so that the play, the acting, and entire production became a laughing matter. Very few people remember it and mourn—just my husband and I and a few other people.

Yet if one is to know a world this is how one gets to know it, not by taking a sip now and a bite then. A reducing diet in knowledge brings about the same result as it does with foods. To me, knowing anything from before soup to after nuts is a great sensation.

GETTING TO KNOW ODD THINGS.

Tagging on to my husband as he zigzags and catapults about, I get to know a lot of odd things. (One of them is that some folks are just naturally zigzaggers and catapulters and some folks just aren't.) It is these odd things that I like. I can't use them. I just know them. For example, take the fact that Katherine Cornell, first lady of the theater, after having delivered a deal of words before a deal of people, finds herself almost unable to talk at all when confronted by a mere reporter humbly seeking an interview.

Then again there's the perefctly valueless information that circus people actually live in a world apart. They live, eat, travel and marry circus. They keep out of scraps, politics and other foreign entanglements with homo sapiens. When they do come to visit us, as from another planet, it is at their own shows. There, fortunately for us, they glimpse us as we are behind a bag of peanuts.

Also, I have come to the reasoned but worthless conclusion that press agents fall into two classes. This last is based on their attitude toward me. Some of them ignore me, paying attention only to my husband, to whom they are selling the goods. Others fawn on me and give me to understand that I have just changed from a tired catapulter to a glamor girl. From this I conclude that while some press agents think husbands never consult with their wives on business matters, others think the little old woman has a lot to say about what goes into that little old column.

WIFE OF EXPLORER

I am the wife of an explorer. Nightly we go to the theaters, night clubs and other alcohol archives. I am the partner of a discoverer of cannibals, pimps, beautiful girls from Texas, freaks, relics, authors in the wink of the public eye, musicians who play only Bach or only Chopin, girls who arrive only from Hollywood, couples who get divorced only in airplanes. I a ma woman who swore "for better or ofr worse" with a research worker in walks of life between Sixth avenue and Broadway, between Broadway and the Bowery, between Broadway and the Bronx and Hollywood and the World's Fair and the royal train and any place they turn out spectacles, books, music, motion pictures and aquacades. As such my only complaint is I get too much and I get too little.

The surfeit is obvious. Taking in all the shows, show-offs and show-downs in town, one doesn't really take them in. Too often they become a jumble and a clutter which quickly dissolves into a blur. By the time a second jumble and clutter has dissolved into a blur, the first J. and C. has become a blank space.

"DEMOCRACY WIDOW"

The minus quantity is a little harder to explain. I know a woman whose husband is an educator. He has for years now done extra work addressing audiences on the value of our institutions, on the necessity for safeguarding them and all civilization. His wife, who is of necessity left a good deal to herself, calls herself a "democracy widow."

Now, as I have hinted before, I belong to a species known as lesser zigzaggers, lower catapulters. I cannot accompany my husband on all of his scurryings about. Very often when we are together we are really apart because we are in the midst of audiences or activities. When we contrive to spend an evening at home, my husband listens to two radios and reads a book at the same time. I am, therefore, a "Broadway widow." Often I wish I were a "democracy widow." Sometimes I wish I weren't a "widow" at all.

'LAND OF THE MILK AND HONEY'

Urban League

By JESSE O. THOMAS

The purpose of the Bulletin is to chronicle the worthwhile things done for, by, and with the Negro, as a basis of increasing inter-racial good-will and understanding.

As a result of the awakened federalized interest in the campaign to check and reduce the abnormal death rate among negroes in United States from tuberculosis, the government has appropriated $800,000 with which to build a 150-bed annex to Freedmen's hospital in Washington, D. C. Construction on this important health unit expects to begin within the next two or three months.:

This additional facility should greatly increase the health-giving resources of Freedmen's hospital and go a long way toward making Howard University and the hospital a national center of activity and education in the public health field.

Preliminary to the construction of the building the National Tuberculosis Association and the District of Columbia Tuberculosis Association are co-operating with Dr. Numa P. G. Adams, of the Howard University School of Medicine in calling a conference of tuberculosis workers at Howard University June 5, 6 and 7. Invitations are being sent out to all negro physicians in the United States who are working in the field of tuberculosis as well as staff members of local tuberculosis associations.

If this initial conference attracts the attendance anticipated and the contribution of the participants to the clinic justify it, it is the hope of the promoters that this will become an annual event.

Dr. H. E. Nash, who for the past five years has been a regular staff physician of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association and who has contributed a number of articles to medical journals, has been invited to attend this clinic and to lead the panel discussion on "Community Needs in the Control of Pulmonary Tuberculosis."

Other physicians who have made tuberculosis more or less a specialty and who are listed among those to whom invitations have gone include the following:

Dr. Peyton F. Anderson, New York city; Dr. Oscar Auerbach, director of laboratories, Sea View hospital; Dr. Miriam Brailey, Johns Hopkins hospital; Dr. Roderick Brown, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dr. H. D. Chadwick, commissioner of health, Boston, Mass.; Dr. J. W. Cutler, Henry Phipps Institute; Dr. Edgar Davis, Garfield hospital, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Kendall Emerson, National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. H. W. Hetherington, Henry Phipps Institute; Dr. Holland Hudson, National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. Esmond D. Long, director, Henry Phipps Institute; Dr. Max Lurie, Henry Phipps Institute; Dr. Howard F. Root, Boston, Mass.; Dr. Albert E. Russell, United States Public Health Service; Dr. C. St. C. Guild, National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. John B. West, New York city, and Jessamine Whitney, National Tuberculosis Association.

The Southern Commission on Interracial Co-operation, in annual session at Atlanta University, last week, unanimously indorsed proposed federal aid to public education in the several states, "on a basis that will equalize educational opportunity for white and colored."

The commission also discussed at length the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Lloyd Gaines case, which affirmed the constitutional right of negroes to equality of opportunity for graduate education in states which maintain dual school systems. In reference to this decision, unanimous agreement was reached on the following points:

1. That any solution to be acceptable must be within the limits of the supreme court decision.

2. That movements looking to the creation of dishonest or shabby institutions for graduate training for negroes be strongly discouraged.

3. That the implications of the Gaines decision as to equality of educational opportunity be followed through all phases of negro education, from elementary to university training.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: M. Ashby Jones, honorary president; Howard W. Odum, president; Mary McLeod Bethune, first vice president; Bertha M. Newell, second vice president; Rufus E. Clement, third vice president; Will W. Alexander, executive director; C. H. Tobias, associate director; Emily H. Clay, secretary, and J. Sherrard Kennedy, treasurer. Howard W. Odum was elected chairman of the board of directors.

Sixty members of the commission were in attendance, representing 13 states and the District of Columbia. Invited guests increased the attendance to more than a hundred.

The life of Toussaint L'Ouverture, the famous Haitian general, whose courageous exploits were the foundation stone in preserving the independence of the small island republic, is being depicted in 41 sketches on exhibition in New York city at the new DePorres Interracial Center at 20 Vesey street. The exhibition, the work of Jacob Lawrence, will continue through June 5. The center is operated by the Catholic Interracial Council of New York and is named after the famous 17th century negro Dominican friar, Saint Martin DePorres, of Peru, who was beatified March March 19, 1836.

Happenings in the Church World

By DR. HERMAN L. TURNER.

Apparently there are great religious bodies which still look upon a revival as a normal church experience, and one to be expected with some degree of regularity. Religious News Service gives this refreshing news about the Southern Baptists: Because of the fact that out of 28,000 Baptist churches in the Southern Baptist convention, 12,000 of them had no revival in 1938, a movement had been "put on foot" to have a revival in every church during 1939 and to place a Sabbath school in every church and community in the south.—The Presbyterian.

For the fourteenth successive year, in its 123rd year of service, the board of managers of the American Bible Society, reported to its membership at its meeting on Thursday, May 11, an annual circulation during 1938 of approximately 7,000,000 volumes. The circulation for last year was 6,970,757 volumes in 182 languages and in over 40 countries. In China, for the last five months of the year, when the society's affairs had been somewhat adjusted to the conditions imposed by the war, Bibles and testaments were published at the rate of 20,000 a month. The secretary of the China agency, Dr. Carletto Lacy, reported that a truckload of Bibles moving west from Hongkong plunged into the river. Later the books were rescued and artificially dried in a Hankow egg-packing house. Many were rebound and so eager were the people of central China to possess the Bible that every book was sold. Missionaries scoured their shelves for extra copies. Shopworn, wrongly bound, wormeaten books were all put into circulation. Work in translation, revision and transcription was carried on in as many as seven different Chinese dialects, while books in a dozen languages have been in the press. After years of planning and negotiation the American Bible Society joined with the British and Scottish Bible Societies in the formation of the Japan Bible Society, styled "Nippon Seisho Kyokwai," through which it will hereafter function in that country. The Christian churches in Japan celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the first complete Japanese Bible.

According to the Christian Century, the Catholic Times of London pointedly warns the British government that "if Britain fights in military alliance with Russia" she must expect internal disunity: "Catholics will not fight as allies of the atheist dictatorship to build up a God-hating universe." This is a more emphatic expression of the sentiment recently voiced by Bishop John A. Duffy, of Buffalo, who said, "We cannot ask as a civilized govermnet that the youth of America identify themselves with communism in a foreign war." The British Catholic Herald, however, while very critical of Russia as an ally, suggests that Russian neutrality in a world cataclysm would place Communism in a more powerful position.

The state council of the Young Men's Christian Association of Georgia states that 5,776 of Georgia's high school young people are members of 242 Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs functioning in 59 counties of Georgia. Their stated task is: "To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Canada To Admit Refugee Children—The Canadian government, through its department of mines and resources has ruled that refugee children who are orphans will be admitted without a quota basis, provided that each child is taken into a home whose religious affiliation agrees with that of the child's former family. Children not orphaned will be admitted only as members of a family unit.

During the last decade Africa has made the largest gains in Sunday school enrollment around the world, according to the International Journal of Religious Education. During the past year the Congo Protestant Council in Belgian Congo directed a jubilee conference celebrating 60 years of Christian missions in Central Africa. The South African National Sunday School Association has celebrated its twenty-third annual national convention. Next to Africa, the West Indies, Central and South America have made the largest gains in Sunday school enrollment of the world. During the past one hundred years 18,000,000 copies of the Scriptures have been distributed in these republics.

The Friends, or Quakers, more fully the Religious Society of Friends, have long lacked central organizations, comments the Presbyterian. This item from an exchange indicates a turn to what promises a more effective order of things: "The Religious Society of Friends is taking steps toward world-wide unification and co-operation of Quakers. Representatives of the society in several countries are setting up the Friends World Committee for Consultation. There are more than 50 autonomous yearly meetings scattered throughout the world, but for almost 300 years the Friends have had no unifying agency."

Surgeons Hope To Make Human 'Frankenstien' Deformed by Fire

Skill of Young Spaniard Expected To Restore Sight, Hands and Features To Canadian Whose Face Is Twisted Mass of Flesh.

NEW YORK, June 3.—In a ward of the Ophthalmology Institute of the New York Medical Center, the curtain is rising on the last act of young Lorne Brockest's tragedy, with a happy end in sight—literally.

After nearly five years of total blindness, his face a twisted mass of flesh and his hands a pair of useless stumps as a result of a fire that cost his father's life, Brockest has come to New York from Winnipeg, Canada, to have his eyesight restored and his features and hands made human again through the magic of modern surgery.

New Eyelids.

Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, a young Spaniard who has won worldwide acclaim as an eye surgeon and is considered the foremost exponent of his profession in this country, is going to graft new corneas in Brockest's eyes, put new eyelids above them and give him back his sight.

After that, plastic surgeons will attend to his face and hands, and the young fellow, 24 years old, and eager to return to normal life, will go back to Winnipeg, eternally grateful to the Winnipeg Tribune, his hometown newspaper, which raised the money for his trip and made all this possible.

Both Dr. Castroviejo and the other surgeons who will operate on Brockest—their names have not been announced yet—will donate their services, in response to the Winnipeg Tribune's appeal. The money raised by this newspaper through a public subscription will be used for Brockest's hospital and other expenses during the long period, perhaps a year, of his stay in New York.

A Human Torch.

The first act of the tragedy took place in Winnipeg October 20, 1934. Lorne, his father and a mechanic were trying an oil furnace they had just installed. Suddenly a fuel storage tank exploded, spraying flaming jets of oil on the men. Trapped by the fire, all of them, save young Lorne, perished in the basement. The young fellow succeeded in making his escape and running, a human torch, to the nearby Red river, into which he plunged.

When he was pulled out, his ears and nose were gone, the skin on his face and eyelids had disappeared, his hands were a couple of stumps, and he was blind.

There followed critical days at the Misericordia hospital in Winnipeg, but Brockest, a robust youth, pulled through. Brockest induced a friend to write the Mayo clinic, in Rochester, Minn., and ask about what science could do to help him. "Go to Castroviejo in New York," the Mayo clinic replied. "If there is a man who can give you back your sight, he is the man."

"Nothing Unusual."

Dr. Castriviejo, asked about Brockest's chances for recovery, showed marked reluctance to discuss the case, saying that any discussion of it would be unethical. The surgeon has forbidden Brockest to give any interviews.

"There is nothing unusual in this case," Dr. Castroviejo said, from a scientific point of view. These operations are being done. The medical world knows about them, even though they may seem sibilities in the near future. something new and fantastic to the layman. Brockest's case will follow the normal routine."

Country Church.

Beneath its humble roof convened
The country folk to pray;
Their thoughts removed from earthly cares
Upon the Sabbath day.
They quavered through the simple hymn
A wheezy organ led
And then, perchance, the minister
Told how the Saviour bled,
All such as they from sin to save
And bring them bliss beyond the grave.

No titled name, no worldly wealth
Could here its pride intrude
Upon these tillers of the soil,
Laborious and rude.
On many of their faces shone
A strange and holy light,
As if they saw beyond the walls
That shut them in a bright
Celestial kingdom where all woe
Was left behind, on earth below.

It may be that in stately fanes
Whose spires soar to the sky
Men worship God with greater zeal,
His name to glorify.
But in a little country church,
Upon the Sabbath day,
When simple souls kneel down, methinks,
That heaven's not far away.
And in such faith there well may be
The pledge of immortality.

—PAUL COOK.

WON ON STRETCHER.

Mrs. Sally Saffian, of Waterbury, Conn., waited many months to become a citizen and when she was stricken with pneumonia it appeared her desire would have to be postponed. Hospital attendants, however, wheeled her into superior court on a stretcher.

A Child's Prayer.

Dear Father, have a funny sorta prayer
I'm sendin' up to you,
Don't know zactly how to say it
Or zactly what to do.

I jes wants be like Daddy;
I want his shinin' face,
I want my Mummy's sweetness,
I s'pose she'd call it grace.

Sorta pity you, dear Father,
I know my order's big,
But if you do this for me,
I'll dance a whirligig.

Wait—I'll dance a jig for Daddy
'Cause he won't mind. I'll bet,
But for Mummy—sweet Mummy,
I'll do the Minuet!

EXCHANGE CLUBS TO CONVENE TODAY

More Than 200 Expected; Meeting To Last Through Tuesday Morning.

More than 200 representatives of the 13 Exchange Clubs in Georgia are expected here for the state convention that begins this afternoon and will continue through Tuesday morning.

Registration will begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Biltmore hotel, convention headquarters, and will be followed at 6 o'clock by a buffet supper for the club's state board of control; the state and host officers, and the host board of control and wives.

State President Luther Bloodworth, of Macon, will preside over the opening session at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Rev. T. V. Morrison, assistant rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, will give the invocation.

Arnall to Speak.

Henry Powell, president of the Atlanta club, will deliver the welcoming address on the part of ocal exchange members, while Mayor Hartsfield will welcome the out-of-town delegates to the city.

J. B. Mooney, of Griffin, state vice president, will respond. After the annual reports of the state president and secretary and treasurer, William G. Brunner, of Cedartown, member of the club's state board of control, will talk on "Ideals of Exchange." He will be introduced by Charlie Peek, of Cedartown.

Featured speaker of the day's meeting will be Ellis Arnall, attorney general, who will be introduced by Bloodworth.

Barbecue Planned.

At 12:30 o'clock, Powell will preside over the luncheon, also at the Biltmore. Lewis H. Hill, of Tampa, honor guest and luncheon speaker, will be introduced by W. H. Beck, of Griffin, past national president. Present will be Newman R. Thurston, Toledo, Ohio, national vice president of the organization.

A program of entertainment arranged for the afternoon will be followed by a barbecue and dance at Lakemoore, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

J. J. Doran, treasurer and comptroller of Davison-Paxon's, will speak after Tuesday morning's business session and election of officers on "The South's Economic Problem No. 1, Freight Rates." Doran will be introduced by Chess Lagomarsino Jr., vice president of the Atlanta club and convention chairman.

After adjournment, delegates will attend a Gay Nineties luncheon at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Atlantic Brewery.

Newcomer.

Love came to me on silent wings
And uttered not a sound.
Although I neither saw nor heard,
I knew my heart was bound.
Love on silver sandaled feet
Made my heart his abode—
Where all was dreary emptiness
His bounty was bestowed.

—EDNA FLOYD.

Rabbi Marx.

Mild-mannered he, who served the God he knew
And walked in path of faith and rectitude,
And though he had been born on earth a Jew
Great love of others did his faith include;
And never in the course of his long life
Was ever stirred by him the slightest strife.

And yet in spite of his great heart's desire
For good for all, there came a sudden blow
From one who knew him not, who fain would fire
A prejudice in those who could not know
That scandal-mongers feed on slander strong
And seem to never suffer for their wrong.

But he would but ignore ignoble speech
Of one who sought some great publicity,
And as a child of God to us would teach
The tenets of his faith with constancy.
As Jesus told us, he would tell us, too:
"Forgive them, Lord; they know not what they do."

ALL AMERICAN SOAP BOX DERBY

BOYS PLAN NOW TO WIN

GREATEST AMATEUR RACING EVENT IN THE WORLD

THE AMERICAN BOY'S DREAM COME TRUE!

Parents! Encourage Your Boys To Enter

Thousands Of Dollars In Prizes Awarded Winners

There are awards, valuable awards, to spur Soap Box Racers on. They range from wearing apparel to Four-Year College Scholarships. There will be miniature motor driven automobiles and real standard and de luxe Chevrolets. Gold, silver and bronze trophies and medals. Shoes, hats, suits. Bicycles and sporting goods. Even groceries, ice cream and milk. In fact the number and variety of prizes awarded winners include the things boys and parents in every station of life want. But, material things alone are not the only awards these little speed kings strive for. To emerge victorious in the Soap Box Derby is to these boys an immortal achievement. They enter with no odds against them. Every racer must conform to certain specifications. Their tiny gravity-powered cars are their own handiwork. Planned, hewn, bolted, and nailed with that priceless quality of will-to-win sportsmanship. Character is the only line of demarcation in the Soap Box Derby—rich and poor share alike.

That the Soap Box Derby ranks first in the minds of the American boy is evidenced by the fact that in six years it has grown from a scant half dozen participants in one city to nearly a quarter of a million. And, it is now an international affair. Encourage your boys and others to enter the Soap Box Derby. It is far more than a racing event. Its great influences will last throughout the boy's lifetime. He will acquire—especially if you inspire him—a high regard for sportsmanship, for fair play, for the rights of others. He will learn one of the most important lessons of life—how to accept victory as an obligation to do still better things, or how to accept defeat gamely and plan to try again!

The Soap Box Derby is strictly a boys' event, designed to promote both craftsmanship and sportsmanship through competition in building and driving Soap Box Racers. The rules governing the building of racers are strict but are such that any boy can easily follow them. They are designed to insure equal opportunity to all entrants and thus further the spirit of fair play. Parents and sponsors may advise how best to build a racer, but cannot do any actual work.

Every phase of the work in building a sturdy, fast racer is given in the new rule book. Drawings that show sizes and methods of procedure will be found. Suggestions for materials to use, wheels, steering gear, brakes and other things are shown in detail. The overall cost for materials in any car cannot exceed $10. This is ample, however, as will be found in the costs set up in the rule book.

Some changes have been made in the rules for the 1939 Derby, therefore, every boy should get a copy of the new rule book and read it thoroughly before starting to build his 1939 racer. Parents, urge your boys to enter now. Go to any local Chevrolet dealer for official entry blank and a copy of the rule book. Both are quite essential to properly enter!

CONSTITUTION PROVIDES WHEELS WITHOUT COST.

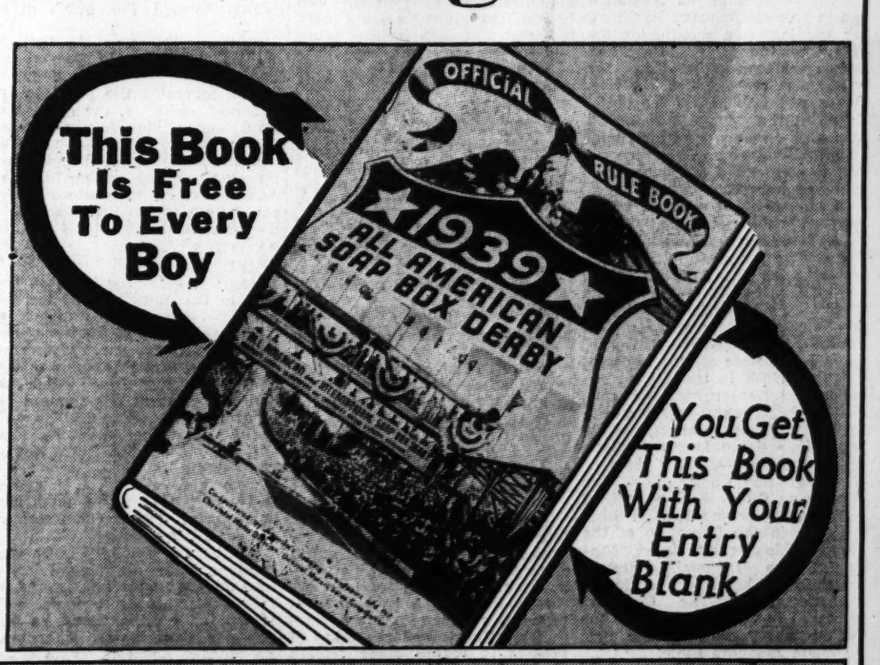

To enable every boy, regardless of circumstances, to have a representative racer, The Constitution has devised a plan whereby boys may secure (without cost) a complete set of the necessary regulation metal parts for a racer. The set consists of 4 steel disc wheels, 62 bolts, nuts and lock washer, 4 hub caps and 12 screws; 8 ball-bearings, 4 racing tires for wheels, 4 axles and 4 axle mountings; 4 body plates; 4 carriage bolts and nuts; 20 extra bolts and lock washers and 10 feet of steering cable. With this set, a rule book, a bit of lumber and a few tools, any boy can build a speedy racer. A racer capable of carrying him to victory and fame. Details of how to get this complete set can be had by calling or writing the office of The Atlanta Constitution. The set was made by the Eagle Lock Company especially for building Soap Box Racers. It is sold at retail for $6.50; but can be had through The Constitution without one cent of cost.

Every Boy Aged 10 to 15 Years Is Eligible«««

On Derby Day Every Boy Wishes That He Had Entered!

Pictured at the left is Lamar McDaniels, winner of the 1938 North Georgia Derby. He is shown receiving last minute advice from Wilbur Shaw at the National finals in Akron in 1938. Shaw is a professional racer and the 1939 winner of the Indianapolis Speedway Classic. Lamar, the son of an Atlanta Fireman, was the envy of every Georgia boy . . . boys who did not enter, as well as those who raced him. Your boy has an equal chance to duplicate Lamar's feat and become the recipient of many valuable prizes including an all-expense trip to the National finals. The North Georgia Derby will be held at Soap Box Derby Downs in Atlanta on July 22. The winner of this race will compete in the National finals in Akron, Ohio, August 13. Your boy needs every available minute from now until then for building his car, therefore, urge him to go at once to the nearest Chevrolet dealer and enter. Zone races will be held in West Point, Ga., Newnan, Carrollton, Marietta, Madison, Conyers, Monroe and Gainesville. If you live in or near these places get your entry blank and rule book from the Chevrolet dealers in these cities. Dates for zone races will be announced later. Winners in these races will compete in the North Georgia finals in Atlanta. BOYS, PLAN NOW TO WIN THE GREATEST AMATEUR RACING EVENT IN THE WORLD!

CUBA CONSIDERS ADMITTING JEWS BY REVISING LAWS

Change Would Permit 3-Month Residence as Visitors, Then $500 Bond if Stay Is Continued.

HAVANA, June 3.—(AP)—A possibility that 907 refugee German Jews on the homeward-bound German liner St. Louis might be permitted to land in Cuba after once being turned down was disclosed semi-officially tonight.

Well-informed sources said that the Treasury Department was considering a new regulation to modify Cuba's immigration law. The regulation, expected to be signed by President Frederico Laredo Bru within a few days, would permit the landing in Cuba of all foreigners desiring to remain not over three months.

$500 Bond Apiece.

They would be classed as passengers en route and, after the three-month period, would be required to place a $500 bond if they wished to remain. Many of those on board the St. Louis had planned to wait in Cuba for admission into the United States under quota restrictions.

(In New York Joseph C. Hyman, of the American Jewish joint distribution committee, also said there was a likelihood that the refugees would be permitted to land in Cuba. He stated that Lawrence Berenson, of New York, counsel for the National Co-ordination Committee for the Aid of Refugees, would continue a series of conferences with President Laredo Bru tomorrow, after which an announcement would be made.)

The exact location of the St. Louis, which sailed from here Friday under orders of President Laredo Bru after being refused permission to land the refugees, was not known here tonight.

Headed for Hamburg.

Luis Clasing, Havana representative of the Hamburg-America, said he did not know the ship's position and that it could be assumed she was headed for Hamburg.

Another refugee vessel, the steamer Flandre, received permission to remain temporarily at Vera Cruz, Mexico, when she was weighing anchor with 98 of 104 Jews who had been denied entry into Cuba. It was believed that 50 of the refugees would be permitted to disembark but that others, who were not able to furnish money for six months' residence, would have to leave when the vessel sails tomorrow.

The St. Louis had sailed from Hamburg May 15.

Today, there came an offer of haven from the Dominican Republic's government on condition that each refugee pay a $500 tax to reside permanently in the country.

NEGRO GRADUATES WILL HEAR RECITAL

Graham Jackson To Give Musical Program Before Exercises.

A half-hour organ recital by Graham Jackson, Atlanta negro musician, will precede the baccalaureate exercises for the graduating classes of all the negro schools in the city, to be held this morning in the city auditorium.

The musical program will begin at 10:30 o'clock and the formal exercises at 11 o'clock. The first part of Jackson's program will be devoted to popular classics, the second part to famous hymns of several nations.

Present will be 500 graduates of Booker T. Washington High school; 800 colored junior high school pupils, and 700 elementary school children. A choir of 400 voices, directed by Essie M. Groves, musical instructor of Booker T. Washington school, will sing during the exercises.

For the first time in the history of negro education in Atlanta, a woman, Stella Brooks, professor of English at Clark University, will give the baccalaureate address. She will be introduced by Dr. M. S. Davage, president of Clark. Invocation will be given by Bishop R K. Burrus, president of the National Churches of God, Holiness, and the Rev. G. D. Kelsey of the School of Religion, Morehouse College, will read from the Scriptures. The Washington High school band will play for the processional and the recessional.

WILL COLE JONES IS MERCER ORATOR

Atlanta Newsman To Speak for Graduates Tomorrow.

Will Cole Jones, Atlanta newspaperman, has been selected by the Mercer University Alumni Association to be the alumni day orator tomorrow. Judge R. C. Bell, justice of the state supreme court, is president of the association and is to preside over the alumni programs of the day. Jones will speak at 11:30 o'clock in the college chapel.

While at Mercer University Mr. Jones won many scholastic and publication honors and later taught at the university before going into newspaper work.

SOUTHERN AND MAJOR AVERAGES

All in the GAME
by Jack Troy

It may be asking too much for fishermen to believe this, but—

The boys have been throwing out their lines with hunks of soap for bait and the results are amazing, according to Carl Flock, who phoned yesterday.

"I don't know what the answer is," Flock said, "but I have my own ideas. You know, it has been rather muddy because of the frequent rains. And since we have tried using soap for bait the fish have been taking it and almost seem appreciative of our consideration."

The soap-for-bait stunt is no gag, however. They've actually been catching many pounds of fish that way. If the fish slip off the bait, their reward is a good cleansing. If they are hooked, the lucky anglers get a cleaner fish. And then again, if they get away with the soap, they are forever blowing bubbles, and it is a simple matter to trail them down.

The latest method probably ends the unique manner in which fish have been caught at the bass and catfish-infested lake this summer. Previously the fish simply jumped in the boats. And then when rains muddied the water, the fish were glad to accept soap.

If you should happen to read anything like the following, in connection with fishing there, don't believe it:

"Fishermen at Jackson lake tried out a new scheme today and it worked like a charm. Plugs of chewing tobacco were tossed on the water. And then when the fish came up to spit, the fishermen just him them in the head."

Not all the fishing there is unorthodox, however. Some people actually have been known to catch the funny finnies using ordinary equipment and recognized lures.

REAL FOE FOR OBIE.

On November 18, 1937, Leroy Haynes, colored Philadelphia heavyweight, knocked out Tony Galento, who will fight Joe Louis soon for the world's title, in three rounds.

And on June 15, 1939, at Ponce de Leon park, Bearcat Obie, finest Atlanta colored fighter since Tiger Flowers, will match his skill and punch against Leroy Haynes.

Atlanta fans long have wanted to see the barrel-chested Obie matched against an opponent worthy of his mettle, and Haynes seems to fit the bill.

Besides his rather quick knockout of Galento, the human beer barrel, Haynes twice knocked out Primo Carnera, and put away such other recognized fighters as Natie Brown, Salvatore Ruggirello, Bob Olin and others.

Haynes knocked out Abe Feldman, last foe of Galento, in two rounds. It took Galento three.

Seems strange that Atlanta will see a foe more worthy of meeting Joe Louis than New Yorkers will when the world's title is at stake.

Fact of the matter is the Haynes-Obie battle at the ball park a week from Thursday stacks up as a much better attraction than the Galento-Louis championship fight.

After all, Galento was a push-over for Haynes in three rounds, and not so long ago in a Miami ring, Obie and Haynes battled to a 15-round draw.

LOOKS LIKE BIG SEASON.

If efforts of matchmakers are rewarded Atlanta fans are due for a big summer in boxing. Ben Brown will wage a rigorous campaign in the middleweight division and will appear here several times before the fall.

And before summer is over, either Tony Canzoneri or Lou Ambers, or both, are due to appear in an Atlanta ring. Although he lost his welterweight title to Henry Armstrong on a decision, critics still believe Ambers is the tougher fighter.

The trend toward "name fighters" is a very encouraging sign. Such shows will be worthy of Atlantans' support.

PU-LEEZE, MR. MILLER! LOOK WHERE YOU'RE PITCHING --- OR PITCH WHERE YOU'RE LOOKING

Victim of Bean Ball Shows Improvement

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 3.—(AP) Physicians were encouraged today by a slight improvement in the condition of Gene Hasson, Montreal International league baseball player who was struck by a pitched ball Tuesday.

Crackers and Vols Play Couple Today

Smoll, Durham or Stewart To Face Volunteers at Sulphur Dell.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 3.—The Crackers and Vols lost a decision to Jupiter Pluvius here this afternoon as the first of a three-game series was rained out.

A double-header is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and then the Crackers return home to meet Chattanooga's rampant Lookouts Monday night.

Manager Paul Richards had planned to start chunky Bobby Durham on the mound today. Bobby, a top-notch relief pitcher, has not opened a game this season. He likely will pitch the night-cap tomorrow afternoon, with with Clyde Smoll or Mack Stewart foggin' 'em in there in the opener.

Orlin Collier, veteran right-hander, will pitch the first game for the Vols, but Manager Larry Gilbert was not so sure about his other choice.

Al Rubeling, who pulled a muscle in his left thigh at Knoxville Friday, is due to return to second base tomorrow, but if he remains out, Stan Sperry will play the keystone and Marshall Mauldin will go to third.

HERRING RELEASED

CHICAGO, June 3.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox announced today that Art Herring, diminutive right-hander, has been released outright to St. Paul, of the American association, the club he played with last season.

Lookouts Open Here Monday Night; Crackers Change Schedule.

News comparable to the circus coming to town is the fact that the Chattanooga Lookouts, current Southern league leaders, will open a two-game series with the second-place Crackers Monday night at Ponce de Leon park.

Tuesday will be an off day, and the clubs will conclude the series in a night game Wednesday. Carlos Hemperly, of East Point, is giving a barbecue for members of both teams Tuesday afternoon.

There have been a few changes in the Cracker schedule, President Earl Mann announced yesterday. The Knoxville game of June 14 has been moved up a day, and the teams will play on the 12th and 13th with Wednesday an off day. The Crackers have to catch a train. And instead of playing the Smokies here on July 22-23-24, in July, Crackers will play in Knoxville and play a later series here on September 14-15 and a double-header on the 16th. A game with Nashville is being moved up to July 20 also.

The Knoxville series is being shifted in order to allow the Baptist World Alliance to use the ball park on July 22 and 23, and the Nashville game is being moved up to give the Baptists an extra day in which to prepare the park for their meetings.

Miller Sprains Back; Goes Out Indefintely

NASHVILLE, June 3.—Larry Miller, only Cracker hurler to capture as many as five games, suffered a badly spained back this afternoon and will be out indefinitely.

Miller was running after a ball in batting practice on the right field dump when the accident occurred.

Manager Paul Richards announced that Pitcher Mack Stewart would be reinstated, and that Clyde Smoll and Bobby Durham or Stewart would start against the Vols in Sunday's double-header here. Durham had been nominated to start Saturday's rained-out game.

The condition of Al Rubeling was reported as improved but still doubtful. If Rubeling goes back into the lineup Sunday Sperry will shift back to third base, and Mauldin will go to center field.

U. S. POLOISTS MEET BRITONS

Stewart Iglehart Will Replace Injured Cecil Smith Today.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Despite a last-hour shift in the lineup that saw Stewart Iglehart replace Cecil Smith, the great Tommy Hitchcock Jr. will lead a favored United States polo team against the British tomorrow in defense of the international trophy at the Meadow Brook Club.

Smith, rated the country's greatest No. 2, was forced to withdraw from the lineup today when a brief workout showed he was not fully recovered from injuries suffered in a test match earlier in the week. Hitchcock, for 17 years a 10-goal player, will take over the hard-riding Texan's position with Stewart Iglehart replacing the United States captain at No. 3.

Mike Phipps, handicapped with Hitchcock, Smith and Iglehart at 10 goals, will ride at No. 1 with Winston Guest, veteran sevel-goal internationalist, at back. This combination is rated at 37 goals, three more than the strongest team the British have assembled since winning the famous $200 trophy the last time in 1914.

The British themselves had a difficult time deciding on their lineup. After three months of preparation in this country, Lord Cowdray, non-playing captain, announced today the invaders would take the field at 2:30 p. m. (eastern standard time) with Bob Skene, an Australian, at No. 1; Aidan Roark at No. 2, Gerald Balding at No. 3 and Eric Tyrrell-Martin at back. Roark is a brother of Pat Roark, who was fatally injured during a test match on the west coast.

Exactly 25 years ago, on the same turf, as war clouds gathered over Europe, Britain won the cup. In 1921, when the series was resumed at Hurlingham, England, the Americans recaptured the old trophy with the then youthful Hitchcock playing for the first time. They successfully defended it in 1924, 1927, 1930 and 1936.

Johnstown Romps In Belmont Event

Belay Is Second, Gilded Knight, Third; Winner is 1-8 in Betting.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Tall, dark and handsome Johnstown just about claered up any lingering doubt to his right as champion of the three-year-olds today by galloping home a five-lengths winner in the 71st running of the classic Belmont stakes.

Adding this mile-hand-a-half test of endurance and speed to his previous conquests in the Withers mile, the Kentucky Derby, the Wood Memorial and the Paumonok, William Woodward's whirlwind ran away from a field of five others.

Starting from the rail, he broke on top, and made every pole a winning one as he covered the long run in 2 minutes 29 3-5 seconds, just one second off the track record, set by War Admiral in winning this stake two years ago.

Without the hindrance of heavy going, such as that which proved him no mudder in the Preakness—his only defeat in seven three-year-old starts—"Big John" was the whole show. Jockey Jimmy Stout had to do little more than hold on.

Coming into the stretch Stout even had time to turn his head to see what was doing behind him. It was plenty, for A. C. Bostwick's Belay and Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Gilded Knight, the latter Johnstown's entry-mate, were battling it out head to head for the place position.

BELAY SECOND.

Belay, a consistent brown son of Display, finally won out by half a length, with the Knight third and the Earle Sande-trained Heather Broom a length farther back in fourth place.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Hash, which had run second most of the way up to a mile, tired and wound up fifth. Joseph E. Widener's Knickerbocker, previously undefeated in three outings, was last in a field which had been cut to six by earlier scratches of William Ziegler Jr.'s Time Sheet and Woodward's stable-mate of Johnstown, Challenge.

With a lightning fast track and bright, warm weather, there were few among the 20,000 spectators who could see anything but Johnstown. As a result, the three-year-old "Mr. Big" was backed far down in the betting, winding up at 1 to 8, and "out and out" for place

SMITHIES ELECT GRANT CAPTAIN

Tech High's Smithies re-elected Harvey Grant captain of next year's baseball team at a vote conducted Friday at school.

Coach Sidney Scarborough, who refuses to concede Boys' High's claim to the prep baseball title, but instead maintains the Smithies and the Purples are co-champions, awarded letters to 15 players and two managers.

Those who received letters were: Bob Cook, Edgar Maxwell, Walter Bracewell, Irving Tinsley, James Freck, Harvey Grant, E. B. Sikes, Harry Melvin, Royce Huggins, Otis Ragsdale, Van Whitley, Marion West, Joe Wilson, Mike Dorsch, Floyd Nichols, and managers Dan Poarch and Joe Northcutt.

Ex-Bulldog Married In Two Ceremonies

LEESBURG, Fla., June 3.—(AP)—Fred Panknin Miller, 29, former University of Georgia football player, and Miss Eleanor Marion Kirkland, 22, a school teacher, were married today in two ceremonies.

The Rev. J. G. Stradley performed the first at the Methodist parsonage here and the Rev. Father M. J. Nixon the second at an Ocala Catholic church.

The couple left for New York, where they will live. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Kirkland, of Leesburg, and the groom is the son of Thomas T. Miller, of Augusta, Ga.

Frank Anderson Named Regional Amateur Head

National All-American Trials for Baseball Clubs Set at Cooperstown, N. Y., July 27.

Attention, all amateurs.

National all-American trials under the auspices of the National Baseball Congress will be held at Cooperstown, N. Y., July 27 to August 5.

Players chosen for the team will be awarded a trip to Havana, Cuba, for participation in the Jone Moores cup series—world's amateur baseball championship August 12-27—with all expenses paid.

There may be some outstanding amateur players in Georgia interested in trying out for the team, and full particulars may be obtained by writing or otherwise getting in touch with Frank Anderson, baseball coach at Oglethorpe. Anderson has been named regional director for Georgia and North and South Carolina.

Anderson has revealed that three of his Petrel players have shown a high interest in the tryouts—namely, George Hooks and Sam Worthington, pitchers, and Downs, a second baseman.

A nominal registration fee and expenses covering the trials at Cooperstown will be explained by Anderson to all amateurs interested. He may be reached at Oglethorpe or at his home in Decatur.

Gehrig Is Undecided About Visiting Clinic

CLEVELAND, June 3.—(AP) Manager Joe McCarthy and First Baseman Lou Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, said today they were undecided when Gehrig would go to the Mayo clinic for a physical check-up. They added, however, the Yanks' visit to Chicago for a series starting June 7 probably would offer a good opportunity.

Gehrig's plans to go to the Rochester (Minn.) hospital became known here Thursday, but at first were denied by the "Iron Man," who recently dropped out of the Yankee lineup after playing 2,130 consecutive games.

"I think a thorough examination will be a good idea," Gehrig said today.

"What Lou decides will be O. K. with me," McCarthy supplemented.

GIANTS CONQUER CARDINALS, 6 TO 5

By The Associated Press.

After dropping seven straight to the Cincinnati Reds, the Boston Bees finally came through yesterday to squeeze out a 4-3 victory. Jim Turner, who started on the mound for the Bees, was forced to leave in the sixth when a line drive broke his nose.

Offsetting a three-run rally in the seventh by the Cardinals with a four-run splurge of their own, the New York Giants beat St. Louis, 6 to 5. Four of the Giants' runs came on homers by Hank Danning and Tony Lazzeri, each with a man on base.

A six-run rally in the eighth inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 10-to-5 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers and a split of their two-game series. Glen Russell hit a homer for the Cubs in the fifth and Ernie Koy one for the Dodgers with two on in the eighth.

The Pittsburgh Pirates knocked Relief Pitcher Al Hollingsworth out of the box in the enghth with five runs to win, 10 to 7, over the Phillies.

BOAT RACES SET THIS AFTERNOON

Groover's Lake Scene of Events; Lady Drivers Will Compete.

Femininity will be set aside as the first ladies of the Atlanta Motor Boat Club, run in their initial race this afternoon at Groover's lake, near Austell.

Up to the present time, Claude Smith, Atlanta's ace driver, has been much in the limelight, but after Sunday's races followers of the sport may expect to see and read about Mrs. Claude Smith. Other drivers of the day (wives of well-known Atlanta drivers) will be: Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Kate Groover, Mrs. Ralph Cutter and Mrs. Wynn. The ladies, or the weaker sex, as they are sometimes humorously called, will triumph again as they enter into another of the sports world, heretofore known only to man.

The races will open with the time trials, which will be followed in order by three "C" races of four laps each, a handicap race among drivers of the time trials, water stunts, three free-for-all races of four laps each, and the ladies race of four laps.

Until recently, it hasn't been generally known that Atlanta and Georgia have some of the best outboard pilots in the country and the races, consequently, are producing many thrills. From a spectator's standpoint the Sunday program will be well worth attending, as there will be some stunts besides the regular program of races, and the special ladies' race.

There are a lot of angles in the attractive program of one of Georgia's fastest-moving and most rapidly growing sports. Atlanta sportsmen who have never seen crack outboard drivers in action have missed one of the most thrilling spectacles.

BILL BECKMAN BEATS BROWNS

Yankees Nose Out Indians, 3-2; Chisox Whip Nats, 8 to 7.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Philadelphia Athletics rallied in the ninth inning of both games of a double-header yesterday to inflict the 10th and 11th defeats in a row on the helpless St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3 and 8 to 6. Joe Gantenbein and Sam Chapman hit home runs for the A's in the last inning of the second game.

Bill Beckman, ex-Cracker, pitched for the Athletics in the first game. He allowed nine hits but didn't walk a man and batted in a run.

The Chicago White Sox won another uphill victory over Washington, 8 to 7. Gee Walker's attempted steal of home in the eighth inning resulted in the winning run as Catcher Angelo Giuliani dropped Pitcher Joe Krakauskas' throw. The triumph gave the Chicagoans the series, two games to one.

Babe Dahlgren homered and singled to account for two runs as the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 3 to 2 for a sweep of their three-game series. Bump Hadley gave only five hits but had to be lifted in the ninth.

A's, 5-8; BROWNS 3-6.

COOPER LEADING IN ROUND ROBIN

Denny Shute Makes Most Remarkable Recovery, Gaining 23 Points.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—Two men who together could fit into his shadow over-shadowed National Open Champion Ralph Guldahl today as one went flying by him and the other came nipping at his heels in the third day of the $5,000 Goodall round-robin golf tournament.

Light-Horse Harry Cooper cut two points off Guldahl's lead by beating him and Tony Penna, 1 up, in the morning round while Guldahl was finishing all even. In the afternoon, Cooper piled up nine more points against Craig Wood and Johnny Revolta. Guldahl, stacking up against the hottest scoring streak the tourney has had so far, finished four down to Denny Shute and 2 up on Paul Runyan for a net loss of two.

RAISES SCORE.

That combination of events raised Cooper's point score to plus 26; lowered Guldahl's to 21, and lifted Shute into third place with a plus 17 score.

Shute made the most remarkable recovery. Starting the day far down the list of 15 contenders with a minus 6 rating, Denny carved out a three-under-par 67, one shot off the course record, to win 15 holes from Revolta and Jimmy Thomson. Then he came back after lunch to post a 68 and finish 4 up each on Guldahl and Runyan. Denny thus gained 23 points.

Snead, who won last year at Cincinnati, took a decided tumble. The West Virginian, after losing four holes his first time out, fired a 71 for his fifth round. But even though he was only one over par, he lost four more points as Hines shot a 68 at him and Hogan posted a 69. That dropped Sam down to ninth with plus 5.

BEST OF MEET.

Today's scoring generally was the best of the tournament. In addition to Shute's two sub-par performances and the one each by Hines and Hogan, Wood cracked out a 69 in the morning and Penna a 68 in the afternoon. The little

Birmingham-Southern To Abandon Football

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 3.—(AP)—President Raymond R. Paty announced today Birmingham-Southern College, an almost perennial leader in the Dixie Football conference, would abandon the grid sport after the 1939 season.

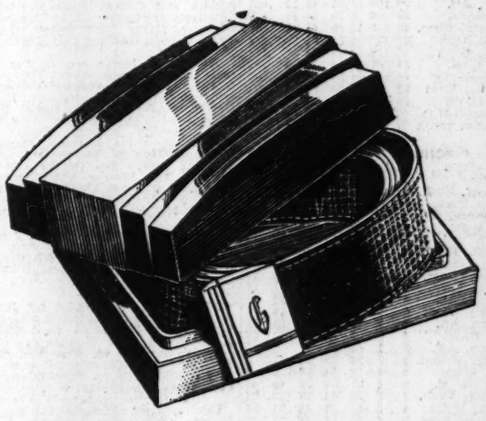

The college will substitute an enlarged intramural athletic program, Dr. Paty said.

A sub-committee of the school planning board recommended recently that the college drop competitive football or go into the game on a "big time" scale.

Birmingham-Southern, which won four games and lost five in 1938, has won the Dixie conference title three times since 1931. Teams from several southern states make up the conference.

ABERNATHY'S .407 TOP MARK; HAFEY 2D; MAILHO THIRD

Smokies Leading Hitters With .318; Chicks and Barons Lead Fielding.

By HOWE NEWS BUREAU.

While out of the lead for a few days, Woodley Abernathy, Knoxville outfielder, bounced back on top by rapping out six hits in seven trips to the plate in Thursday's doubleheader and continues to lead the Southern Association with a mark of .407.

Bud Hafey, another Knoxville outfielder, went up 3 points and held second position with .396. He holds the total base lead with 112, helped by his four homers during the week.

Emil Mailho, Atlanta outfielder, has the same figure as last week, .389, and is third. Mailho leads in doubles with 15 and in stolen bases with 11.

Bill Nicholson, Chattanooga outfielder, snapped out of his slump and climbed 24 points to .363 and into fourth place. Calvin Chapman, Nashville outfielder, lost most of his departmental leads but had .357 for fifth until he went hitless Thursday night and Marshall Mauldin took fifth place. Chapman leads in homers with 12 and in runs batted in with 35. Chapman has hit safely in his last 18 straight games. Mauldin rose from .336 to .356 during the week.

MAULDIN

Hafey, Mailho and Babe Young, of Knoxville, share the lead in hits with 61.

Include day games of Thursday, June 1.

MICKEY BAKER.

World's Record Holder Takes D. A. R. Medal

"Mickey" Baker Named by Classmates as Best Citizen—Holds 25-Yard Mark.

By BILL MUNDAY.

He is only a mite—83 pounds, freckle-face, and in all, a typical American youngster. Like all American boys, he loves to play, honorably, diligently, the idea foremost in his mind of enhancing his little body.

He likes to study; he likes to play. He does. With fond reflection of proud parents.

Last year, at the age of 12, this cherub in the Georgia and southern swimming meet swam 25 yards in the fastest time ever recorded, 13.1.

His record, however, cannot stand officially, in as much as the aquatic tournament had not been advertised six months in advance.

This lad, though, despite the fact that he had been informed he had swam 25 yards at better time than any child under 12 since time immemorial, has other ideals.

For example, last week the Ponce de Leon school, at Decatur, graduated its seventh year class. And Walter E. Baker Jr., who everyone knows as "Mickey," was presented by popular vote of his classmates the citizenship award offered annually by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Qualifications include leadership, character and scholarship.

SANDLOT BALL

The North Side Pirates and the West End Cardinals will raise the curtain on the 1939 sandlot baseball season Wednesday at 11 o'clock on the northwest diamond at Piedmont park. The first 15 minutes of the opening game will be broadcast over radio station WSB from 11:15 to 11:30 a. m. from the diamond at Piedmont park. A group of baseball celebrities will be on hand for the opening game and will assist in the program. They include Major Trammell Scott, president of the Southern association; Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers, with several of the Cracker players, and George Simons, general manager of parks and city sandlot commissioner.

The year being the 100th anniversary of the founding of baseball, officials are hoping to have a larger number of sandlot teams in the city of Atlanta than ever before. Thirty-five teams have registered to date and more are expected to turn in their contracts this week. Six leagues have already been organized as follows: American league: North Side Pirates, West End Cardinals, Piedmont Reds, West End Bears, West End Cubs and Brookhaven Barons. National league: Lakewood Aces, Grant Park Bulldogs, Kirkwood Athletics, Inman Park Smokies, Egan Screws and College Park Bulldogs. Pacific league: Maddox Cubs, Chattahoochee Sluggers, Carey Park Rebels, Goldsmith Night Hawks, Oakland City Cardinals and the Mohairs.

The above teams are in the 16-year and under classification. Fourteen-year leagues: Southern league: Central Cafe Midgets, South Side Indians, Kirkwood Yellow Jackets, East Lake Smokies, Chosewood Cardinals and Atlanta Athletics. Central league: Capitol View Chicks, Riverside Hornets, Maddox Indians, Goldsmith Tormentors, Candler Building Tigers and Center Hill Yellow Jackets. The 19-year and under league includes Lakewood Tigers, Bankhead All-Stars, North West Tigers, South Side Robins, Maddox Park and Atlanta Boys' Club.

The sandlot program is being sponsored by the city parks department in conjunction with the recreation division of the Works Progress Administration of Georgia.

NOTE: Teams not scheduled to play this week will begin play on the week of the twelfth. Other teams wishing to enter a league are requested to call the recreation department, Walnut 4463, Extension 67.

—BOWLING—

The annual Mixed Bowling league, that is scheduled during the summer months on the downtown alleys each year, will open scheduled play this Tuesday evening, June 6, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Fifty men and women are expected to make up the 12 or more teams in this unique and interesting bowling group, with two men and two women composing each team.

The handicap system will apply on a similar basis to other league play following the first night of rolling, with the lower average team receiving two-thirds the difference between their average, for the four players, and their opponents' combined average.

Entries for the league include a team of four players from the Claude S. Bennett, Inc. Jewelry Store; a team composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carper; a team composed of Martha Cleveland, Elizabeth Folk, J. R. Bailey and C. S. Kieth; a team composed of Mr. and Mrs. Turnipseed and Mr. and Mrs. Hurst; a team from Cluett-Peabody Company, Inc.; a team composed of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Fowler and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson; a team composed of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peacock, Carolyn Crosby and partner; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Fields and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pearce will have another team; others who will have teams or roll on teams will include Hope McKerley and Bob McCoy, Misses Margaret and Dorothy Macill and Bill Hames, Mrs. Katie Groover, Nell Shropshire, Emma Baird, Mary Pearson, Grady Graves, Ed Glading, Sara Paris and C. E. Hall, K. Herder and J. C. Banks, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kimbro and others.

BARNES DEFEATS DAN YATES, 4 TO 3

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 3.—(AP)—Defending Champion Red Roberts, of Dalton, Ga., entered the semifinal round of the Tennessee Valley invitation golf tournament today by defeating Jennings Gordon, of Rome, Ga., 2 and 1.

Luke Barnes quashed the hopes of a fellow Atlantan, Dan Yates, who was the tournament medalist. Yates lost to Barnes, 4 to 3. Other winners today were Ted Stapleton, of Chattanooga, over Jack Jones, Chattanooga, 3 and 2, and Ed Herron, of Houston, Texas, over Polly Boyd, of Chattanooga, 4 and 3.

Today's matches will see Roberts fighting off the bid of Stapleton, who has become a dark horse with a chance of overthrowing the champ. Barnes and Herron will make up the other semifinal match. Finals will be played tomorrow afternoon.

WARREN TO SEEK 21ST WIN TODAY

Winner of 20 games against four defeats and a tie, the classy Warren baseball team, which ranks among the strongest semi-pro clubs in Dixie, will meet Cartersville this afternoon at Warren athletic field at 3:30.

Ladies will be admitted free.

Ralph West, one-time Atlanta Cracker, will be on the firing line for the Warren club, which is managed by Shep Lauter.

Warren will invade LaGrange to oppose the Callaway Mills nine on Monday night. Warren has beaten every team which they have lost to this season.

L. M. Davis Leads 'Y' Volley Ball Race

The final day of the volleyball auto race at the Y. M. C. A. will be held Monday afternoon. L. M. Davis continues to lead with a score of 75 miles to his credit, but is closely followed by Harold Smith who has traversed 70 miles in his quest of the championship.

Atlantans Will Box Pensacola Tuesday

The opening match of the summer season for the Atlanta amateur boxing team will be held Tuesday night in Pensacola, Fla. Coach Pug Smith, on short notice, announces the following lineup to make the trip. Bill Findley and H. E. "Bandana Kid" Pennington, featherweights; Johnny Wade, lightweight; Johnnie Miller, welterweight, and Tommy Stanford, middleweight.

The boys will leave by auto early Monday and return Wednesday. Swimming in the surf, fishing and other entertainment has been arranged by Julian Olsen, popular boxing head of Pensacola.

SONG OF DEAD SOLDIERS.

Lost winds have found us through fields of poppy stain.
They whisper all around us of lovers in the lane,
Of twilights far behind us, that held June's ancient vow;
They brought old dreams to find us—as if it mattered now.

Our crosses lean together with each far wind that blows;
The same in summer weather as through the winter snows;
And no one may remember the snowdrift or the sun,
Where June and bleak December to us are always one.

Yes summer crowns the mountains where moonlight seeks the plains;
There's music in the fountains that leap to summer rains;
The dogwood blossoms scatter their snowdrift through the glen,
For us it doesn't matter—and never will again.

For you the rose, entwining, may climb the garden wall;
For you soft eyes are shining where summer dusk winds call;
But what if June has found us, who may not even know
If poppies bloom around us—or drifts of winter snow?

A SHOCK TO TERRY.

NEW YORK.—The most shattering experience any major league manager has known this spring has come to Bill Terry, with the Giants reeling about in the second division. Others managers—Leo Durocher, Oscar Vitt, Pie Traynor and Del Baker—have had a hard time of it. This is especially true of Baker, with the Tigers falling so deep in the league they can't possibly climb to within striking distance of the Yankees.

None of these other managers, however, had hopes as bright as Terry's. Durocher moved off to his first year as manager with a second division ball club. Traynor started with the team that folded in the stretch last year—a team no better, if no worse, than it was in 1938. Vitt and Baker had the Yankees to contend with and it isn't likely that either of them seriously figured on winning the pennant.

Terry did, however. Many of the critics, looking at the Giants as they wound up their spring training, picked them to finish second or third but agreed that they could not win the pennant or finish as low as sixth. There were too many uncertainties: Bonura, Whitehead, Myatt, Hubbell, Schumacher and others.

Bill shared none of their doubts. He hoped Hubbell and Schumacher would come back but he felt that even if they didn't the other pitchers would carry the Giants through. He was very much encouraged by the relief pitching the team had had in its spring games. He thought it would be considerably better than it was last year. With Bonura added to the batting order and Danning on full-time duty—and with Ott and Moore swinging along as usual—Bill thought the team had a real punch at last.

Then Things Happened.

Almost everything has happened to upset his calculations. The pitching staff has staggered woefully. Whitehead has come through magnificently—at times he seems to be holding the team together all by himself—but Myatt failed and was sent back to Jersey City. Bill has shaken up the team several times—even to the extent of benching Danning and Bonura—in an effort to develop a punch. Most distressing and unexpected of all, Moore has been in a slump since the opening of the season.

The National league race being as it is, the Giants, for all their ills and setbacks, still are close enough to the top to make it in a few strides—if they can work up a real stride and the leading teams falter. But Bill has been shaken—as who wouldn't be?—by his experience. He firmly believed that by this time the Giants either would be in front or running along smoothly no worse than second or third.

The Hardest Task.

Pulling the Giants out of the rut and sending them along toward the top of the league may be a task harder than any Terry has faced since he took over the management of the club in 1932. It figures that way.

Under Terry the Giants finished in a tie for sixth place in 1932. This was the team that generally had been picked to win the pennant that spring, with McGraw still in command. But something had happened to it and McGraw's grip on it had weakened. McGraw had turned his command over to Terry but by that time—although it was only June—the decline of the Giants had progressed so far that Bill couldn't do anything about it. They were in last place when he got them and he hoisted them up as far as sixth but there they stuck.

Bill proved right there that he could work well in adversity. He shuffled his material, made a few deals—and came up with the pennant and the world championship in 1933. He missed in 1934 and 1935 and came back to win in 1936 and 1937. But to my mind, the best job he has done so far was to land the Giants in third place last year.

Last year's team was shot through with injuries, some of the players were wearing out and others plainly were discontented. Bill had to scramble the squad ever once in a while and put infielders in the outfield and outfielders in the infield to get nine men in action at the same time. There were days—and not just a few days, either—when they looked like an International league team—and I don't mean the Newark Bears. But somehow they managed to hold on and, in a last, desperate try in September almost regained the lead just before they were overtaken by a great weariness.

More Changes Necessary.

Obviously, Terry had to make some changes with the coming of another year. The trade with the Cubs was one of them, the purchase of Bonura was another. These moves, plus the apparent improvement in such pitchers as Melton, Gumbert, Lohrman and Castleman, seemed to satisfy him—to convince him that the Giants were themselves again. He believed they were as good as they had been at any time since he took charge of them.

The blow fell quickly. He knew very early that he didn't have the team he thought he had—early enough for him to make more changes. And more changes are what the Giants need if they are going to get up there again.

KEN OUZTS TOPS SALLY CLOUTERS WITH .380 MARK

Alf Anderson Hits .330; Mike Anderson, Greenville, Leads Hurlers.

Ken Ouzts, Augusta first baseman, held tight to his .380 average of last week and took over the batting leadership of the Sally league as Allen McElreath, of Spartanburg, slipped back to third.

Augie Bergamo, Columbus outfielder, continued at his .363 pace and is fourth. Bergamo has hit the most triples, eight. Harry Whitehouse, Savannah outfielder, is fifth with 362. Alf Anderson, Savannah, is hitting .330.

Hal Quick, of the Greenville Spinners, has made the most hits, 71; the most total bases, 96; and has driven in the most runs, 37.

Include games of Wednesday, May 31.

Atlanta Women's Golf Tourney Will Start Monday

WIDE-OPEN FIGHT FOR TITLE SEEN IN ANNUAL MEET

Mrs. Perry Crawford Won't Defend Crown; Butler Is Favored.

By ROY WHITE.

A wide open battle looms for Atlanta's women's golf championship this week on the tough No. 1 East Lake course with the announcement that Mrs. Perry Crawford, the 1938 winner, will not defend her crown.

Mrs. Crawford, Margaret Maddox, a former winner—and Georgia's champion last year, and Dorothy Kirby, former southern women's champion, likewise will not compete, leaving the field wide open for a new champion to be crowned.

Qualifying rounds will be played at 9 o'clock Monday morning over the 18-hole route. An approaching and putting contest has been set for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon as the first added attraction to the week's play.

FIRST ROUND.

First-round matches will be played Tuesday morning and there will be only 16 participants in each flight, so that the finals may be played on Friday morning. All matches will be played in the morning throughout the tournament.

The defeated eight in each flight will form consolation flights and trophies and prizes will be given to the winner and runner-up in each flight as well as the consolations.

A mixed foursome play will start at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon immediately after the new champion has been crowned.

BUTLER FAVORED.

With Mrs. Crawford, Miss Maddox and Miss Kirby on the sidelines, the favorites' roles will be taken by Mrs. Colleen Butler, Georgia's new champion; Mrs. Joe Horacek Jr., formerly Miss Dorothy Sanford; Mrs. W. D. Tumlin, who defeated Mrs. Crawford to win East Lake's woman's championship last fall; Mrs. Mark Larned, Druid Hill's 1938 champion and co-medalist with Mrs. J. C. Wright in last year's city tournament; Mrs. W. D. Doak, a former state champion; Mrs. Wesley Vines and Mrs. Wright, president of the Atlanta Woman's Golf association.

The tournament is being sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Golf association and every woman golfer in the city is eligible to participate. Non-members of the association will have to join the association or pay an extra $1.00 associate membership fee in addition to the regular entry fee.

Atlantans Enjoy Highlands Opening.

A large group of Atlanta's golfers celebrated the opening of the Highlands Country Club, Highlands, N. C., Friday and Saturday with several rounds of golf in the mountains during the week end.

Jeff Modie, popular professional and formerly with the James L. Key course, resumed his duties as the Highlands pro Friday afternoon and will remain at the club throughout the summer months.

Officials of the Atlanta Athletic Club announced along with the opening of the clubhouse and the golf course, the finest bent grass tennis court in the south has been opened for play at Highlands.

Bobby Jones used the Highlands course for his last practice rounds in 1930 before he won his now-famous grand slam and then retired from major competition.

Highlands is only a few hours' drive from Atlanta and the new all-paved route from Dillard, Ga., to Highlands makes it much shorter than the old route through Franklin, N. C.

Two Eagles Carded At Candler Park.

W. B. Hardman, a southpaw, well past the half-century mark in years, sank a second shot on No. 1 for an eagle and finished with a 35, his best nine-hole score. Hardman took up golf only a couple of years ago.

Loy Atkinson, a caddy in a spare moment, got an eagle on No. 3 with a shot that ordinarily would have cost at least an extra stroke. The ball was sliced and looked to be out of bounds, but hit inside and bounced luckily onto the green and rolled in the cup against the pin.

Busy Day Awaits Ansley Park Golfers.

A busy day awaits members of the Ansley Park Golf Club with the first-round matches in the president's trophy tournament, a special one-day blind bogey in progress, and another round of the spring handicap tournament in progress.

The winners and losers in each division will form flights and continue play, with one week given over to each round.

2d Round Starts In Forrest Hills Play.

First-round matches in the Forrest Hills President's trophy tournament will be completed with this afternoon's matches.

Second-round matches will start Monday afternoon and the entire week will be given over to completion of the second round.

Blind Bogey Slated At James L. Key Today.

A blind bogey and all first-round matches in a special tournament for members of the James L. Key course, are scheduled for this afternoon.

Biltmore Net Finals Are Slated Today

Boland Plays Jones-Reese Winner; Mrs. Jones Battles Mrs. Coyne in Women's Finals.

Dr. Kells Boland will meet the winner of the incompleted Champ Reese-David Jones match this afternoon in the finals of the annual Biltmore tennis tournament at the Biltmore Club, on Fourth street between Juniper and Peachtree.

Finals in the women's singles and men's doubles will also be held and Bitsy Grant and Russell Bobbitt will play an exhibition match as an added attraction to the program.

Today's program in the Biltmore tennis championships:

2:30—Women's finals, Mrs. Etta Coyne vs. Mrs. David Jones. Best of three sets.

3:00 — Exhibition, Bryan Grant Jr. vs. Russell Bobbitt. Best of three sets.

5:30—Doubles finals, J. T. and Preston Chambers vs. Dr. Glenn Dudley and Charlie Rice.

Play starts at 1:30 with Reese and Jones finishing their terrific battle for the right to play Boland. Reese won the first set, 7-5, lost the second, 4-6, and was leading 8-7 in the third when rain halted the battle.

Mr. David Jones, state champion, will play Mrs. Etta Coyne in the finals of the doubles meet. Mrs. Coyne upset Miss Gladys Vallebuona in the semi-finals and is expected to give Mrs. Jones one of her hardest fights since coming to Atlanta.

J. T. and Preston Chambers will defend their doubles crown against the high-flying team of Dr. Glenn Dudley and Charlie Rice.

The exhibition match should be one of the best ever played here. Both Grant and Bobbitt are polishing up their games for the coming southern tournament and are in fine condition. Both are playing great tennis and fans will have a chance to see just how much to expect from Bitsy in the Dixie meet.

The Reese-Jones match has developed into a real battle. Reese is playing good tennis and has a good chance to upset the powerful top-seeded player, whose service comes across the net with the speed of a bullet.

Seats are available to the public. Forty cents is the damage.

SHOOT IS BILLED AT DAVIS RANGE

Representatives from the Gate City and Old Guard to participate in the national rifle shoot, June 22-24, at Sea Girt, N. J., will be selected June 10 at 2 o'clock in a special shoot at the W. J. Davis rifle range.

Guns and ammunition will be furnished shooters at the range.

A number of practice shoots have been arranged before the big shoot and any member of the Gate City, Old Guard who desires to practice or participate in the special event is asked to communicate with J. E. Oxford, captain of the team.

Obie Fights Haynes Here On June 15

One of the finest all-colored boxing shows ever arranged for this section is scheduled for the ball park Thursday night, June 15, with Bearcat Obie Walker, southern heavyweight champion, matched against Leroy Baynes, of Philadelphia, in one 10-round feature, and Elmer Ray, Florida champion, opposed to Otto McCall, of Darlington, S. C., in the other.

Cleve Roby, veteran Atlanta promoter, is staging the program for the five Prince Hall Masonic lodges of Atlanta. The ball park will be divided, with half the seats for white fans and the other half for colored patrons of the fistic sport.

The fight between Walker and Haynes is to be a return battle. They fought to a slashing 15-round draw not long ago in Miami.

Obie, finest Atlanta colored fighter since the late Tiger Flowers, made a great hit on a European tour a couple of years ago. He appeared before the crowned heads of Europe.

Notable facts in the record of Haynes are two victories over Primo Carnera and a three-round knockout of Tony Galento.

A fine supporting card will be arranged later by Matchmaker Roby.

Burleigh Grimes is so used to being banished from ball games, he gave himself the gate the other day going out of the dugout to talk to his pitcher twice in one inning—once too often, according to the rules.

Southern Net Meet Set Here Saturday

Grant, Ernie Sutter and Other Top Tennis Stars Will Compete.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Youthful talent, coming champions, will feature the 54th annual southern tennis championships which starts next Saturday, June 10, at the Northside Club.

From all parts of Dixie, collegiate and high school stars will come for the tournament which means more to a budding champion than any other. For it is largely on his play in the southern that one is ranked by the Southern Lawn Tennis Association.

All of the present ranking players in the south are expected to compete with the exception of Charlie Harris, No. 3, and Archie Henderson, No. 5. Bitsy Grant is No. 1, of course. He is followed by Ernie Sutter, of New Orleans.

Since these two clay court demons probably will be seeded first and second, chances are they will meet in the finals which will give Sutter a chance to avenge a loss at Bitsy's hands in the finals of the Atlanta invitation.

LARGE FIELD.

However, in view of the large field and many good young players, neither is better than an even money bet to reach the finals.

Gardner Mulloy, Russell Bobbitt, George Toley, Martin Buxby and a host of others are capable of upsetting the best.

In addition to men's singles, eight other tournaments will be held. There will be men's doubles, women's singles and doubles, girls' singles, mixed doubles, veterans' singles and doubles, and parent and child doubles.

The Northside, Tech, Piedmont Driving Club and the Atlanta Tennis Club courts will be used. However, all important matches will be held at the Northside Club.

FINALS JUNE 18.

Entries close Friday at noon. Local players start Saturday, while out-of-town stars wait until Monday before seeing action. Finals are scheduled Sunday, June 18.

One of the big threats in the doubles tournament will be the team of Bobbitt and Frank Guernsey, national Intercollegiate champion. The youthful southerners created quite an impression in the national doubles meet last season and are regarded as Davis Cup prospects.

SEEK RING CZAR.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Edward C. Foster, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, indorsed today a suggestion of Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, that boxing name a "czar" with powers comparable to those of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

CASSIDY, COLLINS ON MAT PROGRAM

A team wrestling match will be offered at the Warren Athletic field Thursday night. Professor Tustoo Higami, the Japanese sleeping hold specialist, teams with Joe Gunther, the southern champion, to meet Mike Cassidy and Jack Dillon, of California.

Tustoo Higami has put scores of wrestlers and fans to sleep and is expected to prove a sensation in Atlanta.

Most fans understand about a team match, or understand its basis, but for those who have not seen nor heard about a team match, this is one of the most thrilling forms of sports.

Two wrestlers are teamed against two other wrestlers, just like they would be in a handball game, and they battle it out until all is over. If one man is beaten before his partner loses, it is his tough luck. He must face both foes.

Northwest Georgia Circuit Is Formed

CARROLLTON, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—A new baseball circuit, known as the Northwest Georgia league, has begun play in this section.

Hal David, sports editor of the Carroll County Times, is president and H. D. Hatchett, of Bremen, secretary. Teams in the league are Carolina Mills, of Carrollton; Villa Rica, Buchanan, Bremen, Tallapoosa and Temple.

FOGGIN' 'EM IN.

CENTERVILLE, Iowa—Give Roy Burlingame a catcher and he'd probably win softball games without additional help. In a game here Burlingame struck out 21 batters in succession, allowing only five foul balls. His team won 11 to 0 and he counted one of the runs.

HACKNEY AGREES TO RETURN BOUT

Swell trouper that he is, Honey Boy Hackney last night agreed to give Jack McAdams a return match here after Promoter Nat Jones refused to sanction a fight featuring Black Jack Ross and Hackney for the southern title.

So Avondale fans will be afforded an opportunity to see a big-time grapple session starring two of the south's greatest scientific wrestlers in action Monday night. Honey Boy from the first made known his willingness to entertain McAdams further, and agreed to meet any qualified wrestler for the belt he now holds.

This should be one of the outstanding duels of the year with science playing the major part.

Tony Papalino, Italian wrestler, tackles Robert Brown, Canadian, in the semifinal match.

Another outstanding event on the card will include Son Almand and Billy Michaels in the opening match.

SOX, RED CAPS PLAY 2 TODAY

A double-header between the Atlanta White Sox and the Jacksonville Red Caps is scheduled this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park. The first game will begin at 2 o'clock.

The Atlanta club holds a slight edge of one game in the series which was begun in Jacksonville last week. The White Sox won two of the three games, and a victory in one of today's games will give them the series.

Doc Wingo and Jimmie Echols will hurl for the White Sox. The Red Caps plan to start Barnwell in the first game and "Spec" Ellis, ace of the staff, in the second game.

Both clubs are in top-notch playing form, except for Owen, of the White Sox, who is suffering from a minor stomach ailment. Owen expects to be at second base, his regular position, in today's game, however.

Carrier Continues Pacing N. C. State Loop Hitters

Bill Carrier, Mooresville first baseman, continues to dominate in hitting in the North Carolina State league. Although he dropped 27 points, his .408 is far in front. Carrier has made the most hits, 49; the most total bases, 78, and has driven in the most runs, 29.

Roche, Luttrell Meet Here Tuesday Night

Unable to obtain a definite weekly date for heavyweight wrestling shows at the ball park, home of the Crackers, Matchmaker L. C. Warren announces that all future mat cards will be staged at Warren Athletic Field—one block from Warren Arena. The Athletic Field offers an ideal set-up for ring shows and its nearness to the arena makes it possible for programs to be staged in any kind of weather.

Babe Zacharias, the cruel Greek, wrestles John Plummer in the semi-final.

Young Joe Stecher and Nick Elitch clash in the curtain raiser at 8:30.

The Roche-Luttrell match has been booked by popular demand. The Cowboy won on a foul after a wild battle with the ex-coal miner here several weeks ago and Roche is getting his chance for revenge. Anytime Luttrell is in town, fans know to expect dynamic entertainment.

A new scale of prices, lowest ever feature for heavyweight shows in Atlanta, will go into effect Tuesday night.

Line Drive Breaks Jim Turner's Nose

BOSTON, June 3.—(AP)—Jim Turner, Boston Bees pitcher, suffered a broken nose and a gashed cheek today when a ball hit by Ival Goodman, Cincinnati rightfielder, struck him in the sixth inning of the Bees-Reds' game at National league field.

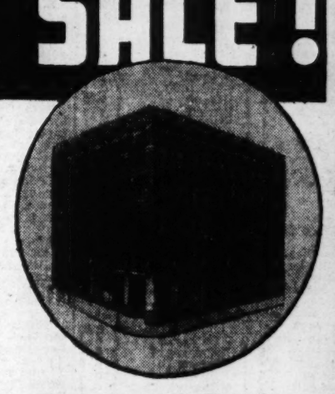

A doctor called from the stands put five stitches in Turner's cheek before he was taken to a hospital.

The hurler threw up his gloved hand in a futile effort to protect his face when he saw the ball coming straight from Goodman's bat.

Southern Cinches 1st Half of Dixie League With Win Over Wesleyan

C. TATE HURLS NO-HIT CONTEST FOR WHITEHALL

Rain Fails To Stop City Amateur Baseball Rivals.

Southern Railway cinched the first-half championship of the Dixie amateur baseball league Saturday by defeating Wesleyan Friendship Class, 6 to 0, at Piedmont park.

The pitching of Ridgely featured the game as he gave up but three hits and held his opponents scoreless.

George Jones, one of the team's leading sluggers, hit two for three, and played heads-up ball throughout the game. James led the hitting with three for four.

TEXTILE PACIFIC.

TATE HURLS NO-HITTER.

Whitehall and Greensboro divided a twin bill at Whitehall in the Textile Pacific league. Greensboro won the first game, 9 to 1. Whitehall took the second game by 1 to 0 in seven innings which featured the no-hit, no-run pitching of C. Tate.

Tate hit one man in the fourth, which was the only man to reach first base. Greensboro is leading the league and this defeat marked its first loss this season in league play.

Dutch pitched well behind excellent support and gave Whitehall but two hits as his teammates gathered seven off Hise, a new pitcher recently signed by Whitehall.

Cottonseed Oil

Cottonseed Products

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Cottonseed oil futures moved higher today, influenced by steady allied markets, despite a fair amount of July liquidation. The close was 3 to 5 points up on turnover of 32 lots.

July closed 6.54b, September 6.72b, October 6.76b, December 6.82b. (b—Bid).

Crude oil was quoted 5¾ cents bid in the southeast and valley and 5¼ nominal Texas. Late Friday a few tanks were sold in the North Carolina area on the basis of 5½ cents.

COTTON ENDS WEEK MODERATELY DOWN

Prices for Middling in 10 Markets Averaged 9.39 Cents for Period.

The 10-market average price for middling 7-8 inch was 9.40 cents on Friday, June 2, or 1 point lower than a week earlier, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Prices for middling 7-8-inch cotton in the 10 markets averaged 9.39 cents for the week ended June 2 compared with 9.41 cents in the preceding week and 7.91 cents in the corresponding week last year.

Grade and staple premiums and discounts in all of the quoting markets were reported the same as at the end of the previous week.

Inquiries for Spot.

Inquiries for spot cotton were less numerous than in the previous week and were mostly for immediate shipment with buyers continuing to evidence but little interest in deferred shipment. Sales of 29,000 bales reported in the 10 markets compared with 37,000 in the preceding week and 17,000 and 7,000 bales, respectively, in the corresponding week in the two preceding years. Reports indicate that purchases were made largely from government loan stocks, which in view of the recent price advances could be secured at a moderate profit to borrowers after paying the loan price and carrying charges.

The comparatively high rate of domestic mill activity was fairly well maintained during May, according to seasonally adjusted trade indexes, although the daily rate of consumption for the month was probably less than that for April, it was well above May, 1938. Indications are that total domestic consumption for the ten months ended in May exceeded 5,700,000 bales against 4,860,000 bales in the corresponding period a year earlier, and an average of 5,100,000 bales for this period during the 10 seasons ended with 1938.

Exports of 36,000 Bales.

Exports of 36,000 bales compared with 44,000 in the preceding week and 54,000 bales in the corresponding week last year. Exports of 3,135,000 bales from August 1 to June 1 compared with 5,322,000 bales in the corresponding period a year ago.

Exports from Egypt for the first nine months of this season were slightly less than those in the corresponding period a year earlier. Exports of Indian cotton from India for the first 8 months of this season were 54 per cent larger than a year ago, and those from Brazil during the first seven months of this season were 25 per cent larger than in the corresponding period last season, and the largest for that period in history.

U. S. RETAIL TRADE SHOWS ADVANCES

Marked Improvement Noted Over Last Year.

By THOMAS E. FLANAGAN.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—The navy made major business news this week by ordering $350,000,000 worth of warships.

From the nation's mills and counters, meanwhile, came reports that business was holding an even keel. A sharp dent in motor production was offset by gains in carloadings, steel and electric power production.

The orders, for 24 warships, which were described by Assistant Secretary Edison as "a good size navy" in itself meant that more men and raw materials would pass through the gates of shipyards on the west and east coasts.

"Business during the closing week of May, again registered improvement over the levels of recent weeks and the comparative period a year ago," the Commerce Department reported in its weekly survey. "Retail trade showed marked improvement over last year, though the Memorial Day holiday tended to reduce volumes in some lines from those in the preceding week. Increased activity was noted in certain lines of wholesale business.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at eight southern spot markets was 2 points higher at 9.42 cents a pound, the average price for the past 30 market days was 9.17 cents a pound. (Norfolk and Savannah closed—holiday.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—The July cotton delivery crossed the 9-cent mark today in a late buying rush. Last-minute profit-taking shaved high marks a little, but the closing range was still 6 to 10 points higher.

After a dawdling first hour, a flurry of trade buying revealed that holders appeared unwilling to sell except at substantial markups. Professional covering aided the advance.

Broad-scale mill demand flourished under the impetus of heavy Worth Street sales of textiles during the last week. Textile buyers, prodded by reports that mills planned further substantial curtailment of output in an effort to prop low prices, were estimated to have taken 80,000,000 yards or more of cotton goods during the week.

Foreign interests were also on the buying side. Contracts were supplied by New Orleans dealers and spot interests making hedge placements.

Reports in the trade indicated a fair volume of the staple was being redeemed from loans stocks at the present southern basis price.

Exports today 3,579 bales; season so far 3,317,375. Port receipts 1,320; port stocks 1,984,884.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON SUPPORTED BY COVERING

NEW ORLEANS, June 3.—(AP)—Trade buying and covering supported cotton futures here today and closing prices were steady at net advances of 7 to 9 points.

Cattle: Few fed steers $8 to $10; best grass-fed steers and heifers, $6 to $6.50; medium and common kinds, $4.75 to $5.30. Fat cows, $5.50 to $6, medium $5 to $5.25; canners, $4 to $4.50. Good, heavy bulls, $5.75 to $6.25; light bulls, $5 to $5.50. Best calves, $8 to $9; medium kinds, $6 to $7; throwouts, $4.50 to $5.50.

MOULTRIE.

MOULTRIE, Ga., June 3.—Soft hog market steady. Heavies, 240 pounds and up, $5.50@5.60; No. 1, 180 to 240 pounds, $6@6.15; No. 2, 150 to 180 pounds $5.65; No. 3, 130 to 150 pounds, $5.25@5.40; No. 4, 110 to 130 pounds, $5@5.15; No. 5, 90 to 110 pounds, $4.75@4.90. Fat sows $1 @1.15 under smooth hogs of whatever weight basis they make; stage $3.50@3.65.

THOMASVILLE.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 3.—(United States Department of Agriculture.)—Combined receipts of hogs today at packing plants in Albany, Columbus, Moultrie, Thomasville and Tifton, Ga.; Dothan, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla.: 544 head. Demand fairly reliable, prices steady to 10 cents lower than Friday, most plants on $6 board.

The following quotations for today are based on a composite of prices paid at the plants named for soft hogs delivered at sellers' expense and on off-truck weights: Medium and choice, 240 lbs. up $5.50-$5.65; 180-240 lbs. $6-$6.15; 150-180 lbs. $5.50-$5.65; 130-150 lbs. $5.25-$5.40. Medium and good, 110-130 lbs. $5-$5.15; 60-110 lbs. $4.75-$4.90; medium and good sows, 180-240 lbs. $5-$5.15. Hogs sold subject to post-mortem inspection and found hard or free of internal parasites command premiums over the above quotations.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Livestock prices were unchanged today at the week's decline which carried hogs to a new five-year low level below $7 per hundredweight.

Scattered lots of mediumweight hogs sold from $6.50 to $6.70, the latter the top, and a few heavier butchers brought $6.15. Few slaughter animals were on sale.

Average price of hogs yesterday fell to $6.32, lowest since December 24, 1934, comparing with $8.49 a year ago. Hogs lost 15 to 25 cents during the week although there was a slight contraction in receipts both here and at other principal markets in the corn belt. Livestock men said hot weather and less satisfactory consumer demand was a factor in the market.

Salable cattle, 100; calves, none; compared Friday last week: Good, choice and prime steers with weight steady to 25c lower, mostly slow, steady, excessive waterfills considered; yearlings and light steers steady, fairly active on medium to good grades; heifers weak to 15c lower, good and choice kinds off most; cows 10-15c higher; bulls 25c up and vealers weak; predominantly fat steer run; thin stockers very scarce, steady; extreme top prime 1,365-lb. steers $13.25; next highest price $13, then $12 bulk selling at $8.60-$10.75; very liberal run 1,250-1,400-lb. steers $10.25-$11.25; numerous loads 1,500-1,600 lbs. $9.25-$10.25; best yearlings $11; light heifer yearlings $9.85; heavy Kosher heifers $10.15.

Salable sheep none; compared Friday last week: Fed clipped lambs and native springers 10-25c higher, fat sheep 50c-$1 lower; best clipped fed lambs for week $9.40, closing top $9.25, bulk for week $9-$9.15, with plain southwest kinds downward from $8.50; best springers $11, bulk $10-$10.75, culls largely around $8; fat native ewes opened at $4 for best kinds, closing at $3.50, with bulk late $2.25-$3.25; late Friday: Fed lambs slow, weak; best $9.25, bulk $9-$9.15, with plain southwest kinds downward from $8.50.

CHICAGO, June 3.—(AP)—After fluctuating nervously through one of the dullest sessions since the bull market based on crop scare began six weeks ago, wheat prices today closed unchanged to ½ cent lower compared with the previous finish.

Quotations dipped ½ cent at the opening to around 77 cents a bushel for summer delivery contracts, lowest in more than a week, but then developed recovery power that rallied the market at times as much as ¾ cent. At the close July wheat was quoted at 77 3-8 to 77 1-2 and September at 77 1-8 to 77.

Weather continued to dominate trade, with good rains improving recent more favorable conditions for crop development, but fair and warmer weather was in prospect for much of the grain belt.

Selling was encouraged by weather and belief expressed in some quarters that recent improved wheat conditions may be reflected to a greater extent in the official government crop report to be issued next Friday than in yesterday's private estimates which suggested a probable United States harvest of 700,000,000 bushels.

Other grains fluctuated with wheat and corn closed ¼-½ lower, July 50¾, September 52¼; oats unchanged to ¼ off; rye ½-5-8 down and lard 2 lower to 3 higher.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ½ lower, reflecting North American waether and cheaper Australian and Argentine offers. Another cargo of Australian flour was bought by China and Germany took 240,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for Pacific coast shipment the middle of this month.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LXXI., No. 357. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1939.

Miss Mary Mullino And Dr. Howell Announce Plans

MONTEZUMA, Ga., June 3.—Plans are announced today for the marriage of Miss Mary Louise Mullino, of Montezuma, and Dr. Robert Spencer Howell, of Miami. The ceremony will be solemnized at the First Methodist church here on the evening of June 7, Dr. J. A. Thomas, of Pelham, former Montezuma pastor, reading the service.

Attending the bride will be Miss Alice Chastain, Montezuma, maid of honor; Mrs. Russell Newton, Columbus, matron of honor; Misses Martha Pate, Ann Clements, Lucille Harrison, Obie McKenzie, Mary Ann Easterlin and Claire McKenzie, all of Montezuma, bridesmaids.

Mary and Ann Brown, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown, Montezuma, will be flower girls and Miss Mary L. Karcher, niece of the groom-elect, Miami, and Miss Jacquelyn Reid, Montezuma, will be junior bridesmaids.

Aubry Howell, brother of the groom, of Tulane University, will be best man.

William Curry, Miami; Dr. Ben Davis, College Park, Ga.; Dr. Jack McKenzie, Miami; Bill Crowley and Spencer Crowley, Atlanta; John Mullino, Kankakee, Ill.; Edwin McKenzie, John T. McKenzie and Dave Rumph, all of Montezuma, will be ushers. Miss Estelle Walker will render organ music.

Miss Love Weds Robert Sidney Sloan

An improvised altar of palms interspersed with floor baskets of white gladioli and Easter lilies formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Fannie Lou Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron O. Love, to Robert Sidney Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sloan. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, on Brookline street, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. W. Lee Cutts performed the ceremony before members of the families and a few close friends.

Miss Phoebe Young presented a program of music.

Misses Carolyn Meadows and Joan Greene lighted the candles before the ceremony. They were gowned in pink and blue net dresses featuring long, full skirts and short puffed sleeves.

Miss Lyda Box, maid of honor, wore a pink net dress posed over matching taffeta and designed with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and bouffant skirt. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium tied with blue satin ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lawrence P. Duncanson. She was gowned in white lace, featuring net insertions in the skirt and a sweetheart neckline. A fingertip veil was caught to her head by a bandeau of seed pearls.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception. Mesdames Homer Love, W. J. Patrick and Thomas C. Callaway assisted in entertaining. Miss Dorothy Felton kept the bride's book.

The dining room table was centered with a wedding cake surrounded by sweetpeas and ferns and flanked by silver candlesticks holding burning white tapers.

Mrs. Love, mother of the bride, received, wearing an aquamarine colored lace gown posed over matching taffeta. A shoulder bouquet of pink rose buds completed her outfit. Mrs. Sloan, mother of the groom, chose for the occasion a black crepe skirt with which she wore a white lace blouse. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses and sweetpeas.

Mr. Sloan and his bride left for a motor trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside at 427 Kirk road, in Decatur.

Mrs. Sloan chose for traveling a navy blue triple-sheer gown, trimmed with white. Matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias completed her ensemble.

Ingle–Jolly Plans Announced.

MACON, Ga., June 3.—Plans for the marriage of Miss Roberta Wood Ingle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ingle, of Macon, to James Rollins Jolly, of Columbus, formerly of Marietta, are announced today. The marriage will take place at 5 o'clock on June 10, at Vineville Methodist church here when Dr. S. T. Senter will officiate.

Mrs. A. J. Johnston, soloist, and Griff Perry, organist, will render a musical program.

Miss Ruth Ingle will be her sister's maid of honor and Misses Jane Martin, of Decatur, and Dorothy Zachry, of Atlanta, cousins of the bride-elect, will be junior bridesmaids.

Hiram Hanson, of New York, will be best man. Groomsmen will be R. W. Sewell and Robert B. Ingle Jr., of Macon; W. S. Barefield, of Columbus, and J. H. Adams, of Columbus.

Kohl–Knight.

Mrs. Bertram E. Kohl announces the marriage of her daughter, Jane Ann, to James Howard Knight, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Knight. The marriage was solemnized on January 28.

The couple will reside at 1121 Alta avenue.

Tropical Swimming Pool To Open At Atlanta Woman's Club Monday

The Atlanta Woman's Club, under its 1939-40 administration, with Mrs. Calvin Shelverton as president, announces an interesting program of events for the summer season.

The official staff, with the president, includes Mrs. Huber Parsons, first vice president; Mrs. Howard Pattillo, second vice president; Mrs. Grady Eubanks, third vice president; Mrs. A. S. Bailey, recording secretary; Mrs. Chester Martin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. T. Banning, treasurer; Mrs. Harvey Bates, assistant treasurer; Miss Lillian Pierce, parliamentarian, and Mrs. J. C. Savage, auditor.

The "Sundown Fashion Parade," tomorrow at 6 o'clock, will officially open the club's popular "tropical swimming pool." Models for this occasion have been selected from the contingent of prominent young Atlantans. The club's swimming pool chairmen are Mesdames Anthony Addy, Conway Hunter and George Stanley.

"Red" Dennard's Tech High orchestra has been engaged for the date and dancing on the patio will follow the fashion show.

On June 9, the music division of the club will be hosts to one of its distinguished members, Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, and her Miniature Harp ensemble, who have returned from their appearance before America's first citizens, President and Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The literary division of the club announces dates for book reviews by Mrs. George O. LeFebre. The reviews have been scheduled for the second Tuesday of each month during the summer, opening with "Grapes of Wrath," by John Steinbeck, on June 13 at 10:30 o'clock. The reviews will be given in the club auditorium complimentary to members and a small fee for guests.

For information concerning any club activities Mrs. Shelverton requests communication with the secretary, Miss Blackwell, Hemlock 4636.

University Women To Convene June 19-23

The American Association of University Women holds its biennial convention in Denver, Colorado, June 19 to 23, at the Shirley Savoy hotel.

Panels on present-day problems, national and international, and pageantry of the past will be discussed by noted speakers.

Built around the four principal fields of study for A. A. U. W. groups—education, social studies, international relations, and the arts—the convention sessions will attract many of the nation's outstanding women scholars and civic leaders.

Among speakers at the convention will be: The Honorable Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, who will discuss "Women in Public Administration," the Honorable Dorothy Kenyon, judge of the municipal court of New York; Dr. Mary Ellen Chase, professor of English at Smith College and author of "A Goodly Heritage," "Silas Crochet, and "This England;" Dr. Cecilia Payne Gaposchkin, astro-phycist of international reputation; Dr. Ben M. Cherrington, from the new division of cultural relations of the United States Department of State; Dr. C. S. Boucher, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Attending the convention as representatives of the Atlanta branch will be Mesdames Frank J. Henry, Stephen Hale, Dr. Elizabeth Jackson, Mrs. Roger Lively, Misses Mary Gray and Viola Wilson.

Miss Blue Marries William Warnell.

UNION SPRINGS, Ala., June 3. Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Sophie Albright Blue, daughter of Mrs. Henry Patrick Blue, to William Warnell, which took place at 9 o'clock, May 28, in the First Presbyterian church here, with Reverend Stanford Parnell officiating.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Donald Parker, organist, and Mrs. F. G. Ramsey, violinist.

The bride wore an ensemble of navy blue crepe with accessories to match. Her flowers were orchids and valley lilies.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Warnell left for a wedding trip and upon their return, they will reside in Pembroke, where the groom is associated with his father in the naval stores business.

The bride attended the Union Springs high school, Troy Normal and Emory university. The bridegroom was educated in the Pembroke schools and the University of Georgia. He is the son of Mr. D. B. Warnell, member of the Georgia Senate.

Lens and Shutter---Camera News

The strong diagonal composition of this picture shows that Bruce Moran has an eye for design as well as a mind for gadgeteering.

Not long ago there was a reference in this column to the effect that gadget collecting is not photography, and it seems that some toes were stepped on. Among them being those of Bruce Moran, a member of a photographic group calling themselves Atlanta Pictorialists. So Mr. Moran dived down into the labyrinths of his photographic experience and prepared a brief in defense of gadgeteering. After having read it, I wonder if there could be any argument on the other side. But you decide this for yourself.

Throughout his essay Mr. Moran uses Pat Murphy, president of the Atlanta Camera Club, as the target for his verbal weapons, but he told me that he would be delighted to have all opponents take his remarks as personal. After which I have no more to say, but give you Mr. Moran's argument, with title and everything.

In Defense of Photographic Gadgeteering.

Back in the dim past when this long white beard was but a rudimentary and furtive fuzz, there developed a strange race, known as hams, because they ardently, and far into the night, fussed with strange cat-whiskers, hunks of galena, and other junk which caused music from Pittsburgh to enter the home via the ether waves. These hams were jeered at by the sane folk of the town. But one of them turned out to be Armstrong, and Armstrong turned out a radio principle that set off a pretty important industry. And quite a few more turned out to be important folks.

These were gadgeteers, if a bird with persistent curiosity and unbounded optimism must be called that. And so was Chris Columbus. And so is your old man, who hereby rises in defense of the pioneer spirit which Pat Murphy and his ilk sneeringly refer to as gadgeteering. I am proud to be one of the crew. I am glad that I read all the photographic magazines, and devour the glowing stories about new films, new developers, and new papers, the new automatic dingusses which purport to make photography less a matter for Lady Luck, and more of a scientific art.

Dollar for a Sneer.

Pat Murphy and his ilk caustically point to the several quarts of sour developers I have poured down the drain. But I can do things with the developers which are now stored in brown bottles beneath my darkroom sink. I can do things that Pat can't do in his darkroom—unless he buys the things I have winnowed out of the mass of worthless junk. And he does, too. He waits like the canny cuckoo and buys the things I've gadgeteered. I really should charge him admission to my darkroom, and a dollar extra for each sneer.

For example, I can take a picture of a dim interior and a brilliantly lighted scene outside the window and put on the original negative—and print on one piece of paper—the true tones and the full detail of both shadow and sunshine, without lights, dodging or other trickery except the magic of non-migrating developer. And I mean a light range in which the light is more than a hundred times the shadow reading—a range which has been considered impossible to render without blocking up the highlights or losing shadow detail.

I admit that I spent several good dollars on developers that were supposed to do miracles and didn't. But this one works, and when I have a picture like that to take, I can take it without fear. And there are a lot of pictures of that type: The arched bridge, mossy rocks in shadow, the rippling stream in midday sun beyond; the street with dark buildings on the shadow side and white ones glaring in the sun on the other; the sun glancing off waves that are dark as night beneath the crest.

Offers Formula and All.

Well, we gadgeteers have found out how to do it! And if you'll write "Lens and Shutter" that you'd like to know, I'll tell you sometime, formula and all, so you can do the whole things for a few cents of investment.

I've watched Pat Murphy and his ilk cut up perfectly good projection paper to use as test strips under the enlarger, and groan because I simply push a gadget beneath the enlarger, read the time off a dial, and make prints accordingly. Just as my trusty light meter brings in roll after roll of negatives that look in their uniform density as though they had been exposed under exactly the same light conditions. The Pat Murphy sympathizers scorned light meters, too. But I notice that the professionals are using them now. And so are many of the ilk. And they'll come to using my non-migrating developer, my enlarging meter, and a whole lot of other time, labor and money-saving devices which have simplified my darkroom methods and made my shooting simpler.

Now I will gladly admit that gadgets have very little to do with salon prizes. In fact, I'll admit that the kid with a box camera can come in with something that would make Steichen gasp. But he won't do it often, any more than the boy with the traditional bent pin can guarantee a fish just because he wears no fancy wading boots. Making salon prints is a matter of an eye for beauty, imagination, a genius for seeing a small hunk of landscape translated into monochrome and isolated on a 16x20 mount. But it is also, when the worker is sincere and does his own processing and printing, a matter of perfected darkroom practice. And here the gadgeteers come into their own. For the world does move, and the gadgeteers try to move along with it.

Darkroom Shortcuts.

Pat Murphy and his ilk make nice pictures. Some of them have taken a salon "first," while I have a crop of only five "honorable mentions" to show for the past eight months' work. But while I'm learning the artistic side of photography from looking at their prints, I'm balancing the scale by learning darkroom short-cuts, which they will ultimately follow—grudgingly.

So I say I am proud to be one of the race of gadgeteers, one of the willing goats who try any reasonable thing once, and who filter out the good ones from the sour one for Pat Murphy and his ilk to use in working their mystic darkroom spells. I am proud that I will be among the first to use the completely grainless negative or developer which some day someone will put on the market. I hope I am still able to stagger into a darkroom when that happens. And I hope the darkroom door will admit my wheel-chair when I try out the first projection paper that captures color prints without the numbo-jumbo of carbro and wash-off relief.

But for all my enthusiasm as a gadgeteer, I hope and pray in all sincerity that I will never see the day when photography is so perfected that human skill does not enter into every operation, from shutter click to salon mount—for when that day arrives there will be no more fun to photography, and I'll take up juggling as a hobby.

Opposition Foreseen.

Thus speaks Bruce Moran on gadgeteering, and I predict that his remarks will precipitate considerable opposition in the breasts of those amateurs devoted to the simple photographic life. If anyone has anything to say on the subject let him come forth and speak. Perhaps Pat Murphy will stride from the ranks to defend his followers.

Of course, I could point out a seeming discrepancy in Bruce's argument, of gadgets "which purport to make photography less a matter for Lady Luck, and more of a scientific art," and then in the last sentence prays that he will "never see the day when photography is so perfected that human skill does not enter into every operation," but I forego this opening.

Anyway, I am more than half convinced that there may be something in his theory. I think now that I'll go out and investigate that new camera which is said to clamp itself on a tripod, walk out and make the exposure, and then deliver three 8x10 prints, all without a darkroom, and in the twinkling of an eye.

Schedule of Events Is Announced For Annual Garden School June 14

By BESSIE F. KIRVEN,
Chairman Publicity, Garden Club of Georgia.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 3.—The annual garden school of the University of Georgia, in co-operation with the Garden Club of Georgia, will hold its fourth session June 14-16 in Athens.

Mrs. Reynolds Flournoy, president of the Garden Club of Georgia, announces that the school will serve two purposes, for in addition to the two courses offered for study, there will be a meeting of the board of the state organization after the last lecture. Athens members of the board will entertain the board at luncheon June 16 at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Bradshaw.

Reservations indicate that the school will be well attended, drawing from the 6,000 members of the Garden Club of Georgia. Last year there were 285 full-time students and this year the enrollment will be larger, owing to the addition of 26 new clubs which brings the total up to 202. The registration fees and expenses of the stay in Athens are nominal and within the reach of any who desire to take advantage of the opportunity.

Two interesting courses of study will be offered and registrants may slect either course. One course, dealing with the cultural problems, will be conducted by Dr. H. Harold Hume of the University of Florida at Gainesville, The other will be on judging and Mrs. Fae Huttenlocher, associate editor of Better Homes and Gardens, will be the lecturer. This will be an accredited course for those who desire to become qualified judges.

The school will open June 14 with a reception for students given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Arnold. Mrs. Arnold is president of the Ladies' Garden Club of Athens. Registration opens at 9 o'clock June 15, and the last class will close at 1 o'clock June 16. This will be followed by the board meeting.

The registration fee will include a luncheon and dinner on Thursday. Accommodations will be available at the co-ordinate college dormitories and hotels in the city. Those who expect to attend the school are asked to notify Dr. T. H. McHatton, director of the garden school of the University of Georgia.

A map of Georgia, displayed at the annual meeting of the Garden Club of Georgia, held recently in Brunswick, showed that the garden club movement is state-wide. The annual garden school offers a wonderful opportunity for club members to become better informed on all garden problems and equipped to go forward with the development of Georgia's natural beauties.

PEACHTREE STREET LEASE FOR 15 YEARS TO BRING $325,000

Two Store Properties To Be Made Into One for Retail Shoe Concern.

One of the largest commercial leases negotiated in Atlanta for a long time has just been completed, involving more than $325,000 in rental for a term of 15 years for two store properties at 201-3 Peachtree street, on the east side of Peachtree, between Ellis and Cain streets.

Work has just begun on remodeling the structures, converting the two stores into one large store, to be occupied by Thompson-Boland & Lee, lessees, as a retail shoe store. The two stores have been occupied for some time by Byck Bros. Shoe Company and Peggy Hale, Inc.

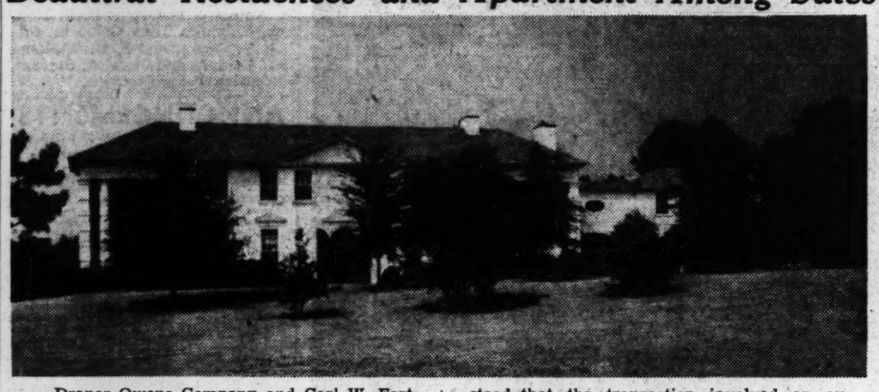

At present the building consists of two floors and basement, 40x100 feet, but after alterations, in which 50 more feet will be added in the rear, the shoe concern will have retail space covering 40x150 feet, taking in the two floors and basement, and the new occupants declare they will occupy it with one of the most modern retail shoe stores in the south.

Ivy & Crook are the architects preparing the building for the new lessees, and in addition to interior work will install a complete new and attractive store front. Associate architect is James F. Eppenstein, of Chicago. It will probably be 10 to 12 weeks before it is ready for the new tenants.

The property was leased from the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, owners, through Forrest and Frank Adair, realtors, negotiations being handled by John O. Crowley.

All members of the shoe concern are local people and experienced in the retail shoe business.

Beautiful Residences and Apartment Among Sales

Draper-Owens Company and Carl W. Fort & Co. announce the sale of the residence of Dr. LeRoy W. Childs on Tuxedo road, known as "Whitehall," to Mrs. Mary Malone Jones for an unannounced consideration. It is understood that the transaction involved an exchange of properties on Northside drive and cash. This transaction was negotiated by Jesse Draper and Carl W. Fort.

No. 1234 Bellaire drive—a large four-bedroom, two-bath white brick home, on lot 90 by 333 by 150 feet across rear line. Built for R. Knupp by G. J. McCurry. Contract was handled by Roy H. Holmes with Draper-Owens Company, realtors.

LIPSCOMB-ELLIS ANNOUNCE SALES

Lipscomb-Ellis Company, realtors, announces sales for May totaling $53,023.50, including sales as already reported.

The following were closed during the past ten days:

Three acres on Peyton road from F. P. Freeman to W. P. Rhodes; sale price $3,600; purchased for a home; handled by Mrs. T. K. Shackelford.

No. 1820 Meadowdale avenue, in Johnston Estates, Bergman, Incorporated, to Charles G. Rainer, at a price of $8,750; purchased for a home; sale handled by Joseph Kopp.

No. 1078 Alta avenue, N. E., from J. W. Plunkett Jr. to Mrs. Essie D. Finch; at sale price of $3,000; purchased for a home, sale handled by Mrs. T. K. Shackelford and H. W. Whitten.

A lot on East Lake drive, corner of Spring street, from T. L. Ambrose to B. Douglas Berry; purchased for a home site; consideration of $500; handled by Mrs. T. K. Shackelford.

ADAMS-CATES SHOW $204,926 IN SALES

In the List Is Included 17 Residences, 13 of Them Being HOLC Homes.

Sales for the month of May with Adams-Cates Company, realtors, amounted to $204,926. In the group were 17 residences, 13 of these were HOLC homes, several being sold through the co-operation of outside brokers; four residential lots; three business properties; and 26 parcels bought for the Atlanta Housing Authority. These last parcels are to be used in the property which is being assembled for the housing project to be erected in the Capitol-Fair section.

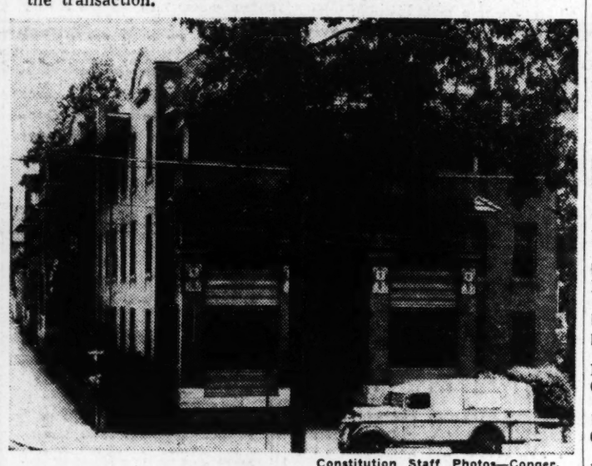

Handsome brick home at 900 West Wesley road, purchased from C. E. Beem by Mrs. Beatrice L. O'Keefe. It occupies a lot 100x300, and it is understood sold for around $16,000. Mercer Poole, of Garlington-Hardwick Company, realtors, handled the transaction.

WHITEHALL VIADUCT STORE UNDER LEASE

The Dan Cohen Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, operators of 60 stores in the United States, have leased a store from the Peachtree-Whitehall Corporation in the new project over the railroad tracks at the junction of Peachtree and Whitehall streets. The lease is for a term of years aggregating $60,000 and a percentage of gross sales.

The lessee was represented by Jerry Blount, of Haas & Dodd, realtors, and the lessor by John O. Chiles, of Adams-Cates Company, realtors.

Constitution Staff Photos—Conger.

No. 461 North Highland avenue, N. E., at corner of Colquitt avenue. Twelve-unit brick apartment building with an annual gross income of approximately $5,400, sold this week by the Atlantic Realty Company to Morris Arnovitz. Consideration was not announced, but was understood to be near the value assessed for taxes by the city, which is $19,000. Negotiations were handled by Perry Adair, of Garlington-Hardwick Company.

National Realty First 5 Months Sales $250,000

The closing of five small home sales amounting to $20,000 last week by National Realty Management Company, Inc., brought the total for the first five months of this year to 89 sales, aggregating a quarter of a million dollars, according to announcement by A. H. Sturgess, district manager.

"The big majority of the properties sold were homes in the low and medium price classes, and were all located in Atlanta and its immediate suburbs," stated Mr. Sturgess.

All of the properties belonged to National Bondholders Corporation, and the various transactions were handled exclusively by the sales staff of National Realty Management Company, Inc., which includes Tom Faison, Carlos Lynes, R. A. Macon, Mack Matthews, C. E. West and F. R. Wing.

The properties sold last week and the purchasers were:

No. 604 West Rugby, College Park, to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard B. Fuller.

No. 12 Fairfield drive, Avondale Estates, to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Ford.

No. 547 Lawton street, S. W., to Mrs. Mary J. Harwell.

No. 563 Parkway drive, N. E., to L. Seitz.

HOLC Trying To Aid Borrowers With Tax Default

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The Home Owners' Loan Corporation is attempting to negotiate settlements with tax authorities in a number of states on behalf of borrowers facing foreclosure due to tax delinquencies and heavy tax penalties accumulated since their mortgages were refinanced, it was announced today.

Many states, it was explained, have enacted laws to abolish all penalties, providing home owners pay this year's taxes, make arrangements for gradual liquidation of arrearages, and do not again become delinquent. The HOLC program is designed to enable borrowers to take advantage of these laws in such states.

In each case, the HOLC will require the borrower to agree to pay a definite sum each month to insure the payment of next year's taxes, and to authorize the HOLC to use any money paid on its accounts to take care of the pending taxes first—insuring that the borrower will not again become delinquent.

The arrangement, the HOLC stressed, will be made only for those who are unable to prevent foreclosure because of tax bills. Not only should the program aid many borrowers, but it also should provide substantial revenues for a number of states and municipalities.

BETTER Construction BY FRED C. HALE
ATLANTA LUMBER & BLDG. SUP. ASSN.

Again the choice of materials may be governed by preference as much as by style and cost. Wood shingles hold top place in preference and use because they combine beauty, low cost and when periodically treated, have longer life and greater fire safety than is generally appreciated. Slate and burned clay tile are other standbys that have stood the test of centuries.

Among the newer materials asphalt shingles lead in the low-cost, medium-life group and asbestos-cement shingles in the medium-cost, long-life group. Both types have been notably improved in texture, design and color in recent years.

It is also worth noting here that manufacturers of these materials have developed sidings—for house exteriors—that have to recommend them, attractive colors, designs and textures, reasonable permanency, and low first costs.

Metal roofing, particularly the sheet metal kind with "standing" seams carefully spaced down the slope of the roof, has long precedent behind it and is growing in popularity. Copper is made in two weights, 10 oz. and 16 oz., for medium and long life at proportionate cost. Zinc is used in the same manner, while the low-cost tin and galvanized-iron (zinc coated) roof of this type seem to stand up well in rural areas remote from the acid fumes of cities and manufacturing plants.

Windows.

Perhaps no more important decision must be made than the choice of windows. The trend among designers today is to use windows more intelligently than in the past, increasing their size and number and locating them with more care in relation to furniture placement indoors and outlook from rooms. Modern science knows that windows should be planned for double glazing in winter to reduce heat loss and drafts. It knows that weatherstripping is worth far more than it costs in fuel savings and freedom from dust and drafts all year around. Designers know that full-length screens are essential in almost every part of the United States. And so modern windows have been vastly improved to provide these essentials.

Advances in double-hung windows (that slide up and down) include spring balances, flat weights and various friction devices all designed to save large frames and permit the use of narrow trim, inside and out. The better grade windows come all equipped with efficient weatherstripping and with provision for full-length storm sash and screens.

Casement windows in both wood and metal are now made with interchangeable winter storm sash and summer screens and with integral weatherstripping.

Combine these improvements with modern flat, high-clarity window glass and the new types of window hardware and it becomes evident that the homeowner of today can have much more charming and satisfactory eyes for his house than were available in the past. To say nothing of the possibilities that lie in picture window, flower window, bay windows and other delightfully decorative and architectural features.

Doors.

Three new developments in doors are worth special mention. First is the introduction of stock doors and doorways designed by leading architects that offer the quality of fine custom work at stock mill prices. Second is the rather recent development of low-cost "flush" doors of light, hollow construction. These have great decorative quality through their very simplicity; they are adapted to modern as well as period styles. The third is the production of doors with interchangeable panels that become screen doors in summer and glass-paneled storm doors in winter.

Glass Block.

While on the subject of openings in walls, thought should be given to the possibilities inherent in glass block. They form translucent walls that are weather-tight, self-insulated and of high decorative and illuminating quality. They do not take the place of windows for they provide neither ventilation nor outlook, but they can be used structurally to admit light at places where a window would not be appropriate. Imagine, for example, a basement playroom lighted largely by foundation made of glass block between load-carrying piers of solid masonry.

Poll Gives Public's Verdict On Six Years' of New Deal

Cross-Section of Voters List Administration's 'Blunders' and 'Accomplishments' and Relief Stands at Top of Both Columns.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

(Copyright, 1939, by American Institute of Public Opinion.)

NEW YORK, June 3.—As President Roosevelt plans a cross-continental tour to test public sentiment in the next few weeks, a nation-wide American Institute of Public Opinion survey shows how the voters are summing up the faults and accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration after six years of the New Deal.

Men and women in all walks of life and every state in the Union—from Maine and Florida to the Pacific coast—have been asked to name what they regard as the greatest accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration, and what they regard as its greatest blunders.

GALLUP POLL

Relief Above All.

Today, after more than six years of Roosevelt in the White House and after a continuous Democratic majority in both houses of congress, the verdicts of the American public shape up like this:

1. The New Deal's experiment with federal relief stands out as the most important and most controversial issue in the whole field of New Deal policy. It is named as "the greatest accomplishment" of the Roosevelt administration by more people than name any other measure. And it is also named "the worst thing the Roosevelt administration has done" by more than any other.

2. For the second best thing the New Deal has done the voters of both parties go back six years to the banking holiday of 1933 and praise Roosevelt's banking and credit measures during the memorable "Hundred Days" following his first inauguration.

3. Sharing the chief blame are "the spending policy," "crop control" and "Roosevelt's 'meddling' foreign policy."

Vital to Elections.

Since the 1940 presidential campaign is only a year away, today's Institute survey probably spotlights some of the most vital issues of the coming election fight.

The Institute asked a representative cross-section of Democrats, Republicans and third party voters in all parts of the country these two questions:

"What do you think is the greatest accomplishment of the Roosevelt administration during the six years it has been in office?"

"What do you think is the worst thing the Roosevelt administration has done in the past six years?

The answers, given spontaneously and without any lists or suggestions from the interviewers, are listed below with the percentage of persons naming them:

"Greatest Accomplishments."
1. Relief and the WPA	28%
2. Banking Reforms	21
3. Civilian Conservation Corps	11
4. Social Security Legislation	7
5. Farm Program	5
6. Labor Policy	4
7. Repeal of Prohibition	3
8. Foreign Policy	3
9. Public Works Construction	2
10. NRA	1
All others	15
"Worst Thing Done."
1. Relief and the WPA	23%
2. Spending policy	16
3. Farm Program	12
4. Foreign Policy	6
5. Labor Policy	6
6. "Interference" with Business	5
7. Supreme Court Plan	5
8. NRA	4
9. Repeal of Prohibition	3
10. Raising Taxes	2
All others	18

The survey shows a wide divergence between the "haves" and the "have-nots." Persons in the upper income group give Roosevelt credit for his steps to halt the banking crisis of March, 1933, but blame him for (1) the New Deal spending policy and (2) the handling of federal relief.

Voters in the lower income groups—and especially those on relief—generally applaud the New Deal's handling of relief and express their sharpest criticism over the destruction of livestock and "plowing under" of crops under the farm program. Persons on relief have the keenest objections to the crop control features of the AAA.

Among farmers, however, the AAA is mentioned more often as an "accomplishment." The New Deal's three leading accomplishments, as seen by these voters, are banking reforms (23%), relief and WPA (22%) and the farm program (19%). The three "worst things the Administration has done" are relief and WPA (29%), the spending program (22%) and the farm program (11%).

Two Top Issues.

If there was ever any doubt about it, today's survey clearly indicates that Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration is most vulnerable on two counts (1) the way relief has been administered and (2) the mounting public debt. In spite of the fact that a majority of American voters approve of the principle of government relief and approve of the WPA in principle, the comments of voters in towns and farms and cities show a widespread belief that relief administration has suffered from inefficiency and "politics."

From the point of view of political strategy, the most interesting part of today's survey may be the separate replies of Democrats and Republicans.

In the first place, almost one Republican in very three says that he is unable to name "the greatest accomplishment" of the administration. Many told the interviewers they couldn't think of "anything good the New Deal has done. The chief measures named by the remaining G. O. P. voters are:

"Greatest Accomplishments."
1. Banking Reforms	34%
2. Civilian Conservation Corps	13
3. Relief and the WPA	12
4. Social Security	10
5. Foreign Policy	4
"Worst Things Done."
1. Spending Policy	24%
2. Relief and the WPA	22
3. "Interference" with Business	9
4. Labor Policy	8
5. Farm Program	7

Persons who say they have shifted from Roosevelt to the G. O. P. since 1936 complain first of all about the New Deal's relief administration and then mention the government's spending policy.

It is interesting to note that Republican voters are far from united on the question of relief, and that such once-burning questions as prohibition, the supreme court plan and the reorganization bill are no longer occupying front positions in the voters' minds today.

In defense, the Democrats offer the following list of achievements and mistakes:

"Greatest Accomplishments."
1. Relief and the WPA	35%
2. Banking Reforms	19
3. Civilian Conservation Corps	8
4. Farm Program	6
5. Social Security	6
"Worst Things Done."
1. Relief and the WPA	20%
2. Farm Program	16
3. Spending Policy	12
4. Labor Policy	7
5. Supreme Court Plan	7

About four Democrats in every ten say they cannot name any particularly bad New Deal measures. Less than 7 per cent criticize the President's foreign policy, which many Republicans characterized as "meddling in the affairs of Europe."

While today's survey is not a vote on the popularity of individual Roosevelt measures, it is significant that twice as many Democrats mention the farm program as a liability as say it has been an achievement.

A year from now, when the presidential campaign begins to pick up speed, these verdicts may have to be revised; but today they give a picture of the way the man in the street is assessing six years of Roosevelt.

Secretaries of Chambers of Commerce Visit Georgia's Wonderland

Here are the Georgia Chamber of Commerce secretaries and the experts who are touring north Georgia. In this photo, snapped yesterday at Neal Gap, are Frank Shaw, president; Roy Ulrich, of Atlanta; W. Hill Hosch, of Decatur; Walter Brown, of Savannah; Wyatt Foster, of Rome; Professor Harry Vaughan, director of the engineering experiment station at Tech; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Trimble, of Macon; Richard W. Smith, of Atlanta; F. M. Bell, of Atlanta; J. H. Britt, of Statesboro; Wallace Grant, of Rome; L. P. Dickie, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta; S. A. Spivey, of Cartersville; Paul Dermott, of Savannah; Mrs. Ella Watkins, of Atlanta; Miss Stella Davis, of Albany; Marshall Mayes, of Cairo; D. J. Weddell, of Atlanta; W. H. Barnwell, of Atlanta; Charles King, of Atlanta; J. A. Wier, of Athens; Miss Atwill Walden, of Waycross; W. H. Fischer, of Atlanta; Christie W. Summers, of Valdosta, and W. H. Schroder, Captain Garland Peyton and Joe Dent, bus driver, of Atlanta. The three women seated are, left to right, Mrs. Vera Allen, of Savannah; Mrs. Walter Brown, of Savannah, and Mrs. Frank Shaw, of Atlanta.

Secretaries' Convention-in-a-Bus Rolls Through Vogel to Neal Gap

By FRANK DRAKE.
Constitution Staff Writer.

NEEL GAP, Vogel State Park, June 3.—A deluge of information about north Georgia's resources—timber, mining, water power and parks—was loosed upon members of the Georgia Commercial Secretaries' Association today by experts as they rolled over highways of the state's mountain section on a three-day educational tour in a bus.

They were told by F. M. Bell, of the United States Geological Survey, that several large power sites and many small ones can be profitably developed on the clear, pure streams, at the same time providing flood control.

William H. Fischer, superintendent of the Chattahoochee national forest, asserted the 600,000 acres of government-owned forest are producing 18,000,000 feet of timber annually and announced that employment for 100 men has just been provided near Clayton by the erection of a new saw mill which will saw government timber sold to private individuals.

Davis Relates Legends.

Clint Davis, of the United States forestry division, related the history of the Chattahoochee national forest and its many legends.

D. J. Weddell, director of the state forestry division, asserted the state's nurseries at Flowery Branch and Albany are growing more than 20,000,000 seedling pines to reforest Georgia's wastelands. He praised fire control work of the state.

Charles King, of the state park department, pointed out the tourist attraction value of the recreational facilities being established in Georgia parks, including Vogel, which will aid in persuading visitors to the state to "stay one more day."

Military students of the North Georgia college at Dahlonega staged a parade in honor of the secretaries this afternoon, with Frank Shaw, of Atlanta, president of the secretaries' association, giving the order to "pass in review."

The secretaries were guests of Dr. J. C. Rogers, president of the college, and Major James E. Mathews, commandant, for refreshments.

See Placer Mining.

"Old Bill," a placer miner living near Dahlonega, panned real gold from a stream near the college to show the secretaries how a part of the state's $25,000-a-year gold industry is produced.

Over a straight-up-and-down road the secretaries trudged to inspect the million dollar gold mine plant of the 1890's that operated only three weeks. A small stamp gold mill, crushing ore and catching the gold with mercury, now occupies the dilapidated building that once housed the million dollar three-week business.

Captain Garland Payton, head of the state mining division, and Richard W. Smith, assistant state geologist, explained the gold mining operations.

Visit Woody's Gap.

Miles upon miles of Georgia stretching away to the south were viewed by the party from Dockery's and Woody's gaps as the secretaries rode through Vogel state park prior to lunch at the inn at Neel Gap.

They will spend tonight at LaPrade's camp on Lake Burton' and tomorrow will travel to Lake Rabun, Lakemont, Tallulah Falls, Clarkesville, Cornelia, Gainesville, and the state nursery at Flowery Branch on the return to Atlanta, where the annual convention will end.

SYLVANIA MOOSE NOT FROM SWAMP, GEORGIANS LEARN

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 3.—(AP) Sylvania would not be basking today in the glory of being the Moose capital of the south if the Shrine home in Savannah was not in the process of being renovated.

Out of the Savannah river swamplands via Sylvania came a news dispatch yesterday telling of the "killing of an 18-point moose weighing 1,400 pounds by Mark Evans, Sylvania sportsman. Mayor Atys Mills supported the tall, tall yarn by displaying the mounted head in his office.

Every Shriner in this section would have recognized the moose on sight. Its head had hung for 15 years in the Shrine home, or ever since the late E. A. Cutts, imperial Shrine potentate, returned from a trip to Manitoba, where the mounted head was presented him as a gift.

Descomb Wells, Shrine official, said he sent the moose head to his cousin, Mayor Mills, of Sylvania, to be hung in his new hunting lodge.

Mayor Mills confirmed this tonight and said the story was concocted "by the boys at the office." He said his office had been besieged throughout the day by curious persons viewing the large head. One of the visitors had sped to Sylvania from North Carolina to see the moose which required seven shots to fell and a log team to pull out of the swamps.

ETOWAH DAM PLAN PROMISES BENEFITS

Rome, Cartersville Leaders Study Report Made by Engineers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., June 2.—Benefits of more than $140,000 annually would accrue from the construction of the proposed Allatoona dam on the Etowah river above Cartersville, Chairman John Dent, of the Chamber of Commerce flood control committee, estimated today, following examination of an interim report by army engineers who have just completed a study of the proposed flood control project and dam.

The report was completed last week by the engineering corps and sent to district headquarters in Mobile for study by United States army district engineers before being sent first to New Orleans to divisional headquarters and thence to Washington.

Approval in Doubt.

Mr. Dent, Secretary S. A. Spivey, of the Cartersville Chamber, and George Byrd and J. Meredith Graham Jr., representing the Rome Chamber, went over to Mobile to study the report, but were unable to learn if the engineers gave a favorable report.

Mr. Dent said the proposed dam, if built, probably would be 500 to 900 feet long, would flood 18,000 acres, would be between 150 and 160 feet high, and probably would generate, if necessary, 100,000,000 kilowatt hours of current electricity annually.

The report indicated, according to Mr. Dent, that Rome would benefit $95,000 annually from the building of the dam; farm lands on the Etowah river, on which the dam would be built, would derive approximately $18,000 from its construction; and railroads and highways, $2,000.

Savings to Farmers.

Farmers would be enabled to plant winter crops in the valleys of the Etowah with estimated benefits of $7,000 or $8,000 annually; benefits from decreased soil erosion were estimated at $21,000 annually for farmers in the area. Total estimated benefits yearly would be approximately $140,000.

A meeting of Rome and Cartersville Chamber of Commerce representatives was held in Rome today to discuss the report.

Engineers have been making a survey of the Coosa area during the last year to determine the extent of damage during the last several years from floods.

BUILDING IN LAGRANGE.

46 Planes Entered, More Expected In Three-Day All-Georgia Air Trip

Party Taking Off From Here Thursday After a Pre-Tour Party Will Be Largest of Its Kind Ever Held in State.

By CARY WILMER.

With 46 planes already entered and at least a dozen more expected, the All-Georgia Air Tour starting Thursday will be the biggest event of its kind ever held in the state, William K. Jenkins, general chairman, announced yesterday.

In addition to Atlanta, cities represented in entries now on file are Brunswick, Augusta, Albany, Macon, Jacksonville, Americus, Columbus, Rome and Athens. All pilots and their passengers will be guests at a pre-tour party here Wednesday night.

At 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning the fleet will take off from Candler field and head for Augusta and a barbecue lunch. The Thursday night stop will be made at Savannah where a dinner has been planned for members of the party.

Friday's schedule calls for an early take-off for St. Simons island, a shore dinner at noon and a dinner-dance that night with Mr. and Mrs. Winship Nunnally as hosts.

Saturday the tour members will take part in the dedication of the Howard E. Coffin recreation center in Brunswick and during the afternoon will stage an air show with races and stunting at the Malcolm B. McKinnon airport on St Simons.

The tour will return to Atlanta Sunday with stops en route at McRae, Macon and Griffin.

LIVING COSTS FOUND ONLY $13 MORE A YEAR IN THE NORTH

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—A Labor Department survey of living costs in five southern communities and five northern communities of similar size shows average costs are 3.1 per cent lower in the south.

In making the report public today, Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the fair labor standards act, said the statistics would be used by industry committees appointed to recommend wage minima for various industries.

Labor officials indicated the report would be used to counter demands by southern members of congress and manufacturers for differentials ... their favor.

The report showed the difference in living costs for a year for an average family in the north was only $13 more than in the south.

While, on the average, rents in the southern cities were 7.6 per cent lower, there was no essential difference in food costs.

The survey was conducted in the north at Chillicothe, Ohio; Dover, N. H.; Hanover, Pa.; Holland, Mich., and Little Falls, N. Y., and in the south at Hattiesburg, Miss.; Sherman, Texas; Statesville, N. C.; Sumter, S. C., and Thomasville, N. C.

RAINS SLOW TECH'S 30 STUDENT PILOTS

Aviators Have Logged 600 Hours in Air; All Have Soloed.

Bad weather has interfered considerably with Tech's 30 student pilots, now working for private pilot's license, under the supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Authority at the municipal airport.

According to V. A. Calhoun, instructor at Eastern Air College, where the students are being trained, the classes have been grounded pretty consistently for the last two weeks.

Two of the students, Rex White and Jack Carran, have passed written tests for their licenses, and have flown the minimum 35 hours required, but the constant rains have kept them from taking their flying tests. All have made their solo flights.

Through yesterday, the Tech aviators had logged an approximate total of 600 hours in the air, an average of 20 hours each.

Yesterday in Washington, Harllee Branch, of Atlanta, vice chairman of the authority, announced that as of May 24, 49 of the 330 students under instruction have been licensed, and all but 15 have soloed. He reported that there have been no accidents of any type.

ALL STUDENTS LICENSED AT ALABAMA UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Authority notified Speaker Bankhead today the University of Alabama had won the distinction of being the first of the 13 colleges and universities with CAA-sponsored flying courses to have all its students licensed as private pilots.

When the last of the 30 students enrolled in the Alabama University course was licensed, the CAA said, the total flying time for the entire group was only 1,116 hours, or an average of 37½ hours per student.

Two other schools were in a close race for second place in the percentage of pilots to receive licenses, Purdue and North Texas Agricultural College.

Most recent reports showed 101 students of the 330 enrolled in the 13 schools throughout the country had received their private licenses, the CAA said. All but 13 had soloed. They had flown a total of 9,157 hours without a single mishap.

HUEY LONG'S SON WEDS COLLEGE SWEETHEART

BATON ROUGE, La., June 3.—(AP)—College romance reached the altar today for Russell Billiu Long, 20, son of the late Louisiana political dictator, Huey P. Long.

The youth—aspiring to follow in his father's footsteps in politics and already eyeing the state's governorship—was married to his college sweetheart, Katherine Mae Hattic, 19, a pretty brunette.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL.

NETWORKS Short Wave

Igor Gorin, Baritone, To Be Guest In Finale of 'Sunday Hour' Series

Tyrone Power, Rosalind Russell, Dick Powell, Others Close Guild Show.

Igor Gorin, one of the country's outstanding baritones will be heard as guest soloist in the final program of the 1938-1939 Sunday Evening Hour series during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight. The symphony orchestra and chorus will be under the baton of John Barbirolli.

A new program, "News and Rhythm," comprising orchestra music, novachord and human interest stories by a radio reporter, originating from Chicago will be heardin its initial broadcast over WGST at 10 o'clock this morning.

Light musical selections, played by Carl Hohengarten and his 16-piece orchestra, will be interspersed with unique stories by Todd Hunter, noted mid-west radio reporter, and novachord music played by Dave Bacal. Announcer for the series will be Tommy Bartlett.

A madcap mood will prevail as Tyrone Power, Rosalind Russell, Dick Powell, Marie Wilson, Lionel Stander, George Murphy, Jean Hersholt, Reggie Gardner and Oscar Bradley's orchestra share the honors in the season's final "Screen Guild Show" during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

A concerto Grosso by Amadeo de Filippi, young Italian-American violinist composer and conductor, is scheduled with works by Debussy and Mozart in the fourth program of Howard Barlow's Sunday afternoon series with the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony to be heard over WGST at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Anne Charpentier Murat Power, who to her many admirers is known as Annabella, will become the center of attraction and the object of Charlie McCarthy's affections during the Don Ameche hour over WSB at 7 o'clock. tonight.

Orson Welles will replace John Barrymore, who, owing to a heart attack was forced to cancel his scheduled appearance, in the Knickerbocker Playhouse program during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight.

Jane Bryan will be guest star of Charles Boyer, leading man of the Hollywood Playhouse in a radio adaptation of Rachael Maddux's story, "Turnip's Blood," during the broadcast to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

Hans Wilhelm Steinberg will conclude his series as guest conductor of the NBC orchestra's summer symphony concerts during the broadcast to be heard over WAGA at 7 o'clock tonight.

ROSALIND RUSSELL.

KIRKWOOD SCHOOL HAS MODEL DAIRY

Fourth Grade Visits Dairy and Studies Many Uses of Cow to Mankind.

Last January when we were promoted to grade Low 4 we decided we would like to study dairying. We first learned the names of the different breeds of cows and where they originally came from. Next we learned which cows were used for milk cows and which were used for beef.

We then decided we would build a dairy and we have built one that we are really proud of. Thirteen children can stand up in it at one time. Some of the sixth grade boys helped us get it started.

In March we went to visit a dairy. The manager took us through and showed us many interesting things. Milking the cows, washing the bottles, filling the bottles and capping them are all done by machinery. This is so that human hands will not touch the bottles until they reach the customer.

Every cow is washed twice each day, before each milking. We learned that each cow eats 40 pounds of food and drinks 10 gallons of water every day. The dairy and everything about it was nice and clean. We saw a silo and learned that green food is stored in a silo for winter use.

The manager served us chocolate milk which we enjoyed very much. He also had a dog and pony show put on for our entertainment. We had such a good time we hated to leave, but it was time to turn our faces back toward school.

We went back so interested in our subject that we went to work in earnest. We read everything we could find on the subject.

We learned that the Holstein and Guernsey are the quantity breeds, but the Jersey is the quality breed. Among the breeds that furnish us with meat the Hereford heads the list.

Every part of the cow is useful to us. First it furnishes us with milk, butter and cheese; these are the dairy products. After it is butchered we use its meat for food. From its hoofs gelatine is made. Its horns and bones are used to make buttons. Fertilizer is made from its bones and blood.

The cow's hide is tanned and many useful things are made from the leather.

After learning these things we wanted to know more about the things that cows like to eat, so we divided our sand table into "pastures" for our cows. In one we have planted corn, in another wheat, in another rye.

We have learned to spell forty new words and have enjoyed every minute of the work.

SMILLIE CHILDREN HOSTS TO PARENTS

Sixth Grade Entertains at Assembly Program.

Children in the low first grade had an imaginary radio program. They enjoyed it as it was a new experience.

This is the expression made by Sortis Papas, of Low and High 2, about the finger-painted pictures that they painted: "We have plenty of fun painting finger-painted pictures."

The twins in Miss Stephens room, Robert and Russell Adams, and Jo Ann Geer in High 4 had perfect attendance through the whole year.

The low sixth grade had a pet show last Tuesday morning on the school yard.

The band's last lesson was given Tuesday. Some of the members are looking forward to continuing their lessons through the summer at Kirkwood school.

High 6 pupils had an assembly program for their parents and some of the classes last Friday. They told of different excursions the class had taken and the chorus sang a few selections. At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Hastings, principal of the O'Keefe Junior high, gave a very enjoyable speech.

High 6 has had a week of fun. Laura Jenkins entertained us at a movie star party at her home Tuesday afternoon. Thursday the P.-T. A. gave the class a party, and on Thursday night they were entertained at a wiener roast by Marguerite Michael.

MILTON PATROL BOYS REPORT ON FINE TRIP

The kindergarten made a trip to the Carnegie Library. It was quite an experience. Miss Cox was lovely to them, showing them around and helping select some books. They have two baby ducks in the kindergarten room and the children are having a good time caring for them.

Doris Grider went to Warm Springs Sunday. She told the first grade interesting things about her trip.

All the boys and girls in High 3 are back at school this week. We are so glad to be able to report no absences because of mumps, chickenpox or flu. They are delighted with our new Cherokee rose bush given by Mrs. Johnson of Jerome Jones school.

The upper grades enjoyed the Good Will Program sponsored by Miss Raines.

High 4 has been enjoying baseball games with Miss Raines' class.

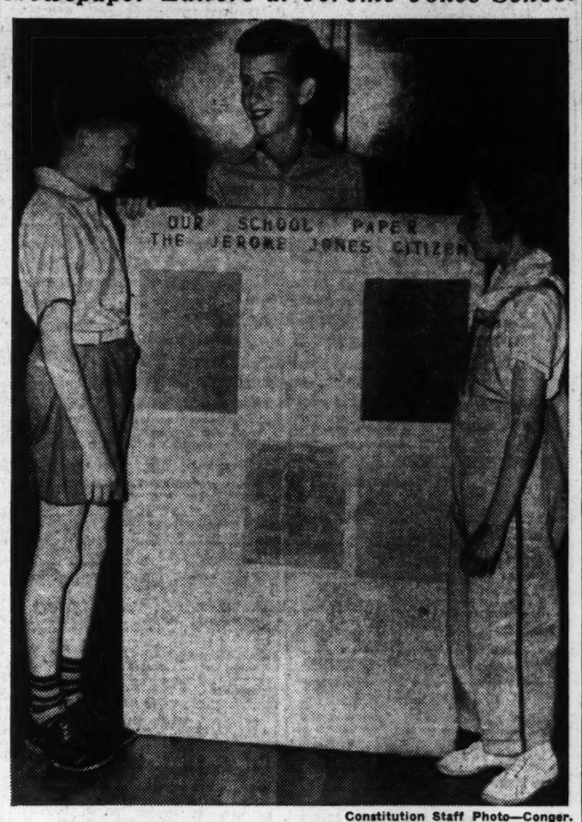

Low 3 and Low 4 room has had several bird visitors. Two small birds were found out of their nests, spent one day and then put back. Eloise Shope brought her duck to school one day and we enjoyed it.

High 5 pupils were glad to see Gilbert Marshall, Monday morning, and to have him tell them about his trip to the world's fair last week. They appreciate the souvenir he brought them. Jeanne Johnston returned recently from a visit to the world's fair and Brooklyn, New York.

High 6 students are looking forward to promotion time. They are working hard so that they can go to junior high in June. Every member of this class was happy to welcome J. W. Raney, our patrol captain, back from his trip to New York and the world's fair. He reports a good time but is glad to get back to dear old Milton avenue.

Newspaper Editors at Jerome Jones School

Paul Sheppard, editor; Jimmie Harriman, business manager, and Carolyn Wilder, associate editor, are shown examining a display of the nine issues of the Jerome Jones school newspaper, "The Jerome Jones Citizen," published this year at the school under their supervision. The paper has had exchanges this year with school papers at 50 cities of 36 different states.

More Than 120 Students Receive Diplomas at Opportunity School

Mr. Tarleton Collier, columnist of the Atlanta Georgian, was the principal speaker on the closing program of Opportunity school, held on Friday evening, June 2, at the Baptist Tabernacle. Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, presided. Dr. Marshal L. Mott, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, gave the invocation and Miss Grace O'Callaghan, supervisor of music of the Atlanta schools, had charge of the music for the program.

A special feature of the program included the presentation of students representing various training programs of the school. These former students of the school have completed specific training and are employed at the present time. Short summaries of work of the different departments were given by them. Following this, these students presented the group of graduates in their particular departments to Mr. Ed S. Cook, president of the board of education, for diplomas.

More than 120 students received diplomas from nine departments in the school. The graduates include:

PEEPLES SIXTH GRADE SPENDS DAY IN WOODS

High 6, Miss Scully's class, has been studying trees, so the girls and boys decided that instead of having their promotion exercises in the auditorium, they would spend the day in the woods around Mount Gilead Camp Ground, checking on what they have learned. The day included a wiener roast given by the Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Johnson, our principal, and Mrs. Warren Bradley, one of our school mothers, have a tent at the camp ground which was opened to receive the class.

High and Low 4 designed paper doll clothes for a fashion show. High 1 also dressed paper dolls which they took home to enjoy during vacation.

Low 1's sponsor, Mr. Walter Ward, agent of one of the large steamship lines, gave them a map on which they have been tracing Fred Snite's travels from Miami, Fla., to Lourdes, France.

High 2 is very sorry that Grady Swords is in the hospital on account of an appendix operation.

HELEN GREEN,
ELIZABETH JONES.

CLASS AT SPRING AIDS AT HOSPITAL

Fourth Grade Gives Program for War Veterans.

High-Low 4 gave a program for Hospital 48. The men seemed to like the program very much. It was called a Junior Red Cross activity. They took some magazines to the soldiers, too.

High 4 is looking forward to the summer vacation. They are planning to work on their summer activities then.

High 5 children enjoyed their trip to Fulton Park. They want to thank Mrs. Tupper, Mrs. Shelley, Mrs. Bankston and Mrs. Stockton for taking them.

High-Low 3 pupils have enjoyed the year. They have enjoyed especially the articles brought in by the children, things from all over the world. This sharing of experiences has made friendliness and good will.

High 1 had a toy parade and showed the toys they had made for their shop to the other classes in school.

Low 1 and Low 2 have a very pretty garden that is now in bloom.

High-Low 6 pupils have enjoyed the study of the petroleum found in many countries of the world.

Betty Battle, Ann Kollock, Eleanor Muse, Ann Porter, Alex Stephens and Edward Lindsey have had perfect attendance this year.

Two hundred and 27 children won reading ribbons this semester.

The thirteen patrol boys who went with the school patrol to New York had a great time and no bad luck. They are Eston Mansfield, Ed Greene, Lamar Oglesby, Coleman Budd, Alex Stephens, Jimmie Baker, Dabney Manning, Massey Clarkson, Perry McIntyre, Hallman Dodd, Vol Blacknall, Edward Lindsey and Joe Griffin.

JOE BROWN SHOWS PLAY BY PUPPETS

Edward Giles of 9 High 3 won the senior presidential election held at Joe Brown last month. He and Jack Hamilton tied after the first election; then a run-over was held and Edward proved victorious.

All the assemblies for the past week were held on Thursday in order for the 9 High puppetry group to present the play "Hansel and Gretel." There were three groups from grammar schools who came to Joe Brown to see the play. The puppets and scenery were made by the members of the class and Mr. Rogers, who teaches electricity at Joe Brown, designed the lighting effect. The students who operated the puppets were: Ralph Casey, Caroline Davis, Ellen Rosenblatt, George Reid, Tommy Burns, Owen Miller, Marvin Harrison, Betty Carver, Mary Frances Carroll, and Riley Barron.

Joe Brown's oral English classes presented a program over WAGA on Wednesday, May 17. The choral speaking group in charge of Mrs. Neal, the faculty adviser, gave Vachel Lindsey's Daniel Jazz. Hansel and Gretel and part of Punch and Judy were also presented. There were 24 students who participated.

Joe Brown had the lariest group of students of any school in Georgia Washington. There were 38 stugia to go on the pilgrimage to dents and two chaperones from the school. Dicky DuVall, a 9 High Joe Brown student, was selected to place a wreath of flowers at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

O'KEEFE EXALTS AMERICAN SPIRIT

The American spirit of courage, freedom and liberty as it lives on in the life of our nation was the theme of the promotion exercises held June 2 in the O'Keefe auditorium. The colors in the flag of the United States, red, white and blue, were carried out in the dress of the graduates and the decorations.

The Statue of Liberty, the spirit of America, was portrayed by Ann Torrance. Short speeches dealing with the development and manifestation of the spirit of democracy were given by David Blackshear, Betty Lou McNeely, Jerry Berman, Merle Douglas, Margaret Cox, Jack Freedman, Betty Patrick, Ann Hinkle and Marion Merts.

Mary Quigley and Kathryn Dozier played violin solos. An accordion solo was given by Earl Tidwell.

Songs by the class were "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Land of Hope and Glory" and "Let Freedom Ring." The class repeated in unison the American's Creed. The Glee Club sang "Song of Devotion." Music was furnished by the O'Keefe orchestra for several numbers.

MARION MERTS.

CHILDREN AT HAYGOOD SELECT OWN PROGRAM

The kindergarten children have been given a happy, free week, selecting the songs, rhythm and games each day.

Low 2 has been seeing which child could improve in spelling most.

High 2 gave a program on "Home Helpers" on June 1.

High 3 children are proud of Dewitt Hughes, Barbara Fuller and Ollie Mae Nimmons. They have read more than 20 library books this semester.

Low and High 4 spent June 2 signing up for their summer reading course, getting dental certificates, seeing a movie, and having a picnic at Grant park in the afternoon.

High 5 pupils were glad to have Mary Stewart, a former classmate, with them last Monday.

Several children in Mrs. Davidson's class are going to the country to spend their vacations.

Low and High 6 are proud of Doris Parker's and Doris Nimmons' library record for this semester. The best spelling record for the semester belongs to Esther Parker and Doris Parker.

DORIS NIMMONS.

FAIR CHORUS RECORDS SONGS FOR EXERCISES

The sixth grade chorus made a record of their favorite songs which they played at their graduation exercises. The main feature of the graduation exercises was a play written and produced by the High 6 grade.

Mrs. Rice's class went to Grant park on a picnic.

Miss Gray's class has made summer activity books.

We are all glad to have Miss Sandifer, the kindergarten teacher, back from two weeks of illness.

Mrs. Watson's class is looking forward to a nice summer vacation and some of the children are taking trips to the country.

Miss Evans Weds Frank W. Bundy

The marriage of Miss Agnes Evelyn Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Evans, and Frank W. Bundy, son of Mrs. P. A. Bundy was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Druid Hills Baptist church. Dr. Louie D. Newton performed the service.

Roland Tomlinson, pianist, and Miss Alice Hegwood, soloist, presented a program of music.

The altar of the church was banked with palms and large floor baskets of calla lilies and white carnations. Seven-branch candelabra, holding burning white tapers, completed the bridal decorations.

Miss Charlotte Tomlinson was maid of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a navy blue sheer trimmed with white. White accessories and a shoulder bouquet of roses completed her outfit.

The bride was gowned in a powder blue embroidered marquisette with which she wore a white horsehair picture hat trimmed in powder blue velvet ribbon. White accessories and a shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Evans, mother of the bride, wore a light blue print. Navy blue accessories and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias completed her outfit.

Mr. Bundy and his bride left for a short wedding trip and upon their return they will reside at 449 East Ponce de Leon avenue, in Decatur.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. P. A. Bundy, mother of the groom, and Alice Bundy, of Bennettsville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. John Hood, of Lumberton, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Bundy Jr. and Miss Alice Bundy, of Birmingham, Ala.

First Graduates of Agnes Scott Attend College's 50th Anniversary

By Sally Forth.

FORTY-SIX years ago when the first graduating class of Agnes Scott college received diplomas from the institution there were only two members to receive the sheepskin on that eventful day in 1893. When the 91 seniors of the 1939 class are awarded their diplomas next Tuesday, among the prominent alumnae witnessing the ceremony will be those first two graduates in the persons of Mrs. A. V. Martin, of Clinton, S. C., and Mrs. W. B. Ardrey, of Fort Mills, S. C. Agnes Scott, you know, was established in Decatur 50 years ago, with the first graduating exercises held four years later.

Mrs. Martin is the former Miss Mary Barnett, of this city, whose parents, the late Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Barnett, were among Atlanta's most beloved and highly valued pioneers. For over 15 years Rev. Barnett served as pastor of this city's First Presbyterian church, which, at that time, stood where the Federal Reserve Bank is now located on Marietta street.

Following her graduation from Agnes Scott, the former Miss Barnett became one of Atlanta's most popular belles, until her marriage to Mr. Martin removed her to Clinton for residence. During her stay here Mrs. Martin is the guest of her brother, Dr. Stephen T. Barnett, and her nephew and niece, Dr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Barnett Jr., at their home at 1746 Pine Ridge drive in North Morningside.

Mrs. Ardrey is the former Miss Mary Mack, member of a prominent South Carolina family, who frequently visited here as the guest of her classmate during her enrollment at Agnes Scott. Mrs. Ardrey, you know, is the sister of Rev. Edwin Mack, of Richmond, Va., who was elected recently a moderator of the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church. Incidentally, Mrs. Mack, wife of the distinguished clergyman, is a sister of Mrs. Russell Porter, prominent Atlanta matron.

The college's first graduates are being lavishly entertained during their short stay here and at the festivities given in connection with the celebration of Agnes Scott's 50th anniversary they are honored guests upon each occasion.

Sally is informed that several hundred alumnae are assembled for the celebration and that class reunions dominate the social program planned for the visitors. She wagers, however, that none is more exciting than the reunion of the 1893 class, with the two Marys strolling over the campus recalling incidents of their college days and gazing at the many handsome brick buildings now dotting the grounds where during their college years stood only one edifice.

LAST winter Mrs. J. Tom Smith invited Anne Dickenson to meet a friend from out of town five times. But Anne was entirely too popular and always had previous engagements whenever the gentleman from a distance happened to be in town.

Finally, Mrs. Smith invited her to breakfast on a Sunday morning, thinking surely that even one as popular as Anne might not have all of her early morning dates filled in advance. You see, she was sure that Anne and her friend, Charlie Perry, of Washington, D. C., would like each other.

But after their meeting at breakfast, Anne was unimpressed, and said so. While Charlie regretted that Mrs. Smith had finally effected the introduction. "You see," he explained, "I've always sworn that I would marry a girl with reddish gold hair like Anne's."

That was last December. At Christmas, Anne went to New York to stay over New Year's Day. Charlie invited her to stop over in Washington for a visit, but time would not permit. Then he asked permission to see her in New York. But again all of Anne's dates were taken.

Then Charlie decided that it was time to take things into his own hands. He planned to come to Atlanta on January 28. So he wired Anne to break all dates for that week end.

Still the Atlanta belle was not particularly interested—at least she claims as much. But she must have been more impressed than she confessed. For she saw him five times during the week end, and before he left town she had promised to marry him.

The next time Charlie came to Atlanta was April 1. And he brought the engagement ring to Anne. But when he saw her that evening, he did not give it to her. He was not taking any chances, he said, on the jinx the day might prove to be. So Anne had to wait till the next day to become officially engaged.

The wedding of the Washingtonian and the hard-to-meet Atlanta belle is scheduled for a July ceremony.

PRETTY Marjorie Armstrong, who graduated from Stephens College last Tuesday, has plans for the summer that make the most seasoned traveler green with envy. Marjorie, you know, was chosen as a member of the college's Ivy Court, the honor being conferred upon her for the second time.

After commencement exercises on Tuesday the Atlanta belle hurried to Webster Groves, Mo., to visit Peggy Ray, a student at George Washington University in St. Louis. Peggy is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority and she and her Atlanta visitor were popular belles attending the sorority's annual formal dance this week end.

When Marjorie's visit ends in Missouri she will entrain for Lynchburg "to hood" her sister, Jean, when the latter graduates on June 6 from Randolph-Macon College. By the way, Jean has made an outstanding record during her enrollment at the Virginia institution, where she is president of West Hall.

Marjorie's next stop will be New York, where she will join several classmates from Stephens to attend the World's Fair. Soon after her arrival in Atlanta, Marjorie will repack her bags before leaving for Tate Mountain Estates to spend the remainder of the season with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Armstrong, at their summer home atop the mountain.

WHEN Jane Cothran Smith arrived here Friday from Duke University in Durham, N. C., where she is enrolled, she was accompanied by two classmates who begin their summer vacation as her guests. The visitors are Wickliffe Read, of Miami Beach, Fla., and Elizabeth Wellford Peach, of Mitchelville, Md. The college belles will be feted at a number of parties during their stay in this city.

The visitors and their hostess are prominently identified with campus activities at Duke. Wickliffe, a valued member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, takes an enthusiastic part in the "doings" of the W. A. A. and the Y. W. C. A. at her school. Elizabeth proved such an able secretary for the freshman class during the past year that she has been chosen to continue her duties as secretary of sophomore ranks next fall. Both visitors possess melodious singing voices, and are gifted members of Duke's Glee Club.

Jane, their attractive hostess, is the daughter of Mrs. Belle M. Smith, of Druid Hills. She was recently voted the most outstanding pledge of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority, and was presented by her sorority sisters with a handsome ring bearing the seal of the organization.

Jane's beauty was accorded its just due six weeks ago when she was elected beauty queen at the North Carolina college. The representative Atlantan is a member of the Y. W. board, is a judge for the school and was recently "tapped" for Sandals, an honorary society for outstanding students.

ONCE in a blue moon it may occur to us to wonder just what articles we would attempt to rescue first should our house catch on fire. With a bride-to-be in the family, however, it took scarcely a second for Mrs. Walter Ross to make a decision recently when her maid rushed in crying, "The house is on fire!"

Ordering "Emma, you take one closet, and I'll take the other" (imagine having two closets in your bedroom!), Mrs. Ross helper her maid rush Eula Pearl Ross' trousseau, wedding dress and veil downstairs to the porch before the fire trucks could answer the alarm.

Regarding Eula Pearl and Willard Range, whose engagement is announced today, Sally understands that the bridal pair has leased a home on Woodlawn avenue, in Athens, where they will reside while "Pete," as Willard is known to his intimates, completes his summer school course at the University of Georgia. The groom-elect, a graduate of Harvard, will receive his master of arts degree from the university this summer.

THERE IS AN interesting story behind the engagement of Antoinette Rauschenberg and Posey Jones which is announced today.

At a Valentine party given in 1938 at an Atlanta home guests were given a letter including instructions for each guest to follow for the make-believe play to be presented. Each guest was also given appropriate costumes, too.

Posey Jones, chosen as the "groom" in the play, had to seek an introduction to his make-believe "bride," Antoinette Rauschenberg, of Jacksonville, Fla. Just before they were ready to start to the "altar" the pair met for the first time.

It goes without saying that the meeting was a success, for on June 24 the duo will walk to the altar again, but this time, it will be a real altar. Their wedding takes place at a ceremony to be performed in Albany at the ancestral home of the bride-elect's family.

Phillips–Hogg.

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 3.—The engagement of Miss Frances Lorene Phillips, of Hillcrest, and Henry J. Hogg, of LaGrange, announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips, centers the interest of a wide circle of friends.

Miss Phillips, only daughter of her parents, is a sister of Shepherd, Elma and John Phillips, of Hillcrest, and Joe Phillips, of Sylacauga, Ala. She is a graduate of Hillcrest school.

The bridegroom-elect, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hogg, of Pleasant Grove, is the brother of Eugene, Jarrell and Alfred Hogg, all of Pleasant Grove. He is a graduate of the Rosemont school, in Troup county, and now holds a position with the American Service Company's branch in LaGrange, where he and his bride will reside.

At Camp Chatooga.

An event of this week end is the houseparty being given at Camp Chatooga, near Tallulah Falls, by Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Forbes Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Forbes Sr., of Athens.

Guests include Dr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Stewart Lawwill, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Lasley, Mrs. Joe Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Polk, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ragland, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wood, and their sons and daughters, Miss Tilda Thomas and Billy Latimore, all of Chattanooga, and Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson Harris, Charlotte, N. C.; Robert Shapard and children, of Griffin; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swift, of Columbus.

Miss Helen Ford To Wed Mr. Lake

MISS HELEN FORD.

Mrs. Marcellus Edwin Ford announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen Ford, to John Eagan Lake, of Atlanta. The marriage will be solemnized June 16 at 5:30 in the afternoon in Druid Hills Methodist church. Rev. Julian Lake, brother of the groom-elect, will be the officiating minister, and he will be assisted by Dr. Eugene C. Few.

Miss Ford is the daughter of Mrs. Ford and the late Marcellus Edwin Ford, her mother being the former Miss Margaret Little Johnson, daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. B. F. Johnson, of Eatonton. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ford, of Cave Springs.

The bride-elect is descended from a long line of Baptist ministers who greatly influenced the spiritual history of early Georgia. Most prominent among them is the Rev. Daniel Marshall, who established the first Baptist church in Georgia. She is of French Huguenot descent, her great-great-grandmother being Martha Flournoy, sister of Josiah Flournoy, one of Georgia's earliest temperance and educational leaders. Miss Ford is the sister of Mrs. Lawrence Merkle Handley, of New York; Marcellus Edwin Ford, of Atlanta, and Marshall Flournoy Ford, of Memphis. She is a cousin of Mrs. James Woodruff Weems, of Houston.

Miss Ford was graduated in the class of 1936 of Agnes Scott College and for the past three years she has been a brilliant member of Rich's advertising staff as fashion and institutional writer.

Mr. Lake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greer Lake, of Atlanta. His mother is the former Miss Mary Burr, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Burr, of Griffin. Mr. Lake is the paternal grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lake, of Macon and Forsyth. He is a descendant of Jonathon Edwards, the Howards of Baltimore, and the Rev. Aaron Burr, second president of Princeton University. The groom-elect is the brother of Mrs. Robert Andrew Garner, Mrs. Otho J. Parker Jr., Frank G. Lake, all of Atlanta, and the Rev. Julian Lake, of Rock Hill, S. C.

Mr. Lake was graduated from Davidson College in 1933. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and is now connected in business with Frank G. Lake, lumber dealer of Atlanta.

Miss Ford has chosen for her maid of honor, Miss Frances Moore James, and her bridesmaids will be Mrs. Marshall Flournoy Ford and Mrs. Otho J. Parker Jr.

The groom-elect has chosen for his best man, William Adams Flinn. Ushers will be Alfred E. Kelley, William H. James, Frank G. Lake Jr., Charles R. Allison Jr., Robert Andrew Garner, and Dr. Paul F. Brown Jr.

Before their marriage Miss Ford and Mr. Lake will be feted at many informal parties including those at which Mesdames Alfred E. Kelley, James A. Holverstadt, Paul F. Brown Jr., William H. James and Misses Frances Moore James, Madeline Provano and Elizabeth Blackshear will be hostesses.

Purple 'Merit Award' Of National Council Won by Iris Club

Announcement is made that the purple "Award of Merit" given by the National Council of State Garden Clubs has been awarded to the Iris Garden Club of Atlanta. The award was made by Mrs. Gross Scruggs, of Dallas, Texas, chairman of the flower show committee for the National Council, through Mrs. H. C. Cox, of Monroe, flower show chairman for the Garden Club of Georgia. The high award was given the Iris Garden Club for the superb Iris show staged here a few weeks ago in the city auditorium when hundreds of beautiful Iris were shown.

Mrs. D. C. Shepherd, past president of the Iris Garden Club, was chairman for the show sponsored by her club, and Mrs. Julian Thomas served as co-chairman.

The purple ribbon award is the fourth honor conferred upon the Iris Garden Club recently in recognition of the organization's achievements during the past year.

The Peachtree Garden Club achievement medal was awarded Mrs. Shepherd at the recent convention of the Garden Club of Georgia held at Sea Island beach. The first award for the best scrap book on display at the convention was won by the Iris Club which also received the best year-book award.

Mrs. Allen Writes of Convention Of American Medical Auxiliary

By Mrs. Harry Rogers, of Atlanta, State Editor.

Mrs. Eustace Allen, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Medical Association of Georgia, recently attended the seventeenth annual convention of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Medical Association, which was held in St. Louis. Mrs. Allen has written the following interesting message to Georgia Auxiliary members telling of the convention:

"I wish that each of you from Georgia could have been with me at St. Louis, for I am sure you would have derived much inspiration from the session and the friendly contacts made. There were a number of familiar figures present, too. Mrs. Charles Tomlinson, of Omaha, Neb., who visited the Georgia Auxiliary in April, presided over the sessions. Mrs. Frank N. Haggard, of San Antonio, who attended the recent state convention in Atlanta, took an active part in the convention as first vice president. Mrs. W. K. West, of Oklahoma City, president of the Southern Auxiliary, and Mrs. Charles P. Corn, of Greenville, S. C., president-elect of this group, both of whom also attended the Georgia meeting, had prominent parts on the program. Mrs. West presided over the southern breakfast, choosing as the theme "Gardens." Mrs. Corn told of the beautiful gardens of Charleston.

"Later, Mrs. Corn, at the opening session of the convention, gave an impressive memorial to members who have passed away during the year. She used white carnations in commemoration of those departed members and then gave a special eulogy for Georgia's own beloved Mrs. Allen H. Bunce, placing a calla lily in memory of this prominent Atlanta woman, who was the fifth president of the national group.

"Reports from the state president featured the second session of the convention. Georgia had the third largest increase in membership, New York and Texas leading. Splendid progress was reported in public relations, health education and hygeia. Members viewed the state exhibits, which were most instructive and interesting. Oregon had an exhibit made from soap, depicting Hercules gleaning the golden apples; St. George slaying the dragon; the three Graces, the Pied Piper, and Atlas. Mississippi exhibited a large map, with stars for membership in each county and Missouri had a large booklet, the "Three Little Pigs," depicting organization dues, educational programs and public relations meetings. Mrs. Rollo Packard, of Chicago, was installed as president at the final session, and Mrs. W. E. Holcombe, of Charleston, W. Va., was named president-elect.

"The social activities were many and varied. The first afternoon, visitors were taken on a garden tour, being shown some of the most beautiful gardens in St. Louis. The luncheon the next day at the St. Louis Woman's Club assembled several hundred women, this affair honoring the past presidents of the National Auxiliary. Acting as toastmistress was Mrs. William Hibbit, of Texarkana, who gave an amusing account of the growth of the auxiliary year by year, taking as her theme 'Sweet Sixteen.'

"That afternoon was given to optional tours. I chose the arts tour, which included, among other things the Lindbergh trophies on display in the Jefferson Memorial. This building commemorates the Louisiana Purchase. In the Lindbergh trophies are included the equipment used in Lindbergh's historic flight and also gifts and medals which have been presented to him from all over the world. We also visited Washington University, the open-air municipal opera in Forrest Park, and the art museum. In the later, which ranks as one of the four best galleries in the United States, was one work of art by Dr. Herbert L. Treusch, of Atlanta. Visitors were entertained at tea at the St. Louis Medical Society building, as guests of the Woman's Club of the St. Louis University School of Medcine.

"The annual luncheon the next day at the Chase Club was delightful, and assembled dignitaries of the American Medical Association, as well as representatives of the auxiliary. That evening the hostess group honored the visitors at a buffet supper and reception. Features of the closing day's entertainment were a steamboat trip down the Mississippi, a 'bring-your-husband dinner' and the annual president's reception and ball of the A. M. A."

Miss McCraw Weds Alton Sadler At Ceremony in Milledgeville

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 3. Miss Alice Evans McCraw, of Milledgeville, became the bride of Alton Guy Sadler, of Atlanta, at a beautiful ceremony taking place at 8:30 o'clock this evening in St. Stephens Episcopal church here.

Rev. F. H. Harding, rector, officiated in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives.

Tall white candles, tied at the bases with bubble-shaped clusters of wild asters, marked the pews bordering the aisle. Burning tapers and vases of white gladioli adorned the altar and seven-branched candelabra held lighted white candles. Choir and altar rails were entwined with wild asters and beautified with floor baskets of white gladioli and fern.

Mrs. Marshall H. Bland, organist, and Mrs. L. P. Longino, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Ushers were Maurice Duttera and Gordon W. Curtiss Jr., of Atlanta, and Jere N. Moore and Ernest S. Armistead, of Milledgeville.

Miss Virginia McCraw, of Milledgeville, was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a model of aquamarine chiffon fashioned with a shirred bodice and a flared, floor length skirt and featuring a square neck and short, puffed sleeves. She wore a tiara of rhinestones and carried an arm bouquet of Bettertimes roses.

The bride was given in marriage by Jon W. Hutchinson. She was lovely in her wedding gown of white Duchess satin made with a cowl neckline and long full sleeves, gathered to a wide band at the wrists. Tiny covered buttons extended from the neckline to the waist, in the back, and the skirt flared into a circular train. Her veil of Point Venice lace, posed over layers of white tulle, extended the length of the train, and fell from a cap trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, and her only ornament was a diamond pendant which belonged to her mother.

Receiving were Miss McCraw, the bride and groom and the Rev. F. H. Harding.

Mr. Sadler and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will reside in Atlanta on Myrtle street. The bride traveled in a black sheer frock trimmed with touches of white. She wore a black sailor hat banded with white and her flowers were orchids.

Atlantans attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Erwin, Miss Ethel Erwin, Gordon W. Curtiss Jr., Maurice Duttera, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gordy, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pentecost, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bickerstaff, Miss Mernelle McHenry, Clifford G. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. James, Robert Conway, Melvin Williams, Louis I. Cline, Miss Jean Chalmers, Edward Thomas.

Miss Edna Hurst Weds Ralph Moran.

EDISON, Ga., June 3.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Edna Hurst, of Jacksonville, Fla., to Ralph Moran, of Jacksonville, formerly of this city. The ceremony was quietly performed May 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. McGehee, in Jacksonville, with the Rev. Jimmy Copeland, pastor of the Murray Hill Methodist church, officiating.

Bill Morrow, of Jacksonville, served as best man, and Evelyn Brazille was maid of honor.

Mr. Moran is only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wade Moran, of Edison. He holds a responsible position with the Jacksonville Paper Company.

After the marriage the wedding party was given a reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Moran are residing at 931 Rubet street, in Jacksonville.

Miss Flowers Becomes Bride Of Lee Rogers in Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 3.—Interest of the state was focused here today for the marriage of Miss Margaret Flowers, one of south Georgia's most prominent belles, and Augustus Lee Rogers, of Atlanta and Elberton, which took place at the First Methodist church.

The pastor, the Rev. Mark Anthony, performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the presence of a large gathering of prominent Georgians. As the guests were assembling a program of nuptial music was presented on the organ by Mrs. Esther Birdsong, of Atlanta, and Fo..dreu Mitchell, of Thomasville.

Quantities of white gladioli, calla lilies and rich greenery were used in artistic arrangement as decorations in the church. Gleaming tapers, lighted before the ceremony by McChesney Jeffries, Hansell Watt and William McCollum added beauty to the nuptial scene.

Heeth Varnedoe and Lee Neel were the ushers and the groomsmen were Langdon Flowers, the bride's brother; Thomas Thornton, of Elberton, and Hamilton Lokey and Ralph McGill, of Atlanta.

A bevy of attractive belles attended the bride as maids and included Misses Mary Rogers, of Elberton, the groom's sister; Kennon Henderson, of Macon; Caroline Vaughan, of Columbia, Tenn., and Virginia Folsom, of Atlanta. They were gowned alike in airy models of pastel-shaded marquasheer, offset with contrasting velvet trimming. The long, full skirts fell in graceful effect from the basque waist featuring an off-the-shoulder style, and tiny puffed sleeves. They carried spring bouquets of vari-colored flowers tied with ribbons to match their models.

Clare Varnedoe, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a model of pink organdy trimmed in small bands of blue velvet ribbon. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay, of pink and blue flowers. Miss Flewellyn Flowers was maid of honor for her sister. She was gowned in aqua marine marqua sheer fashioned with long, full skirt and a close-fitting basque waist. The skirt was trimmed in peach velvet ribbons and the same shade predominated in the streamers from her shower bouquet of ophelia roses. Miss Flowers wore a head band of roses which gave an attractive note to her ensemble.

The tall, graceful bride entered the church with her brother, William Flowers, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by Mr. Rogers and his brother, William Rogers, of Elberton, who was best man. Her youthful beauty was enhanced by her becoming wedding gown of white sheer marquisette, fashioned bouffant style which was unusually becoming to her stately figure. The bodice was featured by short puffed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her exquisite rose point lace veil, which she bought in Brussels last summer, formed a becoming frame for her face, and fell in graceful folds over her shoulders. Her only ornament was a handsome diamond bar pin, which was the gift of her late father, William Howard Flowers, to his wife. The bride carried a real lace handkerchief belonging to Mrs. Ralph McGill, who purchased it in Europe last year. Her flowers were a shower arrangement of white roses and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony Mrs. William H. Flowers, the bride's mother, was hostess to 300 guests at an al fresco reception at her home on Dawson street. The natural foliage of the garden formed a beautiful background for the affair and the punch tables arranged throughout the lawn were decorated with pastel-shaded flowers.

Mrs. William H. Flowers, the bride's mother, wore periwinkle blue net combined with lace, and her flowers were Ophelia roses. Mrs. Z. B. Rogers, of Elberton, mother of the groom, was gowned in pink lace. Her flowers were orchids.

Mr. Rogers and his bride left during the evening for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination and after June 15 will go to Atlanta to reside, where the groom is assistant day city editor of The Atlanta Constitution. They will reside at 677 Somerset terrace.

The bride chose for traveling a navy blue sheer bolero suit worn with an embroidered blouse. Her hat was blue straw and her accessories were of white.

The bridal couple are both graduates of the University of Georgia and are popular figures in the younger set here, in Elberton and in Atlanta, and their marriage was listed as one of the outstanding events of the early summer social season.

Among out-of-town guests attending the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Rogers, of Elberton, the groom's parents; Miss Edna Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lee and Robert Lee, all of Elberton; Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Rogers Jr. and Miss Carrie Rogers, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGill, Hamilton Lokey, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Q. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hines, Mrs. Esther Birdsong, Misses Molly and Esther Murph, Miss Eva Surrencey, Miss Yolande Gwin, Jack Spalding, Luke Greene, Carson Hilton, all of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miles, Mrs. Earl Askew, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Dr. and Mrs. Allen Smith, of Macon, and others.

Miss Thompson, of Columbus, To Wed Josiah Flournoy July 8

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 3.—Of wide social import today is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Ann Thompson, of this city, to Josiah Martin Flournoy, of Atlanta and Columbus, the marriage to be solemnized July 8 at the First Baptist church here.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeWitt Thompson, and is a popular member of the sub-deb set here. Her mother, the former Miss Mary Will Magruder, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Magruder, of Chipley. Her father is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thompson. The bride-elect is a sister of Mrs. Alvan Davis and Mrs. George Thompson, and is a niece of Mrs. R. A. Malone, of Macon; Johnston Magruder, of Sanford, Fla., and F. H. Magruder, of Columbus; Miss Ida Thompson, Mrs. W. J. Fielder, Mac D. Thompson, H. H. Thomason and C. W. Thompson, all of Columbus.

The bride-elect was graduated from the high school here and will receive her degree from the Georgia State College for Women, in Milledgeville, on June 14.

Mr. Flournoy, a member of a distinguished southern family, is the son of Josiah Flournoy and the late Jeannette Martin Flournoy. On his maternal side he is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, and his paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. John F. Flournoy, pioneer citizens and builders of Columbus. He is a brother of Mrs. James B. Huff Jr. and is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Flournoy, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. John Manly Flournoy, Mrs. Reynolds Flournoy, Mrs. Gordon Flournoy, Miss Mary Hannah Flournoy, Mr. and Mrs. John Martin and Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Cooke, all of Columbus; of Mrs. Frank Roberts, of Macon; Mrs. William States Lee and Hobart Martin, of Charlotte, N. C.

The groom-elect was graduated from high school here and from Emory University, where he was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. He will receive his diploma from Emory law school in June. Mr. Flournoy is now in the insurance business in Atlanta, where he and his bride will reside.

Atlanta Unit No. 1 at a recent meeting, proposed its retiring president, Mrs. George L. Baker, for election as second vice president of the Auxiliary of the Georgia department. Mrs. Baker has been an active member of the Atlanta unit for 14 years, having served in various capacities, as chairman of important committees, also having served as first and second vice president, and is at present president of her unit. She was chosen as executive director of the Big Brother movement sponsored jointly by The Constitution and various veterans' groups in Fulton county. This is the largest charitable undertaking in which veteran organizations participate. Mrs. Baker enjoys a wide acquaintance throughout the state, and has shown a splendid record of service to both the Legion and the Auxiliary.

The state editor requests all publicity editors over the state to send in reports of their publicity work done during the past year in each unit not later than June 10 as she must hand in a written report to the president for convention. The state editor will not be in the states for the convention as she leaves June 18 for a three week's vacation, and is required to have reports as well as publicity for The Constitution and Gala News on time.

Chairmen of committees in units are requested to read material sent them and to fill out and return to state chairman as she needs the reports to complete her report. Child welfare and rehabilitation reports are requested.

Fayette County Unit No. 105 will give a trophy to replace the one won by this unit for three consecutive years. It will be a rotating trophy, but if a unit wins it three consecutive years it shall become that unit's permanent possession.

Miss Long To Wed James Morrison Jr.

Interest is centered in the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pierson Long, of Bartow and Atlanta, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Long, to James Patrick Morrison Jr., of Glenwood.

Of interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Slaton Tuggle of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Elizabeth Tuggle, to Ralph Bruce Sutton, of Atlanta, formerly of Winter Haven, Fla., the marriage to be an event of the early summer.

After her graduation from Druid Hills High school, Miss Tuggle continued her study in music with Mrs. Alma Garrett Ware and W. W. Leffingwell and received her teacher's certificate. Later she studied at the Atlanta extension of the Sherwood Conservatory of Chicago under Mrs. J. G. Addy. For the past several years she has been connected with Rich's, Inc.

The bride-elect is the only daughter of her parents and her brother is Roy Slaton Tuggle Jr. Her mother is the former Miss Lessie Jones, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Metcalf Jones and the late William Cebron Jones. Her paternal grandparents were the late John Tyler Tuggle and Emma Paden Tuggle.

Mr. Sutton is the son of Henry Bates Sutton, of Tampa, formerly of Ocilla, Ga., and the late Mrs. Nina Bruce Sutton. His sisters are Mrs. C. E. Williams, of Bartow, Fla., and Mrs. C. A. Hall, of Tampa. His brothers are Milton Sutton, of Miami; Roy and Wilbur Sutton, of Tampa, and Homer Sutton, of Dalton, Ga. His maternal grandparents were the late Silas J. Bruce and Nancy Rogers Bruce, of Columbus. His paternal grandparents were the late J. B. Sutton and Priscilla Griffin Sutton, of Nashville, Ga.

The bridegroom-elect was graduated from Ocilla High school. Before coming to Atlanta he was assistant golf professional at the Winter Haven Golf Club. At present he is connected with the state of Georgia in the Department of Public Safety.

Former Georgian And Posey Jones To Wed June 24

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 3. Centering interest throughout Georgia and Florida is the announcement of the engagement of Centering interest throughout Miss Antoinette Rauschenberg, of Jacksonville, to Enoch Posey Jones, of Atlanta. The wedding will take place on June 24 at Iris Court, the home of the bride-elect's cousin, Miss Cena Whitehead, and the ancestral home of Mrs. John Robert de Graffenried, the bride-elect's maternal grandmother. The occasion will be an important social event of the summer.

Miss Rauschenberg is the only daughter of Oscar Caldwell Rauschenberg and Mrs. Rauschenberg, who before her marriage was Miss Carl de Graffenreid, of Albany. The bride - elect is the niece of Robert and Stovall de Graffenreid, of New York, formerly of Albany, and Christian Augustus Rauschenberg, of Atlanta and a great-niece of George W. Tye Jr., of Kentucky.

Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Robert de Graffenried, of Albany; her great-grandparents being the late Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, pioneer citizens, who were instrumental in the development of Albany. She is descended from the Stovalls, of Milledgeville, Ga., and the de Graffenrieds, of New Bern, N. C. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Christian Augustus Rauschenberg Sr., her grandmother having been Ann Tye Pope, the daughter of Elizabeth Tye and James Pope, of Virginia. Her great-grandfather was George Washington Tye. The Tyes and the Popes were early colonial settlers in the eastern part of Virginia, later moving into Kentucky.

The bride-elect is a native of Albany, Ga., but has resided in Jacksonville since early childhood. Miss Rauschenberg is a graduate of Robert E. Lee High school, and later attended Wesleyan Conservatory, Macon, Ga.

Mr. Jones is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian J. Jones, and is a member of families prominently identified in the early annals of Atlanta, who have taken leading parts in the cultural and business life of this city. Mr.

LaGrange Belle Is Betrothed To Mr. Jackson

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 3.—Of interest is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baxter Priddy of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlie Jo Kimbrough, of this city, to George Curtis Jackson, also of LaGrange, the marriage to take place July 1 at the First Methodist church here.

Miss Kimbrough, only daughter of Mrs. Priddy, the former Miss Pattie Key, and the late Charles M. Kimbrough, of Chipley, is the granddaughter of the late Josephine Dunman and William F. Key, prominent residents of Harris county, and of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kimbrough, of Chipley, prominently identified with the development of western Georgia. Mrs. Kimbrough was before her marriage Miss Lillian O'Neal. Billy Kimbrough, of Chipley, student at Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, is the bride-elect's only brother.

The beautiful bride-elect has been an admired member of LaGrange society since removal of her residence from Chipley. She graduated at LaGrange High school and attended Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, later graduating from LaGrange College with a bachelor of arts degree. She has taught for the past year at the Troup county school at Rosemont. She is a member of the LaGrange Cotillion Club.

The groom-elect is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jackson, of LaGrange, his mother having been before her marriage Miss Daisy Bradshaw, daughter of the late Sally Bunch and Alonzo Bradshaw, of Roanoke, Ala. His paternal grandparents are the late Susan Crouch and William Jackson, of Glenn. Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Athens, and Mrs. John Artley, of Hogansville, are his sisters.

Mr. Jackson was graduated from LaGrange High school, later attending Mercer University at Macon, where he was a member of the Pi Kappa Phi social fraternity. As member of the Esquires' Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, he is active in the civic and social affairs of LaGrange, where he is employed as overseer at the Valway plant of Callaway Mills.

Miss Wilkie, Leland Phillips To Wed June 28

The wedding plans of Miss Calvinia Wilkie and Leland Phillips announced today are of wide social interest. The ceremony takes place on Wednesday afternoon, June 28, at 5:30 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of the church, will officiate in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple.

Frank G. Wilkie will give his daughter in marriage, and Earl Phillips, of Chipley, Ga., will be best man for his brother. Mrs. LeRoy Rogers Jr. will be the maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. William Scanling, Misses Ruth Layfield, Sara Laney and Mrs. Maurice Davis, of Lakeland, Florida.

Acting as ushers will be Carl M. Floyd, of Atlanta; Captain Herman Usher, of Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and the groomsmen will be W. Olin McEwing, William Tucker, W. C. Thompson Jr. and Wiley Wisdom Jr., of Chipley.

Miss Gantt Weds Mr. Little At Fashionable Church Rites

Before a massive arrangement of rich greenery, quantities of white flowers and gleaming white tapers, Miss Cora Ansley Gantt became the bride of Rosser Little, of Marietta, yesterday at St. Mark Methodist church.

Members of Atlanta and Marietta society gathered for the nuptials performed by Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of the church. Prior to the wedding hour of 5:30 o'clock, while the guests were assembling, Miss Irene Leftwich gave an appropriate musical program on the organ. A musical program was also presented during the service.

Members of the wedding party gathered at the altar in a semicircle and stood before a beautiful arrangement of rich greenery centered with a tiered arrangement of cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers. At the base of the candelabra was a large sunburst formed of white larkspur, gladioli and lilies of the valley. On either side of the center piece amid the greenery were clusters of cathedral candelabras. Two white Grecian pedestals topped with white urns filled with white flowers also graced the side arrangements. An unusual effect was achieved in the church aisles by the cascade bouquets of white flowers garlanded to every other pew.

Wedding Party.

Before the appearance of the bridal party, the guests were seated by the ushers, who were James Austin Gantt, uncle of the bride; Adams DeLeon Little, Jordan Gardner and Remley Brumby, all of Marietta; Ewell Gay and Adrain Ford, of Atlanta. The groomsmen were Croswell Smith, Ben Parham, James Dudley, of Athens, and Madison Fowler, of Marietta.

Mrs. Raymond Nelson was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Sara Smith, Sarah Jenkins, Eugenia Anderson, the bride's cousin, from Macon; Marion Latta, of Nashville. They were gowned in models fashioned of buttercup yellow point d'esprit built over taffeta slips of the same shade. The tight fitting bodices featured heart shaped necklines and short puffed sleeves, while the skirts extended to form short trains. The attendants wore large leghorn hats trimmed with green grosgrain ribbons finished with sweetheart bows in the back, with streamers falling to the waistline. They also wore short lace mits and carried cascade bouquets of shasta daisies.

Beautiful Bride.

The former Miss Gantt entered the church with her brother, George Gantt, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, William DeJarnette Little, who was the best man. The bride's slender figure was offset by her wedding gown, especially designed for her youthfuly type. Fashioned of billowy point d'esprit, the gown was worn over a crisp taffeta slip. The deep heart-shaped neckline was a feature of the close-fitting bodice, while short puffed sleeves added an additional feminine touch. The long, full skirt was made with two layers of point d'esprit, finished at the hem with three small ruffles which extended around the entire width of the skirt and onto the long built-in train which fell in graceful folds.

The bride wore a small coronet of orange blossoms, from which fell a veil of illusion tulle. She wore three-quarter length white suede gloves and carried an exquisite lace handkerchief made by the groom's grandmother and carried by his mother at her wedding. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley in shower effect.

Mrs. George Gantt, mother of the bride, wore a lavender model, made with a bodice of matching shade of lace and with a long, lavender chiffon skirt. Her hat and other accessories were of black and she wore a shoulder spray of orchids. Mrs. David Rosser Little, of Marietta, the groom's mother, wore white marquisette and lace, the waist being fashioned with a fitted waistline, a heart-shaped neck and short lace sleeves. Her hat and other accessories were of white and her flowers were orchids.

After the ceremony, the bridal couple and their attendants, and members of the two families assembled at the Eighth street residence of the bride's mother for an informal reception before the bridal couple left for a honeymoon to Florida and Cuba.

A profusion of white flowers were used to adorn the reception rooms of the home where the guests assembled. In the sun parlor, a buffet table was centered with a bride's cake placed on a mound of lilies of the valley and white rosebuds. Silver punch bowls were placed on mounds of pastel-shaded summer garden flowers.

Mr. Little and his bride left for a wedding trip, and upon their return they will reside in their new home on Lawrence street in Marietta, and will become prominent additions to the younger married set of society. The bride traveled in a bolero style model of Dutch blue crepe finished with an amber scarf at the neckline. Her hat was a matching shade of felt and her shoes and bag were of natural alligator skin. Her champagne doeskin gloves matched her wool topcoat.

Miss Clara Huckaby, Of Griffin, To Wed D. Claude Weaver Jr.

GRIFFIN, Ga., June 3.—Interest centers in the announcement made today by Milton Alexander Huckaby, of this city, of the engagement of his daughter, Miss Clara Louise Huckaby, to D. Claude Weaver Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., formerly of Atlanta and Birmingham, Ala. The marriage will be quietly solemnized Sunday, June 18, in Atlanta.

The bride-elect is the only daughter of Mr. Huckaby and the late Mrs. Ruth Connell Huckaby. Her maternal grandparents are Mrs. Mary Imes Connell, of Griffin, and the late William Green Connell. Her paternal grandparents were the late Martha Bethune and William Pinkney Huckaby, of Williamson, Ga.

After completing her studies at Griffin and Spalding High schools, Miss Huckaby attended Marsh's Business College in Atlanta, where she is now residing. For the past ten months she has been connected with one of the larger insurance companies in that city.

The bridegroom-elect is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Claude Weaver, of Birmingham. His sisters are Misses Mary Belle, Betty Jean and Joyce Weaver, Mrs. Sam Marino and Mrs. Alex Likis, of Birmingham. Elmus and Raymond Weaver, also of that city, are his brothers. His mother is the former Miss Ida Ethel Gregory, daughter of the late John Wesley and Mary Higdon Gregory. His paternal grandparents are George Hardeman Weaver, of Alabama, and the late Eugenia Bowden Weaver.

Mr. Weaver was educated in Birmingham and for the past four years has been affiliated with Universal Credit Company. Since January 1 he has been residing in Jacksonville.

Miss L'Engle and Mr. Tufts Plan Marriage for June 21

Listed among the important social events of late June will be the marriage of Miss Elizabeth L'Engle, and Arthur Tufts Jr., the complete details and a partial list of prenuptial parties being announced today. The engagement of the popular couple was announced several weeks ago.

The ceremony takes place on June 21 at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church, and Dr. John Moore Walker, the rector, will officiate in the presence of a gathering of Atlanta society and many visitors. Hugh Hodgson and members of the St. Luke's choir will present a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

Philip L'Engle will give his daughter in marriage and Miss Margaret L'Engle will be her sister's maid of honor. Misses Christine Thiesen, Alice Davis, Nelle Freeman and Bennett Wilcox, of Baltimore, Md., a cousin of the groom-elect, will be the bridesmaids.

John Tufts will be his brother's best man and the groomsmen will be Rutledge Tufts, another brother of the groom-elect, and John Graham, Lawson Calhoun, of Houston, Texas; Frank Hulse, of Birmingham. The ushers will be Cammille S. L'Engle, of Jacksonville, Fla., uncle of the bride-elect; Dr. Stephen Barnett Sr., Walter Elcock, L. F. Montgomery, Alex Smith, James Kenan, James Wilcox and Davis B. Thornton.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. L'Engle will be hosts to the wedding party, the two families and the out-of-town guests at a small reception at their home on Peachtree circle, in Ansley park.

Prior to their wedding the young couple will be honored at a number of social affairs. The first of the series will be given on next Thursday when Miss Nelle Freeman gives a luncheon. On June 14 Mrs. Rufus Carswell entertains at luncheon for Miss L'Engle. The following day, June 15, Miss Anne Walker entertains the wedding party at a party and on June 20, Mrs. Arthur Tufts entertains at her home in Druid Hills for her son and Miss L'Engle.

Others planning parties the dates and details to be announced later are Misses Christine Thiesen, Alice Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Thornton and others.

D. A. R. Historical Program Announced Today by Mrs. Lane

By Mrs. J. Harold Nicholson, of Madison, Assistant Editor, Georgia D. A. R.

Mrs. John E. Lane, state chairman, program committee, of the Georgia D. A. R., sends the following program for 1939-40 in order that a larger number of Georgia Daughters may enter more deeply into the celebrations of patriotic days to be observed by the members, and that a more comprehensive study of those distinguished patriots may be attained.

For September the Georgia Society will study "Lafayette," with the suggestive books: Crow, "Lafayette"; Hallowell, "Spirit of Lafayette"; Woodward, "Lafayette." Lafayette's visit to Georgia, 1825, in Knight, "Georgia's Landmarks, Memorials and Legends," Vol. 1, pp. 311, 312; p. 103; Vol. II, pp. 650-652; pp. 574-577. In October Count de Grasse will be studied in Fiske, "The American Revolution," Vol. II, pp. 273-289; Harper, "Encyclopedia of United States History," Vol. IV; Miles, "The Yorktown Campaign and Admiral Count De Grasse." The siege and surrender at Yorktown: Brady, "Revolutionary Fights and Fighters," pp. 143-159; Fiske, "The American Revolution," Vol. II, pp. 244-290.

In November James Monroe is the subject chosen. Sanderson, "American Statesmen," pp. 214-232; the Monroe Doctrine; Alvarez, "The Monroe Doctrine"; Sherrill, "Modernizing the Monroe Doctrine"; Shotwell, "The Heritage of Freedom." The origin of Thanksgiving Day: Schauffler, "Thanksgiving Day."

December will be featured by Christmas in Colonial and Revolutionary Days: Hottes, "1001 Christmas Facts and Fancies"; Pringle, "Yuletide in Many Lands"; Schauffler, "Christmas." In January, Benjamin Franklin, the Man; Benjamin Franklin, the Patriot: "Franklin, Autobiography"; Russell, "Benjamin Franklin"; Sanderson, "American Statesmen"; Van Doren, "Benjamin Franklin"; Preble, "Origin and History of the American Flag"; Tappan, "Little Book of the Flag"; Thruston, "Origin and Evolution of the United States Flag"; Wooten, "Flag of Our Country."

(Books listed under each subject are available for loan from the Georgia Library Commission, State Capitol, Atlanta, free for postage to members of chapters upon request.)

Patriotic days to be observed are: January 17, Benjamin Franklin's birthday; February 12, Georgia Day; February 22, Washington's birthday; April 3, the American's Creed Day; April 13, Jefferson's birthday; June 14, Flag Day; July 4, Independence Day; September 6, Lafayette Day; September 17, Constitution and Magna Charta Day; October 19, Yorktown Day; November 11, Armistice Day.

The James Pittman Chapter, D. A. R., met recently at the home of Miss Annie Hawkins. The regent, Mrs. C. E. Pittman, presided. Officers elected: Mrs. C. E. Pittman, regent; Mrs. T. C. Hardman, first vice regent; Mrs. J. O. M. Smith, second vice regent; Mrs. A. S. Westbrook, recording secretary; Miss Lillian Pittman, treasurer; Mrs. M. T. Sanders, registrar.

Mrs. J. O. M. Smith, chairman, presented the following program: "Fredericksburg," Miss Lillian Pittman; "The Month of May in U. S. History," Mrs. M. T. Sanders; "Communist Activities," Mrs. C. E. Pittman; "America, the Beautiful" and "Little Sir Echo," Miss Frances Hubbard. Hostesses were: Miss Annie Hawkins, Mrs. J. N. Rainey and Mrs. C. D. Stark.

John Ball Chapter met at the home of Mrs. T. T. Williams in Montrose. Officers were re-elected as follows: Mrs. J. W. Hooks, regent; Mrs. A. W. Daughtry, vice regent; Miss Annie Daughtry, chaplain; Mrs. Victor Davidson, recording secretary; Mrs. A. C. Todd, corresponding secretary; Miss Addiegene Cason, treasurer; Mrs. C. B. Porter, registrar; Mrs. J. H. Dugan, historian; Mrs. N. H. Bacon, curator-librarian; Mrs. Dennard Hughes, reporter.

February's study will be George Washington. Consult the following: Fay, "George Washington"; Hughes, "George Washington"; Johnson, "General Washington"; Irving, "Life of Washington," 4 vols.; Mace, "Washington, a Virginia Cavalier"; Scudder, "George Washington"; Wilson, "George Washington." Martha Washington: Brooks, "Dames and Daughters of Colonial Days"; Cather, "Girlhood Stories of Famous Women"; Minnegerode, "Some American Ladies." Mount Vernon: Wilstach, "Mount Vernon." Georgia Day: Miscellaneous material.

In March, the subject will be Patrick Henry: Sanderson, "American Statesmen"; Wilstach, "Patriots Off Their Pedestals." Henry Lee (Light Horse Harry Lee): Harper, "Encyclopedia of United States History; Vol. V. Dungeness: Georgia Historical Quarterly, December, 1938; Lovell, "Golden Isles of Georgia"; Knight, Georgia's Landmarks, Memorials and Legends," Vol. I, pp. 1-12; Vol. II, p. 74.

For April the programs will feature Thomas Jefferson: Adams, "The Living Jefferson"; Bowers, "Jefferson and Hamilton"; Bowers, "Jefferson in Power"; Schouler, "Thomas Jefferson." Monticello: Kimball, "Thomas Jefferson, the Sage of Monticello." George Michael Troup: Chappell, "Georgia History Stories," pp. 251-284; White, "Historical Collections," pp. 231-232; Knight, "Georgia's Landmarks, Memorials and Legends," Vol. I, p. 384; p. 719; Vol. II, pp. 887-893; 1030; pp. 830-831; p. 310.

Georgia Revolutionary heroines will be featured in May. Hannah Clarke and Sarah Williamson with the references in Knight, "Georgia's Landmarks, Memorials and Legends," Vol. II, pp. 1042. June's study will be the flag of the United States: Brooks, "The Flag"; Griffin, "The American Flag of Stripes and Stars"; Harrison, "Stars and Stripes and Other American Flags."

'Adult Education' Made Theme Of Columbus Federation of Clubs

"Adult Education" was the theme of the May meeting of the Columbus Federation of Women's Clubs, which was featured by a luncheon held at the Woman's Club following a business session. Miss Edwina Wood, chairman of education for the federation, was in charge of the program and introduced the speakers—Mrs. Ed Bryan, Edward Shorter and Mrs. William Loflin.

"Adult education is a continuation of education," explained Miss Wood, "and may express itself in art, literature, travel, and other channels known as 'hobbies.' This is one of the divisions of federation work, and has received untold assistance from the government and other agencies."

Mrs. Ed Bryan told what is being done in Columbus for adult education, emphasizing the work in the local schools through many agencies. Vocation education was mentioned, and also the plan of the Opportunity school and other worth-while agencies.

Mrs. Loflin spoke of the advantage of travel, clinching her arguments by relating personal incidents of a trip abroad. "How much more a person enjoys copies of Rembrandt's Night Watch, after seeing the original," stated Mrs. Loflin, "as well as the reading of the coronation of Pope Pius, after a visit to the Vatican."

Edward Shorter changed his subject from "Art," and told of the vital needs of Columbus—a city in which he takes great pride as a citizen. He advocated better housing, more parks and a civic center. He heartily approves of the old post office building being used as a museum.

Edward Shorter is deeply interested in art, and has brought to Columbus many outstanding exhibits. As an artist, he has a deep appreciation of the best in culture.

Mrs. John Murrah, president of the Columbus Federation of Women's Clubs, presided, and introduced Miss Wood. As a gesture for Cotton Week, Mrs. Murrah brought a petticoat which had been worn by infants in her family for several generations.

Mrs. J. T. Fletcher displayed a dress that had been in her family for 150 years; this also made of cotton, and in perfect condition.

Mrs. J. O. Methvin displayed a photograph of herself and her sister, reproduced on cotton cloth, which was in excellent condition after many years.

Most attractive were the table appointments of spring flowers, made possible by the courtesy of Mrs. James Passmore. Among the visitors present for the luncheon were Mrs. Robert McLean, of Wilmington, N. C., the guest of her niece, Mrs. C. T. McDonald; Mrs. Leila James, of Greenville, S. C., guest of her sister, Mrs. Ben Harris; Mrs. O. K. David, of Marshallville, guest of Mrs. Bobbie David and family; Mrs. Louis Lummus, of Charlotte, N. C., guest of Mrs. Frank Lummus.

Mrs. Murrah presided over the business meeting, held in the Jordan room. Report was made from the recent tag day sponsored by the federation, assisted by the P.-T. A., with Mrs. Evelyn McGehee and Mrs. Beauchamp, co-chairmen. Several hundred dollars were collected, to be used by the public health nurse in providing milk for undernourished babies. Mrs. Murrah urged co-operation in the federation work.

It was announced that the newly organized Juniors, Carpe Diem Club, Miss Katherine Colbert, president, would be in charge of the June meeting.

Mrs. Murrah also announced that the keynote of the programs for the Columbus federation would emphasize Americanization: "Seek to envision a united American democracy that is a covenant among free men to respect the rights and liberties of their fellows. Vital needs of today: To build for better human relationships through study, clear thinking and dependability that we may evaluate a democracy efficient in detail for every-day living; that we may provide necessary material for uprightness of character, for justice, integrity, religion, social relations and government.

Twenty-Eight Seniors Receive Their Diplomas at Tallulah Falls School

Twenty-eight members of the senior class received their diplomas the last week in May at Tallulah Falls school, the credited high school owned and operated by Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and located on Cherokee mountain in north Georgia. These graduates style themselves the "Thirty-Niners," and claim to have discovered gold at Tallulah without making the long trek across the continent, which distinguished those earlier Americans known as the "Forty-Niners." In addition to the high school diploma, ten girls in this class received state-indorsed certificates in handcrafts, entitling them to teach weaving, dyeing, basketry and rug-making in any school in Georgia. Reading from left to right, first row, are Mariann Brooks, Virginia Slayton, Dorothy Hills, Winnie Grace Wike, T. J. Turner, Grace Fretwell, Ramelle Eberhart, Norma Mathis. Second row, left to right, Edna DeMore, Callie Taylor, Rosella Davis, Kitty Hopper, Virginia Lockaby, Wilda Patten, Ovelle Taylor, Roberta Boatright, Marian Callaway. Third row, left to right, Louise Berrong, Edwin Porter, Edith Morrison, Owen Lee Buford, Mildred Parker, Pauline Parker, Annie Wilson, A. B. Duncan Jr., Kathleen Burrell, Dexter Stewart and Georgia Bell Hearn.

Mrs. Ralph Butler Contributes Article on California Conclave

By Mrs. Ralph Butler, of Dallas, General Federation Director for Georgia.

With California at the height of her beauty and a program based on the theme, "Adjusting Democracy for Human Welfare," featuring a list of renowned speakers such as John M. Cassells, Paul F. Cadman, Miss Mary Irene Atkinson, Marshall N. Dana, Melvin Douglas, Anna B. Fischer, Henry F. Grady, Dorothy Thompson, Dr. Clara B. Burdette, Anna Steese Richardson, Kathleen Norris, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter and many others, each session of the Council of General Federation of Women's Clubs in San Francisco was within itself a real highlight.

A dinner typical of California's famous hospitality, given in Palm Court of the Palace hotel preceded the formal opening. San Francisco's magnificent War Memorial opera house was the scene of all sessions and a public mass meeting with greetings from state, city and club officials launched the opening in a most propitious manner.

Some 14,000 clubs in the states and territories of the United States, and foreign countries, with a total membership of more than two million, form the organization. During the past year reports show a net gain of 58,723 members, the report being the first to be received.

Mrs. Dunbar's Address.

One of the most forceful addresses of the entire council was that of the president, Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar. With the enumeration of the ills that beset democracy today she hurled a challenge to the club women of America, "Do we care enough?" she asked again and again, as she pointed out the changes that must be worked out if democracy is adjusted to human welfare. Peace, education, child welfare, public health, and crime control, each has its individual challenge to an organization whose strength and purpose are devoted to making the world a better place in which to live.

"At heart we all want the same thing," said Mrs. Dunbar, "We all want freedom and security. We all want peace, however much we may differ as to the method we think best to follow in order to win the common goal. But do we care enough to work for peace? I mean really work as we would for our boys during a world combat? Do we care enough to help to solve the problems of our poorly fed, poorly housed, poorly clothed population, so that they will be less inclined to listen to the false promises of alien ideologies?

"What are we willing to give up for peace and what we think is right? Do we care enough not to let our services for children bog down through criticism against taxes?" Mrs. Dunbar concluded with a plea for more support for character building agencies and better provision for health and prevention of disease.

An especially interesting evening was junior club night, when the junior representatives from the various states formed a processional and were introduced from the stage.

Juniors Represented.

Georgia clubwomen were happy inded to have their juniors represented by Miss Catharine Tift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tift, of Atlanta. Her charm, beauty and southern accent made her a decided favorite and through her general federation has a glowing impression of all Georgia juniors.

Mrs. Kathleen Norris, author and clubwoman, was a gifted speaker using as her subject, "What Do You Want to Do?" She touched on world peace with sacrifice as the only way out of a major world war. Her closing thought was a plea to the clubwomen to tell congress "We have billions for friendships but not one cent for destruction."

Resolutions presented for adoption caused heated discussions from the floor, especially the one indorsing the extension of aid by the federal government to underpriviledged areas. Opposition came from the highly populated industrial states, while favoring the indorsement were the agricultural states. Result was the indorsement of the following:

Flexibility of principles of foreign policy, this to include a stand on embargoes, neutrality and leadership of the United States in aiding the settlement of world crises.

Condemnation of the participation of this government in the intergovernmental committee of political refugees. And that in accordance with our national tradition member clubs be urged to accept responsibility for helping to create public opinion in their communities that will prevent the growth of intolerance, injustice and religious discrimantion in our own country. Celebration of citizenship day as a recognition of youth coming into itis majority.

Objectives Indorsed.

Indorsement of the first four objectives of the national health program, including national and state program for the expasion of public health, maternal and child-health services, hospital and clinic facilties and medical services for needy persons.

Proposal that the Redwood Mountain Grove of Big Trees be acquired by the government for national park purposes.

Indorsement of the world calendar reform; of federal aid to equalize library service through the United States; of federal aid for education without federal control; of uniform vehicle code and uniform traffic ordinances.

Sponsorship of principles of the child-labor provisions of the fair labor standards act. Extension of protective child welfare services into every community including aid to dependent children.

Encouragement of the teaching of Spanish in all schools and colleges in America, as a means of promoting a better understanding between North and South America.

It was the privilege of the Georgia director to speak at one of the conference meetings on Tallulah Falls school, Gift Scholarship and Student Aid. Georgia's educational program received much favorable comment and recognition. And as always we enjoyed being praised and envied, in that we are the only state to own our own federation school at Tallulah Falls.

Georgia women again felt a great pride when Mrs. T. V. Moore, chairman of public safety, presented her program and announced the awards in her safety contests and Cornelia Woman's club won a first prize of $50 for outstanding achievement in this division. Our heartiest congratulations to Georgia, the 9th district, and especially to Cornelia club women.

Mrs. Frederick Beggs, chairman of international relations, presented a symposium of decided interest. "The Club Woman Wants to Know—What Is the Relation Between Foreign Policy and National Defense?" Speakers included Dr. Henry F. Grady on "Foreign Policy", Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn on "National Defense," and Dr. Chester H. Rowell on "Public Opinion."

Parade of States

Outstanding was the program presented by the directors, "The Parade of the States," with each director appearing in a costume typical of her state. From the opening of the program in which Alaska appeared as a salmon fisherman, carrying an immense salmon on a hook, to the close in which Wisconsin appeared as a dairy maid, the costumes were typical, colorful and most interesting.

Iowa, represented by Mrs. H. C. Houghton, who conducted the club institute in Athens last summer and has many friends among Georgia women, wore a costume representing corn; Mississippi was cotton, New Mexico was a Mexican peasant girl, California in a gorgeous costume of gold cloth typified the golden west; Oregon was a cowboy; Nebraska, a miner, with a very realistic costume even to the lamp on her cap; Virginia was a Colonial Dame; Kentucky, a red cardinal, Utah the bee hive of industry, Florida was America's play ground, in a sport suit, sandals and sun glasses; Vermont represented maple syrup, Pennsylvania was a Quaker, Massachusetts a Puritan maid, Colorado was Pikes peak, Washington an evergreen, Montana a dude ranch, Oklahoma an Indian, and on through the long list.

It was your director's privilege to represent Georgia in a costume designed to feature Georgia peaches and to carry a tray made of Georgia pine needles by the childen at Tallulah Falls school, and filled with peaches.

Charming Hostesses.

California women proved themselves charming hostesses and social activities included elaborate dinners, luncheons, teas and breakfasts, with garden tours, rides through their beautiful parks and sightseeing when time permitted. Every clubwoman attending the coupcil was the guest of California for play day when a large steamer was chartered for a trip out into the bay by Alcatraz, through the golden gate and down by Oakland and Berkeley. Lunch was served on board and the afternoon and evening were spent on Treasure Island enjoying the wonders of the fair.

A fitting close to the distinguished gathering was the symposium given, at the final evening session, on the theme of the administration "Adjusting Democracy for Human Welfare," with Dr. Ray Lyman Wilmer presiding and Dr. Homer Folks, of New York; Dr. Henry F. Grady and Dr. Monroe E. Deutsch, both of the University of California, as speakers.

On Sunday following the adjournment six members of the Georgia party started for home and enjoyed many lovely courtesies from clubwomen in various states en route.

Again we left a meeting of the general federation with a feeling of awe at the magnitude of the organization and its far-reaching influence. Also a feeling of thankfulness and pride that Georgia clubwomen have a vital part in its functioning.

Georgia Clubwomen Indorse Bill To Bring Federal Aid to Education

Federal aid for libraries is included in the bill for federal aid to education known as S.1305 and H.R. 3517, in congress. The purpose of the bill, which has been indorsed by Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, is "to promote the general welfare through appropriation of funds to assist the states and territories in providing more effective programs of public education."

"To assist in equalizing educational opportunities . . . to maintain local and state initiative and responsibility." The bill contains provisions of the greatest importance to library development in every state. "Without federal aid, the establishment of a national minimum standard of library service is quite simply and literally impossible.

"Only by the united efforts of local, state and federal governments can the ideal of a nationally adequate program of library service be approached. The final result should be a co-operative partnership in library development in which the federal government shares responsibility with the states and the local units." Inequalities between states in ability to provide educational services account, in a large measure, for the variation in expenditures for public library service from 2 cents per capita in two states to over $1 per capita in one state.

Only federal funds can lessen these inequalities in opportunities for self-education. Libraries are essential in a democracy, and yet 45,000,000 people in the United States—most of them rural people—have no public libraries within reach, and are deprived of the basic means of education. The seventy-sixth congress sponsored through the senate and house committees the original bill which has been revised and clarified. Every librarian, trustee and friend of libraries should give the bill the strongest possible support. Secure a copy from your senator or representative. Urge organizations to pass resolutions of indorsement and transmit them to their congressmen. Watch the progress of the legislation and contact congressmen at critical times.

General Federation Plans Observance Of Golden Years of Fruitful Service

Plans for the golden jubilee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs have been launched and interest in this colorful commemoration of 50 golden years in 1940 is already nation-wide. The general chairman is Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, of Baltimore, who is coming to Georgia as leader of the club institute program, in Athens, July 6 and 7. Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, is general chairman of the speakers' bureau for the jubilee observance. Mrs. Whitehurst says:

"At a time when so many problems confront us—a birthday celebration may seem like a trifling adventure—but when the actual celebration and the period preceding such an event is utilized for an educational campaign, it develops into a very serious and intriguing project. It is the desire of our national president, Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, that we outline our program along such lines.

In an effort to carry out the desires of our president, the committee will strive to build an educational program, one in which every club, county, district and state group can participate. We also hope to enlist the co-operation of our club women in foreign countries.

We expect to use this celebration as a medium for the accomplishment of several things.

1. To place before our people the outstanding accomplishments of women in the past.

2. To acquaint our women with the great struggles of our predecessors in their efforts to develop women and women's activities to their present status; and to make them cognizant of the necessity, at the present time, of working to preserve that status.

3. To inspire our women, particularly the juniors, so that they will continue their organization work with greater vigor and enthusiasm.

4. To give national recognition to women leaders in public affairs; to women of accomplishment in all fields; to national leaders of the past and present, and to the pioneer states and pioneer club women in each state.

5. By trying to make the entire world conscious of the great strength and high purpose of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and our determination to work for those projects which will help to create peace, harmony and better living conditions for all of our people. To carry out such a program we must have the co-operation of the presidents of state and district federations and individual clubs, and the interest of every club woman in this country.

Junior Club Members Reflect Great Credit.

A junior club of Carthage, Mo., with a membership of 16, raised $2,000 to purchase two "iron lungs" for a Missouri hospital. Juniors of Salem, Ore., purchase a pair of glasses each month for some poor child who needs them. During the cancer drive in Montana, Anaconda Juniors contributed $117 as their share. In Missoula, Mont., the major project of the Juniors has been the contribution of funds to the nursery school at the state university, the conducting of kindergartens, and the sponsoring of State Child Health Day.

The Laconia Club, a thriving group of Junior clubwomen in New Hampshire, sold poinsettias to raise money for prevention of tuberculosis. Juniors of Geneva, Neb., held a carnival, using the money earned for the improvement of the city park. Another club that takes its civic responsibility seriously is the Junior Club of Tampa, Fla., which has launched an extensive campaign for public safety.

Approximately $500 was raised by the Juniors of Raleigh, N. C., which is being used in nursery school work and for the blind. This money was earned through a bridge tournament, a dance, a dinner, presentation of a marionette and fashion show, and taking orders for pictures for a photographer.

Activities of Indiana Juniors include presentation of programs on conservation of youth, stressing character building, and also public welfare work with charitable organizations.

Fitzgerald Women Honor Grandmothers At Recent Party

Grandmother's Day is an outstanding event in Fitzgerald Woman's Club and the entire membership considers it a privilege to contribute time, talent, and money to make this day a joyous one for grandmothers of the community.

The recent observance was at the last meeting over which the retiring president, Mrs. C. A. Holtzendorf presided and the rooms in Legion Hall where the exercises were held were profusely decorated by members of the Garden Club. Mrs. C. C. Smith reserved for her special attention the decoration of the mantels at opposite ends of the room. As the grandmothers entered, the president of the Garden Club, Mrs. F. R. Justice, with the vice president, Mrs. J. H. Dorminy, pinned a corsage on each.

Past presidents of the Woman's Club acting as hosts were Mesdames Holtzendorf, S. G. Pryor, G. E. Ricker, R. E. Lee and Iverson Wimpee, and their hospitality committee was composed of Mesdames C. A. Newcomer, Bob Ware, John McMillen and Paul Kelly. Serving punch were Mrs. A. L. Bowden and Mrs. W. K. Bryant, assisted by Mesdames O. W. Fletcher, Dr. McMillen, Floyd Eads, G. W. Turner, W. V. Holder, Jesse Cannon, J. A. Jones, J. Kassewitz, A. B. Griner, W. C. Hancken and W. A. Bass.

As the oldest grandmother present, Mrs. Fannie Hagerman was presented with a basket of flowers, donated by Mrs. Modena Rodgers. Before presenting the program Mrs. Holtzendorf asked the newly-elected president, Mrs. W. V. Woodham, to come forward and receive the grandmothers as a precious legacy. Mrs. Woodham expressed her joy in assuming this responsibility. After a song by the chorus, a welcome was sung by pupils of Mrs. Iverson Wimpee's class. Words of this song were composed by Mrs. Holtzendorf. Vocal selections were sung by Sarah Bob Ware, Martiel Ellis, Billy Moore and Luline Seanor.

Mrs. Bernice Hilliard presented seventh grade pupils in a minuet: Betty Ann McDonald, Minnie Bell Powell, John Oliver, and Claud Persons. Miss Ann McDonald gave a reading, and Mrs. Cecil Cannon presented a group of dance pupils from Miss Anne Stokes' class in a Dutch number. Prize to the grandmother with the greatest number of grandchildren was donated by Mrs. Jack Mayes and went to Mrs. M. E. Davis, who boasts 37 great-grandchildren. "I hope I will be present at the grandmothers' luncheon next year," the wish of Mrs. C. C. Smith, voiced the sentiment of all present.

Under the Cherokee Rose

By Rose Marie

Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs recently closed a most successful term of two years under the leadership of Mrs. James R. Little. In her valedictory, Mrs. Little stated that the federation units numer 112 clubs, 14 added during her administration. Census taken proved a membership of 15,500, which is extremely gratifying. Mrs. Raymond Wolfe, 700 Park drive, who was elected president, has proven her qualifications for the office in various avenues of service. Her chairmanship under Mrs. Little was press and publicity.

National attention has been drawn to Georgia for service rendered disabled World War veterans. She is the first of the 48 states to supply insulin for indigent diabetic veterans. To accomplish this great benefaction has been the special project of Mrs. H. M. Nicholes, of 3694 Peachtree road, Atlanta, who is chairman of co-operation with war veterans in the state and Atlanta federations, and in the fifth district of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Jessica Davenport Watts, of Rome, former consultant in the State Welfare Department, was speaker at recent meeting of Smyrna Woman's Club, having for her subject "Better American Citizenship." Dr. W. C. Mitchell came before the club to ask that a committee be appointed to call upon county commissioners and urge them to vote for the one-mill tax for hospitalization of Cobb county indigents. Sum of $50 was sent to help pay tuition of school children who needed help. Mrs. Callie Jay announced the opening of vacation reading club, stating that certificates would be awarded those reading ten or more books.

Following officers have been elected. Homerville Woman's Club: President, Mrs. W. B. Gillican; first vice president, Mrs. J. B. Gay; second vice president, Mrs. R. E. Smith; secretary, Mrs. O. E. Talley; treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Smith; parliamentarian, Mrs. W. F. Wooten; custodian, Mrs. G. C. Hughes Sr.

Thomas, recording secretary; Mrs. E. E. Purcell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. L. Vandiver, treasurer; Mrs. S. E. Vandiver, parliamentarian; Mrs. G. D. Pulliam, historian; Mrs. J. M. Battson, reporter.

Garden Hills Woman's Club of Atlanta has among its outstanding projects a most active garden division which has recently elected the following officers: Chairman, Mrs. Lamar Partee, 218 Bolling road; co-chairman, Mrs. B. C. Settle, 235 E. Wesley road; recording secretary, Mrs. Martin Meath; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. L. Hungerford; garden center chairman, Mrs. Charles Roberts; scrap book, Mrs. Arch Wall; parks, Mrs. Ernest Rodgers; registrar, Mrs. J. R. Jameson; chairman flower show, Mrs. R. A. Eubanks; co-chairman, Mrs. R. H. Johns; telephone chairman, Miss Rubie Smith; ways and means, Mrs. A. R. Kivitte; program, Mrs. E. E. Limbaugh.

The following officers were installed at the May meeting of Hartwell Woman's Club: Mrs. M. A. Maret, president; Mrs. J. B. Shaw, first five president; Mrs. W. L. Hailey, second vice president; Mrs. Pete Herndon, recording secretary; Mrs. A. N. Alford Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. C. Page, treasurer; Mrs. A. F. Bell, press reporter; Mrs. Claude Herndon, parliamentarian; Mrs. A. C. Skelton, new club house trustee. Plans for the summer reading course were announced by Mrs. Homer Herndon; program on "international relations" was presented by Mrs. Guy Norris as speaker, and musical numbers were played by the Sardis school orchestra, directed by Mrs. Wilson Page.

Miss Jewel White was recently elected president of Bainbridge Tallulah Falls Circle to succeed Miss Margaret Conger. This fine group is completing a scholarship at Tallulah which was started as the major project after organization in January, 1938.

General Federation of Women's Clubs has instituted a "treasure hunt" through the fine arts department. Old plays, folk tales, folk music including old hymns, songs, fiddle tunes, old dances, which have never been recorded in their present versions are the object of the search.

Ben Hill Garden Club is welcomed as the most recent addition to the member groups in Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. The 26 members have as president, Mrs. C. P. Suber, Ben Hill, Ga.; recording secretary, Miss Eunice Baker; treasurer, Mrs. W. M. Crawford. The club slogan is "To make Ben Hill beautiful," and the roadsides on Campbellton road have been planted with dogwood and crape myrtle. The club has a pretty brick club home.

Sub-Juniors Present Tallulah Program.

Sub-Juniors in the Elberton Woman's Club presented a Tallulah Falls school program recently, with Mrs. Hal Bynum and Mrs. Charles Yearly in charge. Jane Cleveland gave an account of the graduating exercises at the school and DoDo Allan gave a reading and a tribute to Mrs. John K. Ottley, president of the Tallulah board of trustees. Anne Pim and Alice Manley sang a duet, Mrs. McWhorter Thornton sang a solo, Kathleen Acker recounted things done by the Sub-Juniors during the past year.

Mrs. C. F. Cumming presided at the business session and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. D. J. Thornton; vice president, Mrs. T. M. Swift; treasurer, Mrs. Hal Bynum; secretary, Mrs. Felix Borzynski; auditor, Miss Lula Peek; parliamentarian, Mrs. D. N. Thornton. Mrs. Cumming gave a report of her stewardship and a social hour was enjoyed with the hostesses, Mesdames Lester Lee, chairman; M. B. Wyche, Tom Thornton, T. M. Swift and T. J. Rousey.

Mrs. High Heads Brunswick Club

Recently reorganized Woman's Club of Brunswick held a recent meeting in the nature of a tea, with a large group of interested women in attendance. Mrs. S. L. High, newly elected president, gave an interesting resume of the club's activities since its first organization. The Woman's Club emanated from the Civic League which long years ago did much constructive work in the community. Mrs. High named the prominent women who had headed the club and gave a brief outline of the accomplishments.

The secretary, Mrs. Franklin Crandall, read the minutes, and Mrs. High named her committee chairmen for the year beginning in the fall. Under the direction of Mrs. Norman Way a delightful program was presented which featured an address by a distinguished member, Mrs. Phil Ringel, president of the Eighth District Federation of Clubs, whose inspiring subject was "Know Your Woman's Club." Interesting points of service for clubwomen were outlined by Mrs. Ringel whose splendid leadership is meaning much to the well-organized and active clubs in the eighth district. New groups in the district are being organized and these will be federated during the present administration. New groups in the district are being organized and these will be federated during the present administration.

Musical contributions were vocal numbers sang by Miss Jeune Wilson and Miss Virginia Holmes, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bertha A. Stevenson. Miss Robie Lee Wade, who recently received her graduation certificate in music from Mrs. Maud N. Crovatt's piano class, entertained with an artistically rendered composition. Serving as hostesses were Mesdames Hubert Lang, Franklin Crandall and J. B. Avera.

Fitzgerald Paper Carries Club Column

The Leader - Enterprise and Press of Fitzgerald carries an alive Woman's Club column, sponsored by the local Writers' Club. Recent issue includes an account of the observance of National Poetry Week and verses by the Fitzgerald participants: Mesdames M. M. Stephens, C. A. Holtzendorf, Barnwell Robuck and Artis Williams.

National Poetry Week was started by Anita Browne, of New York city, with three aims: To pay tribute to the poets, to encourage more people to write poetry, to develop a higher standard of poetic appreciation, and through these aims to create broader markets for the sales of books of poetry and of individual poems.

Poetry day was recently observed at the New York World's Fair and Anita Browne presented the program which included representative poets of the world. "The Panorama of American Poets" was exhibited as the first authentic record of its kind. The "World's Fair Anthology of Poetry" will be released in the autumn. "Buzzard's Bay," by Leila Stephens, appears in this anthology. In the Sidney Lanier Memorial volume, "Poems of Trees," edited by Wightman F. Melton, there are verses written by Mrs. Stephens, Hulda Robuck and Nellie Lowman Williams. Bertha Holtzendorf has her portfolio of lyrics which add to pleasure of the club upon occasion.

Mrs. Stephens was recently re-elected president of the Writers' Club, Mrs. Henderson Smith, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. I. Gelders, chairman of programs. The annual meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Artis Williams presented "The Play" as subject for study. Mrs. Williams read the one-act English play, "The Twelve-Pound Lock," by J. M. Barrie and gave an interpretation of the various parts.

Mrs. Myers Fetes Miss Mary Snow.

Mrs. R. C. Myers entertained at a bridge party at her home Thursday evening, honoring Miss Mary Snow, bride-elect, and her guest, Mrs. Nicholas Mitchell, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Federated Church Women of Rome Attend 'Fellowship' Luncheon

ROME, Ga., June 3.—More than 1 church men and women attended the "Fellowship" luncheon at the Forrest hotel Friday, which included 15 ministers and auxiliary members, representing 16 churches of the Rome district. Mrs. Ross Bosworth, president, presided.

John R. Hornady spoke on "How Women Can Best Aid in Preventing War," and stressed the point that appreciation of constructive accomplishments must be developed to a larger degree in the struggle to insure peace to the world. He said that a halo had been placed above the war scene, the glowing rays of which permeate literature, art, drama, history and text books, and that the result is to create in the minds of millions of youths the thought that the greatest glory and the most lasting fame is to be found on the battlefield.

The Rev. H. C. Holland's theme was "Women Mobilizing Their Spiritual Influences." He said that the term "mobilization" means "get ready for action" by concentrating the forces and getting definitely behind objectives. He declared that such mobilization was essential to maximum accomplishments and stressed as a vital factor an understanding of the reality of religion.

Mrs. Edmund Yeargan rendered vocal selections, "The House on the Hill," by Ernest Charles, and "Like the Rosebud," by Frank LaGorge, and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilbur Rowland. Early summer flowers in crystal bowls formed the table decorations and were arranged by Mrs. J. L. Jolly, chairman of decorations.

Dr. E. R. Leyburn offered the invocation, and seated at the speakers' table were the ministers and the officers of the council. Mrs. Bosworth paid especial tribute to the officers, calling attention to the fact that the council was only about three years old. With Mrs. John R. Hornady, as president, they built the organization from a small nucleus to a city-wide interested body, including representatives of practically all of the protestant churches of this district.

The ministers were the special guests of the church women. The "Fellowship" luncheon is the annual social occasion of the Federated Church Women, scheduled each year for the month of May.

Atlanta Council Names New Members

Atlanta Council of Church Women held its first board meeting of the new year recently with the president, Mrs. C. R. Stauffer, in charge.

In accordance with previous action of the board, the denominational representatives were increased from one to two each, and the following new members were welcomed: Mrs. C. M. Lancaster, Mrs. Homer Hulse, Miss Mattie Clements, Miss Mary Edwards King and Mrs. Walt Holcomb.

The first of the four council meetings of the year will be held October 6. The program committee includes Mrs. A. H. Sterne, chairman; Mrs. L. O. Freeman, Mrs. C. M. Lancaster and Mrs. Walt Holcomb. A new constitution, which was unanimously adopted at the board meeting, will be presented.

letter was authorized to be sent to Mayor Hartsfield, commending him in his efforts to thoroughly enforce the law in Atlanta against slot machines and other gambling devices.

At the last annual meeting of the board action was taken to conform with the national council program, making the fiscal year the calendar year. Friday, January 12, is the date set for the annual meeting of the Atlanta Council of Church Women.

The annual conference of National Council of Church Women will be held in Lake Geneva, Wis., July 6-9.

Baptist W. M. U. Board Holds Meeting

Executive board of Baptist W. M. U. held the monthly meeting Tuesday with Mrs. Frank Burney, president, presiding. The opening devotional was led by Mrs. A. S. Johnson, who chose prayer as her subject.

The executive secretary-treasurer, Miss Mary Christian, reported that much attention had been given to the W. M. U. history written by Mrs. W. J. Neel. She expressed deep appreciation for what Baptist women have meant to her in her 10 years of service in Georgia W. M. U. Twenty-six new organizations were reported.

In connection with their official reports, Misses Miriam Robinson, young people's secretary, and Dollie Hiett, field worker, gave interesting and informative facts of the recent southern B. W. M. U. convention in Oklahoma City. Indian mission fields supported by the Home Mission Board were also visited. Miss Robinson has given much time to program plans for annual Y. W. A. camp to be held at Ridgecrest, N. C., June 20-30; Royal Ambassador Conclave at Mercer University, Macon, July 3-8; girls' auxiliary house party at Bessie Tift College, Forsyth, July 10-15. Miss Hiett has visited three associations where mission study classes were taught and organizations formed.

Mrs. Ryland Knight, training school trustee, reported six of the 10 Georgia girls graduated in May, three will return for the second year and three new girls will enroll in September. Plans are under way to raise $10,330 toward the erection of the new buildings at the Beeches. The Margaret Fund chairman, Mrs. R. B. Cormany, said Georgia led in memorials last year. The Margaret Fund love gifts have been named "The Burney Love Gift," honoring Mrs. Frank Burney, who served as southwide chairman for 16 years. Mrs. E. E. Steele, mission study chairman, reported Georgia led the 18 states in pioneer classes in 1938. The annual institute will be held at Mercer University June 5-9.

The vice presidents present were Mesdames George Allen, W. A. Adkins, W. O. Mitchell and C. A. Hartman. Each reported work in splendid condition. Soon plans will be made for the annual divisional meetings. The name of Mrs. E. L. Tanner, of Douglas, was presented as vice president of the newly-created division to be known as the South Central. The board's vote was unanimous in the acceptance. Others reporting were: Mrs. James Lott, chairman of personal service; Mrs. A. B. Couch, chairman of publicity; Mrs. Gordon Weekly, messages; Mrs. W. J. Neel, president emeritus and author of the new history to be off the press soon, was present and spoke briefly.

Miss Janice Singleton, newly-elected executive secretary-treasurer, pledged her best to the W. M. U. of Georgia.

On behalf of members of the board, Mrs. E. E. Steele presented a silver bowl to Miss Christian as an expression of appreciation and love for 10 years of loyal, loving service with Georgia B. W. M. U.

Mrs. Smith, W. C. T. U. Leader, Issues Call to Prayer for Peace

By Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Atlanta, Editor Georgia W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, issues a call to prayer for the peace of the world, Sunday, June 11. The closing lines of the call follow: "In line with our nation's efforts for peace which have struck such a responsive chord in the hearts of all Americans and among the oppressed peoples of other lands, the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union appeals for the observance of Sunday, June 11, as peace prayer Sunday. We plead that all people may join in supplication to the God of nations that war may be averted, that wars being now waged may end and that justice, security and peace may be established among all nations."

Canton W. C. T. U. for years has done a great work in putting on temperance essay contests in the public schools. Mrs. Laura McClure directs the work, and sends reports of essay contests this year with names of winners. Prizes are always given in money. This year prizes were awarded in grades second to eleven. In the fourth grade there were two divisions and two prizes were awarded in each division. The names of prize winners are: Eleventh grade first prize, Kathleen Mode; second, James Arnold. Kathleen Mode also won the prize offered for the best essay in the four highest grades, and she will read the prize-winning essay at the graduation exercises. Tenth grade first prize, Marie Smith; second, Ruth Killian; ninth grade first prize, Bettie Teasley; second, Sue Tippins; eighth grade first prize, Charles Roach; second, Edith Bottoms; seventh grade first prize, Marjorie Foster; second, Bettie Sue West; Marjorie Foster also won the prize for the best essay in grades five, six, seven; sixth grade first prize, Geneva Vaughn; second, Linda Arnold; fifth grade first prize, Mary Lou Fronebarger; second, Mildred Prichard; fourth grade, first division, first prize, Imogene Mauldin; second, Betty Audrey Henderson; fourth grade, second division, first prize, Louise Scruggs; second, Buddy Forester.

Mrs. R. H. McDougall, vice president of the Georgia W. C. T. U., last week addressed the Atlanta district W. M. S. meeting on the subject, "What Can I, as a Methodist Missionary Woman, Do for Temperance?" Her main points were: "Be a total abstainer; be informed; teach the young; have your five-minute temperance talk at every regular meeting; register and vote; if you have daily vacation Bible schools, have a course on alcohol. Be sure that the teacher of your child has temperance lesson and program as the state law requires on the fourth Friday in March. Give your minister your moral support in this cause. In short, do your duty so well that the Master may say of you as He did of Mary of old, 'She hath done what she could.'"

It is a pleasure to have this word from Mrs. E. A. Cawthon, president of Druid Hills union: "Mrs. G. E. Rosser, of Wesleyan College, invited me to bring a temperance message to her large class of young matrons at Mulberry church Sabbath school on Sunday, May 21. I spoke on 'The Evils of Alcohol.' Never did I receive a more cordial welcome nor have a more gracious response. One hundred were present."

Mrs. C. L. Cowart, of Glennville, did ideal work for Judge Braude's nation-wide broadcast on "The Way of the Bad Boy." She sent written notices the Sunday before to every pastor, facts regarding the speaker. She specially invited fine young mothers to gather groups and listen in; she inspired the superintendent of schools to hook up so that all teachers and pupils—could hear. When static seriously interfered she secured a copy of the high points of the speech and published in the county paper.

Mrs. Marvin Williams has returned from a visit to her daughter in North Carolina, and her friends are delighted to see her looking so well. Watch this column for report of mid-year executive.

A. A. Sisterhood To Meet Monday.

The officers are: Mrs. Abe Goldstein, president; Mrs. Simon Bressler, first vice president; Mrs. Abe Srochi, second vice president; Mrs. Dave Meyer, third vice president; Mrs. Victor Bock, fourth vice president; Mrs. Sam Balser, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Bergnan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joe Finkelstein, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louis Rosenbaum, financial secretary, and Mrs. Bernard Cohen, treasurer.

Atlanta Music Notes

BY MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG

June and Recitals.

June, in addition to being the brides' month, is unquestionably the music pupils' month. June is the time when the ambitious young musician tries out his artistic wings before the public. June is the biggest month of the year for little Mary Musicstudent and for little Johnny Musician, for it is the time that Mary not only gets a new evening dress (often her first long one), and Johnny not only gets his first pair of long white trousers, but it is the time that mother and daddy and brother and sister and all the uncles and aunts assemble to hear a display of the musical progress made during the year. It is a great month, looked forward to all year, and serving as an incentive for steady work.

And so—the long list of recitals.

Miss Leftwich's Pupils.

Irene Leftwich presented a group of her piano pupils in recital Tuesday afternoon in Rich's tea room.

Those playing were Polly Anna Philips, Nell Taylor Zoanne Green, Ivar Stockel Jr., Joyce Green, Valery Hayes, Teressa Rutland, Mary Louise Hastings, Ellen Hayes, Bert Wells, Myrtilla Pharr, Marjorie Stukes, Jane Vickery, Mary Ella Triplet, Mayme Ruth Stokely, Helen Jean Roberts, Jane Taylor, Betty Wells, Margaret Shepherd and Ruth Patrick.

Hayden Fleming, a pupil of Elizabeth Orr, also appeared on the program.

Miss Phillips' Recital.

Georgia Phillips will present her piano pupils and expression pupils in their annual spring recital at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at her home studio, 889 Gordon street, S. W.

Those appearing on the program will be Louise Clayton, Dorothy Jackson, Mittie Belcher, Maurine Perkins, Shirley Jean Waddy, Patricia McKennie, Martha Louise Hightower, Dorothy Johnson, Clara Melton, Caroline LeCroy, Ross Means, Martha Black, Frances Hager, Geraldine Bullard, Martha Wiley, Barbara Haygood, Mary Ellen Thomas and Marion Jackson.

Two Piano Recitals

Mozell Horton Young will present her private piano pupils in two recitals, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, and the same time Thursday night, both in the recital hall of the Chamber of Commerce building. The public is invited to both recitals.

The advanced group, of junior-high and high school age, will appear Wednesday night. Those on the programs will be Elizabeth Almon, Maizie Almon, Bruce Armstrong, James Barron, Betsy Blumberg, Lawson Clower, Shirley Goldstein, Mozell Gross, Mary Hall, Elizabeth Harralson, Marvin Harrison, Betty Hodges, David Jordan, Joe Lutes, Edna McNair, Carolyn Murphy, Rezin Pidgeon, Harriette Pritchard, Alice Rayle, George Rice, Betty Rippen, Allene Rittenbaum, June Rosselle, Suzanne Schilling, Yvonne Schilling, Mary Claire Sheppard, Barbara Sherer, and Joan Tomlinson.

The younger group, of elementary school age, will play Thursday night. These include Sally Allen, Jacqueline Beall, Claire Cowan, Ann Frew, Lillian Jordan, Esther Mae Kuniansky, George Lamb, Mary Lou Larpenteur, Helen Ledsinger, Lawrence Merl, Barney Neal, Elizabeth Suggs, Anna Lee Thackston, and Mary Zeagler. Betty Hodges, Mozelle Gross and Joe Lutes will be "guest artists" on this program. Representatives from the group piano classes of Samuel Inman and Morningside schools will also be guests on the program.

Concerto Festival

The annual Concerto Festival, with Evelyn Jackson, director, one of the activities of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, will begin at 3 o'clock Satuurday afternoon, and continue at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, in the recital hall of the Chamber of Commerce building. Young pianists will play with the Atlanta Federal orchestra, under the baton of Walter Sheets, the miniature concerto, "In Elfland," by Suel-Holst, and the "Kinder Concerto," by Haydn.

The second session of the festival will be held at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, June 15, at the Chamber of Commerce building. The Atlanta Philharmonic orchestra, under the baton of Georg Lindner, will play the orchestral scores for the young performers. Concertos to be played on this program will be the "D major" and the "D minor" concertos, by Mozart; the "G minor Concerto," by Mendelssohn, and the "Sentimental Rhapsody," by Pelz, all piano, and the "Seventh Concerto," by De Beriot, for violin.

The public is invited to all three programs of the festival, no admission being charged to any.

Among those who will play with the orchestra—a real opportunity and thrill for young musicians—will be Betty Hodges, Mary Hall, Shirley Goldstein, Esther Mae Kuniansky, Claire Cowan, Howard Buchell, Carolyn Brown, Jewell Reed Davis, Joan Benson, Charles McGehee, Clyde Afay Green, Evelyn Stewart, Grace Burpitt, Billy Hall, Ruth Culpepper, Betty Ransey, Genevieve Thompson, William McClesky, Virginia Peel, Jane Colby, Mary Ainsworth, Jean Boyd, Marjorie Thompson, Dorothy Adams, Herman Allison, Elizabeth Smith, Betty Jean Marbut, Betty Reed, Martha Ann Smith, Betty Davidson, Martha Williamson, Sam Smith, Frances Wisdom, Martha Marie Trimble, Evelyn Bland, Carol Jones, Grace Raffalowich, Alice Lawrence, Betty Jane Snow, Jean Hovis, Jeanette Holbrook, Myrtice Trimble and others.

Miss Hayes' Recital.

Those participating were Donald Rawlins, Ruth Moore, Christine McCollough, Miriam Runyon, Betty Murphy, Bettylu Craft, Charles Jackson, Jeanette Helms, Joyce Tabor, Flossie Williamson, Reece Newton, Mary Elizabeth Brantley, Jane Milner, Betty Kitts, Rose Mary Griffin, Jane Anne Newton and Harriet Hanner.

Mme. Ringo's Recital.

Mme. Marguerite Ringo presented a group of her voice pupils in recital Friday night at the Studio Arts building.

Following the recital Miriam Croft Dodd entertained the recitalists and their friends at an informal reception at the home of her mother, Mrs. George N. Croft, at 3556 Kingsboro road.

Mr. Leffingwell's Recital.

The Leffingwell Violin School announces a program by the Leffingwell String Ensemble, violin pupils of W. W. Leffingwell, and piano pupils of Dorothy Scott, at the studio, 412 Wesley Memorial building, at 8 o'clock Friday night. The public is invited.

Miss Hall's Recital.

Edna Hall will present her piano pupils in a recital at 8:15 o'clock Friday night at the Decatur Woman's Club.

Those appearing on the program will be Joyce McCain, Gerry Schwager, Ann McCurdy, Betty Hall, Polly Caylor, Lody Caylor, Sara Camp, Helen Ray Camp, Albert Mitcham, Ann Carol Hogue, Billie Mathis, Barbara Crenshaw, Patsy Wilson, Joy Kotzback, Jane VanDevender, Dan Woodman, Watts Biggers, Louis Buffington, Edith Meckel, Bonnie Waldo, Marilyn Kohn, Betty Durrell, Oby Brewer, Bobby Gamble.

Mrs. Tanner's Pupils.

Mrs. F. L. Tanner will present her piano pupils in the annual recital at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday night at Center Street Methodist church.

Miss Dozier's Recital.

Eugenie Dozier will present her pupils in a dance recital at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the Bass Junior High school auditorium. The program will include dances from foreign lands, studies in modern movement, tap and acrobatic numbers, excerpts from Michel Fokine's ballet "Les Sylphides," and a group of unusual Spanish dances with castanets.

Among those taking part are Helen Allen, Carolyn Barksdale, Hugo Martin Davis Jr., Jean Cannon, Anne Carter, Shirley Cheek, Elaine Cole, Lena Diamond, Gloria Dodd, Margene Dozier, Marie Eisele, Ruth Estes, Cecile Aileene Fisher, Betty Jane Freeman, Ruth Gaskin, Mybelle Grove, Ann Haisten, Claud Hamilton, Mary Hamilton, Isabell Herzberg, Dorothy Holder, Grace Holder, Eleanor Kent, Mary Kent, Ruby Lanet, Kathryn Echols Loden, Mary Alice Long, Xima Lee Long, Marcelle Lowenstein, Margaret Ann McCloskey, Ruth Martin, Patsy Mize, Dolorese Mundy, Mildred Neeson, Katherine Sloan Patrick, Eleanor Pharr, Ann Porter, Kathryn Rainwater, Rachael Ramos, Jeannine Romer, Lucile Shippen, Gloria Snider, Betty Spiker, Joyce Spiker, Marie Stalker, Elizabeth Stone, Lillie Suder, Eleanor Van Fleet, Carol Wagoner, Jacquelin Whelchel, Billie Willis and Elizabeth Young.

Mrs. Pierpont Spiker and Charles Johnson will be the accompanists for the program. The public is invited.

Violin and Piano Pupils.

The violin and piano pupils of Mary Douglas will be heard in recital at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Studio Arts building. They will be assisted by the piano students of Marion Hope Arrington. A feature of the program will be a sonatina for violin and piano written by Mary Alice Shelton, violinist. Michael Ehrhardt will play the piano with Miss Shelton. Herman Allison will play the accompaniments for the violins.

Those appearing on the program will be: Billy Hardy, Ann Joiner, Juanita McKinzey, Faith Gibson, Annie Kate Johnson, Charles de Jarnette, George Maloof, Jack Morris, Claude C. Miss Durrette Weds James Carl Murray At Evening Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Frances Durrette and James Carl Murray was solemnized last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the East Point Baptist church. Rev. W. A. Duncan performed the ceremony in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and friends.

Mrs. M. O. Hemperly and N. G. Baggett presented a program of music prior to the service.

The altar of the church, which was banked with palms interspersed with baskets of calla lilies, was graced with seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers.

The ushers included Ernest Emmel, Ed Reeves and Charles Welch. Earl Adams, Cecil Bradburry, Roy Wynne and Harry Crawford were groomsmen.

Miss Virginia Power was maid of honor. She was gowned in a fuchsia colored net posed over matching taffeta. It was designed with a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice which featured puffed sleeves and bouffant skirt. A small cluster of flowers, which matched her bouquet of showered roses, formed her headdress.

The bridesmaids, who included Misses Carolyn Ansley, Billie Durrette, Nell Murray, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Fred Elsberry, wore gowns of pastel shaded net designed along similar lines as that worn by the matron of honor. They carried cascade bouquets of showered roses and wore dainty clusters of roses in their hair.

The bride entered with her father, Peter Franklin Durrette, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Roy Murray, who was best man. She was gowned in ivory satin designed along princess lines. The bodice, which featured a high neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves, was shirred to the skirt at the waistline. The full skirt fell into a graceful train that extended several yards. An illusion tulle veil was caught to her hair by a coronet of princess lace trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Mrs. Peter Franklin Durrette, mother of the bride, was gowned in a model of Liberty blue lace with which she wore a shoulder bouquet of bronze talisman roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. C. O. Murray, chose for the occasion a model of ice blue colored lace. She wore a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Smathers, of Charleston, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Asher Bragan Jr., of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Vivian B. Scott, of Anderson, S. C.; Douglas Bradburry and Miss Kathryn Bradburry, of Seneca, S. C.; Miss Mortimer Garrett, of Columbus, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Spearman Bradbury, of Detroit, Mich.

Miss Wilkie Honored at Party.

Miss Calvinia Wilkie, bride-elect of this month, was honored yesterday at the luncheon given by Mrs. Thomas L. Lane at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ed Cowan, in Decatur.

Mrs. Lane was assisted in entertaining by her mother and the table was overlaid with a white lace table cloth and centered with white roses and white burning candles. Present were Mesdames Berrie Moore Jr., E. A. Johnson, B. Harbour, Marvin Woodall, LeRoy Rogers, Lou Scanling, C. M. Floyd. Misses Jewell Campbell, Ruth Layfield, Geneva Howard.

Book Review.

"Mein Kampf," by Adolf Hitler, will be reviewed Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. Philip by Mrs. George O. LeFebre.

Mrs. LeFebre will tell of the foreign policy of Hitler, as outlined in his book, his attitude toward the Versailles Treaty, what he has accomplished in his plans for the Third Reich and what remains to be done.

This review is open to the public. There will be a silver offering taken.

Miss Pinson Weds John M. Hall

SYLVESTER, Ga., June 3.—At a ceremony solemnized today at Pinson Memorial church here Miss Martha Pinson became the bride of John M. Hall, of Carnesville, formerly of Milledgeville.

Mrs. Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pinson, and her sisters are Miss Vivian Pinson, of Savannah, and Miss Mary Nelle Pinson, of Sylvester. Her brother is A. H. Pinson Jr., of Tifton.

The attractive bride graduated from Georgia State College for Women, and is a member of the Marietta High school faculty.

Mr. Hall is the son of Mrs. John Marvin Hall, of Milledgeville, and the late Mr. Hall. His mother was formerly Miss Clintelle Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson D. Frazier, of Baconton. His sisters are Mrs. Robert Smith, of Newnan, and Miss Emogene Hall, of Milledgeville.

Mr. Hall is connected with the county agent's office at Carnesville.

Fourth District U. D. C. Rally Marked by Gifts From Officers

By Miss Mary Lizzie Wright, of Elberton, Editor Georgia Division, U. D. C.

A highlight of the fourth district rally recently held in Griffin was the gift of $100 to the World War Memorial cottage at Rabun Gap made by Mrs. Robert Hunt, historian of local chapter, in memory of her father, General W. W. Kincard. Another outstanding gift was that of Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, president general, of $50 to the Norman V. Randolph relief fund for needy Confederate women. Mrs. Clyde F. Hunt, division president, was introduced by Mrs. C. Robert Walker, president Boynton chapter and division poet-laureate, and presided over the meeting, which was replete with interest for the many chapter representatives present.

At noon a luncheon was tendered the guests by the local chapter, at the home of Mrs. J. N. Bell. Honor guests included Mrs. Lamar, president general; Mrs. Hunt, division president; Mrs. Belmont Dennis, third vice president; Mrs. I. H. Sutton, treasurer; Mrs. Mark Smith, auditor; Mrs. Hugh S. Norris, corresponding secretary, and several division chairmen.

A pageant, "Mothers of the Sixties," was presented at the recent meeting of Dixie chapter, Eatonton, held at the home of Mrs. J. O. Wall. Characters portrayed included Emma Samson, by Mrs. Rhul Smith; Captain Sally Tompkins, by Mrs. Sally Young; Winnie Davis, by Mrs. F. S. Batchelor; Mrs. Alexander Ervin, founder of the Cross of Honor, by Mrs. J. A. Champion; and Mrs. L. H. Raines, one of the founders of the U. D. C., by Mrs. M. S. Shivers.

Mrs. Frank Dennis, past third vice president general, told of the projects of interest in the general, culminating this month, the unveiling of a plaque to Dr. Craven, personal physician to President Davis at Fortress Monroe, and the presentation of the Lee portrait to the War College at Washington. Mrs. R. C. Whitman, president of the chapter and division registrar, told of the district rally at Sandersville. Mrs. M. A. Young reported a large pound cake sent the Soldiers' Home, and the chapter planned a visit to the home at an early date.

Mary Ann Williams Chapter, Sandersville, welcomed Mrs. L. C. Bittick, chairman of historic homes in the division, and heard with interest her plans to preserve a record, both in story and pictures, of these homes throughout the state. Many landmarks of Confederate interest in Washington county were mentioned and plans projected for having them photographed. Others accompanying Mrs. Bittick from Forsyth were Mrs. Fred Stokes, president of Cabaniss Chapter; Mesdames A. L. Williams, E. C. Rumble, J. P. Parks, Charles Ponder, A. B. Alexander and J. S. Josey.

Kashita Chapter, Cusseta, plans to sponsor a radio program on June 3 celebrating the birthday of President Davis, when Miss Bonnie Parkman and Mrs. Ella B. Spivey will broadcast. The president, Mrs. W. J. McCardel, read original letters of the local Confederate dead on the program presented over the radio on Memorial Day. Mrs. B. J. King also gave a beautiful tribute to the Confederate heroes of the county. The chapter has recently organized a Children of the Confederacy chapter, with 16 members, directed by Mrs. S. D. Snellings, and has also marked the graves of 50 veterans, planning to complete this work during the year.

Bainbridge chapter was entertained by the president, Mrs. J. M. Simmons, with 23 members present. The chapter contributed to the Wesleyan College fund, honoring the president-general, Mrs. Lamar, and Mrs. E. T. Hines, a local member, who is an alumna. Mrs. Hines gave reminiscenses of the college during the period of the War Between the States. Mrs. E. J. Perry was elected registrar to succeed Mrs. E. A. Wimberly, resigned. Mrs. Simmons announced the Cross of Military Service would be presented on June 3, to E. J. Perry Jr. Mrs. Gordon Chason, chairman Confederate markers, reported markers had been secured for several Confederate soldiers who had died in battle and whose remains had not been brought home.

Longstreet chapter, Gainesville, plans to erect a chapter house upon the site of the General James Longstreet home, adjoining the city park. A recent gift of one-half acre, in addition to a former gift of one-half acre by Major Robert Lee Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., son of General Longstreet, makes this possible. The chapter received a bronze tablet commemorating this spot from the WPA and plans to make the chapter with this memorial. Mrs. J. D. Twitty, first vice president, presided and presented Mrs. W. G. Mealor, program chairman, who was assisted by Mesdames A. B. C. Dorsey, Lewis Whitehead and W. M. Johnson in presenting a program on New Orleans during the Confederate era and today. The hostess was Mrs. B. A. Rogers.

Mrs. C. F. Hunt, division president, will share honors with other division officers at the tea given by the Agnes Lee chapter, Decatur, on June 9, at the chapter house, with Mrs. H. C. Carreker, president, official hostess.

The friends throughout the division of Mrs. J. B. Palmer, Thomasville, division recording secretary, are pleased to learn of her convalescence after an illness of many weeks.

Georgia division was saddened by the recent homegoing of Miss Tallulah Atkins, of Cordele. Miss Atkins was past president of Cordele chapter and past grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star in Georgia, and one of Cordele's most beloved residents. She was the "sweetheart of the veterans" for years, and sponsored the activities of the local camp U. C. V., personally paying camp dues. Miss Atkins will be missed over the division and at conventions, where for many years in the past she was a familiar figure, always supporting any measure for the welfare and cheer of the veterans.

Disciples of Christ Hold Children's Day.

Children's day, the first Sunday in June which comes this year on June 4, is making a wide appeal and approval among churches of the Disciples of Christ. It has been the means of focusing attention upon children, so essentially a part of the kingdom enterprise, and of giving them vision of the world-wide task of the church.

The children's day goal is $100,000 and will be used for medical, educational, agricultural and evangelistic causes in Africa India, China, Japan, Philippine Islands, Mexico, Argentina, Paraguay, Jamaica and Puerto Rico.

Miss Fleming Feted At Kitchen Shower.

Mrs. Henry Dibrell Cragon, assisted by Mrs. James A. Cragon, entertained yesterday at her home on Flagler avenue, at a mammy kitchen shower honoring Miss Martha Fleming, of Albany, fiancee of Alvin Luther Groce, of this city.

Guests embroidered their given names across the corners of vivid Mexican-colored dish towels, the colors to be carried out in curtains for the bride-elect's kitchen. Each guest brought her favorite recipe to be written in a guest recipe book, the pages of which were printed in Mexican colors with designs of kitchen utensils.

A maid, dressed as "Mammy," and carrying a basket, presented gifts to Miss Fleming.

Guests were Mesdames H. F. Houseworthe, W. D. Little, Hal Wamsley, C. M. Cate, E. H. Driver, J. W. Morton Jr., E. T. Morris, Mrs. Carl Boyd, Rex Morris, J. R. Allen, and Misses Mary Fax Hutchinson, Dorothy Kimbrell, Mary Elizabeth Nix, Alliene Wright, Celia McCall, Janie Farnara, Helen Braswell, Demaris Keene, Elizabeth Wilmot, Willen Nolan, Mary Louise Dunn, Elaine Hubbard, Edna Mayer, Margaret Reilley, Dorothy Meadows and Ruth Bledsoe.

Electa Chapter O. E. S.

Electa Chapter No. 6, O. E. S., celebrates its 42d birthday on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at Red Men's wigwam, 160 Central avenue, S. W.

Past matrons and past patrons of Electa chapter and charter members will be honor guests.

Special guests will be honorary members and emeritus members. Eastern Star members are invited.

Miss Watson To Wed Mr. Williams Jr.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., June 3.—Mr. and Mrs. James Greer Watson, of Portsmouth, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Anderson Watson, of Atlanta and Portsmouth, to Montgomery C. Williams Jr., of Portsmouth, the marriage to be solemnized July 1 at 4:30 o'clock at Monumental Methodist church, Portsmouth.

Miss Watson's late mother was the former Mary Elizabeth Anderson, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Anderson, of Marietta, Ga. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Watson.

Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Williams, of Portsmouth, Mrs. Williams being the former Antoinette Richardson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nester Richardson. On his paternal side his grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Williams.

They Love Their Home—These Kiddies Do

Constitution Staff Photos—Slayton.

On Cleburne avenue, there is a red brick building with gracious columns, surrounded by immense overhanging oaks. In it and through the spacious grounds, play happy boys and girls to whom it is "Home." And that's what those in charge of this, the Southern Christian Home for children, strive to make and keep it in every way.

By NELL WALTHALL SIMMONS.

It was annual open house and home-coming combined and one and all were invited.

Instead of going out to look at the wonders of nature, crowds of Atlantans devoted last Sunday afternoon to human nature. They piled into automobiles, glueing the children down to the back seat, and drove out to the Southern Christian Home for Children on Cleburne avenue, between Highland and Copenhill. They were shown about a sort of living garden where twenty-two little girls are blossoming and eighteen little boys are growing and learning.

The children and Brownie, the dog, and Kitty and her new kitten were on the reception committee. They met the baby of the home five-year-old Irene, with her blond hair cut Dutch-boy style, and surrendered to her smile as she explained that when Brownie wags his tail he is telling you he loves you. Lula, the oldest girl, a freshman in one of Atlanta's high schools, helped show the visitors around the house and play-yard and big vegetable gardens behind it.

The Southern Christian Home for Children was the first children's home to receive a license under the Public Welfare Department of the state. It is one of twelve homes maintained by the Christian churches for the care of children and the aged.

If you decide to pay a visit to this institution that has received wide recognition for a high standard of social service you will enjoy it. You will see the red brick building with its gracious columns behind immense oak trees that were there when Sherman walked in, took over, and lived for a spell in the house that was on the same lot then. It was the old Augustus F. Hurt house then; a later generation called it "the old Waldo place." In 1929 it was torn down and replaced by the present building and the hearthstones on which Sherman's boots had rested (maybe) are now benches in the home's rock garden.

It was open house last Sunday for all who were interested in child care. Special guests were members of the board of the home, and many others who went to see what their gifts to the home had accomplished.

It was home-coming, too; boys and girls who were reared there came back to visit. Some of them, who are grown and married now, with children of their own, live in Atlanta. One such young woman brought her tiny daughter, Sue, namesake of trim, white-haired Miss Sue Steiner Hook, superintendent of the home.

"For every child who is in our children's homes because he has lost his father," those connected with the home point out, "there are three there because they have lost their mothers."

And "Other Mother" is the name the children have given Miss Hook.

Although she was the motherly type of little girl who used to go to sleep at night praying that her dolls would come alive she did not go into child-care work until many years after her schooling was completed. Instead, she went into the insurance business! For fifteen years she was successful in it.

Outdoors there is a wading pool for the small children—and a rock garden where pansies line the walks that lead to the lily pool.

One day Mrs. J. C. Gentry, lifelong friend who was interested in the home, said to her, "We need someone at the helm who is educated, cultured and a business woman."

"Do you think I would do?" Miss Hook asked. But it was much later that she decided to take charge of the home on a three-month trial and the future she had once imagined for herself began to take shape.

Combined with her compassion and fondness for children, business ability and practical training are reflected in her capable management of the home for the past seventeen years.

For instance, could you build a cottage with soap wrappers? Well, Miss Hook has proved you can go a long way toward it. In January, 1938, she began a coupon fund because she is very anxious to build a cottage for the older boys.

As things are now, boys of 13 and 14 have to leave the home because of crowded conditions just at the time when they need thoughtful supervision most. In the little more than a year since she began the fund with soap wrappers Miss Hoop has in the bank a $2,500 start toward the cottage which it is estimated will cost $10,000. Sunday school classes have contributed generously, among others.

Miss Hook is an old hand with coupons. All over the home are pieces of equipment bought with them—a sewing machine, a lawn mower, radios, electric churn, wringer for the laundry—those are a few. Then the really startling coupon achievements are a hot water heater, automatic stoker for the furnace and a bathroom adjoining the guest room.

Stacked in a basement storeroom are jars that will be sent when summer comes to country friends of the home who will fill them with nourishing canned vegetables and fruits.

From three to eight are the years when a child may enter the home. There is no definite time for the girls leaving. That depends on the crowd and on the individual child. They come from an area of eight states from Virginia to Mississippi. Frequently children make short stays during family emergencies when the home is temporarily broken up. Many there now have sisters or brothers with them. Full orphans and half-orphans are received. The home strives to restore family circles and encourages family responsibility for supporting children where possible.

There is a family touch in the home, too, in the Little Sister and Little Brother idea. Each of the older children has a smaller one to look after. This means seeing that they get their baths and that the hard-to-reach buttons get buttoned.

Just like children in private homes, all who are old enough have duties to perform, to earn spending money. The oldest boy sees that the gate is locked at night. The next one locks the doors and sees that downstairs lights are off.

The three oldest girls help Sara, in the kitchen, and the four of them do all the cooking and serving. Their spending money is 25 cents a week. Sometimes it goes for movies, and the day begins early to earn it.

The next younger group of girls earn 10 cents a week by doing the dishes and the next younger boys work in the laundry helping Lucy, who has been laundress there almost since time began.

These boys and girls have a newly fitted-out living room with a piano and radio where they gather after supper to read and talk or listen to the music. Now they need magazines and books to read.

The late Edwin Gould, of New York, son of Jay Gould, gave a playroom wing to the home. Here in two glassed-in porches, one for boys and one for girls, are individual window-seat lockers to hold all those treasures with which one just cannot bear to part.

A good "ole" inner tube was in one locker, along with a baseball and bat, a stamp album, a Chinese checker board, an aviator's helmet, an empty candy bar box, and some mighty fine assorted rocks.

Downstairs in the small girls' playroom two lockers side by side settled the question, "Are children people." One of them was a lesson in neatness—books stacked according to size, dolls sitting primly, doll clothes folded.

In the other a whirlwind had struck—a small blonde whirlwind named Irene. Dolls of all sizes sprawled, one arm in and one out of their coats, caught in the very gesture of "going out." Stuffed in on top were colorful catalogs, and paper dolls were scattered over all.

Ooutdoors there is a wading pool for these same small children. It is down by the rock garden, Miss Hook's gift to the home, where pansies line the walks that lead to the lily pool.

To help Miss Hook there are several assistants. Mrs. Goff looks after clothes and the sewing and goes along to help try on shoes in the shops. Mrs. Bell is the trained nurse. Mrs. Bryan is matron for the boys, Miss Holland for the girls. Miss Wright helps with lessons and with outdoor recreation.

"No woman," said Miss Hook, "should ever go into this work unless she truly loves it. For those who do, there is tremendous satisfaction."

One of the satisfactions no doubt was witnessing a gesture of unselfishness like this: Not so long ago it was the children in this home who went without meat and dessert one Sunday dinner to give a nice little sum to the Red Cross "for children who have no homes, when we have one."

They don't think of themselves as being on the receiving end of life only and in this spirit they are constantly encouraged.

ALL THE REQUISITES

'Tis said that something old, and new,
Must grace each happy bride;
A borrowed thing, and one that's blue,
Or fortune won't abide.

I saw a wedding that contained
The specified equipment;
A bride adorned by all four aids,
When she was tagged for shipment.

The GROOM was OLD—as old could be—
But, sh, he had some money!
And SHE was NEW—a mere nineteen—
With countenance quite sunny.

Some CASH was BORROWED, by her pa,
To help promote the show;
And HE, with debt surrounding him,
Was BLUE as indigo!

21 MONTHS OF WARFARE IN CHINA

What Are Japan's Aims in the Far East—How Are These Plans Being Carried Out? Here in Map and Story The Constitution Gives You the Complete Situation

After nearly 21 months of war in China, Japan's aims are far from being fully realized. In fact, the objectives of Japanese leaders have themselves been clouded behind a spinach of propaganda.

The Japanese people, themselves, are reported to be adopting an almost indifferent attitude toward the struggle, although they continue to hold a heroic view of "death in war." Newspapers as mouthpieces for the military do not recount Chinese victories, do not picture the hardships of the campaign.

All sources of news in Japan and in Japan-controlled China are under the thumb of censorship.

However, good authorities have reviewed the struggle and found the following 10 aims to be most likely Japan seeks:

1. To gain a military, political and economic hegemony over all of China.

2. To crush the Chinese army and Chinese nationalism so completely that they will never be able to rise again as potential threats to Japanese supremacy in Asia;

3. To set up a Chinese government which will be powerful enough to pacify and police the entire country without the help of the Japanese army and yet will be fully compliant to Japanese wishes;

4. To seize and control and exploit to her own advantage all important sources of primary raw materials;

5. To convert her territorial conquests from a mammoth financial liability into a mammoth profit-making asset;

6. To establish a China-Manchuquo-Japan economic bloc;

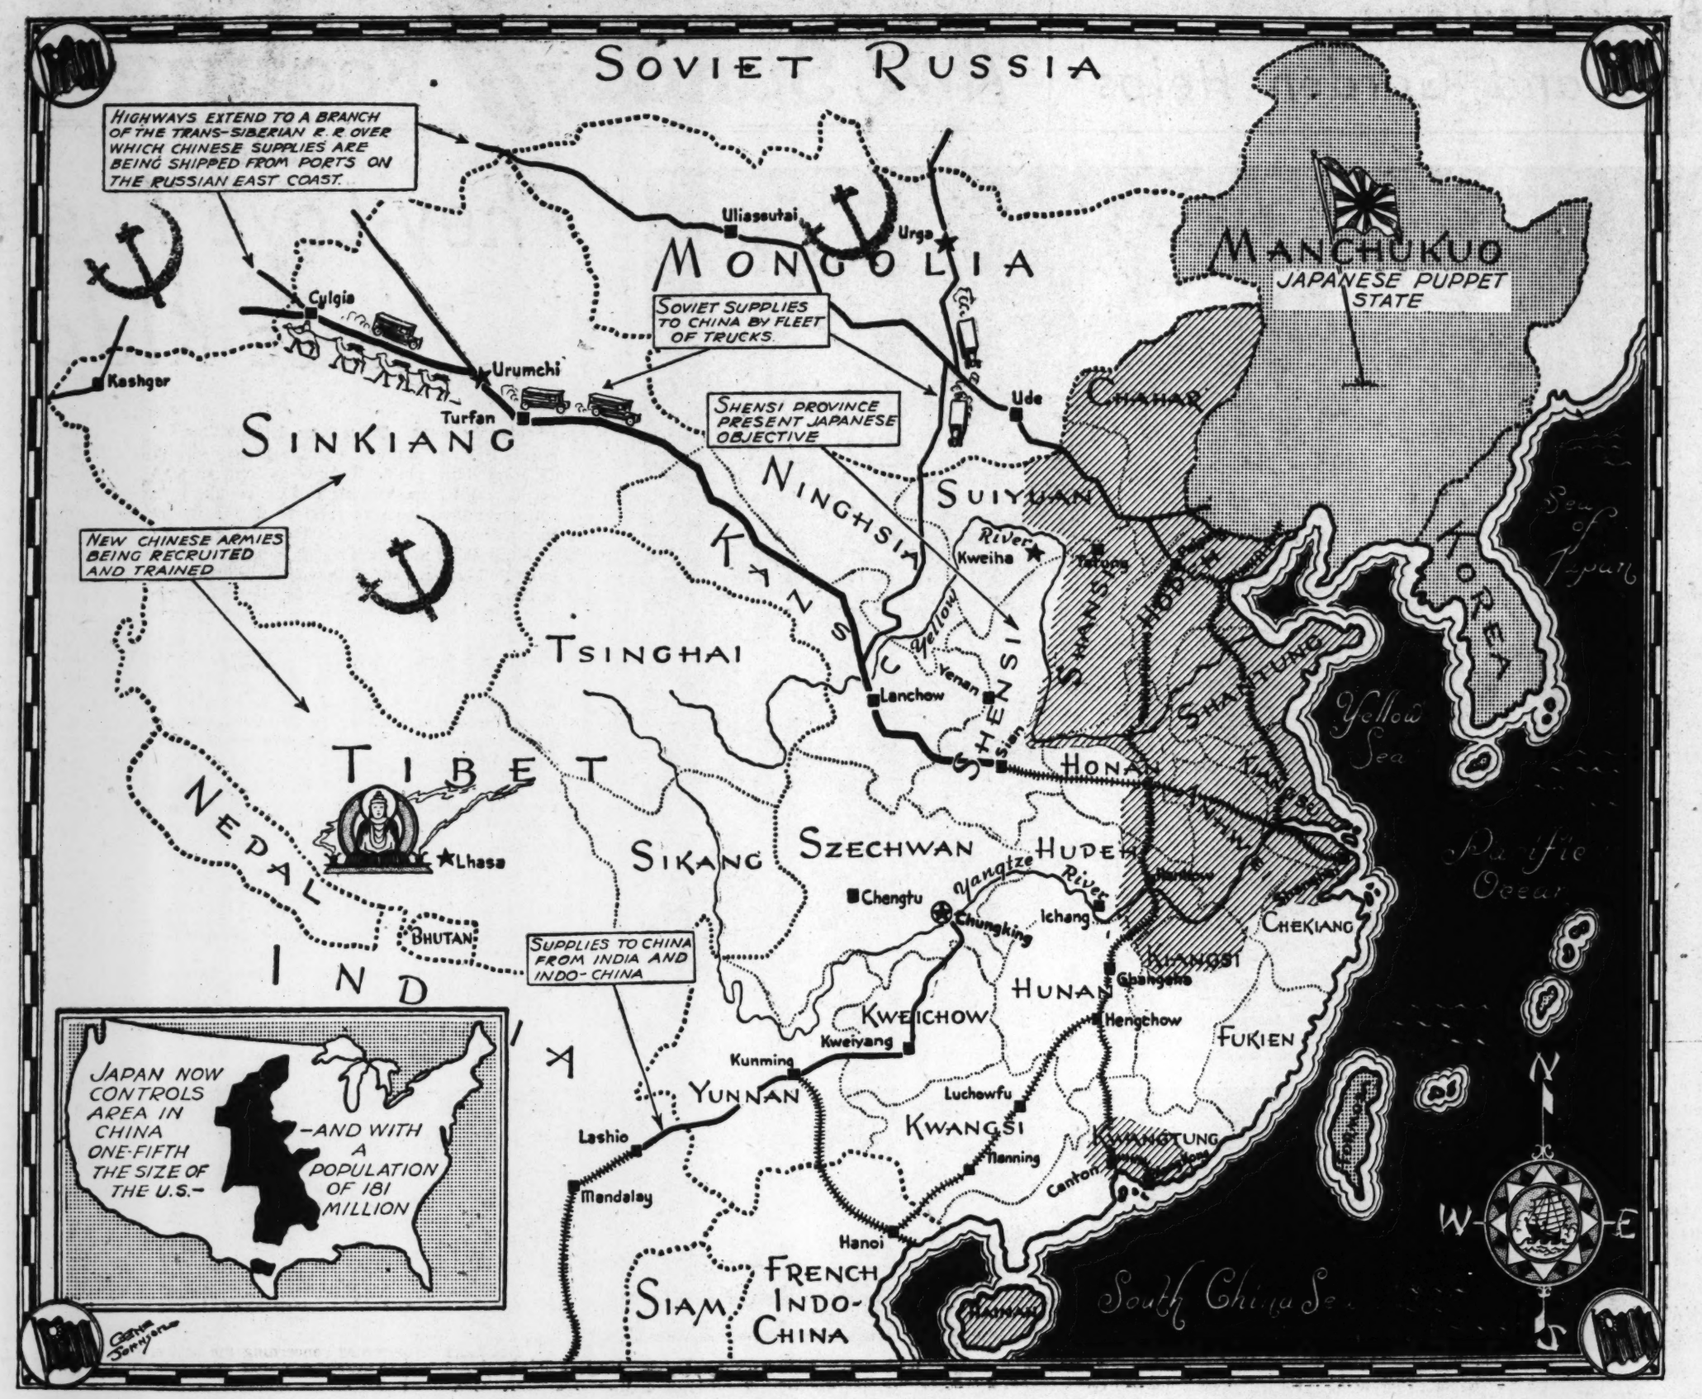

7. To overthrow the commercial and political prestige oft he white races in East Asia and replace the Nine-Power treaty with a Japanese Monroe doctrine:

8. To destroy Communism and Russian influence in China;

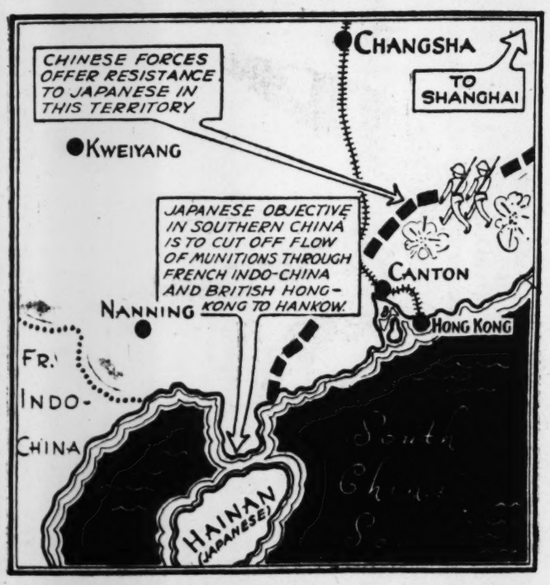

9. To win the friendship and respect of the Chinese masses;

10. To improve the Japanese army's strategic position for a possible war with Soviet Russia by establishing powerful military bases in North China and erecting an anti-Communist barrier through Inner Mongolia;

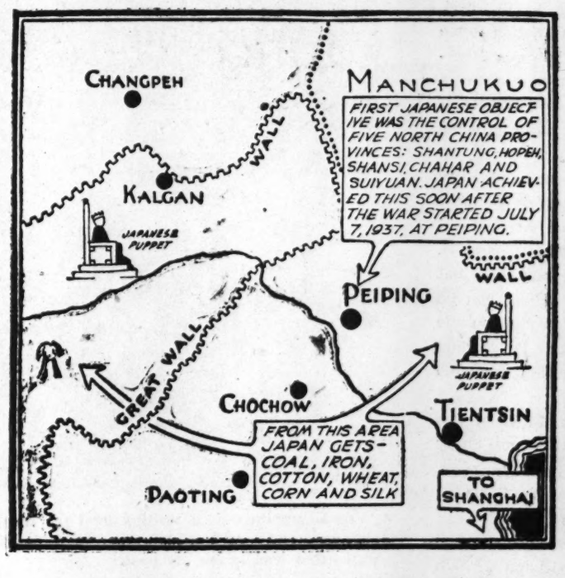

These are the 10 master planks of the Japanese program in China; and the only one which may be said to have been practically achieved in 21 months of warfare is the last. The remainder must all be classified as "unfinished business." Several of these ambitious aims are actually farther from realization.

Japanese military might in China has been variosuly estimated; best authorities believe approximately a million men now are bogged down on China soil. They control only a relatively small part of the country and travelers returning to the United States have summed up Japanese progress thus: "Japanese soldiers 'control' only that part of China on which they are standing. If they move backward or forward Chinese 'bandits' take back 'control' of the territory that has been deserted.

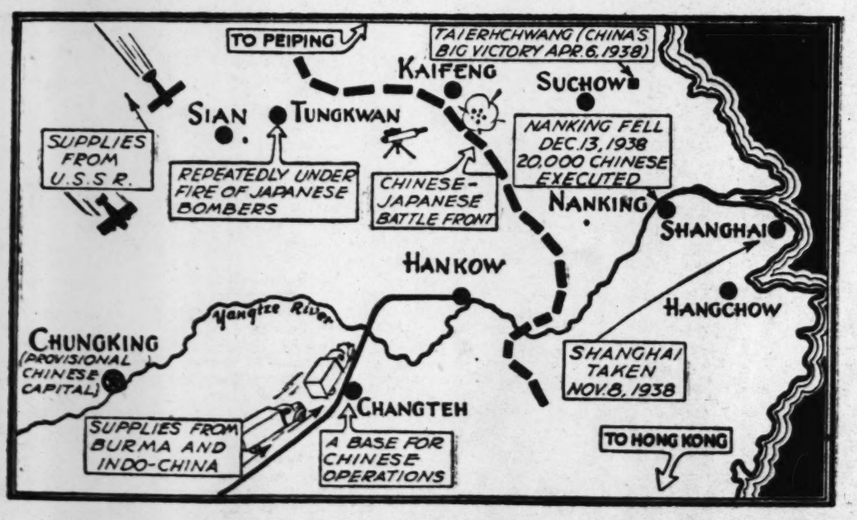

Considered alone, the cold statistics of Japanese military achievement are impressive. The Japanese army has captured most large cities, 70 per cent of the railway mileage, nearly all important points of entry and supply. The Japanese have gained military dominance in nearly half of China's area, containing more than half of China's population and the bulk of her natural resources. Two-thirds of the "conquered" territories are overrun by guerilla armies, however.

Not a single powerful or influential group of Chinese leaders has come over to the Japanese side. The politicians from whom the Japanese have recruited most of their puppet leaders are neither powerful nor influential. They belong to the past. In many of the conquered areas, especially in the north, (above) the masses have philosophically accepted the new order of things, but this does not mean that they welcome the invaders. The tendency, in fact, has been in the opposite direction.

In 1910 China annexed Korea (148,000 square miles); then in 1931 came the conquest of China's Manchurian provinces (500,000 square miles) and establishment of the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo. Since 1933 Japan has dominated the trade of Hopeh and Chahar. It was a demand for control of these provinces which provided the "incident" leading to the present war.

HIROHITO,
Emperor of Japan.

The legislative assembly of the Border government, the first lawmaking body in Chinese history to be elected by the people, has framed the basic laws for the Border government area which embraces the provinces of Shensi, Kansu and Ninghsia.

The laws provide for:

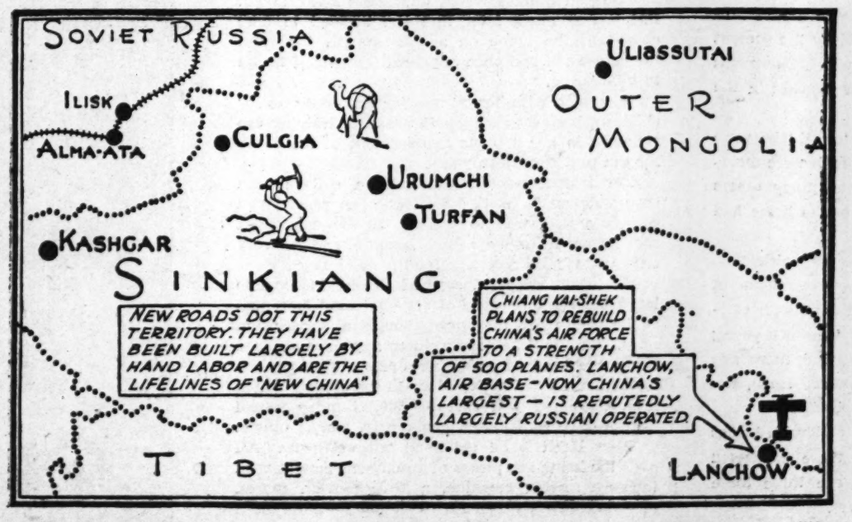

1. Grants of free land for soldiers from the front and confiscation of the properties of traitors.

2. Prohibition of marriages involving syphilitic people, lepers, insane persons, persons suffering from incurable ailments, girls under 18, and boys under 20.

3. Divorce on the grounds of bigamy, incompatibility, adultery and sterility.

4. Freedom of speech and of the press as well as of religion and assembly.

5. Equality among men of all races and between the sexes.

6. Compulsory government-supported education and military training.

7. Government aid to the infirm, the aged, and to orphans and widows.

8. An eight-hour working day.

9. Abolition of usury, with the government granting loans to the people at low rates of interest.

10. Government-sponsored agricultural education, land reclamation and forest protection.

The mending of China's economic fences, riddled by months of war with its accompanying strain on the business and industrial structure, has resulted in a curious mixture of decentralization of physical property and centralization of government control.

The primary cause of decentralization is fear of bombing. When the large industrial areas of the east were abandoned and the salvaged machinery moved to western provinces, the government ordered these industries to be decentralized as much as possible.

As a result, many small villages in Shensi, Szechwan, Yunnan, Kwangsi and Hunan provinces, where once the only signs of activity were in the market places and small three or four-man businesses, are now dotted with these scattered "mushroom" industries.

Because they are small and scattered, they are difficult for the Japanese planes to find. Even a direct hit does not result in any great loss, such as occurred at Shanghai, Nanking and Hankow.

The industrial "war babies" have been built close to the rivers, highways and railways. They are camouflaged expertly, and many tall trees sprouting near old, dilapidated shacks prove to be chimneys under close inspection.

The factories include small munition plants, steel mills, cement factories, machine shops and garages—all the industries necessary for the conduct of a large-scale war.

In terms of the economic condition of the people, the result has been smiliar to that predicted for America by Henry Ford. The population has been decentralized, thus reducing the possibility of heavy civilian losses from air raids.

This is considered highly important, for industry is suffering from an acute shortage of trained workers. In addition, many of these industrial families have purchased or rented small plots of land, large enough to keep them from starving in the event of future lay-offs.

In the field of governmental control, the shift of production centers from the coast to the hinterland and the economic demands of the war, has resulted in a strict but not rigid theoretical supervision.

"Kitty's Cottage"—a Shrine of Southern Methodism

Historic Cottage Now Permanently Located on Salem Camp Ground

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"I bought a house today that I want you to see," said H. Y. McCord Sr. one night last winter while I sat with him before the open fire at his home. "Did you ever hear of Kitty's Cottage?" he continued.

I had not.

"Kitty's cottage, as everybody has come to call it," said Mr. McCord, "is 97 years old. The cottage was built by Bishop James Osgood Andrew for the slave girl, named Kitty, who was bequeathed to him by a good woman in Augusta, with the stipulation that when she was 19 years old she should be set free and sent to Liberia. Bishop Andrew had never owned a slave—didn't propose to ever own a slave—and in full agreement with Mrs. Andrew, announced to Kitty that she was free, in so far as they were concerned.

"Kitty declared that she would never leave Mrs. Andrew, and so the bishop built this cottage in the yard of their home at Oxford, Ga., assuring her that it was her home as long as she wished to live with them. Kitty accepted the cottage with the assurance that her one wish was to be near Mrs. Andrew and serve her all the days of her life.

"When Mrs. Andrew was near death, she called Kitty to her bed and pressed her undying affection for one who had been so faithful and so kind. Kitty lived in the cottage until her marriage to a man named Nathan, when she moved to another home near by. The house in which Bishop Andrew lived was burned, but Kitty's Cottage was left, and I bought the tract of several acres today in order to preserve this historic little house which is a symbol of cherished tradition for all who understand and appreciate the relationship of the races in the south," said Mr. McCord.

That, of course, whetted my appetite to see the cottage and to know more about the interesting story of Bishop Andrew. Mr. McCord went to his library and got down "The Life and Letters of James Osgood Andrew," by George C. Smith, published in 1883, and handed it to me. I spent much of that night reading one of the most revealing books I have come upon in a long while. I would commend this book to any and all who are interested in the history of Christianity in this part of the world.

A few days later, Mr. McCord called to know if I would like to ride down to Oxford and see Kitty's Cottage.

As we entered the lovely village of Oxford, we stopped at the cemetery and got a picture of the monument at Bishop Andrew's grave. One may stand at the grave of Bishop Andrew and see the graves of Dr. Ignatius Few, Dr. Alexander Means, William J. Parks, and many another illustrious Georgian.

And then we drove on to the center of the village, which is the campus of old Emory College—one of the most ideal settings for a college campus I have ever seen—and now the home of Emory Junior College. The elegant old buildings, the majestic trees, the spacious grounds, all seem to whisper their message of something very vital and very fine.

"There," said Mr. McCord, as Blake drove down a winding road, "there is Kitty's Cottage."

It was high noon. The whistles in near-by Covington were announcing a pleasant anthem to many workmen—12 o'clock—and just then the big clock on the courthouse a mile away struck 12.

With uncovered heads, we entered the doorway of this century-old cottage—a monument to a great man's reverence for human personailty. There was the old fireplace by which Kitty must have sat many, many evenings. The timber was hewned and the boards on the floor were worn, but sound.

A lilac bush at the doorstep, and a running rose at the corner of the cottage, together with a few struggling fruit trees in the unkept yard, suggested better days—days of devotion and care. Mr. McCord pointed to the tract where Bishop Andrew's garden was located and from which vegetables in abundance supplied the always hospitable Andrew home.

"Kitty lived and loved and served," said Mr. McCord as we stood in the yard, "and I propose to perpetuate the little cottage that those who come after our generation may share in the blessing of one of the finest traditions of those pioneer days when noble men and women laid the foundation of our Georgia civilization.

"What are you going to do with it?" I asked Mr. McCord.

"I haven't decided yet," he said, "but I will either put in good repair and keep it here on this tract of land which I have bought, or, if agreeable to the trustees of Salem Camp Ground, I may move it to Salem where it can take its place on that spot so dear to many Georgians."

Months passed, and with the permanent organization of an independent board of trustese of Salem Camp Ground, under charter, Mr. McCord offered Kittys' Cottage to the board and the offer was unanimously and enthusiastically accepted. In December, 1938, the cottage was moved on motor trucks a distance of 11 1-2 miles from Oxford to Salem Camp Ground, and established on the southeast corner of the quad surrounding the big shed in which sessions of Salem camp meeting have been held for a century. The cottage is near the highway, and may be easily identified by the marker, "Kitty's Cottage."

And so, last week, Mr. McCord, a photographer and I, with Blake again at the wheel, went to see Kitty's Cottage. Instead of the weatherbeaten little house in the middle of a vacant tract of land, grown up with weeds and bushes, which we beheld a year ago at Oxford, we saw at Salem Camp Ground last week a dignified little house, painted white with green roof and shutters, on a conspicuous corner of the camp grounds.

Mr. McCord and Dr. Louie Newton examine an old spinning wheel in Kitty's cottage.

Mr. McCord has put the house in perfect repair without losing any of its original design. Inside the cottage I was amazed to find what immediately impresses the visitor as a veritable museum. On the walls are handsome paintings of Bishop Andrew, when yet a young man, and then in the maturity of his illustrious career. Also there are paintings of Bishops Haygood, Candler and Dickey. These paintings were done by Lewis Gregg, of Atlanta.

Already a number of friends have contributed antique furnishings for the cottage. James Elliott, of Atlanta, gave an old desk, several old chairs, a spinning wheel, a number of old paintings, some old silver, several old books, and so on. Others have given books and other relics appropriate for this historic building.

A book for guests to register has already revealed the wide interest of people throughout Georgia, and some beyond Georgia, in this shrine of Southern Methodism. The first person to register was Mrs. James Dickey, wife of the late Bishop Dickey. A metal box has been placed near the register where guests may contribute to the perpetuation of the shrine.

Mr. McCord had a covered desk built, which stands beneath the paintings of Bishop Andrew, and under the glass cover the visitor may read the life story of Bishop Andrew, prepared by Major R. J. Guinn, president of the board of trustees of Salem Camp Ground, as follows:

"Bishop James Osgood Andrew was born May 3, 1792, in Wilkes County, Georgia. His parents were John Andrew and Mary Crosby Andrew. When but a child his parents removed to Elbert County, Georgia, where he was brought up.

"Not much is of record concerning the boyhood of Bishop Andrew. Bishop Andrew's father, Rev. John Andrew, was himself an itinerant Methodist preacher, but when he married Miss Crosby, he located. The father of Bishop Andrew was a teacher of uncommon ability and it was from him that he received all of his early literary equipment for his long and useful career as an itinerant preacher and bishop. He afterwards added greatly to the store of his knowledge by pursuing irregular courses of study of his own selection. His mother was a very superior woman and to her he was greatly indebted for the inspiration which vitalized his early mental efforts.

"In the year 1809, at a camp meeting, he was converted and shortly afterward 'joined Society' at a meeting house now called Asbury chapel, in Broad River Circuit.

"He entered the itineracy of the Methodist Episcopal church at a conference held in the city of Charleston, S. C., in December 1812. He was not present at the time of his admission. He served three years on circuits, his first assignment being to the large circuit called 'Salt Catcher,' named for a river in its bounds. During his three years as a circuit rider he preached not less than 700 sermons.

"In January, 1816, when not quite 22 years of age, he began his ministry at Charleston, S. C., his first station. There it was that he met Ann Amelia McFarlane and they were married on the first day of May, 1816.

"From the days that consecrated, courageous, talented Amelia McFarlane took the unpolished, penniless, and at that time comparatively unlearned young preacher by the hand, there was a rapid advance, which never knew a halt.

"While in Charleston he organized a negro Sunday School, of which he was himself the superintendent.

"From Charleston to Wilmington, N. C., and to various other important pastorates and presiding elderships this able, devout and growing young preacher served with great power in many of the important stations of the church.

"He was elected bishop at the General Conference held in Philadelphia in 1832. In 1844, his first wife having died in 1842, he married the second time, Mrs. Leonora Greenwood, of Greensboro, Ga. At this time he was 50 years of age. His second wife died in 1854 at Oxford, Ga. In the latter part of 1855 he married again—an Alabama lady, Mrs. Emily W. Childers, formerly Mrs. Woolsey. Her maiden name was Miss Emily Sims, and a member of his congregation while he was pastor at Augusta, Ga.

"Bishop Andrew died March 1, 1871, at Mobile, Ala., in his 79th year, and was buried at Oxford, Ga.

"Bishop Andrew was one of the outstanding religious forces of his time. A great church statesman and a profound, yet simple and soul-stirring preacher.

"His thoughts were so luminous and his words so apt the simple could comprehend him. Yet his mind swept on imperial wing over vast fields of thought, and under the spell of his eloquence the eternal verities of revelation stood out as living visible realities.

"He was stalwart and unwavering, and yet without guile. The center of the bitterest storm in the history of Methodism, he emerged from it unscathed, his dignity and integrity preserved and carried from it no malice or vindictiveness of spirit. When his name was rudely, unkindly and unjustly handled, he neither wrote nor uttered an embittered or an unloving word."

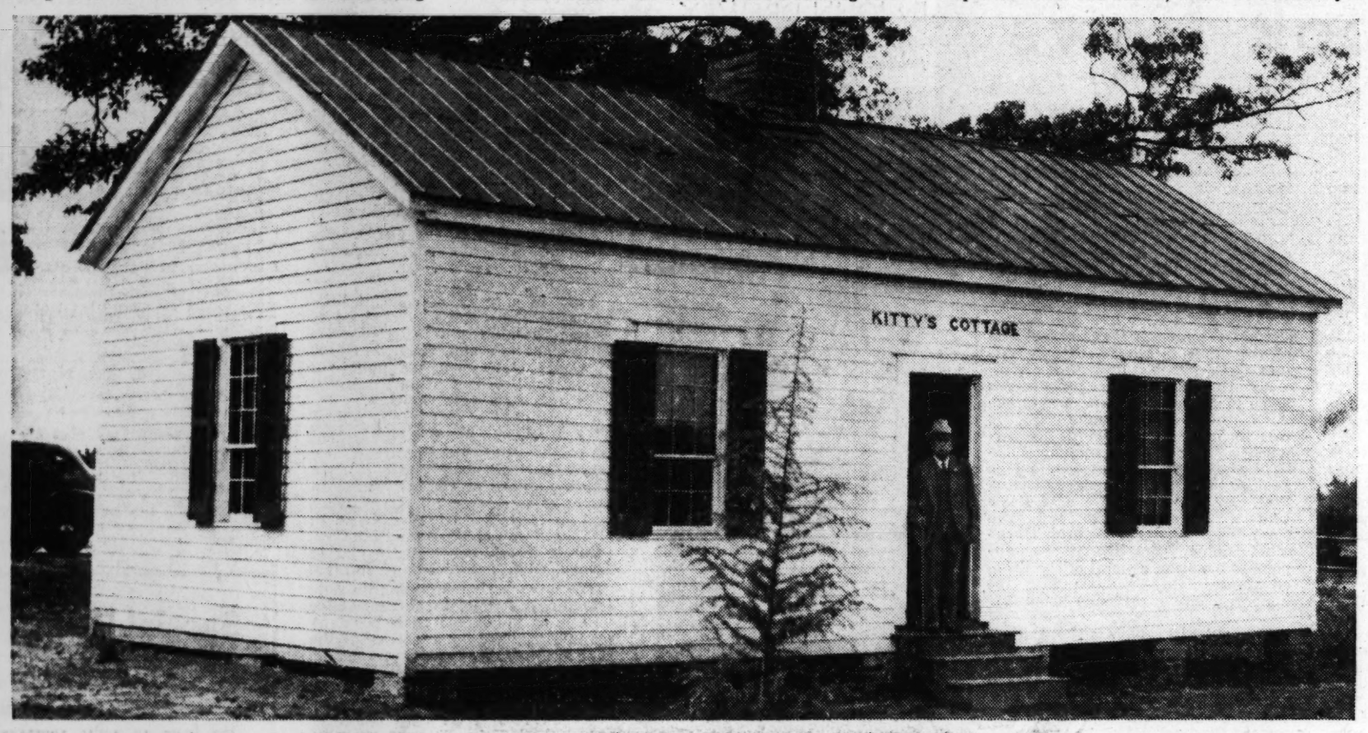

Other valuable documents have been placed under this glass-covered desk, and Mr. McCord will appreciate gifts for the cottage from any who have valuable historical records which they would like to contribute to Kitty's Cottage, which is certain to become one of the noted museums of Georgia.

Among the valuable books in the library I noted the following titles: "Life and Letters of James Osgood Andrew," "Organization of the Southern Methodist Church," "Life of Wesley," "Happiness of the Blessed," "Plain Sermons," "Memoirs of Elizabeth Mortimer," etc., etc.

As we came away from Kitty's Cottage last week, reflecting upon the life and work of so great a man as Bishop Andrew, my mind turned to these lines of Montgomery:

Servant of God, well done!
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

I am grateful that Mr. McCord has provided for the preservation of Kitty's Cottage and that it is to become a shrine where Georgians may recall the valor and the virtue of one of the greatest men who ever lived in our beloved commonwealth, and, along with Bishop Andrew the memory of such great men as Bishops Candler, Haygood, Dickey, and all who have sought to build here an enduring civilization, to the glory of God.

"Kitty's Cottage," built 97 years ago by Bishop James Osgood Andrew in the yard of his home at Oxford, Ga., for a slave girl, has been moved to Salem Camp Ground, painted white and ornamented with green roof and shutters, by H. Y. Mc Cord, who now owns it, and who is standing in the door above.

Vocational Guidance Helps Pupils to Decide

By NELL WALTHALL SIMMONS.

"Don't hunt for a job," once wrote Dorothy Thompson in a magazine article addressed to June graduates.

"Just start doing what you want to do," she continued. "If you keep at it faithfully sooner or later someone will pay you for doing it."

Miss Thompson, whose column on current affairs is a Constitution feature, maintained in that article that the best place for young persons to go to work is where their natural interests lead them.

Atlanta graduates who want to follow her advice are all the better equipped to do so because of the vocational guidance program of Atlanta's public schools, although they may look for a job anyway to earn enough to pursue the main interest in study a while longer. But they have been helped in junior and senior high schools with what is sometimes said to be the hardest thing of all about their career business—that is deciding just what they really do want to do.

This help in hitting the aptitude on the head goes more or less on the theory that a person does best in work he is enthusiastic about. Yet it takes up the more grubby points about careers, too, and looks them in the eye.

For instance, in a course tagged Vocational Civics, junior high pupils have to face those buzzing little facts that can be so annoying when they answer questions like these:

Just what qualities do you have hat fit you for this work? How much preparation is needed and how do you expect to prepare yourself? Is the field crowded or is there a need for more in this work? What are the advantages and disadvantages connected with it?

This last question has called forth some frank and refreshing answers in the "Career Books" that are gotten up as part of the work of the course. George H. Slappey, who teaches Vocational Civics at O'Keefe Junior High, is one of the teachers who can tell you that his students have very few illusions about a chosen life work these days.

In his class, Low 9, at O'Keefe, there is Tom Laurent. He wants to be a paleontologist. (Brief pause while all us adults look up Tom's intended career in the dictionary.)

Not only does he know how to spell his ambition, but he wrote quite calmly in his Career Book: "There are very few advantages in this line of work, but it is usually a safe work and you travel a lot and learn a lot about plant and animal life. The salary is very low. You have to work in the sun a long time and there are occasions when you are exposed to swamp fever. But I have always wanted to be a paleontologist."

Laura Jones, in the same class, wants to be a teacher. In stating its advantages and disadvantages she takes her stand and writes: "The hours are long, the pay is not large and the work is hard, but it is my choice because I have always liked it."

Ralph McCorkle, also at O'Keefe, still wants to be an electrician, although he found out in preparing his Career Book that "sometimes you have to do your work in very cramped positions."

It's just as Lucile Akin said about her choice of nursing as a career: "There is no chosen course in life that is sunshine, and it is naturally assumed and admitted that there are disadvantages as well as gratifying features. But I think any girl would feel proud of herself if she could be a nurse. Nursing is something you have to enjoy to make good at it. You must have patients . . ."

Imogene Elsberry wants to be a beauty culturist and is not daunted by learning from interviews with women in that business now that hours are long and exacting and "the beauty culturist does not dare grow old in spirit or appearance."

Defending his choice of professional ball-playing Billy Carter wrote about how much he preferred being out doors and added: "I suppose this is physical instead of mental work, but it takes mental work, too, because sometimes if a man is on first and you get the ball and throw it to first you will be making a mistake because it is better for a man to be on first than second."

"The disadvantages of professional ball-playing," he wrote, "are that you have to start at the bottom and work up. The advantage is that you would be doing a service to humanity."

This class is taught in junior high to help the students select the senior high school and the course that will further their plans along.

"Our aim," Mr. Slappey explained, "is to teach honesty in sizing up their abilities, and most of all a practical and realistic approach. One boy here had always dreamed of being a doctor, but after studying the history and requirements of the profession and talking to doctors about it he decided he did not want to enter medicine after all. He had not known how much preparation and study were needed."

Members of Mr. Slappey's class at O'Keefe, where S. M. Hastings is principal, varied the course somewhat this year in a Professor Quiz manner. Each one submitted to questioning by the class on the vocation chosen.

Jack McMurtrey told the class about airplanes. "You forgot something," said a girl classmate. "You didn't tell about the chewing gum they give you when you go up."

"Aw," said Jack, "you've been reading stories and going to the movies, but I have the first-hand stuff from Candler Field."

"Im not waiting until I finish my schooling to start my flying career. I have already started by learning as much about planes as I can and by making my contacts."

"That is another thing we recognize," Mr. Slappey pointed out. "Modern education says that school is life, the child is living now, not just preparing for life."

SHIFTS IN CAREERS.

Fewer men are entering the old professions of law, medicine, the ministry and teaching, according to records over the years that vocational help has been given in Atlanta public schools. More men and women go into the skilled trades now. Radio, chemistry, commercial sewing, beauty parlors, aviation, air-conditioning attract many. More want office jobs these days; fewer want selling jobs.

An attempt is made to direct more graduates into the skilled trades this year because statistics show the jobs are there—a good cabinet-maker or automobile body repair man might find the going smoother than a professional man.

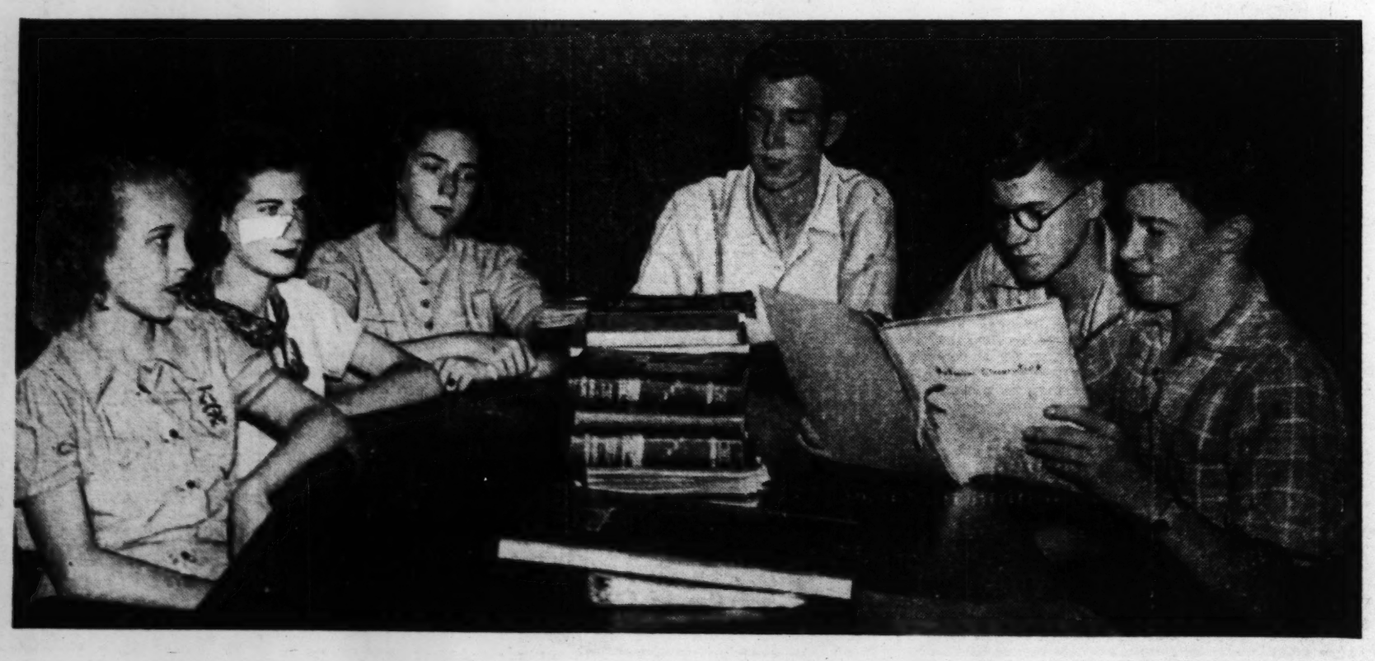

In the office of Dr. H. H. Bixler, director of Research and Guidance for Atlanta's schools, reports show the wide variety of work that appeals today. Aircraft designing, refrigeration engineering, fashion illustrating, psychiatry, air-conditioning, ceramics, forestry, television, FBI work—all these were mentioned by Boys' High and Tech High seniors. Five intended to farm. One junior high graduate aimed at professional skeet-shooting.

FOLLOW-UPS.

Canvasses of high school graduates to see how many of them carry out original career intentions have never been made in a fashion anyways complete. A Harvard professor contends that three-fourths of school students do the work they indicated they wanted to do, and Atlanta surveys show that many more of them land in selling jobs than ever expressed a desire to do so, and fewer in the professions.

One Georgia Tech graduate with a degree in ceramics engineering is selling sewing machines profitably. Another who graduated from Tech in electrical engineering now shows on the census books as a first-rate salesman of jig-saw puzzles.

Afield With a Naturalist

By GEORGE A. DORSEY.

PENTHOUSE DWELLERS

When I start out to make observations on birds, I never think of The Constitution office as being a good place to go. I have been thinking of it as a good place to carry observations that have already been made. But now it seems that even at the newspaper office, good notes on bird life can be written, for during the last two weeks I have been taking data on Nighthawks—also called bull-bats—that have been seen at The Constitution building, or rather in the air above it.

Late every afternoon they begin to be in evidence, two to four birds at a time, flying about over downtown Atlanta, their wings moving easily. Their harsh, picturesque cries can be heard through the sounds of the traffic, and long after most business has shut down, and night has come, I can hear them calling to one another in the darkness overhead.

They are magnificent birds, and masters of flight. They do not belong to the hawk family, as their name would seem to indicate, but to the "goatsuckers," a family of queer birds that includes our Whip-poor-will and the Chuck-will's-widow, or "Dutch Whip-poor-will, and the European Night-jar.

These Nighthawks have nests somewhere close by—perhaps on the roof of our building itself. It seems queer for a wild bird to choose such a place to rear its young—on the bare roof of a building in the city—but this is not an unusual thing. Nighthawks have been using the tops of our buildings this way in Atlanta for years. It is an interesting example of how a bird may change its habits to fit into civilization, using man-made things to its own advantage.

The Nighthawk never actually builds a nest. It chooses some favorable location and lays its eggs directly on the ground, on loose gravel, or on a bare, rocky place. It has found that the gravel on the roofs of the buildings is a good substitute for its country home locations—probably better, in fact, for it is safer for the bird. The interesting thing about it all is that these Nighthawks have overcome any fear of sights and sounds that are wholly out of place in their world, and have adopted an artificial location.

Since they are so much at home on the wing, they would never need to descend to the city streets below, and the roofs of the buildings are isolated places, offering peaceful surroundings in themselves. The traffic below is no more to be feared than if the birds were nesting on some high cliffs above a rushing torrent of water. When they become established, they probably pay little attention

Uneven Document.

DEMOCRACY HAS ROOTS. By M. L. Wilson. Garrick & Evans, New York. 199 pp. $1.75.

A survey of the art of government, here and abroad, as outlined by a group of lecturers before the Department of Agriculture staff during the first half of 1938. Mr. Wilson, the under secretary of agriculture, edits this symposium, but disclaims the responsibility for policies advocated. As well he might, for this is a remarkably uneven document.

Side by side with cautious and well-considered appeals to reason and a just regard for historical precedents, one finds advocacy of experimentation more reckless than has yet been contemplated, and statements which remind one that "democracy" is a word of considerable elasticity. As for instance (apropos of the curious and impractical folkways of genus Americanus) ". . . the findings of the cultural anthropologist have much to contribute to the understanding of modern society and thus to the strategy of those interested in the current adaptations of democratic technique." Further elaboration, duly carried out, of this interesting thesis, yields the startling information that primitive tribes possess the same characteristics as the stubborn American business man and the "rugged individualist" in other walks of life.

Whoever had the cast-iron nerve to stand godfather to this sentiment (the name is not stated) ought to be informed that there is nothing new in this procedure—it has been carried out for, lo, these many years by such outstanding practicers of "democracy" as Adolph Hitler, Benito Mussolini, Kemal the Turk, and imitators too numerous to mention. It is only fair to state, in contrast, that the bulk of the volume is informative, readable and reasonable. Much the best part of it is contained in a historical summary which appears to have been contributed by Professor Charles A. Beard.

Gags and Quizzes.

TAKE IT FROM ME. By Neal O'Hara. Waverly House, Boston, Mass. 264 pp. $1.95.

When Neal O'Hara, one of the nation's topnotch columnists, invited you to "Take It From Me," you may be prepared to do just that, whether you're skeptical or credulous; solemn or quick on the funny-bone. You may just as well rest your face and hands and get set for an evening of alternating edification and hilarity, for that's what you have in store.

In "Take It From Me," O'Hara crams more interesting facts than the average reader gleans from many years of casual reading. Facts about everything under the sun, speaking loosely, from art to zoology—presidents and dictators, history, medicine, the movies and a generous assortment of other topics.

And sandwiched in between chapters are many scores of Neal O'Hara's favorite gags and quizzes, almost any assortment of which will provide an interesting half hour's entertainment. His book is a generous education, with recesses thrown in for good measure. —J. T.

The Right Answer.

WORD MAGIC. By Elmer Wheeler. Prentice-Hall, Inc. 220 pp. $2.

Unbelievable as it may sound, Elmer Wheeler has gone Dale Carnegie one better. While Mr. Carnegie was contest to explain, in a general way, how to get what you want out of people, Mr. Wheeler gets right down to cases and figures out the exact words to utter in 100 common yet important situations.

Elmer Wheeler is, by this own admission, a super-salesman, and is responsible for a number of selling ideas which he calls "Wheelerpoints." One of these is: "Don't Sell the Steak, Sell the Sizzle!" So, carrying on his own good work, Mr. Wheeler calls the 100 problems "Sizzlegrams."

These puzzling situations are divided into every natural classification: First, "How to get along with your sweetheart," then "Man and wife situations, parent and child situations, getting along with the boss, etc." For example, under the "Young Love" head, he presents that heartrending problem: "What's the best way to get a shy man to propose?" and then lists seven possible answers, one of which is correct. All you have to do is turn the page and there you are, all set for a wedding.

Mention of just a few other "Sizzlegrams" will show how really universal is the scope of Mr. Wheeler's wisdom. He tells the best thing to say when someone "touches" you for a loan; when a motorcycle cop pulls up beside you; when you lose your job; in a holdup; when your husband stays out all night; when your wife eats crackers in bed. Just turn the page and there's your answer.

The Dark Continent.

AFRICAN NOTEBOOK. By Albert Schweitzer. Translated by Mrs. C. E. B. Russell. Henry Holt & Co., Inc., New York. $2.

"Trader Horn brought up to date" might well describe this little book, though it is far more than that. For Dr. Schweitzer, author of "Out of My Life and Thought" and other popular works, displays a thorough understanding and deep sympathy for his black neighbors—elements which are rare in the books about Africa.

The Notebook is written on the same hill where the original Trader Horn once lived and it refers constantly to the memoirs of the Englishman for comparisons.

The Africans, as this medical missionary portrays them, are neither savages nor curiosities, but rather a naive, childlike and superstitious people, yet with surprising astute reasoning powers.

Easy to read and containing a wealth of unusual and interesting information about a relatively unknown people, the "African Notebook" is enthusiastically recommended to travel book fans.

BETTY MATHIS.

Horrific Writing.

A BOOK OF SHORT STORIES. By Maxim Gorki. Henry Holt & Co., New York. 403 pp. $3.

The best short stories of the late great proletarian, whose assassination last year removed from the Soviet scene its one great literary figure remaining from pre-war years. Some of the stories here presented have existed before in English translation, but most of them are new. Surprisingly, they are of even more startling quality than those with which we are familiar. The famous "Creatures That Once Were Men," for instance, has long been thought of as something like the utmost in horrific writing, but it pales into insignificance beside the dread "Lullaby." The stories are arranged chronologically, covering the years from 1894 to 1924. There is some evidence in the latest stories that Gorki's genius was about to succumb to the usual Soviet ideological bombast; if this is indeed the case the publishers have wisely spared us the subsequent outpourings. However, the 15 stories here represented are of uniformly high quality—morbid, turgid, introspective though they may be, they exhibit the peculiar Russian genius for psychological interpretation better than any work since Dostoevsky. And they have been of far-reaching influence.

The stories are edited by Avrahm Yarmolinsky and Baroness Moura Budberg, who between them also account for most of the translations. In a spirited, provocative foreword Aldous Huxley sheds a penetrating light on Gorki's career.

Intensely Dramatic.

THE MIDAS TOUCH. By Margaret Kennedy. Random House, New York. 530 pp. $2.50.

Stodgy old England likes good writing—a natural thing, since it has produced some of the finest of all time—so it likes Margaret Kennedy. It liked her and her stories so well that it gave her "Constant Nymph" of several years ago to all the world, which received it with open arms and took it to its heart. And England now has come forward with another best seller, definitely destined to find wide popularity with American readers. It is another Margaret Kennedy story.

"The Midas Touch" already has become the Book Society's choice and a best seller in the tight little isles, and its popularity has bubbled over to reach American shores. It is certain to receive a popular welcome here.

Margaret Kennedy's newest story concerns Evan Jones, unrecognized son of Corris Morgan, financier of the Kreuger type. Thrown together by chance and circumstance, they encounter experiences which make this an intensely dramatic and fascinating story of life—and death. J. T.

For Budding Author.

WRITE THAT PLAY. By Kenneth Thorpe Rowe. Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York. 418 pp. $3.

If we are to take Kenneth Rowe's word that one out of every 75 Americans wrote a play last year, then it would correspondingly appear that one of every 75 Americans are in need of Mr. Rowe's "Write That Play."

For his solid volume is well designed to meet the needs of both professional and aspiring-professional playwrights. Throughout the book the fundamental mechanics of building a play are stressed.

Without a thorough knowledge of these mechanics, like an architect with no idea of the fundamentals of structural design, even a mediocre product is impossible. These fundamentals form the basic thread of Mr. Rowe's volume.

There are the other aspects of play writing, as well. Included are a history of play writing, a study of the various types of plays, both as to length and as to type, and the little matter of copyrighting and marketing the finished product. Particularly well done are the line-by-line analyses of representative plays.

"Write That Play" fills an important gap in the extensive library now available on the subject of play writing. It is a comprehensive and well written piece of work, and should supply the necessary catalytic agent between the idea and the finished play. ROBERT BURKHARDT.

Confession of Faith.

THE ADVENTURES OF A HAPPY MAN. By Channing Pollock. Thomas Y. Crowell Co., New York. 206 pp. $1.50.

Mr. Pollock, playwright, novelist, essayist, and man-about-town, writes his confession of faith. Mr. Pollock has, in his own words, "had more ups and downs than an elevator boy," but has not been unhappy, throughout his long life, for so much as an hour at a time. In this modest autobiography—one has to call it something, and it positively refuses to be classified—he tries to tell us why he possesses this singular record of uninterrupted bliss. Does it very well, too. This little book has some of the flavor of "The Importance of Living" and a priceless fund of anecdotes about the great, the near-great, and the would-be-great whom Mr. Pollock has encountered in his pursuit of happiness. To be taken one chapter at a time after meals, for maximum enjoyment. OLE H. LEXAU.

Here Comes Help.

DON'T SAY IT, by John B. Opdyke. Funk & Wagnalls, New York. 850 pp. $5.

The average American is very careless with his speech, even carrying that carelessness to his written expressions. Some know better, but do not care; they are hopeless; others may know better, would like to improve their diction, but have lost touch with the instruction of youth. For these "Don't Say It" will prove a distinct help.

The purpose of the book is to correct errors and to remove uncertainty about the spelling, pronunciation, use and meaning of the thousands of terms the average literate person may encounter or use in his daily round of listening and expressing himself. These terms represent the author's accumulation of "troublesome" cases during his 35 years of English-teaching in the schools and colleges in different parts of the United States.

Knotty Subject.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN COMMERCIAL LOW. By Francis M. Anderson. Ransdell, Inc., Washington, D. C. 507 pp.

A comprehensive and easily read survey. Mr. Anderson, who is a practicing attorney in Washington and member of the faculty of Georgetown University's famed school of foreign service, writes of this knotty subject with the peculiar experience gained from serving on a number of the post-war claims commissions. This work is not a legal treatise, primarily, but is directed to the business man with European connections, and holds great interest even to those of us whose only contact with international commerce consists of cashing a travelers' check. The only fault that can be found with this otherwise excellent description of the Concert of Nations is that it does not fully cover the recent variations on the fugue introduced by Herr Hitler, whose extra-legal activities serve to render some of the material of purely academic interest.

CARTOON GUIDE OF OHIO. By Claude Shafer. J. J. Augustin, New York. 106 pp. $1.

Fifth in a series of colorful little cartoon-studded volumes devoted to America History now being published by J. J. Augustin, "Cartoon Guide of Ohio" carries on the policy of clever, interesting writing illustrated with humorous little sketches.

Claude Shafer, author and editor, does an excellent job of writing about Ohio's point's of historic interest. He reveals such interesting facts as: Dan Emmet, author of "Dixie" was born there; as were General Grant, General Sherman, and General Sheridan; also that General Morgan, of the Confederate forces, penetrated as far as Lisbon, Ohio, before being captured.

For anyone contemplating an auto trip through Ohio, the little volume will be an invaluable guide book. A map is included in a pocket at the rear to illustrate the facts preceeding.

Pathos and Humor.

HAPPINESS LANE and PIED TYPE. Compiled by Fred D. Thomas, Atlanta. 24 and 30 pp., respectively.

One must know poetry and life equally well—must have an artist's soul, the romantic heart of a lover, the laugh of a harlequin, and something of the weeper's despair—to put together such anthologies as these.

Each little booklet, its poems selected from far and wide—with some of the compiler's own work—is filled with humor, with pathos, with bright hope and deep despair, running the gamut of poetic fancy in subject and scope. A large part of the selected verse has been reprinted from newspapers in every section of the country, especially chosen for appearance in these volumes for its appeal.

For an hour or two of fine reading—for drifting a little while into the bright world of fancy—these little volumes will serve perfectly, and will provide the reader with thoughts which long will linger in his or her memory. J. T.

"Murder Will Out."

A refreshing lack of clever detectives with involved scientific theories, and a dearth of astute newshounds turning up clues, adds a unique and welcome note to this divertingly different tale of the age-old causes of murder—greed, evil-doing and love.

John Cameron was found dead from a rifle shot; his beautiful wife had just announced that she was going to divorce him, and it was known that he would fight that action by all the ruthlessness that had separated her from her childhood sweetheart to become his wife.

So, who killed John Cameron—the wife, the young and jealous lover, or some other person in the community? For he had plenty of enemies among those he had wronged in his climb from just a young man with a job to the ease of wealth that had attracted Elizabeth D'Arcy. That is what makes a very interesting mystery story that is well written.

New Book News

So as to appear simultaneously with their visit to this country, "Destiny Called to Them" (Oxford) by Beverley Baxter, a brief illustrated account of the King and Queen of England, their romance, their life before and after the coronation, and their place in history, has just been published.

The author of this sketch of George VI and Elizabeth is a well-known English journalist, whose career is already legendry in Fleet Street. During his editorship of the Daily Express, that publication attained the largest circulation in the world. Suddenly, to the surprise of everyone, he resigned his connection with this publication to go with the Gaumont British Corporation as director of public relations. He was afterwards adopted as candidate for the Tory stronghold of Wood Green in North London, and swept in with a huge majority in the election of 1935.

Since that time he has done much writing on politics, including some articles which Lord Camrose engaged him to do for the Sunday Times, and Lord Kemsley appointed him principal political writer to the huge Allied group of newspapers. Mr. Baxter is a Canadian by birth.

"The Ku Klux Klan made its name a symbol of terror and desperation," says Stanley F. Horn in "Invisible Empire" (Houghton Mifflin), "and there are today many thousands of Americans who think of it as an indefensible gang of outlaws and murderers. But ask any person who lived in the south during that wild nightmare called the Reconstruction and who saw the Klansmen as they went about their self-appointed task, ask such a one and from the light in his eyes it will be easy to see that the Klan in his memory is clad in shining armor, sans peur et sans reproche."

"An organization such as the Ku Klux Klan," he continues, "could have been organized and sustained only in such circumstances as prevailed in the south following the War Between the States. Its birth, its life, and its death were shrouded in mystery; no complete story of its existence has ever before been told. It is the purpose of this book to tell that story, to clear away some of the mystery which hangs about the Ku Klux name."

"Invisible Empire" is concerned with the original organization of Reconstruction days which passed out of existence when the emergency ended in the early 1870's. The illustrations are taken from contemporary sketches of the Klan in action, photostats of the famous "prescripts," and reproductions of bloodcurdling warnings.

Mr. Horn, the author, makes his home in Nashville, Tenn., and is editor of the Southern Lumberman. He was formerly a member of the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Public Ledger and has contributed to Esquire and the Saturday Evening Post. His earlier books are "A Boy's Life of Robert E. Lee" and "The Hermitage: Home of Andrew Jackson." Some years ago he was appointed historian general of the United Confederate Veterans, with the honorary rank of brigadier general.

The autobiography of Paul Starrett, president of Starrett Brothers & Eken, and builder of many of the greatest skyscrapers in New York and throughout the country, has been published under the title of "Changing the Skyline" (Whittlesey House).

In it Mr. Starrett tells the story of the progress of building from the early days in Chicago, at the time of the Chicago World's Fair, to his greatest job, the Empire State building.

Mr. Starrett's first New York construction work was the epoch-making Flatiron building, and he was also in charge of the Pennsylvania Terminal, the Lincoln Memorial, and many other outstanding structures. He has known intimately such men as Burnham and Root, Stanford White, Cass Gilbert, Munsey, Frick, "Betcha Million" Cates, Woolworth, and many others. His reminiscences of these men are included.

Robert H. ("Bob") Davis has written an introduction for the volume, which he calls "an epic on the achievement of human hands."

When Young Daughter Learns to Cook

By SALLY SAVER.

There is an interval between the closing of school and the opening of Summer camps in which active youngsters find themselves with nothing much to do. Later on, perhaps, they will be going to the beach or to visit relatives, but what to do with them right now is many a mother's question. Of course they will have time to play, but teenage boys and girls will not want to play all the time. Besides they could be doing something which would be "play" and yet be constructive. And here's the idea: Let the little girl learn to cook! Personally, I'm in favor of letting the little boys learn, too, and unless they have been given the idea it is "sissy" to cook, they will like it quite as much as the little girls will.

Once I visited a progressive education school whose enrollment included children of some of the wealthiest American families. In cooking classes girls and boys were mixing batters, arranging menus, washing dishes side by side, just as they would be doing in art class, in civics or history. Remarking about it, mentioning the fact that the boys seemed as lacking in self-consciousness about doing chores and as happy and proficient in the kitchen as were the girls, I was told that indeed, such was actually the case. And furthermore, the teacher added the boys made as good cooking students as girls and that the families of each were quite eager to have both boys and girls learn everything they could about the preparation and serving of food.

Very wise, I thought. But if it is important that boys and girls who are to inherit half a million or more dollars learn the rudiments of cooking and choice of foods, how much more important that boys and girls who more than likely will find at some time or other it is necessary to do these things for themselves, be taught.

Vacation time offers opportunity, so, though it involves more time in supervision than it would take to do it yourself or to let the cook do it, allow the boy or girl, especially the girl, to learn the vitally important art of cooking. Mind you, they will not like it if they are made to assist you in cooking. But they will adore it if you will help make the plan, and let them do it by themselves or with a little help from you.

If your little girl has to be lured into cooking her first meal, you will find she will respond to the suggestion that she invite some of her friends to lunch and prepare the lunch herself. Most little girls will respond happily to the suggestion that she cook dinner for the family all by herself. Then with some brief instructions about oven temperatures, measurements, and such elementary things, allow her complete freedom in cooking and serving the meal. In fact, let her feel the entire responsibility for it, and you must enter the scene only when your presence or advice is invited by her.

It may be awfully hard on you, an experienced cook, to keep from giving advice and warnings, but don't do it. And if you find you can't help doing it, then go out to a movie or go down the street to call on your neighbor or something.

This is a menu which is simple enough for a little girl to try all by herself.

Cake
Milk or Tea

You may be astonished by my giving a cake to be baked, but she will be inspired to do her best with that cake on the menu. It is a simple cake, very easy, and may be given her own name such as "Mary Virginia Cake."

Here are four rules to give her and some directions for preparing the menu, when small daughter turns cook for the day.

Four Rules.

1. Allow enough time.
2. Be calm.
3. Be exact.
4. Be orderly..

Directions.

Set the table first.

Arrange an attractive centerpiece..

Place can of pineapple juice in refrigerator. Pour into glasses just before seating guests.

Make tea and put in pitcher in refrigerator.

Open can of peas and put into a saucepan with 2 tablespoons margarine, and set aside to be heated just before serving.

Grease square loaf cake pan well, set aside, and Assemble ingredients for cake.

Mix cake and bake.

While cake is baking prepare potatoes. Scrub, rinse and dry and put in oven. Allow 30 minutes to one hour for baking potatoes, depending upon size. Allow one medium-sized potato for each person.

While cake is cooling prepare frosting. When cake is cool, frost, cut into squares and place on individual plates for serving.

Prepare salad in a salad bowl, and set in refrigerator.

Put peas over low fire to heat.

Prepare hamburgers and fry until browned on both sides.

Remove potatoes from oven, break skins by squeezing, and put a pat of margarine into each. Place on plates or warmed platter.

Food may be served on plates, or from dishes set on the table, whichever method the little cook is familiar with.

RECIPES FOR LITTLE GIRL MENU.

Hamburgers.

¼ lb. margarine
2 lbs. hamburger
2 tablespoons catsup
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt (or finely minced onions, if preferred)
¼ teaspoon celery salt

Mix hamburger meat with catsup, and seasonings. Shape into patties. Melt margarine in frying pan over low fire. Fry until browned, turning several times.

Little Girl Cake.

¼ Cup margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 cups sifted cake flour
4 Teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk

Cream margarine well add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add slightly beaten egg and mix well. Sift flour once, and measure 2 cups. Add baking powder and salt to flour and sift together three times. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating after each addition, until smooth. Pour into greased cake pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 minutes.

Frosting.

2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
3 tablespoons cocoa
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar.
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons milk

Place sifted sugar in mixing bowl. Add cocoa and salt and mix well. Stir in melted margarine. Add milk gradually, stirring until mixture is smooth and of right consistency to spread. When cake is cool, spread over top and sides.

The salad should be simple, perhaps chopped celery, cabbage, lettuce and tomatoes, blended with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

If the little fledgling cook feels that the cake is just too much to attempt, she might like to make a shortcake for dessert. The foundation very easily could be waffles, made at the table and filled as made with the berries or fruit prepared in advance, chilled and brought to the table in a berry bowl.

The waffles can be made with prepared mix which needs only the addition of liquid before baking.

Many a child has learned to cook by beginning on candy making. This is only natural because the inspiration furnished by a normal liking for sweets is present. An uncooked candy is easiest, and you might let your little girl, and she may be a very small girl, begin by making this Uncooked Fondant.

1-2 cup margarine, melted
4 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
1-4 teaspoon vanilla.
1-4 cup evaporated milk

Place melted margarine in mixing bowl. Add sifted sugar gradually, stirring well after each addition. Add vanilla to milk. Add milk to sugar mixture gradually, stirring constantly until smooth. Sprinkle a small amount of sifted sugar on bread board or pastry cloth. Turn fondant mixture out on sugared board and knead 10 minutes, or until smooth and glossy. Cut into desired shapes and sizes.

When the little girl becomes a June bride she will be grateful to you for having helped her to learn the rudiments of cooking during leisurely vacation days.

Barbara Jean Park, aged 12, who lives at 866 Beryl street, S. W., is well advanced for her age in cooking experience. Barbara can cook whole meals, and she likes cooking. Of all the things she knows how to cook she likes best of all to bake cakes, and of course she likes to make candy.

There's Humor and There's Pathos in 'Gone With the Wind'

By ANNIE LAURIE FULLER KURTZ.

With two units and sometimes three, now in action in the filming of this picture "Gone With the Wind," we are finding it difficult to sit in on the different locations. After an all-day shooting, followed by an all-night session, the going with the wind becomes strenuous—but with no lack of interest. The other night we braved the chill Pacific winds until 3 a. m. to see more of the spectacular departure from Atlanta of Rhett, Scarlett and the others, in the old wagon pulled by the woe-begone horse. This was the sequence leading up to the pyrotechnics of the ammunition train in the railroad yards. The glowing lights from the burning warehouses began to tinge the uncurried anatomy of the ancient horse, as it traverses the debris-littered lower reaches of Peachtree street.

I have often read in stories of people being caught out in the vast open spaces at night—of the chill desert winds descending upon them and of the meals cooked over fires kindled of brush-wood, and I could almost smell the coffee and taste the sizzling bacon. Wouldn't such an experience be fun, I thought. Well, here I was having a quite similar experience, only we were being entertained by a spectacular performance, and the midnight supper was cooked on stoves, served cafeteria fashion, and consisted of piping hot coffee, delicious little sausages, rolls, string beans, potatoes, a salad, fruit and cookies. Such a meal tastes mighty good in circumstances like these.

Up at Five Points where we viewed the action, it was cold—just downright cold! When the night winds from the Pacific sweep over the hills, a fur coat isn't any too warm even in late May. Some of the soldier boys went inside the store back of the porch on which we were sitting and built a fire in a stove. I took my little chair inside and sat with them around it, all our feet pointing in the same direction—toward that warming red glow. And say, wasn't this fun—the boys, with their torn, ill-fitting, bedraggled uniforms, dirty hands and faces—some bandaged and scarred, but laughing and joking and telling me amusing stories of their experiences as actors in this make-believe world of movie land.

One of them, a native New Yorker, has been a stage actor in that city. He both interested and puzzled me because he knew so much about our local, north Georgia and Atlanta history. When I tactfully asked him how this came about, he explained that he had read the book, "Gone With the Wind," twice—the first time in three days and the next time more leisurely. Then, he said, he became interested in the historical part—went to the library and read everything he could find on the Atlanta Campaign and Reconstruction. This led to his efforts to secure a part, even so minor a part, in the picture.

Saturday, May 20th, will be memorable for the high point in the filming of the picture, as far as mechanics and the spectacular are concerned. Hitherto the camera has been mounted on rolling "dollies," or on mere tripods, but this time the largest crane on the West Coast was called in to do its bit. The boom, eighty-five feet in length, moved the camera from a dead level to a forty-five degree angle, the cameramen and directors on a swinging platform. Some eighteen hundred persons were there to see it and practically every one of them had a part in creating the spectacle.

This shot was built to take care of that dramatic episode of the novel where Scarlett crosses the railroad yards, threading her devious course through the hundreds of wounded soldiers from the battle of Jonesboro. The arched facade of the car-shed closed the view on the left—the stores, offices and hotels of war-time Atlanta framed the view on the right. The multiplied horrors of war were here displayed in a manner known only to the cinema art, an unfolding expanse of misery and tragedy.

"What's a 'cow's breakfast hat'?" asked one of the men of the property department as he rushed up with a piece of script in his hand, to Wilbur Kurtz, technical director.

"Why, a straw hat of course," replied Mr. Kurtz with a laugh.

"Gee!" said the man as he rushed away, "There's only one straw hat on the set!"

I had not moved from my place and in exactly ten minutes, lo and behold, this man was back, his arms piled high with a various assortment of straw hats. Where did he get them? Don't ask me!

Alicia Rhett, of Charleston, South Carolina, is the charming young girl who takes the part of India Wilkes, in the picture. Having no illusions about Scarlett, India never misses a chance to put her in her place, which she does in words which reveal the lurking claws of grimalkin. However, Miss Rhett is quite another person, sweet and gracious, everybody likes her. Alicia can be seen days when she is not working, with sketch-pad on her knee making pencil drawings of the members of the cast and crew. Won't her friends back home get a kick out of seeing these when she returns to Charleston?

Cammie King is just the most adorable little thing!—dimples in both cheeks, curly hair and eyes sparking with fun. I saw her first in the studio cafe eating luncheon with her mother, and though I had not then been told, I knew that here at last was the happy selection for little Bonnie. She reminded me so much of little Nell Fuller Fambrough, my small granddaughter, that I went over and spoke to her, showing her some of Nell's pictures which I always carry with me. Cammie spread them all out on the table before her, looked at them appraisingly, then pointed to one on a bicycle and said: "That's the one I like, it's cute!"

I saw Cammie do the scene of little Bonnie awakening in the dark and calling for her father to come and rescue her from the "big old bear" and I felt quite touched and in sympathy with her.

It was a privilege to have as our guest on the sets last week, Dr. Archie Clifton, superintendent of schools in Los Angeles county. Dr. Clifton is not only an eminent educator in southern California, but is a nationally recognized figure in the field of education. Genial and easy to know, we became friends at once. Why, just the mention of Atlanta started him off reminiscing and as we sat at luncheon in the little studio cafe, he talked about his visit to our city in 1929, when he attended the convention there of the National Educational Association. He talked of the pretty Atlanta school teachers he remembered meeting, of Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, of Coach Alexander of Tech, and of other prominent Atlantans.

With Dr. Clifton was Ann Morgan, the writer, and supervisor of visual education for the state of California. We of Atlanta knew Ann as Mrs. Harold Barron, wife of the Georgia Tech track coach and instructor at Camp Marist in 1926. Ann has a warm spot in her heart for Atlanta and is proud of her many friends there who always look her up when they come to the west coast.

On the lot Dr. Clifton was quite pleased with the authenticity of the various sets. Being a well-known figure, the boys were soon plying him with questions. He good-naturedly discussed the significance of "Gone With the Wind" to his 144 school districts.

"Of course," said Dr. Clifton, "this picture, from our standpoint, will be regarded as an educational one; it is going to have a high historical value because it will stimulate in our elementary and secondary school children an interest in the history of that period covered by Miss Mitchell's epic book, the pre-war, midst-war, and post-war days. It will give them an insight into the habits, customs, and manners of the Old South and of the social and political conditions which prevailed at that time."

Ann Morgan has charge of the committees who will preview and evaluate the film for the adult students enrolled in the California State Adult Educational Program. Ann regards the picture from a mature angle and says it is not only educational but highly entertaining.

Both Dr. Clifton and Miss Morgan were loud in their praise of Miss Leigh as Scarlett, and they expressed real enjoyment in the scenes which they witnessed. "And," said Miss Morgan, "You'd think Mammy had just stepped out of the book!"

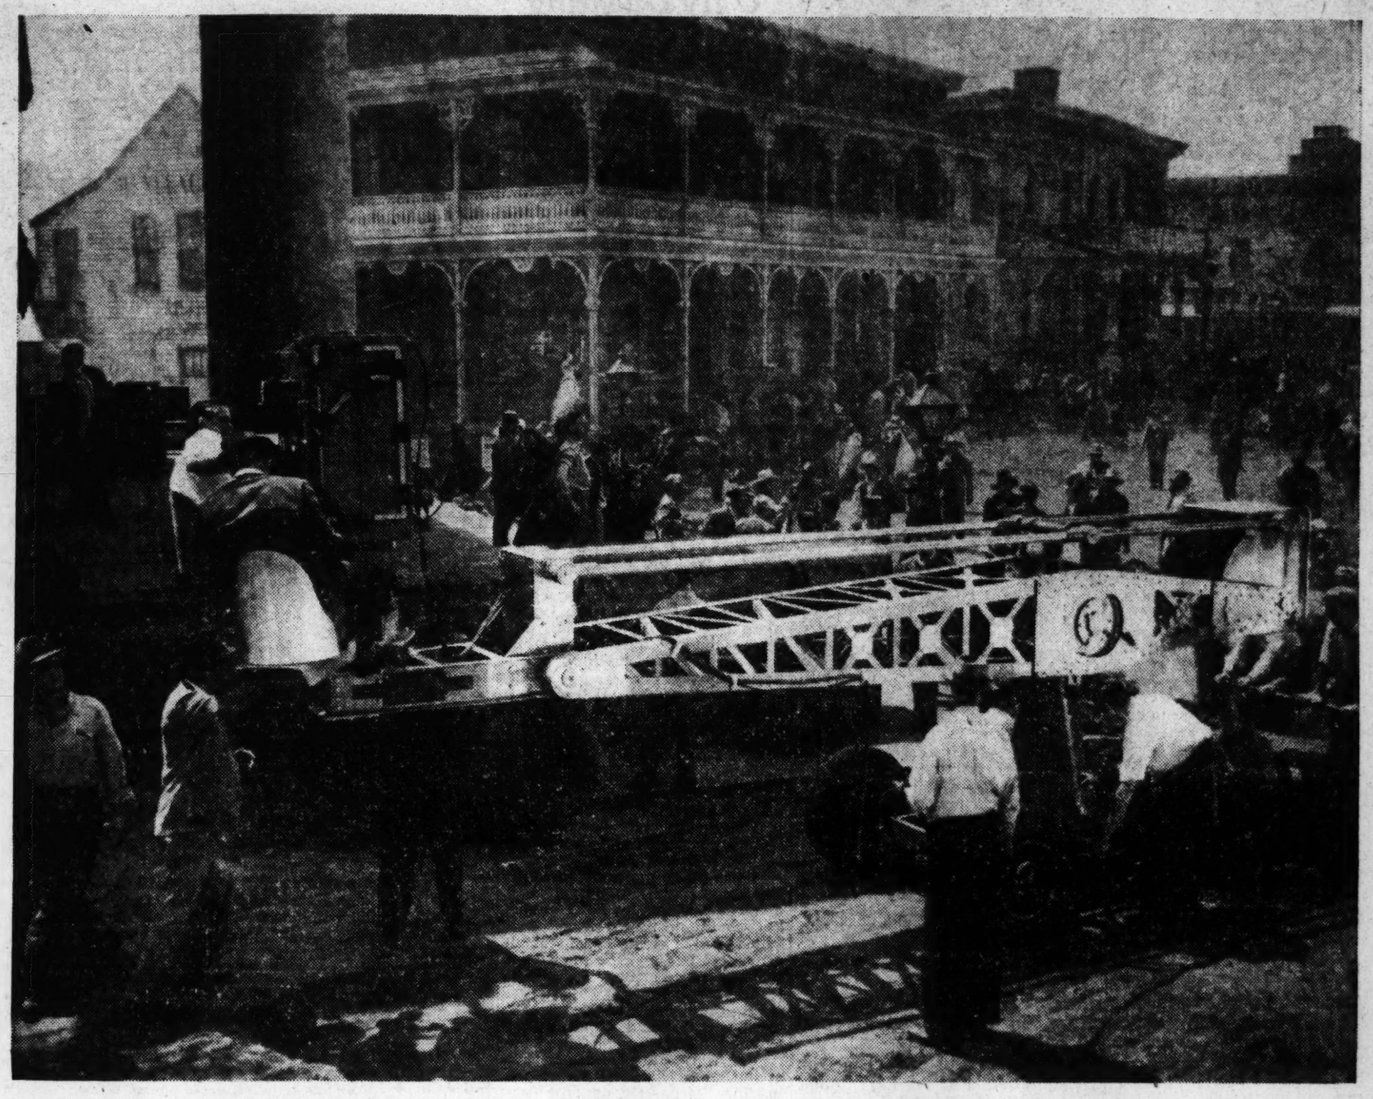

Other visitors to the Selznick Studios last week were Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson, Mrs. Emily Robinson Head and Mr. Henry Kennedy, all of Atlanta. We went with them to the Forty Acres where they walked down Peachtree street to Five Points and were shown how the site of their imposing First National Bank of today looked in the 1860's when Jonathan Norcross had a store there which bore the unique sign, "Shingles and Feathers a Specialty." Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay, of Atlanta, also visited the sets a few days later.

I was guest speaker last Wednesday at a luncheon at the Hollywood hotel, given by the Hollywood chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The occasion was quite informal and, developing as it did into a sort of forum, there was a lively discussion of southern manners, customs and traditions. I was asked all kinds of questions, interesting in showing the different viewpoints from which each regards the book, "Gone With the Wind," and the things that are of greatest concern to them in the forthcoming picture production.

"If, as you say, the picture follows the book, and is a true representation of the Old South and of the history of Atlanta, how do you feel that it will be received in other parts of the country?" Here was a new one, and one on which I did not hesitate to express an opinion. My answer was, in effect, this:

The picture is a true representation of the Old South. I have seen it in the making from beginning to now, and it is almost finished. All Dixie is going to feel a particular pride in this great achievement. But this does not mean that its popularity will not be equally as great in other sections. There is not a scene, not a line, but that will have its appeal to every spectator, whether he lives in the north, east, south, or west of the United States or in the far reaches of the many foreign countries into whose languages the book has been translated. Indeed, this picture will do much toward eradicating any feeling of prejudice that may linger in the minds of this generation.

But take along your handkerchief, and a big one, for, while you will be entertained with the history in "Gone With the Wind," enjoy its beauty, be intrigued with the characters, laugh at the whimsical humor of Mammy, Prissy and Polk, there are moments you will want that handkerchief to dab your eyes with, lest the tears really fall.

Send Them to Camp— An Article for Parents

By GEORGE A. DORSEY.

Shall I send my boy or my girl to camp? If you are now asking yourself this question, I would urge you to say yes, particularly if your youngster is eleven or twelve years old. It may be the making of him for you to decide to let him go.

If you can, let him stay for the full season of eight or ten weeks, for the camp leaders can do far more for him in that time than if they have him for only a week. But even a week in camp can help him, if the camp you choose is of good quality, and he will have a wonderful time and an interesting experience.

Some of the most pleasant and interesting days of my life are those that have been spent as a counselor in camps. I usually serve as nature-study instructor, but it has been my good fortune to have had quite a taste of almost all the activities on the program. I have come to regard the organized summer camp as a most important educational institution. It can give to the child valuable experience that he would not be likely to get in as full a measure from any other influences in his period of development as a youth.

The camp can teach him how to live with other people more harmoniously, a thing that is very important in the lives of all of us and which none of us learn completely. Here he can get a wider viewpoint on what life means to him and to other people. Among the camp activities will be found many things to do that will teach him to be skillful, to use his hands, and to do things for himself; he can be taught resourcefulness by the things he will do, from constructing some article to keeping his own tent or cabin clean and orderly.

In the camp activities will be found things to be learned that have a high cultural value—if they are taught in the best way—and that will be valuable additions to his store of knowledge.

He can have a summer of pleasant recreation, under careful supervision, and be benefited greatly in health and strength. The camp experience can be made a most valuable supplement to his school work. It can be made to lend a good influence to the rest of his life. Camp leaders sometimes do wonders in bringing out the best there is in a child, or correcting faulty personality traits. The ideals for the organized camping program are very high, and have for their aim character development of the best sort in the youngsters who are sent to summer camps.

I have said that a camp can do these things, but I do not say that all camps will do them. It is not always possible for a camp to accomplish everything that should be done. It all depends on the individual circumstances, upon the quality of the camp, and upon the quality of the child. Even the best camp cannot always succeed in every way. But the best camps are far more likely to have success than those of inferior quality. Camps are doing wonderful things for the children that are sent to them.

The parent who contemplates sending a child to camp should consider this problem carefully. Many things should be taken into account in choosing the right camp for the particular child. The best quality camps are often quite expensive for people of ordinary means. It may be that the child is to be sent to a camp of only a week's duration. Even in an expensive short-term camp, certain things should be considered. For measuring the worth of a camp I have made out an outline which I append to this article. See how the camp you are about to choose measures up to these standards:

LEADERSHIP—Adequate in numbers; sense of responsibility; knowledge of subjects to be taught; proper point of view; understand children of the age in the camp; enough of them experienced in organized camping.

PROGRAM—Designed for educational augmentation; includes cultural and spiritual values; aims at teaching social harmony; insures a pleasant experience for the child.

HEALTH—Proper safety measures and practices; proper medical supervision; proper food, water supply, sanitation, etc.; proper rest, avoidance of overtaxing strength of campers, and teaching them cleanliness and orderliness.

FACILITIES—Site of adequate size and location; adequate equipment; aim at picturesqueness and beauty in everything, camp site, buildings, equipment, dress and attitude.

Conquer Fear, If You Would Swim

By BILL MUNDAY.

To those of us who were born and reared in Moccasin Slide or Chitlin' Switch and who from childhood ponded and creeked in the raw, swimming to and fro the while we dived over swiped watermelons from Grandfather's patch, it is rather difficult to contemplate that so few city folk can emulate piscatorial endeavor.

But there obviously is a reason. And aptly it is pointed out by Walter Baker, manager of a country club here, who was swimming instructor at Vero Beach during the past winter, and who had a standing proposition with his clients that he could teach them how to swim in 30 minutes or their indebtedness to him would be nil.

"Swimming is easy once FEAR is banished," explains the genial Mr. Baker. "But FEAR is the drawback—fear of water. Everyone could and would learn to swim once he or she has tossed into the trash basket that dread of water. Sometimes I think it is a matter of self-confidence. And there is a lesson there. They are afraid to rely on themselves, periennially desiring to have someone or something on which to lean.

"For instance—last winter in Florida certain of my pupils would be faring splendidly as long as they knew I had as much as a thumb supporting them as they tried to learn swimming. As soon as I felt sure they were free to go alone, and relinquished my hold, they simply dropped to the bottom.

"My methods in teaching? Well, first a lecture. I explain that water is naught of which to be afraid—that it will not harm one unless perhaps it rampages and no noe would consider swimming then unless for dear life. Oftimes I have members of the class stick their heads in the kitchen sink, eyes opened, to convince themselves that what the Spanish acclaim aqua is no enemy.

"Fear relegated, pronto they start swimming. Because as we know all you are compelled to do to stay up in the water is to kick and wiggle.

"The first stroke on my carriculum is the old-fashioned dog paddle, hands and feet under water. Then, as the students become more proficient, they naturally go into the overhand, eventually winding up in the Australian Crawl, a maneuver used most advantageously in Olympic meets.

"As to diving? That is picked up. No one can successfully teach a champion diver. The gift is innate, just as ice skating is with Sonja Heine and dancing is with Anna Pavlowa. Grace and form are inborn. To me one of the prettiest pictures the human mind can frame is that of a real star making a 'swan dive.'

Now here's a real story even if the mark is unofficial. Mr. Baker's young son, Mickey, an honor student at Sacred Heart, last year established a world's juvenile record for children under 13—speeding 25 yards in 13.1 seconds.

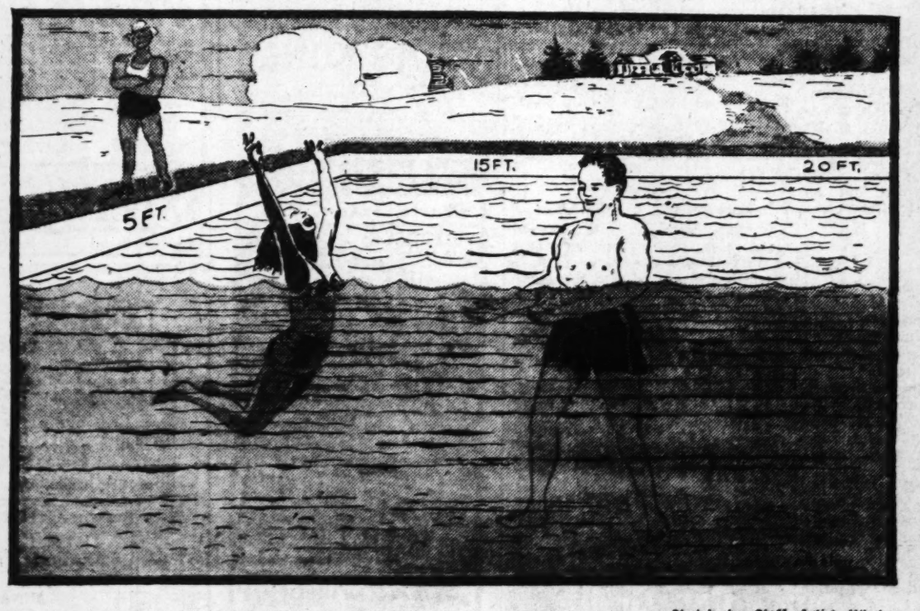

Unfortunately, however, Mr. Baker declares, the title-breaking performance cannot be recognized by the American Amateur Union because the meet in which it was made—the Georgia State and Southern Open—had not been nationally advertised for six months previous to staging, as per regulations.

But little Miskey, his wee chest stuck out, can strut, knowing that he swam 25 yards in quicker time than any kid under 13 in the world.

Mr. Baker, who has been impressario for state and southeastern A. A. U. championship meets here for years, plans several this year with Saturdays and Sundays in August tentative dates.

He believes that Dixie will be most notably represented on the next Olympic swimming team. Dave Young, of Teck, and Louisa Robert, were the last southerners to wear American toga in international water competition. And Miss Robert was deprived of the opportunity to compete—in Los Angeles in 1933 due to a heart-rending, last minute, emergency appendectomy.

"The youngsters are taking to swimming in the cities now," Mr. Baker opined, "and talent will evince itself. But remember, if you care to learn to swim, discard fear of water. Quash from your cranium that old saying 'yes my darling child you may go swimming, hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water.'"

Sketch by Staff Artist—Whaley.

As long as the instructor touches even the would-be swimmer's finger, she feels safe.

Their sole problems are probably that of food and water. I am not sure of how they can find these needs so easily as they would if they were in the open country, but there are always a few insects in the air over the city in the spring and summer. Since the birds fly so easily with their long, pointed wings, it would not be too hard for them to have to go long distances for food, although they may go only to the street trees where the residential section begins. Water would be harder to find. They would be obliged to hunt up some small pond or reservoir at an industrial plant, I imagine. Much remains to be learned about our city Nighthawks. I have never seen them drink, but it is probably done on the wing in the manner of the Chimney Swifts and swallows, using the trick of flying low over the water and scooping up a mouthful as they go.

I have never found a city Nighthawk's nest. In the open country their eggs are hard to see, since they are colored very much like the ground on which they are placed. The best way to locate them is to surprise the parent bird while she is incubating, and refuse to be lured away when she pretends to have a broken wing.

The young birds have a good covering of down as soon as they hatch from the egg, probably because of their having to stay on the cold ground. The parents hide them in the weeds and bushes during the day, and find them at nightfall to feed them. They are strange-looking little chicks.

The Nighthawk is a very valuable bird, eating insects alone, most of which are to some extent harmful. Since they come out in the night, they take great numbers of mosquitoes, and should be protected. Great numbers of them are sometimes seen banded together in early autumn, just before they migrate south. They offer a tempting series of moving targets at such time, and are often shot for sport. Unfortunately the mosquitoes which these dead birds would have eaten will bite people who do not shoot them as well as those who are thoughtless enough to destroy these, some of the most valuable of our birds.

NATURE STUDY FOR CAMPS—II. In planning a camp nature program, it is a good idea to have most of your equipment on hand before the camp opens. How much equipment you will need depends upon the scope of your program, and on the size of your quarters and workshop. There are many things you can do without. A few good textbooks are almost indispensable, both for reference and for showing the campers how to use books, which are a necessity in all advanced nature study work.

Simple camp nature equipment may include: notebooks, pencils, field glass for bird study, wire netting for reptile cages, cigar boxes for specimens, insect pins, an insect net, an insect killing jar, paradichlorbenzine for pests, plaster of paris for casts, a few tools, saw, ax, hammer, nails, glue, candles, formaldehyde, empty jars, and a bundle of dry newspapers for pressing plants.

What you carry depends upon what you are to include in your program. Do not try to have everything. A camera is a very good thing to carry along, and will fit into the entire camp program. I will be glad to discuss camp equipment and programs for nature study with anyone who will write to me in care of this newspaper.

THEATERS

Claudette is a working woman. The star of "It Happened One Night," Miss Colbert, who just finished playing in "Midnight," is co-starred with Jimmy Stewart at Loew's. "It's a Wonderful World" is the flim.

Film Theaters Offer Another Week Of Above the Average Amusement

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

A second straight week of good films is offered Atlanta:

"It's a Wonderful World" is a crazy comedy with James Stewart and Claudette Colbert starred at the Grand.

"Story of Alexander Graham Bell" has an all-star cast in Don Ameche, Loretta Young and Henry Fonda at the Paramount.

"Dodge City" gives a picture of the rip-roaring old west at the Fox. Errol Flynn and Olivia De Havilland star.

"Mr. Moto in Danger Island" opens today at the Capitol.

"Only Angels Have Wings," with Cary Grant and Jean Arthur, has been held for a second week at the Rialto.

James Stewart, Claudette Colbert Are Stars in Loew's Comedy.

Mama, you can forget the seafood and hold tight—to the seat. Metro's "It's a Wonderful World" is the filet mignon of this spring's romantic comedies. See it at the Loew's. Jimmy Stewart and Claudette Colbert star.

Laughs come frequently enough to make the sourpusses become habitual laughers, thanks to the original detective story by Ben Hecht and Herman Menkiewicz and the comedians—Guy Kibbee, Nat Pendleton, Edgar Kennedy, Ernest Truex and Andy Clyde.

The story is light hearted and finds Miss Colbert sprouting poetry and trying to help private detective Stewart solve a couple of murders. This idea isn't new but it is entertaining.

"It's a Wonderful World" is a comedy ready to please the entire family.

Every ingredient Hollywood has to offer in its attempts at making financially successful pictures has been dumped in and stirred well until the result is the Paramount theater's "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell."

Stars and featured players are Don Ameche, Loretta Young, Henry Fonda, Charles Coburn, Sally Blane, Gene Lockhart and Spring Byington.

The picture elevates Don Ameche, in the title role, to the highest pinnacles of thespic excellence. His portrayal of the struggling young inventor will be remembered long. Loretta Young presses closely for acting honors.

'Dodge City' Is Feature At Fox Theater.

The Oomph Girl, Miss Sheridan, appears as a dance hall hussy, has only a few lines but is given a terrific build-up which is an indication of better roles to follow. Jean Harlow started the same way, remember.

The story opens with Flynn leading a wagon train across the plains. In one of the wagons is the beautiful Miss De Havilland and her brother, a wild lad he. In the course of the trip the wildness of the brother when liquored up causes him to take a shot at Flynn and Flynn fired back with too deadly end. Naturally there follows the unfriendliness of the sister toward the man who kills her brother, though she realizes whose fault it was.

Miss De Havilland runs a gossip column in a frontier paper and is saved from the roughnecks on several occasions by Flynn, who was set to the job of cleaning up the town after getting his wagon train there. Romance follows. A pretty entertaining shoot 'em up. This is the show that had such a big world premiere in Dodge City recently.

'Lady Vanishes' Top Attraction On New Bill at Roxy.

Two new pictures open at the Roxy today. They are "The Lady Vanishes," Raymond Hitchcock's successor to his "The 39 Steps" and "The Law West of Tombstone," which sees Harry Carey in his first big role since "Trader Horn". In the same western, is Evelyn Brent, making a bid for come-back honors, Tim Holt, son of Jack Holt, Jean Reuvernol and Clarence Kolb. It is a story of a man who makes himself the law of a wild, western town, and finds himself in the process.

The "Lady Vanishes" gives pretty Margaret Lockwood a chance to show the cinematic stuff she's made of and brings a new young hero of the screen, Michael Redgrave. Paul Lucus, whose work in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" won him so much favor, plays a similiar role in the "Lady Vanishes," while veteran actress, Dame May Whitty, turns in another of those performances, the like of which she betrayed in "The Young in Heart."

Here is a tale of high treason, murder and spycraft on a cross-continental train speeding at 60 miles an hour. It is equally entertaining as "The 39 Steps" and may do for its young stars what this quick moving drama did for Robert Donat and Madeliene Carroll.

'Mr. Moto in Danger Island' Opens Today at Capitol Theater.

That inimitable sleuth, Mr. Moto, meets thrilling adventures in "Mr. Moto In Danger Island," new mystery drama starring Peter Lorre, which opens a week's engagement today at the Capitol theater.

Involving Mr. Moto in a gigantic diamond smuggling mystery and high-lighted by a series of baffling murders, "Danger Island" should provide immense entertainment for even the most rabid adventure screen fan.

Set in Porto Rico, the story opens with Mr. Moto suffering an appendicitis attack as a result of jiu jitsu demonstrations for the benefit of Warren Hymer. The ambulance which meets his ship at the dock in San Juan turns out to be manned by smugglers and Mr. Moto's illness a ruse.

The Kraolis Troupe, high-perch performers, head the vaudeville bill at the Capitol, which consists of novelty and variety and better than average stage entertainment.

Others also starred are Hanlon and Clark, two crazy people; Stanley and Macklyn, musical comedy stars; Dorothy London, radio's singing star, and Jim Valdare, novelty cyclist, with good music by Enrico Leide and his popular band.

Helen Parrish Was Family's Ugly Duckling

If Helen Parrish hadn't been the 'ugly duckling" of her family as a baby, she might not have become an actress. To look at the winsome 16-year-old miss now, no one would suspect the source of her success.

Helen's current screen assignment is in support of Ann Sheridan in Walter Wanger's "Winter Carnival," a gay story of present-day college youth. Her role is the best she has had thus far and it is expected that her work will surpass her performance with Deanna Durbin in "Three Smart Girls Grow Up."

When Miss Parrish was 2 years old, her mother took her to Central Casting office when she registered a second daughter for screen work. Officials thought Helen a good contrast to the "saccharine" youngsters they saw so often, and registered her. Within a few days, her mother was notified that Helen would be used in a picture immediately. On the day she was called to go to the studio, Helen lived up to her reputation by falling down and knocking out a front tooth. Mother Parrish told the director of the picture that she would have a dental plate made for the child, but the latter thought she looked more typical with the tooth out. In this manner Helen started her screen career as anything but a glamour baby.

As time passed, Helen's two brothers, her sister and her mother all worked in pictures, but by a strange quirk, the ungainly member of the family generally had roles that brought in checks averaging twice the amount of other members of the family. At 5, Helen won the Los Angeles Herald "Better Baby" contest and with it a United Artists contract. At 6 she had a major role in "His Big Command." At 13 she was given a contract by RKO studio, but simultaneously reached that age where a young girl is all arms, feet and awkwardness. This put her out of pictures for almost three years.

Her most outstanding recent work was in "Mad About Music" and the "Little Tough Guys" series at Universal studios. In two of the latter films she played the juvenile lead. Outstanding acclaim in "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" led to her selection for the juvenile lead in "Winter Carnival." The "ugly duckling" is now regarded as one of filmland's most attractive young brunettes.

Men at Her Command

Jane Wyman, rising young Warner Brothers star, displays what her bosses' publicity agents are billing as the most beautiful legs in Hollywood—and few will disagree.

CAMPS HIS STYLE.

The camping equipment Henry O'Neill used in "The Hobby Family" impressed him so much that he bought a duplicate outfit for his contemplated tour of the Pacific northwest.

HOLDS ON TO HOME.

Miriam Hopkins has refused eight offers for her historic home at 13 Sutton place, New York, a house once owned by Elisabeth Marbury.

A family portrait study of the stars in the film production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," which is currenlty playing at the Paramount theater. The stars are Henry Fonda, Loretta Young and Don Ameche.

Hollywood Plans Cycle of Films About Herself and California

While scanning other backyards, Hollywood has been neglecting itself as a source of story material. An occasional self-satire has come along, but, with the exception of the lights and camera which set the scene, there has been little of Hollywood itself on the screen.

The situation is being remedied lately. The moguls have taken their eyes from horizon-scanning telescopes to see what's around them locally. Twentieth Century-Fox has fixed its eye on the production of a cavalcade of Hollywood. It will be perfectly all right, of course, if the history of the place is treated in the manner to which history has become accustomed in Hollywood.

The Warner folk, on the other hand, think that pre-Hollywood days will make interesting material for the screen. Los Angeles itself, parent of Hollywood (which isn't really anything but a division of Los Angeles according to federal, state and city governments) is to be made the subject of a film. The story is scheduled to happen in the days when the Cahuenga Indians still ruled the pass over which one travels from Hollywood to Warners' nowadays.

Los Angeles, when it was a town of 5,000 souls and cattle grazed in what now is the forecourt of Grauman's Egyptian Theatre, will be re-created in "City of the Angels." The hell-roaring days, before the era of orange juice and civic consciousness, are to be brought to life by Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Ann Sheridan and others associated with the Warners in the production of the recent epical "Dodge City."

The Warner studio, in fact, announces that the "City of the Angels" will take the "Dodge City" people on from where they left off, their eyes on the reaches beyond the Rockies. It is not unlikely that Mr. Flynn will revise the habits of the reckless, carefree early Angelenos as he changed the customs of the first Dodge City residents.

The picture, according to promise, will hold the elements of excitement, Technicolor, cast and history which distinguished "Dodge City." It is certain, too, that no later traveling difficulties will be involved. The premiere can be held right in Los Angeles.

FILM SET BECOMES A TOWER OF BABEL

Dialogue Director Has Complicated Job With Accents.

HOLLYWOOD — Probably no dialogue director ever had a more complicated set of accent problems than those faced by John Langan.

In Warner Brothers' World War-time spy melodrama, "Secret Enemy," Boris Karloff is a top-ranking German spy, posing as a Belgian butler in England.

"Sometimes Boris was supposed to put on his Belgian accent. Sometimes he was supposed to speak English with a German accent. And a few times he had to speak German without accent," Langan explains. "The right pronunciation in each case was my responsibility.

"Margaret Lindsay, posing as both a German and an English spy, has to speak some phrases in German. Most times she had to cloak her Dubuque, Iowa, Yankee with a marked British accent.

"Then there's a Cockney milkman, played by Clarence Derwent. Clarence does a marvelous Cockney, but in the picture he isn't really that. He too is a German spy. So at times he has to speak a little German, interspersed with enough German-accented English to let the non-linguistic members of the film audience know what he's saying."

FRANK M'HUGH GIVES ADVICE ON CHILDREN

HOLLYWOOD — As a father, Frank McHugh, Warner Brothers star, feels it is his duty to let the nation's dads in on his secret of handling the kids while their mother is away on vacation.

McHugh's system is simple. When Peter starts demanding a bicycle, Susan clamors for a pony and Michael thinks life isn't worth living without a collie dog. Frank suggests a walk to the corner for an ice cream cone.

It usually works. When it does miss, however, Frank has an ace up his sleeve. He takes the youngsters to the local monkey farm.

Lana Turner in Feature Role At Rhodes

"Calling Dr. Kildare," second in the series that started with "Young Dr. Kildare," brings Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore again to the screen in a medical-detective story, now playing at the Rhodes theater.

Continuing the characters of the first picture, with additions as in the cost of the "Hardy Family" series, the picture deals with a murder which Ayres solves to clear an innocent youth after risking his standing as a physician to hide the latter from the police. In the course of events he falls in love with the boy's sister, glamorous Lana Turner, who "vamps" him into fresh trouble from which the wily old Dr. Gillespie, his mentor, played by Lionel Barrymore, extricates him.

The dramatic highlights include the blood transfusion in the cellar hideout of the wounded suspect; the gripping scene where Barrymore, as the doctor, enables Bobs Watson, playing a crippled boy, to walk; the situation with the police, and the boy's disillusionment when he finds the woman he loves to be false.

Players include Laraine Day, Nat Pendleton, Samuel S. Hinds, Lynne Carver, Emma Dunn, Walter Kingsford, Alma Kruge, Marie Blake, Reed Hadley and Nelt Craig. Complete hospital and laboratory sets, fashionable penthouses, night clubs and underground hideouts of criminals are among the New York locales.

Lana Turner, who out-grew the Hardy family, joins the cast of "Calling Dr. Kildare" to tempt the young doctor, Lew Ayres, from the straight and narrow.

"Dodge City"—the toughest town on the whole frontier. That's the setting in which Oomph Girl Ann Sheridan finds herself in the current Fox theater attraction, "Dodge City." Stars of the show are Errol Flynn and Olivia De Havilland.

Cary Grant and Rita Hayworth have leading roles in "Only Angels Have Wings," the aviation thriller which has been held over for another week at the Rialto.

FILM STAR LEARNS TO DRIVE—FINALLY

HOLLYWOOD—Margot Stevenson had never driven an automobile until last week.

As a New York stage actress, however, Miss Stevenson was trained in the tradition of doing whatever a role required.

She was on location with the "Dust Be My Destiny" company when Director Lew Seiler calmly outlined a scene.

"You drive up in this old car," he said, "and stop to watch John Garfield work."

"I've never driven in my life," Margot said, "but give me a lesson and I'll try."

A studio driver acted as her instructor. Fifteen minutes later, he climbed out of the car and Miss Stevenson drove along over a half mile of winding road, then announced herself ready for the scene.

TRY FOR A Free Art Course

Copy this June bride and send us your drawing — perhaps you'll win a COMPLETE FEDERAL COURSE FREE! This contest is for amateurs, so if you like to draw do not hesitate to enter.

Prizes for Five Best Drawings — FIVE COMPLETE ART COURSES FREE, including drawing outfits. (Value of each course, $195.00.)

FREE! Each contestant whose drawing shows sufficient merit will receive a grading and advice as to whether he or she has, in our estimation, artistic talent worth developing.

Today design, color and illustrating influence the sale of most merchandise. Trained commercial artists have, therefore, become important in industry. They are in demand, — well paid — machines can never displace them. Artistic talent is comparatively scarce. If you can draw, why waste this rare gift? Train yourself to do work for which nature has fitted you and which few people can do. Success nowadays comes easier to those who develop natural ability. We have trained many young men and women now capable of earning up to $5,000 yearly as artists. Use this opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules and send us your drawing.

RULES: This contest open only to amateurs, 16 years old or more. Professional commercial artists and Federal School students are not eligible. 1. Make drawing of girl 6½ inches high, on paper 7 inches high. Draw only the girl, no background or lettering. 2. Use only pencil or pen. 3. We return no drawings. 4. Print your name, address (town, county, state), age, occupation on back of drawing. 5. All drawings must be received by June 30, 1939. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and neatness by Federal Schools Faculty.

Center Theater Continues Run Of Jesse James

The Center theater will continue to show "Jesse James," the technicolor epic of the life and times of the most colorful outlaw who ever lived, starring Tyrone Power, Nancy Kelly, Henry Fonda and Randolph Scott, through Monday

"Off the Record," with Pat O'Brien, Joan Blondell and young Bobby Jordan, of the "Dead End Kids," a story concerning the two stars, both reporters on the same paper, will be shown Wednesday. The fundamental theme is the determination of Joan, a warm-hearted and sympathetic woman under her cynical exterior, to accomplish the reform and rehabilitation of a little, tough kid.

"Going Places," starring Dick Powell, Anita Louise and Ronald Reagan, will be shown Thursday and Friday. Complications arise from the fact that Powell, who is a rather timid salesman in a sporting goods store, has decided for business reasons to pass himself off as a famous Australian steeplechase rider. His only experience has been aback an electric hobby horse, and he is forced to make good his boasts.

Saturday through Monday, "Tail Spin," starring Nancy Kelly, Alice Faye, Constance Bennett, Charles Farrell and Joan Davis, will be the offering. The story shows three women pilots who have entered their dangerous careers for diverse reasons. One because she needs the money for her mother and brother. One because she loves someone who thinks it's the grandest thing in the world, and the third because it brings her closer to her husband.

Great American Movie Is Yet To Be Written

Every young writer, every old writer and the in-betweens have it in mind to write "The Great American Novel." None has risen so far to state, however brashly, that he will write "The Great American Movie."

Writing "The Great American Novel" seems to be the common ambition, while real movie money is ignored. Certain authors have written successful novels, with sales sufficient to change addresses from Grubb to Easy street. Most, however, are satisfied with a relatively small advance and a few cents per book on too few copies sold.

Hollywood employs several hundred authors, most of whom earn pretty good money. Occasionally one or a team of them have come fairly close to "The Great American Movie." Many films have caught something of America, a part of it. Perhaps it is too much to expect even a wide screen to catch the essence of America in one two-hour stretch.

"Dodge City," "Union Pacific" and other sagas of the rails have captured a large dollop of the spirit that helped build and was America. The Hardy and Nancy Drew series represent homely contemporary Americana in pleasant fashion. Labor and the self-made man have had their innings on the screen. Last year, "Four Daughters" was a particularly successful sally into the American spirit. This year, Warners, where "Four Daughters" was made, has another candidate in that realm called "A Family Affair."

"Juarez," more Pan-American in spirit, has managed to blend the themes and theories on which the western hemisphere based its political destinies. Chicago's stockyards, Manhattan's medley, Pittsburgh's mills and mines, Washington's politics, San Francisco's Chinatown, Newark's airport, Hollywoods films and dozens of other places of America have found themselves on the screen from time to time.

The kiddies are dancing again for milk. The annual Kiddie Revue is staged at Loew's Grand each year for the benefit of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children's milk fund. It begins Friday. The "Jitterbugs" above are Jane Lanier and Martha Hall.

Also in this Atlanta-produced and staged revue is this trio of dancers—Elbert Bourn, Virgil Bourn and Charlie Hopkins.

Patti Mullen, talented young Decatur dancer who will perform a difficult toe-tap number at Loew's Grand in the Kiddie Revue, sponsored by Masons for the benefit of crippled children at Scottish Rite hospital.

'Only Angels Have Wings' Held Another Week at Rialto.

Just as expected, they've held "Only Angels Have Wings" at the Rialto theater for another week.

"Only Angels Have Wings," co-starring Cary Grant and Jean Arthur, is a Howard Hawks production from the Columbia studios. It is undoubtedly the finest picture of its type yet to appear on the screen. It is surcharged with thrills, but always the background is reckless laughter. There is a romance.

It tells the story of a band of wild, adventurous young American aviators seeking to establish regular plane service over a terrific range of mountains in South America. They are striving to win a lucrative mail carrying contract.

Jean Arthur is the chief disturber, with Cary Grant as the goal of her romantic longings. But Rita Hayworth contributes her share to the trouble. Thomas Mitchel and Richard Barthelmess do grand jobs in supporting roles.

Gone With Wind Director Turns Stand-In

If a man bites a walrus that's news.

If a director turns stand-in, that too, is news.

Victor Fleming, who is directing Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland in Selznick International's technicolor production, "Gone With the Wind," is the man whose name makes this news.

While lining up a shot through the finder of the camera yesterday on the Atlanta street set, Ernest Haller, cameraman, thought it would help the composition of the picture if one of the street lamps were moved off to the right several feet.

Fleming, who stands six-foot two, overheard and moved about two feet to the right of the lamp post, held his arms over his head and said, "Is this it, Ernie?"

"About three feet further back, and one out."

Fleming took that position, his arms still above his head.

"Okay," said Haller.

Arden Cripes, set property man, moved up and encircled Fleming's feet in a round chalk mark, turned and said to the grips standing by, "Here's where she goes boys—and try to make it look like Mr. Fleming."

The Planets---Your Daily Guide

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON.

Bernice Denton Pierson, eminent astrologer, has prepared this forecast in brief for a handy reference convenience to Constitution readers. This guide will aid you, for it indicates the most auspicious time to begin any new endeavor, whether it be business, social or domestic.

JUNE 4, SUNDAY: There are so many influences at work during the coming week that seem to carry warnings, or will hold up your activities, that I want to state in the beginning that you can rise above the circumstances if you try. All culminating influences today through 8:50 p. m. are inclined to bring opposition. Go slow in undertaking new ventures and give more time to your health.

JUNE 5, MONDAY: There may be some slight tension, animosity or desire to make sharp retorts today, but if you will hold this tendency in check, the foundation may be laid for favorable deals in business, for contacts with influential people, for social interests and works of art.

JUNE 6, TUESDAY: If you do not want quick movement and desire that what you undertake today will not be completed quickly, you may well enter into affairs that are considered hard and laborious. More will be gained by attending to necessary affairs, and to ideas that have been hanging fire for some time. Stay away from real estate transactions and use diplomacy around older people.

JUNE 7, WEDNESDAY: The morning hours and until 12:28 p. m. is an auspicious time for work that demands co-operation, legal and public matters. Contacts with friends can bring the fulfillment of your wishes. Avoid hasty and irregular action between 12:28 p. m. and 3:18 p. m., and persue interests that do not call for a great deal of diplomacy. Between 3:18 p. m. and 10:45 p. m. avoid being too radical, eccentric or being dictatorial.

JUNE 8, THURSDAY: You will attain more success today by attending to routine. Delays and hindrances will mar your progress now. Be deliberate in what you do, and do not undertake affairs impulsively.

JUNE 9, FRIDAY: This is a very inauspicious day for new speculations, whether it be taking chances with money or time. However, some new announcement along these lines may come prominently before the world. Before 4:32 p. m. use caution in liquids, art, finances and around the water. Between 4:32 p. m. and 8:13 p. m. you will feel a greater resourcefulness and therefore will be able to enter into new affairs with grace and ease.

JUNE 10, SATURDAY: Previous to 10:02 a. m. slightly favors general business interests, communications and affairs that require tact. Between 10:02 and 5:44 p. m. guard against impulsive actions and attempting more than you have the ability to carry through. The balance of the day favors social affairs and inspirational ideas.

Western Movie Hero, Imitator, Magician, Visits City

By LUKE GREENE.

Max Terhune, brawny he-man of western films, is also an imitator and a magician, he revealed recently while in Atlanta on a personl appearance tour of the south.

Maybe you don't know it, but Terhune is "Deaf" Smith, Texas scout, in the widely publicized picture, "Man of Conquest."

Even while you're talking to him, Terhune may burst into a hen cackle, a rooster crow or some other barnyard imitation. He is also widely known as a ventriloquist. In fact, he has been a good friend of Edgar Bergen for seven years.

The big western actor was on the NBC national barn dance program for four years. He also was with the Hoosier "Hot Shots" as a barnyard imitator and Weaver Brothers and Elviry.

Gene Autry, with whom he has played in several pictures, was responsible for Terhune's going into pictures. Terhune was master of ceremonies for Autry in a seven-month national barn-dance tour. At the conclusion of the road show in 1936 the singing cowboy urged Terhune to go to Hollywood.

Chewing his big, black cigar, Terhune said he had played in 28 pictures, 21 of which were "The Three Mesquiteers" series. He also has had roles in "Hit Parade," "Mama Runs Wild," "Ladies in Distress" and "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round."

Discussing his achievements in magic, Terhune said he is a member of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, the Society of American Magicians and the Lost Magicos, an exclusive organization of which Harold Lloyd, Chester Morris and Edgar Bergen are members.

Terhune was born in Indiana and played professional baseball for a spell before taking up his show career. Another one of his accomplishments is providing imitations for Walt Disney cartoons.

This Week In History

JUNE 4, 1777.

To avoid confusion, original name of "New Connecticut," which had been used elsewhere, was discarded by the territory now known as Vermont. The name had been chosen about five months earlier by a convention that met at Winchester. This assembly also adopted a declaration of independence of the so-called New Hampshire grants, to which the royal governors of New Hampshire and New York had advanced conflicting claims. A month after the name had been changed, another convention, meeting at Windsor, drafted a constitution, the first in this country to forbid slavery and to establish manhood suffrage. Ira Allen, a brother of Ethan, was an influential political leader of this period.

JUNE 5, 1723.

Adam Smith, who wrote the famous "Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations," born at Kirkcaldy, Scotland. He often is referred to as the creator of political economy, but this view is scarcely correct. Smith produced a classical treatise on social wealth after the subject had assumed the form of an organized body of doctrine.

JUNE 6, 1756.

Nathan Hale, to whom tradition attributes the saying that he only regretted that he had but one life to lose for his country, born at Coventry, Conn. With Washington's army at Harlem Heights in September, 1776, he volunteered to enter the British lines on Long Island as a spy. He was captured in his disguise as a Dutch school teacher, tried by General Howe and hanged.

JUNE 7, 1776.

Richard Henry Lee, Virginia statesman and orator, introduced in the Continental congress his famous resolution: "That these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states, that they are absolved from allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connections between the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

JUNE 8, 1810.

Robert A. Schumann, German composer, born in Saxony. His works included compositions for the piano, symphonies, songs and chamber music. In his later years he suffered from a nervous ailment and over long periods imagined the note A was sounding in his ears. One night he threw himself into the Rhine, but he was rescued. He died in an asylum.

JUNE 9, 1871.

George Stephenson, usually regarded as the inventor of the steam locomotive, born near Newcastle, England. At least, the adaptation of the steam engine to the railway, started by others, became a success in his hands. His first locomotive was completed in 1814, but "The Rocket," demonstrated in 1829, was more famous. It had the first tubular boiler.

JUNE 10, 1859.

One of the early passenger elevators installed in a New York hotel. It was known as a "vertical railway," and its principal feature was an immense vertical screw by means of which the car platform was raised and lowered. It was not, however, entirely successful. Actually the first passenger elevator had been installed in New York in 1857.

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle

June in the Vegetable Garden

By W. ELBRIDGE FREEBORN.

CROOKNECK, PATTY PAN SQUASHES AND VEGETABLE MARROW.

The early part of June is the accepted time for the planting of cauliflower plants. However, some successful cauliflower growers start cauliflower from seeds the first couple of weeks in June, and transplant the plants to the open early in July.

In spite of the fact that cauliflower belongs more or less to the cabbage family and requires more or less the same cultivation, they grow at their best during the summer time, while cabbages are generally grown as a winter and spring crop.

Cauliflowers are the most tempting of vegetables in appearance, even displayed in markets. The snowy heads are always attractive, and the production of cauliflowers of as attractive appearance as professional growers turn out, is a worthy ambition for the home gardener and one he can easily accomplish.

They are no more difficult to grow than cabbage, need exactly the same conditions, the same protection from the green "worms" that speedily riddle the leaves, and the same cultivation. The extra care they demand is the protection of the flower or curd. When the tiny white button appears in the center of the plant, the grower must begin looking after his cauliflowers if he wants to develop his miniature head into a big snowy flower. They must be protected from direct sunlight if they are to come fine and white. Exposed to the sunlight, they will develop green and yellow coloring that is not attractive.

The protection consists of tying the big leaves that surround the flower by the tips, so that they will shade the developing curd. These big leaves should be tied loosely so that they will not cramp or crowd the development of the head. This should have room to develop evenly and naturally.

Cauliflowers in the home garden can be placed more closely in the rows, than in field culture as they will be tended by hand and will stand 18 inches apart happily under these conditions of hand cultivation. There was formerly a belief that the cauliflower was much more tender and difficult to grow than the cabbage. This is not true. It will thrive equally well with its close relative under the same conditions of good soil and careful culture.

Carrots.

For the summer and fall gardens, one of the favorite vegetables is the carrot. The favorite market variety here in Atlanta, is the early chantenay, a half-long, well shaped, highly colored variety.

There are two very important cultural directions concerning carrots. The first has to do with the shape of the root. In other words, in order that the roots may be round, well-colored and tapering slightly, the ground should be well prepared and very mellow. The reasons for this are obvious.

On the other hand, if carrots are planted in very heavy clay soil, the root has a tendency to be ill-shaped, sometimes even split.

The second important cultural direction has to do with fertilization and is closely connected with the coloring of the carrot. For the carrot to be the proper orange color they should be grown rapidly, well nourished with plenty of well balanced commercial fertilizer, such as 12-4-4.

For carrots to be at their best for table use, they should be grown rapidly and pulled early. For this reason, it is best that a small amount of them be planted about once every ten days or two weeks. They may be planted from now until about the first or fifteenth of September in this latitude.

Gourds.

The ornamental gourds are always very interesting, and it so happens that they are very easy to grow. They will grow in almost any sort of soil but should not be planted close to any of their cousins, the pumpkins or the squashes. If they are planted close to them they are liable to cross and the edible vegetables will have a bitter taste.

The favorite variety is the dipper gourd. No real spring is complete without at least one gourd dipper. These same dippers are used a great deal for martin nests and are really appreciated by these birds. The nest egg gourd is the little fellow that our grandmothers used, to help in darning socks. These are sometimes used as nest eggs. Some of the larger sorts are often used to fashion buckets, baskets, poultry nests and water dishes for the poultry. Another sort has been used for wash cloths or dish cloths. At least the insides are used for this purpose.

But aside from the practical use of these fellows, they are most interesting when used for vines and really give a change that is most effective.

Pumpkins.

The pumpkin is always a very popular fall vegetable. The best known variety is the very large Jumbo which is used so much at Halloween. Jumbo is also very fine for baking, as well as for pumpkin. And speaking of baking pumpkins, try to raise a few cashaws. We are a little bit too far south for these to grow at their best, but with a little special care they will make a delightful addition to the table.

Probably the most popular pumpkin here in the south is the sweet or sugar pumpkin. This is a medium size pumpkin 10 to 12 inches in diameter, but it is of very fine quality and its color is a deep orange, slightly ribbed, thick flesh and one of the very best edible pumpkins.

Squash.

All varieties of squash may be planted during the month of June and early part of July. The favorite variety of all is the yellow summer crookneck. The round white patty pan and the early yellow bush are both good flat types.

Beans.

Both string beans and butter beans may be sown at intervals until August 15. To have a succession of fruiting, we suggest the planting of these vegetables at two-week intervals.

For a new variety that was tremendously successful in the south last year, try the new Commodore or bush Kentucky wonder.

Bridge Lite

By HAROLD SHARPSTEEN.

SOUND VERY PSYCHIC.

Miami Beach, Fla.

Mr. Harold Sharpsteen:

"In your Miami Daily News bridge course, which I attended regularly, you gave the classes several strength-showing defensive bids, but none of them seemed to fit this hand which was dealt to me. My right hand opponent opened the bidding one diamond. I held;

S—A K J 9 8 D—5 4
H—A K Q J C—A 3

"My hand looked like game in spades to me and I wanted to make a bid which would warn my partner not to pass until we had reached a game contract somewhere, in spades, hearts or even notrump.

LACKS CONTROL.

"The biggest defensive bid I could remember was to overcall two diamonds. But, I held a doubleton in opponents diamonds which was not control of the first round of their suit. I decided two diamonds was out.

"The hand looked too good for a takeout double and I was afraid to make a jump overcall of two spades for fear my partner might pass a semi-force. The hand did not look right for a two notrump overcall.

TOOK A CHANCE.

"I hate to admit it, but I was so puzzled and bewildered, finally decided to bid two diamonds anyway. Was I justified, under the circumstances? Mrs. H. E. R.

NOT SO BAD.

The two diamond overcall, while not according to Culbertson, appears justifiable. The bid has all the earmarks of being an unusually brilliant bit of psychic overcalling. It is doubtful opponents would open diamonds with your overcall announcing first round control in their suit. The bid might have brought in 12 tricks with partner holding anything but a blank head. It would have been more interesting to have included the supporting hand.

DOUBLE THEN JUMP.

However, nothing would have been lost, by bidding a takeout double first, even had partner passed for penalties. With any other response from partner a jump rebid in spades would have been sufficient to force another response from partner. The bidding sequence might conceivably been something like:

South	West	North	East
1 Diamond	Double	Pass	2 Clubs
Pass	3 Spades

The three-spade bid by West forces another response from East, if North passes.

'Till tomorrow . . .

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

DICK TRACY

YES, SIR, I'VE FOUND OUT WHERE THE PRINCES' VALET TAKES THEIR LAUNDRY — NOW I'VE GOT TO GET IN THERE JUST AS TRACY TOLD ME TO DO.

IN THIS DISGUISE I'VE GOT TO APPEAR STOOP-SHOULDERED. THESE ROPES WILL KEEP ME FROM FORGETTING MYSELF AND STRAIGHTENING UP.

WOW! IT'S PLENTY TOUGH TRYING TO DRESS IN A PACKING BOX-BUT I GUESS I'LL MAKE IT.

UH-HUH... NOT BAD! NOW TO TAKE MY TRAY OF BUTTONS — AND START OUT.

MEANWHILE, INSIDE THE WATERFRONT BUILDING INTO WHICH JUNIOR SAW THE VALET TAKE THE BAGG...

BUT I THOUGHT THEY WERE GOING TO BE HELD PRISONERS ON THE BOAT!

AFTER THE COAST GUARD BOARDED THE BOAT LAST WEEK, THE BOYS GOT COLD FEET. THEY DECIDED IT WAS BEST TO BRING 'EM HERE.

HOW MUCH LONGER IS "WHIP" GOING TO PLAY THIS GAME? WHY, WE'VE GOT ENOUGH STERLING, CURIOS AND JEWELRY TO RETIRE ALL OF US FOR LIFE!

YOU SCOUNDRELS WILL PAY DEARLY FOR THIS! MY GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE THE HEADS OF EVERY LAST ONE OF—QUIET, ROYALTY! IT'S PAST YOUR BEDTIME, GO TO SLEEP!

SLAM

SLAM

WHO ARE — WHAT DO YOU WANT, KID?

PLEASE, SIR, WILL YOU BUY A CARD OF MY BUTTONS?

GET DOWN THOSE STAIRS BEFORE I...

EASY, YOU FOOL. DON'T YOU SEE SHE'S--CRIPPLED?

LISTEN, KID... WE DON'T WANT ANY BUTTONS.....
...BUT IF YOU'RE HUNGRY, I'LL FIX YOU A BITE TO EAT... IN THE NEXT ROOM.....
COME IN.

OH, THANK YOU, MA'M.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

CAPTIVE HUSBANDS

WITH AGILE EASE THE POWERFUL KULEEAH BORE THE UNCONSCIOUS TARZAN THROUGH THE TREES.

NOW AND THEN SHE HALTED, KISSED HIM TENDERLY, THEN RESUMED HER DIZZY FLIGHT.

BEHIND SWARMED THE OTHER TREE-WOMEN, BEARING LINDA AND MARSADA.

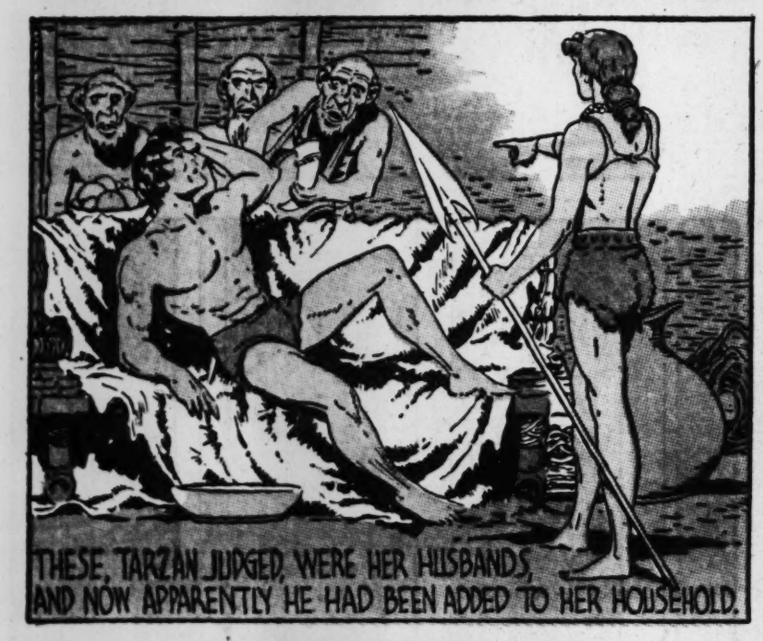

SOON THEY APPROACHED A REMARKABLE VILLAGE BUILT HIGH IN THE TREES.

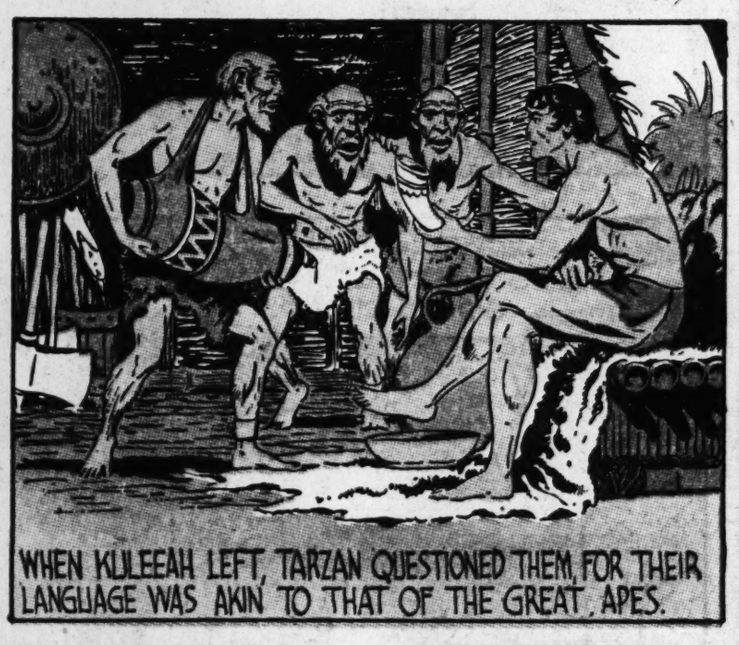

TO A LARGE HUT KULEEAH TOOK TARZAN. HE OPENED HIS EYES SLOWLY AND LOOKED ABOUT HIM.

THREE FRAIL, DOCILE MEN SCURRIED ABOUT AT KULEEAH'S SHARP COMMANDS.

THESE, TARZAN JUDGED, WERE HER HUSBANDS, AND NOW APPARENTLY HE HAD BEEN ADDED TO HER HOUSEHOLD.

"MEN ARE PRISONERS HERE," SAID ONE, "FOR IN OUR SPECIES ONLY THE WOMEN CAN TRAVEL THROUGH THE TREES."

"AND YOU WILL REMAIN HERE UNTIL YOU DIE," SAID ANOTHER. TARZAN SMILED.

HE STEPPED TO THE BALCONY TO SURVEY THE STRANGE ARBOREAL VILLAGE.

NEXT WEEK: CONQUERING AMAZON

AND HE HEARD KULEEAH BOASTING: "SEE WHAT A FINE NEW HUSBAND I HAVE CAPTURED!"

HOGARTH—

Starting soon in the daily Constitution, is another "Tarzan" serial. It will be packed with action, romance, mystery, and adventure. Watch for the starting date.

COUNT IVAN THINKS JANE IS THE FABULOUSLY WEALTHY GRACE KENNING—AND THAT SHE POSES AS JANE ARDEN TO ESCAPE PUBLICITY—

OH-OH-AFRAID I TWISTED MY ANKLE IN THAT FALL!

HERE—LEAN ON ME, IVAN!

NO GAME IS WORTH THE RISKS YOU TAKE, IVAN—I-I-I WAS FRIGHTENED STIFF WHEN YOUR PONY FELL—

DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, DEAR—I ALWAYS COME OUT ON TOP!

SHE'S JUST IN THE RIGHT MOOD—THAT FALL WAS A LUCKY BREAK FOR ME!

I'M GLAD TO KNOW YOU'RE WORRIED—IT MAKES ME HOPE—HOPE THAT YOU CARE WHAT HAPPENS TO ME—

OF COURSE I DON'T WANT YOU TO BREAK YOUR NECK!

IT'S NOT MY NECK THAT'S IN DANGER, DEAR—IT'S MY HEART—I'VE LOST IT COMPLETELY—I LOVE YOU, JANE—

I'M FOND OF YOU, IVAN—BUT AS FOR LOVE—I DON'T KNOW—

YET WHEN YOU THOUGHT I WAS HURT, YOU RAN TO ME—

YES—THEN I FORGOT EVERYTHING ELSE BUT THAT YOU WERE IN DANGER—PERHAPS—

TINY TIM

by —Stanley Link—

CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK— AFTER JOYCE RESCUED TIM FROM THE DARK CELLAR, SHE TOOK HIM TO HER HOME THERE HE MEETS HER MOTHER AND BROTHER DANNY—

YOU MEAN THAT MAN, KRIMP KEPT YOU LOCKED UP BECAUSE YOU WOULDN'T STEAL LIKE THE OTHER BOYS—

—AND WHEN HE HIT ME WITH THE PURSE I FOUND THIS— IT'S RIGHT HERE IN MY POCKET—

YOU SAY THIS LOCKET BELONGS TO YOUR MOTHER!

YES— NOW I'LL HAVE TO BE GOING— I MUST GO BACK TO THAT FACTORY WHERE PUDGE STOLE HER PURSE— AND FIND HER—

WAIT! I'LL BE RIGHT BACK—

WHAT ARE YOU PACKING YOUR GRIP FOR? WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

OH, I'VE BEEN ORDERED TO MOVE— I'VE LOST MY JOB AND I'M UNABLE TO PAY MY RENT—

LOOK! IS THIS THE LOCKET YOU TOLD ME ABOUT? IS IT THE ONE THAT WAS STOLEN FROM YOU?

THAT'S IT! WHERE DID YOU FIND IT?

MAMA! TELL THAT LITTLE BOY TO COME UPSTAIRS!

WHAT IS IT?

NOW DON'T ASK ANY QUESTIONS— WALK RIGHT IN THERE!

MOM!

MY BOY!

I KNEW IT WAS HER BOY THE MINUTE I SAW THAT LOCKET—

HOW HAPPY SHE MUST BE!

AND WE'LL LOAN HER THE MONEY TO PAY THE RENT—

AND HOW'S DAD? WHERE IS HE?

OH, TIM— HOW CAN I BEGIN TO TELL YOU— SNIFF—

THEN— THROUGH TEAR-FILLED EYES TIM'S MOTHER TELLS HIM THE SAD TALE OF HOW HIS FATHER HAD PASSED AWAY—

D-DON'T C-CRY, MOM— YOU— STILL GOT ME— I'LL TAKE CARE OF YOU—

YOU BRAVE LITTLE MAN!

BUT JUST AT THAT MOMENT— TWO POLICEMEN APPEAR AT THE DOOR—

YEP— THAT'S HIM— HE'S ONE OF THE KIDS WHO ESCAPED FROM THE REFORM SCHOOL—

SAY— IS YOUR NAME TIM?

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1939.

SMILIN' JACK

HOP STARTED TO SHOOT THE MYSTERIOUS PURSUER— BUT MUMMY HAD OTHER IDEAS—

DROP THAT GUN! SHOOTING IS OUT— IF I CAN AVOID IT!

JACK PLANNED TO TAIL MUMMY UNTIL HE HAD TO LAND AND THEN SEARCH HIS PLANE— BUT MUMMY SUDDENLY BEGAN A SERIES OF INVOLVED AEROBATICS— STUNTS OF HIS OWN DESIGN THAT HAD FOOLED MANY A WAR BIRD—

LATER AT JERKWATER—

JACK, DID YOU FIND-UM OUT WHAT KIND BAD BUSINESS MUMMY DO?

NO, HE GOT AWAY— I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN I COULDN'T OUT-FLY AN ACE LIKE MUMMY— I'VE GOTTA PLAN OUT SOME OTHER WAY TO UNCOVER HIS RACKET!

W4ZQZ CALLING W4ZTM— COME IN SMILIN' JACK—

LISTEN— SOUND-UM LIKE MARY CALL-UM YOU ON BACON— I MEAN HAM RADIO!

IT IS MARY— BUT— I CAN'T TALK TO HER— CALL DOWN-WIND!

DOWNWIND, COME QUICK— JACK WANT-UM YOU—

KEEP YOUR TAN ON, FAT STUFF— I'LL BE THERE! WELL, SO LONG, LI'L DE-ICERS— SEE Y'LATER!

SMACK

'BYE, DARLIN'—

DON'T BE LONG, HONEY—

I'M DYIN' TO SEE MARY— BUT WHEN I THINK OF HAVING TO TRAP HER FATHER— I— I— HAVEN'T TH' HEART TO EVEN SAY HELLO!

HELLO, MARY— THIS IS DOWN-WIND—

HELLO— IS JACK THERE— I HAVEN'T HEARD FROM HIM IN DAYS—

I'M SORRY, MARY— JACK IS— E— AWAY—

OH— THANKS— I— ER— THOUGHT HE WOULD AT LEAST CALL ME—

MUMMY SMITH

THERE'S ONLY ONE REASON— YOU MUST WASH OFF SALT WATER TO AVOID CORROSION!

LOOK, JACK, MUMMY COME BACK FROM ANOTHER TRIP AND HIM WASH PLANE AGAIN—

SALT WATER? HOW COULD HE USE THAT LAND PLANE IN TH' OCEAN?

IT'S POSSIBLE— AN' I'VE AN IDEA HOW WE CAN FIND OUT— LISTEN CLOSELY, YOU TWO—

HEY, FAT STUFF— WHERE'S JACK?

HIM GO TO VISIT MARY!

SO! JACK'S SEEING MY DAUGHTER AGAIN, EH? JUS' WAIT'LL I CATCH HIM!!

AH, IT WORKED! MUMMY'S HOT FOOTING IT TO HIS TRAILER THINKING HE'LL FIND ME THERE!

M-M— JUST AS I SUSPECTED— SPECIAL FITTINGS WHERE PONTOON BRACE RODS CAN BE CONNECTED!

THAT MEANS HE FLIES THIS LAND JOB TO SOME PRIVATE SPOT— REMOVES WHEELS AND PUTS ON SEAPLANE FLOATS!

JACK, IT LOOKS AS IF YOU HAVE A CLUE NOW THAT'LL LEAD TO MUMMY'S ARREST AND BUST HIS FLYIN' RACKET WIDE OPEN!!

YES— AND ALSO THE HEART OF THE GIRL I LOVE—

Little Orphan Annie

STILL PLAYING THE PART OF AN ADDLED OLD DESERT RAT, "DADDY" HAS SUCCEEDED THUS FAR IN FOOLING AXEL COMPLETELY--- PLACED IN CHARGE OF DONA DOLORES TO BE NURSED BACK TO HIS SUPPOSEDLY LOST SANITY, "DADDY" HAS MADE GOOD USE OF HIS LEISURE---

IT LOOKS LIKE A LITTLE STAR FLASHING IN THE SKY-

IF THIS BATTERY ONLY HOLDS OUT-

LOOK OUT! THEY'VE SEEN IT TOO-THEY'VE CALLED AXEL-

SEE? ZE LEETLE STAR ZAT WINKS- IS IT NOT STRANGE?

IMBECILE! THAT IS NO STAR! IT IS A FLASH SIGNAL-BUT HOW? AND WHY? WHO WOULD WISH TO SEND THE SIGNAL? IT IS THE MYSTERY--- BUT NOT FOR LONG!

QUICK- THE SEARCH LIGHT-- SOON WE SHALL SOLVE THIS RIDDLE--- BAH! IT HAS CEASED TO FLASH---

AND THE DOTS AND DASHES- THEY SPELLED NOTHING-- ONLY GIBBERISH-

EH? GIBBERISH? YES-YOU ARE RIGHT--- CODE, OF COURSE-- BUT YOU HAVE GIVEN ME AN IDEA--- HM-M---

QUICK! THAT'S ALL IT'S SAFE TO SEND THIS TIME--- IF ONLY I CAN GET THE KITE DOWN AND HIDDEN SAFELY TILL ANOTHER TIME---

HURRY, DADDY- HURRY! IT'S AXEL- HE'S RUNNING THIS WAY-

AH- THAT'S IT- UNDER THE BEDDING- WITH THE KITE AND WIRE--- AND IF WORST COMES- WELL, WE'LL AT LEAST TAKE AXEL WITH US FOR COMPANY-

SH-H-H-- HIS STEPS ARE COMING ALONG THE PASSAGE--- LET US BE COMPOSED-

OH, YOU STARTLED ME- I MUST HAVE DOZED- IT IS VERY LATE-NO?

HUMPH--- SO THE FOOLISH ONE STILL SLEEPS, EH? SUCH A DOMESTIC SCENE-

HA! HA! YOU CHOOSE TO JEST AT MY KNITTING- BUT IT IS SO DULL HERE- KNITTING PASSES THE TIME-

DULL? YES- PERHAPS IT WILL NOT BE SO DULL ALWAYS--- HM-M--- NO--- AH, WELL, I MERELY LOOKED IN AS I WAS PASSING ON MY EVENING STROLL- GOOD NIGHT-

HAROLD GRAY 6-4-39

WELL, HE'S GONE- I CAN SEE HIM CROSSING THE PATIO TO HIS ROOMS--- HE SURE HAD A HUNCH OR SOMETHIN'-

YES- THAT WAS CLOSE ENOUGH- I HOPE THE BOYS GOT MY MESSAGE ALL RIGHT--- TO ATTACK TOO SOON WOULD BE FATAL-

AH- THE FLASHES STOP. DO NOT ATTACK, HE SAID- AND WHAT ELSE?

WE ARE TO DOUBLE OUR FORCE AND AWAIT FULL INSTRUCTIONS-

AH, THAT I MIGHT WET THIS KNIFE TONIGHT-

THERE'LL BE OTHER NIGHTS-

Maw Green

LOOK AT THAT CRAZY YOUNG'UN WALKIN' THAT RAILING- IF HE SLIPS HE'LL FALL TWENTY FEET!

HAROLD GRAY 6-4-39

NO! NO! DON'T DO THAT! STOP IT, I TELL YE- YE'LL FALL SURE-

HOW D'YUH KNOW?

WHEN I WAS A KID I FELL OFF A RAILING LIKE THAT AND BROKE ME LEG-

YEAH? IT GOT WELL ALL RIGHT, DIDN'T IT?

OF COURSE IT DID-
